THE ELECTION.

The new Constitution provides for the holding of the first Election under it "on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, 1867," or in plain English, on Tuesday the 5th day of November, less than three weeks from to-day. Short as the time is, however, a great deal may be done by the Republican party, if they but go to work in the proper spirit, and surely with such a ticket as has been presented, both by the State and County conventions, no man can shirk the responsibility of diligently working for its triumph and yet claim to be a Republican. Our ticket from the first name to the last is composed of men of sterling integrity, firm in their loyal patriotism, and unchallenged in their moral rectitude. With such men as standard-bearers, our task is no difficult one if each man but does his duty faithfully, and from the energy and activity already manifest in different parts of the County, we believe it will be cheerfully done. Let no one be discouraged by the temporary drawbacks sustained in Ohio and Pennsylvania, but rather let them serve as an incentive to greater exertion on our part, to avert such a calamity as they have suffered. Above all, let no side issues, or personal prejudices or preferences divert you from voting the whole ticket, without a single name scratched or substituted, and it can be triumphantly elected. Remember that we are now waging a square fight against treason and its fossil abettors, whose jubilant hopes are now high, but wants only your united exertions to blast them forever.

THE STATE TICKET.

The Republican Convention which met in Baltimore city on Thursday last did its whole duty by placing in nomination a full ticket for State officers, to be voted for by the Republicans at the approaching election. Meeting at a time when to their own prostrate condition was added the cloud of party reverses in Pennsylvania and Ohio, the Convention showed both faith in the convictions of the party it represents, and manliness in their assertion. There was sorrow and regret, but there was no timidity, no trimming, and no denial or palliation of former avowals. The speech of the President of the Convention, Hon. J. A. J. Creswell, appeared to embody the whole tone of the Convention in its candid acknowledgment of the emergency, its courageous assertion of principle, and its hopeful view of the future.

The spirit of the Convention was manifest in its nominations. Hon. HUGH L. BOND, who received the nomination for Governor, is a fitting representative of the earnest Republicans of the State. Thorough and conscientious in his political convictions, bold and earnest in their avowals, there is a recognized propriety in his selection as the standard-bearer of a progressive party. No man in the State has been more heavily burdened with political abuse, but his most bitter opponents cannot but recognize his estimable private character, and his devotion to and fearless assertion of his political faith.

Hon. HENRY H. GOLDSBOROUGH, nominated for Attorney General, was originally a Democrat. He has several times represented his county—Talbot—in the Legislature of the State, and in 1861, as the President of the Senate then assembled at Frederick, did much by his course in preventing the State from being arrayed in arms against the Federal Government. He was the representative of the Emancipation party of Maryland in their first great campaign, and as their candidate for Comptroller in 1862 canvassed the State from Allegany to Worcester against Mr. Maffit, and was triumphantly elected. He was the true choice of the Union party in 1864, but through the manipulations of Mr. Swann he was defeated in the Nominating convention, and Swann became the candidate. Mr. Goldsborough was the President of the Free State Convention of 1864, and his services in that important position should ever be gratefully remembered by the Republicans of the State as no man then more ably advocated the cause of freedom.—Subsequently he was chosen Judge of the judicial circuit composed of Caroline and Talbot counties, and up to the present time has faithfully discharged the duties of that office.

Mr. SCHLEY, of Frederick, the nominee for Comptroller, was one of the first victims of Mr. Johnson's departure from the Republican party. He was appointed Collector of Internal Revenue by the lamented Lincoln, and then removed by Johnson, with others who were unable to endorse his policy of handing the Government over to the Rebels. Mr. Schley was also a member of the Emancipation Convention of 1864, and has been an energetic worker in the cause of Republicanism.

W. L. W. SEABROOK, of Anne Arundel, nominee for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, is now the efficient Commissioner of the Land Office. Mr. Seabrook is one of the staunchest Republicans in the State, and has been a most efficient officer.

Captain RANDOLPH JONES, the nominee for Superintendent of Labor and Agriculture, comes from that political Egypt of Maryland, St. Mary's county, where there are fewer Republicans than in any county of the State. Early in the rebellion Mr. Jones entered the Federal army, and soon became a Captain in the 2d Maryland Regiment, in which position he served faithfully until Grant's victorious army captured the hosts of Lee at Appomattox.

Pennsylvania and Ohio Elections

The result in Ohio and Pennsylvania is definitely settled by the latest returns.—In the former State, General Hayes, the Republican Governor, is elected by about three thousand votes. In Pennsylvania the Democrats elect their candidate for the Supreme Bench by a majority of about fifteen hundred. In both States the vote is short. In Pennsylvania it will fall from eighty to a hundred thousand votes below the aggregate polled last year. In Ohio it is estimated that it will be forty thousand short. We see in these facts the evidences rather of apathy than of reaction.

General Ulysses S. Grant

We cordially and earnestly endorse the following resolution, adopted by the Maryland Republican Convention at its session yesterday:

"Resolved, That the Republicans of Maryland, in Convention assembled, earnestly recommend to the Republican party of the country, the nomination of General Ulysses S. Grant as their candidate for President of the United States."

The result of the election in Pennsylvania and Ohio may be regarded, politically, in the same light to the Republican party as the second battle of Bull Run was to the cause of the Union. We shortly thereafter called Gen. Grant to the command of our forces, and he lead us on to victory. To secure the results of that victory to the loyal men of the Nation the services of General Grant are again required, and when once he takes the field he will "fight it out on that line" to an enduring triumph of the principles of those who fought with him and sustained the cause of the Government throughout the rebellion.

The result in Ohio and Pennsylvania proclaims emphatically the necessity of prompt and thorough organization on the part of the Republican party, and the casting aside of all personal preferences with regard to the next Presidency. It is the jealousies growing out of the Presidential succession that has prevented the Fortieth Congress from carrying out the will of the people in removing an unfaithful Executive, and thus giving peace to the country. It is dissatisfaction at the want of nerve exhibited at the July session, which has kept fifty thousand Republicans from the polls in Pennsylvania and Ohio. Just so long as there is uncertainty as to who will be the nominee of the Republican party, our representatives in Congress will be paralyzed and fearful of doing their whole duty. There must be no more temporizing. The time has come for action. Our opponents have set us an example in this respect which we will do well to follow.—Where they have power they exercise it promptly and uncompromisingly. Here in Maryland, without any shadow of charges they have swept out of power every legislative and judicial officer in the State, including the mayor and city authorities.—They had the power and they have used it to place every emblem of authority in the possession of their partisans. They have lost no time, and the Fortieth Congress would do well to imitate them. The possession of power without using it is a ridiculous farce, and will disorganise any party.

With General Grant as our standard-bearer, victory will be certain. He has been tried both as a soldier and a statesman, and has been found equal to every emergency. All can unite upon him, whilst with any of the other distinguished statesmen named for the nomination there would be doubt as to the result. If we would secure to the country the fruits of the victory obtained over the Rebel hosts, we must promptly place General Grant in nomination. If we would leave Congress free to carry out the will of the loyal people of the country, we must promptly settle this question, otherwise the power we possess will be frittered away in personal contests as to the effect of the acts of Congress on the prospects of individual contestants. There can be no doubt now entertained that President Johnson would have been impeached and removed before the adjournment of Congress but for the fear entertained by the friends of rival candidates that by so doing Senator Wade would have been placed in the track for the nomination. They were unwilling to put the power and patronage of the Government in the hands of any one of the contestants for nomination, and hence Andrew Johnson was allowed to remain "an obstruction" to the reconstruction of the rebel States, and to use the patronage of the Government to overthrow the Republican party, make loyalty odious, and treason powerful and dangerous.—Balt. American.

The Coming Election.

In a little less than three weeks the ordeal of the ballot-box will again test the loyalty of the people of this county. The issue before us, though in a new guise, is the same we had to encounter during the war. It was Loyalty or Treason then, and it is Loyalty or Treason now. Men of Carroll county, those of you who voted and fought against Jeff. Davis' treason, ponder well the nature of the questions you are called upon to decide before you cast a vote in favor of the Treason of Andrew Johnson. The election before you is an important one, and will exert a powerful influence one way or the other—either for weal or woe. The eyes of Loyalists throughout the State are upon you, and your triumph will go far to restore loyal rule in Maryland and prevent the repetition of such outbursts of rebel barbarity as was witnessed in Kent county last week.

The issue before us is not simply a choice of men, but a vindication of principles. Your candidates are good and true men and worthy of your zealous support at any time, but now they have a higher claim than mere personal claims—they are the standard-bearers of a cause that has been made sacred by the blood of three hundred thousand of the nation's noblest sons. You are largely in the majority in this county, but let not the confidence of success keep any loyal voter from the polls. Every man should go to work and continue to work until his whole duty is performed. Let every loyal citizen go to the polls. Every vote has its voice, and it is the aggregate of these voices that the cause needs—not merely majorities.

Citizens of Carroll county, your State, your future prosperity, and the best interests of your families call on you to rally to the aid of struggling loyalty, and by your votes, strike another blow at the infamous plots of Thomas Swann and Andrew Johnson to deliver the State over to rebel domination and oppression. If you desire peace, enduring peace, go to the polls.—If you revere and cherish the memories of those who died battling against treason on the field, go to the polls. If you dread the despotism that revels in the blood of Union men, go the polls. If you love the Union your ancestors erected over British tyranny and which your sons and brothers bled and died to preserve and perpetuate, let no consideration keep you from voting for the Republican candidates on Tuesday, the 5th of November next.

The Duty of Republicans

There ought to be no hesitation about the course to be pursued by the Republicans of Maryland. They have tried the policy of inaction—of retiring from the canvass—of making no opposition—of naming no candidates. That course never elected a man, nor established a principle, nor put a party into power since the world begun. We have had enough of that way of doing things. We have tried it, and the result is before us. Our duty now is to put on our harness and fight it out, on any and every line, thro' every summer and winter of discontent, or otherwise, until we conquer. It was in that way that the Rebel Democracy in arms was put down. It is by such a spirit again shown that the same Rebel Democracy, whipped in the field, and these arms taken from them, can again be put down when it attempts to steal what it could not win.

Our duty is to stand to the principle and the policy which has saved the country.—It is to do our part, in our place, in the moment after defeat, as well as in the hour of victory, and to move forward on the enemy's works. They will not hold out longer than Vicksburg or Richmond. We must name candidates for every office and summon all hands. The timid and tiresome, the weak-kneed, the half way men, may go over to the enemy, who know how to use their treachery while they despise the traitors. Defeat here, in Maryland, on local issues, has sifted us. Let the chaff and the tares blow away! What remains is good seed wheat, and will come up in the spring. As Judge Bond remarked in Westminster a few days since, "If the Republican party of Maryland, while the waters are troubled, waits beside the pool for Congress to thrust it in, it will have the palsy forever. It must put its own shoulder to the wheel, and do its best before it has the right to call on the National Hercules for aid."—Balto. American.

☞The Copperheads are again setting snares for General Grant. Immediately after the late elections the statement was sent out from Washington that Gen. Grant had expressed himself as much pleased with the result. Those who know Gen. Grant's habitual reticence on all subjects will not need to be assured that he has said nothing which can by any possibility be tortured into an endorsement of the temporary success of the party that he has always stigmatized as disloyal during the war, and we know positively that he has expressed himself in language directly opposite to that with which the Democracy credit him.

☞A desperate character named Hoffman, who had recently been discharged from the Ohio Penitentiary, on Sunday entered a church in Canton, in that State while the congration was assembling, and stabbed a young woman, from whom he had been divorced, eleven times with a butcher's knife, inflicting wounds which it is feared will prove fatal. The desperado was pursued, captured and lodged in jail.

☞General Sheridan, in conversation at Patterson, New Jersey, in explaining a remark in his speech, that "rebellion must not be made honorable," said "they mean that if you return the Copperhead party to power you disgrace your soldiers and destroy their work. You return to to power the party who mean nothing less than repudiation of the National debt, and the payment of the Rebel debt, and the restoration to power of the worst elements of the rebellion." These warnings should sink deep into every patriotic heart.—"Cavalry Sheridan" has studied the Rebel nature in peace as well as war, at New Orleans as well as Winchester, and knows whereof he affirms.

☞The barn of Jacob H. Keedy, a leading Republican of Keedysville, Washington county, Md., was destroyed by fire on Saturday evening. It was fired by some of the employees of the Washington County railroad, who cheered for Jeff. Davis, Stonewall Jackson and other rebel dignitaries, and prevented Mr. Keedy's neighbors from saving any of his property from destruction. The incendiaries threatened that the property of other Republicans should be served in the same way.

☞Let the question be asked and repeated: "Can a political party, that opposed the nation in time of war, when its very life was imperrilled, be trusted with its interest in time of peace? Can men who rejoiced at national defeats, and at rebel victories, be safely trusted with power?" Let the answer come up from every loyal heart, with such force as even to appal the usurper who holds forth in the White House.

Vocal Music.—Those desirous of receiving instruction in Vocal Music, are requested to meet on the second right-hand floor of the Western Maryland College, on Saturday evening, October 19th, at 7 o'clock.

Re-opening Services.—Stone Chapel (Methodist Episcopal,) will be re-opened with appropriate services on Sunday next, the 20th inst. Rev. Wm. H. Chapman of Baltimore is expected to preach at 10.30 A. M., and at 7 P. M. Sacramental meeting on Tuesday the 22nd inst, at 10.30 A. M. Services each evening during the week at 7.30.

A Good Move.—We learn that a number of public spirited men of this place have in contemplation the purchase of a tract of Land for the purpose of converting it into a Fair Ground for Agricultural Exhibitions, and that the project is meeting with much success. This is a move in the right direction, as these County Fairs have proved highly beneficial in other places to the entire farming interest of the County as well as to those engaged in the enterprise. When more fully informed on the subject we will refer to it again. In the meantime we hope the enterprise will be pushed to a successful issue.

Important Lecture—By notice in another column it will be seen that Rev. S. V. Leech, of Annapolis, will deliver a lecture in the M. E. Church on Tuesday Evening the 29th inst., on the subject of "The Character and Writings of Edgar Allen Poe." Of Mr. Leech as a Lecturer, we quote:—

☞"Rev. S. V. Leech, well known in this city, Lectured on Friday last on the "Writings and Character of E. A. Poe," before the Faculty and Students at St. John's College, at Annapolis. The journals of that city speak of the Lecture in the highest terms of praise."—Baltimore American.

New Fall and Winter Goods—Mr. E. K. Gernand has just opened a large, full and very superior Stock of Fall and Winter Goods, to which he invites the attention of the public generally, with a confidence of satisfying their various peculiarities of taste. Availing himself of the late decline in the prices of cotton and woollen fabrics, he has bought largely and is therefore enabled to sell at prices that cannot fail to please. Nor has his attention been confined to this department only, but to all articles necessary to domestic economy, as a perusal of his advertisement in another column will prove. A call and inspection of goods and prices is the surest test, and earnestly desired.

☞The ancients desired "locks bushy and black as the raven" as one of the perfections of manhood, and tresses long, silken, and lustrous as the crowning beauty of womanhood, but time, the sly old dog drew his fingers through their hair and left "His MARK" in white. Time is now baffled by those who use Ring's Vegetable Ambrosia, the greatest and most reliable Hair Restorative of modern times.

Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

In the whole history of medical discoveries NO REMEDY has performed so many or such remarkable cures of the numerous affections of the THROAT, LUNGS, and CHEST, as this long-tried and justly celebrated Balsam. So generally acknowledged is the superior excellence of this remedy that but few of the many who have tested its virtues by experience fail to keep it at hand as a speedy and certain cure for sudden attacks of Cold—fully believing that its remedial powers are comprehensive enough to embrace every form of disease, from the slightest cold to the most dangerous symptom of pulmonary complaint.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY.

From REV. FRANCIS LORDELL, Pastor of the South Congregational Church, Bridgeport Connecticut.

"I consider it a duty which I owe to suffering humanity to bear testimony to the virtues of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. I have used it—when I have had occasion for any remedy for Coughs, Colds or Sore Throat—for many years, and never in a single instance has it failed to relieve and cure me. I have frequently been very hoarse on Saturday, and looked forward to the delivery of two sermons on the following day with sad misgivings, but by a liberal use of the Balsam my hoarseness has invariably been removed, and I have preached without difficulty.

I commend it to my brethren in the ministry, and to public speakers generally, as a certain remedy for the bronchial troubles to which we are peculiarly exposed."

Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup.

This great medicine cured Dr J. H SCHENCK, the Proprietor, of Pulmonary Consumption, when it had assumed its most formidable aspect, and when speedy death appeared to be inevitable. His physicians pronounced his case incurable, when he commenced the use of this simple but powerful remedy. His health was restored in a very short time, and no return of the disease has been apprehended, for all the symptoms quickly disappeared, and his present weight is more than two hundred pounds.

Since his recovery, he has devoted his attention exclusively to the cure of Consumption and the diseases which are usually complicated with it, and the cures effected by his medicines have been very numerous and truly wonderful. Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits to several of the larger cities weekly, where he has a large concourse of patients and it is truly astonishing to see poor consumptives that have to be lifted out of their carriages, and in a few months healthy, robust persons. Dr. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS are generally all required in curing Consumption. Full directions accompany each, so that any one can take them without seeing Dr SCHENCK, but when it is convenient it is best to see him. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his fee is three dollars.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor—one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health—are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Price $1.50 per bottle, or $7 50 the half dozen. Letters for advice should always be directed to Dr. Schenck's Principal Office, 15 North 6th St., Philadelphia, Pa. Bollinger, returnable on the Second Monday of November, 1867, and to me directed, for the purpose of recovering the sum of three hundred and thirty-nine dollars, with interest and costs, claimed as a Lien for work and labor done for and about the repairing and improvement of a Grist Mill, owned by and situated on the farm of the said Joel K.
