CLOSE CALL FOR A CHILD.

Caught in Wheat Garner and Nearly Suffocated—Cries Heard in Time For Rescue.

Edgar Davis Lusby, aged 10 years, son of James Lusby, residing on "The Village Farm," near Cecilton, came near suffocating last Tuesday in a peculiar manner. Mr. Lusby and men were fanning wheat with the fan on the lower floor of the barn. The wheat was fed to the fan through a small chute from the garner on the second floor. Edgar and the other children were in the habit of playing in the garners of wheat whenever the fan was running.

Tuesday afternoon while the children were taking their usual afternoon nap, Edgar gave them the slip and went to the barn and got in the wheat without any of the men knowing he was there. The usual pastime for the children was to let their feet and legs run down the chute with the wheat until they touched the bottom of the chute, and then draw them out again. This was a full garner and was deeper than he thought, and before his feet touched the bottom he was buried in the wheat.

He realized his dangerous position before he was completely covered and called with all the power he had left for some one to come and get him and pull him out. His cries were heard by his mother and grandmother at the house. Both ran to the barn and notified Mr. Lusby that some one was in distress up in the loft. The fan was stopped, and the peculiar and distressing noise made by the boy directed them to the floor where he was buried. With the heroic efforts of all hands and by knocking the boards away from the garner entrance they managed to get the wheat from his head and face in time to save the little fellow's life. After being revived the only effect of the accident was a severe hoarseness of the throat. In speaking of the affair later he said, "I'll never NEVER do that again; I NEVER will!"

STOCK DYING.

An epidemic has begun among the horses of the farmers near Milford, Del., and the best veterinary surgeons have so far failed to find any medicine that helps. The symptons are that the animal cannot swallow its food and appears to be having a choking sensation. The horse remains in that state until it chokes to death. David Mills this week lost three fine driving horses. He has had a veterinarian to look after his other stock. Mr. Mills' loss amounts to about $900.

Another peculiar disease has broken out among the swine. When the hog takes sick it immediately turns a dark blue color and breaks out in spots like the smallpox. The loss around Milford amounts to about $3000 so far.

We are informed that two or three cases of anthrax was found on Monday in a herd of cattle in Blackbird hundred, on the farm of a Mr. Price. Dr. H. B. McDowell, veterinarian, was summoned and promptly had the affected cattle killed and quarantined the neighborhood. On Tuesday, in company with members of the State Board of Agriculture, he again visited the neighborhood and strict measures were taken to prevent the spreading of the dread disease. They immediately quarantined the whole district, and it is believed there will be no further trouble.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrance of my son Joe M. Stoops who departed this life one year ago the 10th day of August.

Dearest Joe, how I miss you,
Miss you more than tongue can tell,
Every hour and day that passes
Brings me nearer with you to dwell.
FATHER.

Oh! smile upon me from on high
Ask God to lead me when I die
That I may meet you above
Some sweet day by and by.
MOTHER.
