"DEGENERATE SONS OF ILLUSTRIOUS SIRES."

DEGENERATE sons of illustrious sires,
Lost, lost to all honors and noble desires;
From the shame of your own motherland ye have turned
To fawn on the tyrant your forefathers spurned!

From your high rank as peers, on your own native shore,
You have stooped to be beggars at Monarchy's door;
You would barter your birth-right as American brave,
To become haughty England's dependents and slaves!

To whom does the right of revolution belong?
To those who have suffered intolerable wrong?
But where is the wrong that should tempt you to trade
Your nation's proud honor for the foreigner's aid?

Sons of the South! I was born in your land,
And I lived in for all that was noble and grand;
I mourned o'er your folly, was tendered to blame,
Till you brought this disgrace on America's name.

In the future, what proud, noble aim can you see,
But to cringe to, and fawn on your lords o'er the sea?
Your name a foul by-word in every month—
Praise no more of honor, old sons of the South!

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Faith of the People.

Events pass us with such rapidity that time is not afforded even for a moment's reflection. The country hangs, literally upon the wires, and the tri-daily electric news has become such a fixed fact that one would think the nation impervious to a shock even from a galvanic battery. But this is not the result of indifference nor callousness. It is the faith of the people in our rulers, and those who have the conduct of this war.

In all these weeks of agonizing suspense, when the fate of this nation has, to human eyes, hung upon the issue of a day, there has been no distrust of integrity, and but little complaint. The world in no land, under other institutions, can afford such an instance of the faith of the people. One day the country feels certain that the seizure of Slidell and Mason is right, and are willing, on that issue, to accept a war with the greatest naval power of the world.—The next day flashes the announcement that the Administration has surrendered those traitors, and could the electricity, the next hour, have combined the voice of these all over the land who love our Union, it would have struck the White House, with a reply of cheerful acquiescence. The moral sublimity of such faith cannot be imagined.

Again, when all eyes are stretched towards the extending lines of half a million of soldiers, hoping, and expecting, momentarily, that a combined movement would crush out rebellion and electrify the world, the news comes that the head of the war Department has retired, and another takes his place. Not a criticism is heard, not a murmur uttered, but that abiding faith of the people acquiesces, and scarce a ripple runs along the surface of popular thought.

Again, the National exigency demands a suspension of specie payments by the Banks, and no sooner is the sacrifice demanded, than the people acquiesce, burying all preconceived prejudices, and yielding a point that lies at the base of all ordinary financial operations.

All this shows the faith of the people; of a people who have given uncounted men and uncounted dollars to the cause of the Union, and who, too, for months, have been forced to live on hope alone.

Tell us not that the people are unreasonable; that they are impatient; that they are fickle; but tell us that in no nation on the globe dwells such faith as in our people.—Cleveland Herald.

Secession Conspiracy in 1850.

TREASON OPENLY AVOWED ELEVEN YEARS AGO.

The officers of the gunboat R. B. Fisher on a recent visit to Beaufort, found among the papers, at the office of a lawyer of that place, copious minutes of the "Southern Rights Association of St. Helena Parish," organized on the 25th of October 1858. Edmund Rhett was chairman. The objects of the society are stated to be, to resist the encroachments of the Federal Government, controlled by a fanatical majority, (it will be remembered that Millard Fillmore was then President,) and expresses the readiness of the members to obey the call of the authorities of South Carolina to resist all such encroachments upon the rights of the slaveholding States. The policy of secession was not distinctly avowed in the constitution of the league, but the friends of such a step could easily see its avowal beneath the careful wordings of the articles.

At the regular meeting of the Association on the 13th of January, 1851, a resolution was adopted severely denouncing the compromise measures just adopted by Congress and containing the following avowal, which we commend to the attention of those who accuse northern abolitionists of having provoked rebellion by their anti-slavery discussions:

"In the language of Judge Cheeves, we will agitate, agitate, agitate the public question, until we shall finally dissolve all political connection with the North, and established a Government at the South with new guards for our future security."

A few months after this open avowal of treason, and after the State election, in which the Southern Rights men were defeated by the Co-operationists, twenty or thirty of the more conservative members of the Association resigned, disavowing at the same time all sympathy with the separate secession of South Carolina. The minutes record meetings as late as the close of '51. They afford ample proof that the conspirators against the integrity of the Union were as bitter and determined eleven years ago as now, and only kept quiet because they felt that the season for open action had not arrived. Hence they contain resolutions averse to an open and united meeting at Charleston of all the State's Rights Associations of South Carolina.—Cincinnati Gazette.

Love—its Purity and Power.

How very bright and beautiful is love in its power, purity and innocence?—How mysteriously does it etherialize every feeling and impulse of the heart.—Love, holy and mysterious love, is the garland spring of life—the dream of the heart, the poetry of nature. Its song is heard in the rude hut of the poor, as well as the gorgeous palaces of the rich—its flames embellish the solitude of the forest, and the thronged haunts of busy life, and its life imparts a brilliancy to every heart, no matter what be its condition. Love—pure, holy and devoted love—can never change.—Friends may forsake us, and the riches of this world may soar away, but the heart that loves will cling closer as loud roars the storms, and amid the wreck of the tempest it will serve as a beacon to light us on to hope and happiness.—Love is the mystic and unseen spell that soothes the wild and rugged tendencies of human nature—that lingers about the sanctity of the fireside and unites in closer union the affection of society, and souls that love forever. Not like the waves of the ocean, nor traced in sand, is the image impressed upon a loving heart. No; but it will burn on undefaced in its lustre amid the quick rush of winds and warring of tempest cloud; and when our fate seems dark and dreary, then will love seek shelter in her own hallowed temple, and offer as a sacrifice her vows and her affections.

Apprentice Boys, Attention.

Apprenticeship is the most important stage of life through which a mechanic is called to pass; it is emphatically the spring season of his days—the time when he is sowing the seed, the fruits of which he is to reap in after years. If he spare no labor in its proper culture, he is sure of obtaining an abundant harvest; but if, in the culture of the mental toil, he follows the example of many in tilling the earth, and carelessly and negligently does his work, like them, he will find the seeding time past, and his ground only bringing forth weeds and briars. Let the young apprentice bear in mind, when he commences learning any business, that all hopes of success in future are doomed to fade away like the morning mist, unless he improve the golden season. Let him bear in mind that he can become master of his business only through the closest application and the most persevering industry; and that unless he does master it, he may bid farewell to all prospect of success. The apprenticeship is the foundation of the great mechanical edifice; and surely if the foundation of a structure be not firm, the structure itself crumbles and falls to the earth. Then, young friends, persevere; be studious and attentive; study well all the branches of your business, both practical and theoretical—and when the time shall come for you to take an active part in life, you will not fail to be of use, not only in your own particular business but in society.

A Local Actuality.

Before the war began, and when our busy streets were blockaded by merchandise, I was walking along with a friend. In front of us was a large mass of dry-goods, distended by an enormous hoop frame, swaying from side to side, occupying and sweeping the whole available space along the sidewalk.

A tall countryman, was coming in the opposite direction. As he approached the moving mass he was evidently embarrassed as to how he should get by it—who has not been? However, he watched his opportunity, and seeing a small clear space on the one side made a dash for it, but when he put his foot on it it wasn't there.

Instead, he stepped upon a mass of the moving drapery. There was a lady inside of it, and of course it brought her up "all standin"—nothing tore—and as she straightened up she exclaimed, energetically.

"Well, one thing is certain—there is no politeness in this town?"

"No, mom!" was the emphatic reply as he marched off, "not for animals that drags their tails on the ground!"

Hints to Mothers.

If you wish to cultivate a gossiping, meddling, censorous spirit in your children, be sure when they come home from church, a visit, or any other place where you do not accompany them, to ply them with questions concerning what everybody wore, how everybody looked, and what everybody said and did; and if you find anything in all this to censure, always do it in their hearing. You may rest assured, if you pursue a course of this kind, they will not return to you unladen with intelligence; and, rather than it should be uninteresting, they will by degrees learn to embellish in such a manner as shall not fail to call forth remarks and expressions of wonder from you. You will by this course, render the spirit of curiosity—which is so early visible in children, and which, if rightly directed, may be made the instrument of enriching and enlarging their minds—a vehicle of mischief, which shall serve only to narrow them.

The Doom of the World.

What this change is to be we dare not even conjecture, but we see in the heavens themselves some traces of destructive elements and some indications of their power. The fragments of broken planets—the descent of meteoric stones upon our globe—and the wheeling comets welding their loose material at the solar surface—the volcanic eruption in our own satellite—the appearance of new stars, and the disappearance of others—are all fore-shadows of that impending convulsion to which the system of the world is doomed. Thus placed on a planet which is to be burned up, and under heavens which are to pass away; thus reading as it were, on the cemeteries, and dwelling upon the mausoleums of the former worlds, let us learn the lesson of humility and wisdom, if we have not already been taught in the school of revelation.

HOW THEY DID IT.

THEY were sitting side by side,
And he sighed, and then she sighed.
Said he, "my darling lass!"
And he lifted and then she lifted.
"You are creation's belle,"
And she bellowed, and then he bellowed.
"On my soul there's such a weight,"
And he waited, and then she waited.
"Your hand I ask, so hold I'm grown,"
And he groaned, and then she groaned.
"You shall have your private gig,"
And she giggled, and then he giggled.
Said she, "My dearest Duke,"
And he looked, and then she looked.
"I'll have thee, if thou will,"
And she willed, then he willed.

Curious Facts.

The following curious facts with regard to our Presidents, appears from history:

Geo. Washington, 1st President, died without children. He was re-elected.

John Adams, 2d President, had children. He was not re-elected.

Thos. Jefferson, 3d President, died without children. He was re-elected.

James Madison, 4th President, died without children. He was re-elected.

James Monroe, 5th President, died without children. He was re-elected.

John Quincy Adams, 6th President, had children. He was not re-elected.

Andrew Jackson, 7th President, had no children. He was re-elected.

Martin Van Buren, 8th President, had children. He was not re-elected.

W. H. Harrison, 9th President, had children. He died about 1 month after he was sworn into office.

John Tyler, 10th President, had children. He was not re-elected.

James K. Polk, 11th President, had no children. He declined a nomination for a 2d term.

Z. Taylor, 12th President, had children. He died before the expiration of his term.

Millard Fillmore, 13th President, had children. He was not re-elected.

James Buchanan 14th President, has no children, and nous verrons.

From the above facts, it appears that no President ever having had children has been re-elected to the Chief Magistracy of the nation, while, with the exception of Mr. Polk, who declined a renomination, all those having no children have been re-elected.—Chicago Journal.

Knowledge.

There can be no objection to learning. Knowledge is a benefit, not an evil, except by a perversion and abuse of it.—And it is an evil, when every one who gets a bare smattering of learning, becomes a writer and thinks he need not labor. All cannot be teachers, and a man has no right to neglect labor, because he can read and write, and has read a few books besides his spelling-book and Bible. Learning is an evil, when every one who has scarcely the elements, undertakes to be an instructor and writer, and sets himself above labor. This, indeed, ought not to be objected to, knowledge and learning. For it is owing to the vanity and error of individuals. Knowledge may be the occasion of evil, but it is not necessarily so. It is individual perversion that thus makes it an evil. And why should a little learning lead a man to think he must not work? If by his superior knowledge he has found out some plan of saving labor partially, let him communicate it. But now every young man who can read a little, cannot condescend to work; and pretends, forsooth, that he is called upon to be the instructor of his age.

Curious.

Eight years ago the wife of John Lowbough, of Pink prairie, this county, died and was buried in that place. A short time since it became desirable to take up and remove the remains of Mrs. L. and last week Mr. D. L. Smith, of this place, was employed to perform the labor. The grave was opened, and the coffin, which was in a state of perfect preservation was removed; but before depositing it in the new place, it was concluded to open it, especially as it appeared uncommonly heavy. It was therefore opened, and the body of Mrs. L. was found to be perfectly petrified; every part being as full and fair as on the day of her burial, eight years ago, except the lower part of the face and the hands, which were partially decayed.—Her limbs, breast and every part, with the above exceptions, were solid stone, and as fair and perfect as when she died. The soil of the grave was clay, and possessed no peculiarities discernable. This is an uncommon case, and withal, a curious one. We get these facts from Mr. Smith the sexton.—Genessee (Ill.) Republican.

Squire B.

Old Squire B—— was a great hand for dealing out justice according to his own views. John Acker had a quarelsome partner, and wanted to get a settlement; so he withdrew from the concern, and brought suit against him for about what he thought he ought to have from the business, clear of all debts. The Squire issued a summons for said partner to appear before him on a certain day and defend himself. He came some time before the hour, and got arguing with the Squire, who being very hot-headed, put him out of the office and locked the door. When the hour of grace was up he gave judgment in favor of plantiff for non-appearance of defendant.

A man lost a trunk on the railroad. He went before Squire B—— and stated his case, when the attorney of the Company, Harry Cone, rose to make a defence. He had hardly got his hat off before the Squire said: "I don't want to hear any of your law talk in this court. I know your Railroad Company too well. I lost a trunk myself between here and S——, and never got a cent for it. I'll give judgment against you, and you may appeal from my decision and be hanged, if you like!"

How the Russians Manage.

An Englishman in Russia relates this incident:

As I was leaving my house one morning, I heard my assistant, Harry, shouting to me from the door of an outhouse for holding firewood. On entering the place, I found a dead peasant lying on the floor with a piece of rope round his neck, and from a beam the other end of the rope was dangling.—To my inquiry, Harry replied, that he had gone into the place for a piece of wood to make a handle to an axe, and found the man hanging by the neck.—The first natural impluse caused him to open his knife and cut him down, and there he was lying. I found the man quite dead, as he had been for some time.

"Now," I said, "Harry, you have got yourself into a nice mess. The police will make you responsible for this death. What's to be done?"

"Done?" says Harry, "why, tie him up again."

This never would have occurred to me, but Harry was a practical man, and he was right. So we managed to hang the poor fellow over again, and left the spot, happily without being seen. The body was found during the day, and a "stan," sent for, who never suspected the part we had acted in the tragedy.—If he had, I have no doubt it would have cost us many roubles to save Harry from being tried for murder.

Guard against Vulgar Language.

There is as much connection between the words and the thoughts as there is between the thoughts and the actions.—The latter are not only the expression of the former, but they have a power to react upon the soul, and leave the stain of their corruption there. A young man who allows himself to use one vulgar or profane word, has not only shown that there is a foul spot upon his mind, but by the utterance of that word he extends that spot and inflames it, till, by indulgence, it will pollute and ruin the whole soul. Be careful of your words as well as your thoughts. If you can control the tongue that no improper words are pronounced by it, you will soon be able, also, to control the mind, and save that from corruption. You extinguish the fire by smothering it, or by preventing bad thoughts bursting out in language. Never utter a word anywhere which you would be ashamed to speak in the presence of the most refined female, or the most religious man. Try this practice a little while, and you will soon have command of yourself.

☞The new Japanese presents just sent to the President of the United States from the Tycoon of Japan, are the finest that have ever been seen in this country. A lacquered box containing a letter thanking the President for the reception of his ambassadors—in most courtly phrase in characters as stately as those usually found upon the sides of a tea-box, wrapped in the yellowest of yellow silk, with plenty of gilt. A sword of exquisite steel, with the handle bedded with large pearls, and mounted in the finest gold. Blocks of crystal from the sacred Fusiyami Mountain, of diamond clearness. Vases of antique bronze, exquisitely sculptured in relief with tortoises and stones of untold value. A punch-bowl fit for a Cyclops to "wet his whistle" in, so large that the President's two sons—curled up in it, and the cover was put on—candlesticks some four feet high, gold-mounted with vases of every variety of pattern and shape—an entire suit of armor quite worthy of the middle ages. The people are anxiously waiting to have these things sent to some place—the Smithsonian or the Patent Office—where they can get a glimpse at these gems of chrystal steel, bronze, or porcelain. A whole dinner set, with hundreds of pieces of Japanese crape, silk, and brocade, forms part of this royal present.

☞Before the days of chloroform there was a quack who advertised tooth-drawing without pain. The patient was placed in a chair, and the instrument applied to his tooth with a wrench, followed by a roar from the unpleasantly surprised sufferer. "Stop," cried the dentist, "compose yourself. I told you I would give you no pain, but I only just gave you that twinge as a specimen, to show you Cartwright's method of operating!" Again the instrument was applied, another tug, another roar.—"Now don't be impatient, that is Dumerge's way; be seated and calm; you will soon be sensible of the superiority of my method." Another application, another tug, another roar. "Now, pray be quiet, that is Parkinson's mode, and you don't like it, and no wonder." By this time the tooth hung by a thread; and whipping it out, the operator exultingly exclaimed, "That is my mode of tooth-drawing without pain, and you are now enabled to compare it with the operations of Cartwright, Dumerge and Parkinson."

Taking a Hint.

'Why, Pete, you've got back from Dodd's early; isn't Ruth ter hum?' inquired a Yankee girl of her awkward brother, who had been a courtin' about half an hour before.

'Yaas, she was thar; but I and the old man didn't agree very well, so he gin me a hint and I left.'

'A hint! pray what sort of a hint.'

'Wall, he opened the door and pointed down towards our house, and then kindly raised his right foot as though he was going to kick, and I felt so ashamed of such conduct before Ruth, that I started off without saying another word.'

☞A nameless French author, truly says: "The modest deportment of those who are truly wise, when contrasted with the assuming air of the ignorant, may be compared to the different appearances of wheat, which, while its ear is empty, holds up its head proudly, but, as soon as it is filled with grain, bends modestly down, and withdraws from observation."

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL.
ESTABLISHED AS A REFUGE FROM QUACKERY.

The Only Place Where a Cure Can be Obtained.

DR. JOHNSTON has discovered the most Certain, Speedy and only Effectual Remedy in the World for Weakness of the Back or Limbs, Strictures, Affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, General Debility, Nervousness, Dyspepsy, Languor, Low Spirits, Confusion of Ideas, Palpitation of the Heart, Timidity, Trembling, Dimness of Sight or Giddiness, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose or Skin, Affections of the Lungs, Stomach or Bowels—those Terrible Disorders arising from the Solitary Habits of Youth—those secret and solitary practices more fatal to their victims than the song of Syrens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN

Especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of Young Men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstasy the living lyre, may call upon me with full confidence.

MARRIAGE.

Married Persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of Physical weakness, organic debility, deformities, &c., speedily cured.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS

Immediately Cured and Full Vigor Restored. This Dreadful Disease—which renders Life miserable and Marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgences. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue.—Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is less common by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind arise. The system becomes Deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, a Wasting of the Frame, Coughs, Consumption, &c.

A CURE WARRANTED IN TWO DAYS.

No Mercury Nor Nauseous Drugs.

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London. Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has the satisfaction of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with a derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE!

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and bad habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsy, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption.

MENTALLY—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded—Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of consumption.

DR. JOHNSTON'S INVIGORATING REMEDY FOR ORGANIC WEAKNESS

By this great and important remedy—Weakness of the Organs is speedily cured, and full vigor restored.

Thousands of the most nervous and debilitated, who had lost all hope, have been immediately relieved. All impediments to Marriage, Physical or Mental Disqualification, Nervous Irritability, Trembling, Weakness or Exhaustion of the most fearful kind, speedily cured by Dr. Johnston.

YOUNG MEN

Who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and is not cured, rendering marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequence of dwelling from the path of nature and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons never before contemplating reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisition to promote conjugal happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life become a weary pilgrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted without own

DISEASE OF IMPRUDENCE

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability can alone befriend him. He falls into the hands of ignorant and designing pretenders, who, taking advantage of his situation, keep him in a state of misery for a month or two, or as long as the smallest fee can be obtained, and in despair leave him with ruined health to sigh over his galling disappointment; or, by the use of that deadly poison, Mercury, hasten the constitutional system of this terrible disease, such as affection of the Head, Throat, Nose, skin, etc., progressing with frightful rapidity till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings by sending him to that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveller returns.

TO STRANGERS.

There are so many unlearned and worthless Pretenders Advertising themselves as Physicians, trifling with and ruining the Health of the already afflicted, that Dr. Johnston deems it necessary to say to those unacquainted with his reputation that his Credentials or Diplomas always hang in his Office.

The Remedies and Treatment of Dr. Johnston are unknown to all others, prepared from a life spent in the great Hospitals of Europe, the first in this Country, and a more extensive private practice than any other Physician in the world.

ENDORSEMENT OF THE PRESS

The many thousands cured at this institution within the last eighteen years, and the numerous important Surgical Operations performed by Dr. Johnston, witnessed by the reporters of the "Sun" and many other papers, notices of which have appeared again and again before the public, leaving his standing as a gentleman of character and responsibility, is a sufficient guarantee to the afflicted.

WILCOX & GIBBS,
SEWING MACHINES.
PRICE WITH HEMMER AND FELLER,
$35 00.
THIS MACHINE HAS POINTS OF SUPERIORITY PECULIARLY ITS OWN

Stitching, Hemming, and Felling with a Single Thread.

It forms a flat, even, and elastic seam, which is WARRANTED not to rip in wear, even if the seam is cut at frequent intervals, and also under all circumstances "TO SURVIVE THE WASH-TUB."

A Patented device of great utility to learners, prevents the possibility of the machine being run in the wrong direction, or the balance-wheel wearing a lady's dress.

Another feature which deserves particular attention is ☞The WILCOX PATENT NEEDLE CANNOT BE PUT WRONG

Two thousand Stitches or two yards of work, can be done in one minute without dropping a stitch.

These Machines are simple and accurate in their construction, superseding the use of the shuttle; and with one thread produce all the practical results of the two thread machines; and more, for these feel without basting, and hem the finest muslin without puckering.

Although at about half the price of the other first class machines, they will accomplish double the sewing in a given time.

It is complained by the good, low priced Family Sewing Machine that the public have long been waiting for.—Boston Transcript.

"It is indeed a wonderful production, and for family use especially, no other will be any comparison with it."—Philadelphia Evening Journal.

"A mechanical wonder."—Scientific American.

"Among the best and most serviceable Sewing machines. Light and elegantly finished, and so simple in its construction that it seems almost impossible for it to get out of repair."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

"Has combined with its own peculiar merits all the really valuable improvements of the higher priced machines."—Pennsylvanian.

"This machine, in the opinion of the committee, fills more nearly the requirements of a perfect family machine than any on exhibition."—Franklin Institute Exhibition Report of 1858.

"Taking into consideration simplicity, cheapness, durability, and doing all work, the committee were unanimously in favor of the Wilcox & Gibbs as a single thread machine."—Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society's Report.

"We must, in justice, express our confidence in the merits of the Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing machine. We consider that a great desideratum has been supplied by it, in proving, beyond doubt, that two threads are not, as was supposed, necessary to a good instrument."—Christian Advocate and Journal, June 21, 1860.

"We have one of these machines in use, and think more highly of it than of any of the number we have tried".—Richmond Whig.

The undersigned, Missionary to Constantinople, has examined more than twenty-five different kinds of Sewing Machines, and after some six weeks' experience with Wilcox & Gibbs' Patent, he has purchased one of them, as the best adapted to the wants of his family, and as the least liable to require repair. OLIVER CRANE.

Boston, July 2, 1860.

The undersigned, during eighteen months, has had in almost constant use, in his family, a Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine, upon which has been made the clothes of his large family—from muslin to pilot cloth—including the clothing required for his several boys; and in no case have the seams failed, although in hard service. The machine now in use in his family has required no repair, and is, in all respects, well approved.—REV. TEN EYCK.

THE MAKORA ARABICA,
DISCOVERED BY A MISSIONARY,
WHILE TRAVELING IN ARABIA.

All who are suffering from Consumption should use the MAKORA ARABICA, discovered by a missionary in Arabia.

All who are threatened with Consumption should use the MAKORA ARABICA, discovered by a missionary in Arabia.

All who are suffering from Bronchitis should use the MAKORA ARABICA, discovered by a missionary in Arabia.

All who are suffering from Sore Throat, Coughs and Colds, should use the MAKORA ARABICA, discovered by a missionary in Arabia.

All who are suffering from Asthma Scrofula and Impurities of the Blood should use the MAKORA ARABICA, discovered by a missionary in Arabia.

It cures Consumption.
It cures Bronchitis.
It cures Sore Throat, Coughs and Colds
It cures Asthma, Scrofula, and impurities of the Blood.

This unequalled remedy is now for the first time introduced to the public.

It was providentially discovered by a missionary while travelling in Arabia. He was cured of Consumption by its use after his case was pronounced hopeless by learned physicians in Europe.

He has forwarded to us in writing, a full account of his own extraordinary cure, and of a number of other Cures which have come under his observation, and also a full account of the medicine.

At his request, and impelled by a desire to extend a knowledge of this remedy to the public, we have had his communication printed in pamphlet form for free distribution.—Included in each need by an account which he gives of some of the scenes of the Syrian massacres, which he obtained from those who were suffering in that awful tragedy.

This pamphlet may be obtained at our office, or it will be sent free by mail to all who apply for it.

We import the MAKORA ARABICA direct from Smyrna through the house of Cleon & Gylippus, and we have always on hand a full supply put up in bottles ready for use with full directions.

Price one dollar per bottle. Sent by mail on receipt of price, and 24 cents for postage.

Mrs. Eliza Woods.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES!

In the month of December, 1858, the undersigned for the first time offered for sale to the public Dr J. BOVEE DODS' IMPERIAL WINE BITTERS, and in this short period they have given such universal satisfaction to the many thousands of persons who have tried them that it is now an established article. The amount of bodily and mental ills arising simply from a neglect of some trifling complaint is surprising, and it is therefore of the utmost importance that a strict attention be the least and most trifling body ailment should be had; for disease of the body must invariably affect the mind. The subscribers now only ask a trial of

Dr. J. Bovee Dods'

from all who have not used them. We challenge the world to produce their equal.

These Bitters for the CURE OF WEAK STOMACH, GENERAL DEBILITY, and for PURIFYING and ENRICHING the BLOOD, are absolutely unsurpassed by any other remedy on earth. To be assured of this, it is only necessary to make the trial. The Wine itself is of very superior quality, being about one third stronger than other wines; warming and invigorating the whole system from the head to the toes. As these Bitters are tonic and alterative in their character, so they strengthen and invigorate the whole system and give a healthy action to all its parts, by equalizing the circulation, removing obstructions, and producing a general warmth. They are also invaluable for Diseases and Weakness peculiar to FEMALES, where a Tonic is required to strengthen and brace the system. No Lady, who is subject to lassitude and faintness, should be without them as they are revivifying in their action.

THESE BITTERS

Will not only Cure, but Prevent Disease, and in this respect are doubly valuable to the person who may use them. For

INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION,

Weak Lungs, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Diseases of the Nervous System, Paralysis, Piles and for all cases requiring a Tonic

Dr. Dods' Celebrated Wine Bitters

Are Unsurpassed.

For Sore Throat, so common among the Clergy, they are truly valuable.

For the aged and infirm and for persons of weak constitution—for Ministers of the Gospel, Lawyers, and all public speakers or Book Keepers, Tailors, Seamstresses, Students, Artists, and all persons leading a sedentary life, they will prove truly beneficial.

As a Beverage, they are wholesome, innocent, and delicious to the taste. They produce all the exhilarating effects of Brandy or Wine, without intoxicating, and are a valuable remedy for persons addicted to the use of excessive strong drink, and who wish to refrain from it. They are pure and entirely free from the poisons contained in the adulterated Wines and Liquors with which the country is flooded.

These Bitters not only CURE, but PREVENT Disease, and should be used by all who live in a country where the water is bad, or where Chills and Fevers are prevalent. Being entirely innocent and harmless, they may be given freely to Children and Infants with impunity.

Physicians, Clergymen, and temperance advocates, as an act of humanity, should assist in spreading these truly valuable BITTERS over the land, and thereby essentially aid in banishing Drunkenness and Disease.

In all Affections of the Head, Sick Headache, or Nervous Headache, Dr. Dods' Imperial Wine Bitters will be found to be most Salutary and Efficacious.

FEMALES.

The many certificates which have been tendered us, and the letters which we are daily receiving, are conclusive proof that among the women these Bitters have given a satisfaction which no others have ever done before. No woman in the land should be without them, and her's once use them, will not fail to keep a supply.

DR. J. BOVEE DODS'
Imperial Wine Bitters

Are prepared by an eminent and skillful physician who has used them successfully in his practice for the last twenty-five years.—The proprietor, before purchasing the exclusive right to manufacture and sell Dr. J. Bovee Dods' Celebrated Imperial Wine Bitters had them tested by two distinguished medical practitioners who pronounced them a valuable remedy.

Although the medical men of the country, as a general thing disapprove of Patent Medicines, yet we do not believe that a respectable Physician can be found in the United States, acquainted with their medical proper ties, who will not highly approve DR. J. BOVEE DODS' IMPERIAL WINE BITTERS.

In all newly settled places, where there is always a large quantity of decaying timber from which a poisonous miasma is created, these bitters should be used every morning before breakfast.

DR. J. BOVEE DODS'
Imperial Wine Bitters

Are composed of a pure and unadulterated Wine, combined with Barberry, Solomon's Seal, Cassarge, Wild Cherry Tree Bark, Spikenard Chamomile Flowers, and Gentian. They are manufactured by Dr. Dods himself, who is an experienced and successful Physician, and hence should not be classed among the quack nostrums with flooded the country, and against which the Medical Profession are so justly prejudiced.

These truly valued Bitters have been so thoroughly tested by all classes of the community for almost every variety of disease incident to the human system, that they are now deemed indispensable as a Tonic Medicine and a Beverage.
