OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21, 1894.

Harmony among the democratic Senators on the tariff bill is not yet as complete as it might be, although concessions have been made that it was hoped would secure it. Having held the bill until they could see no prospect of benefit to be gained by further delay, the sub-committee on Monday submitted it to the full Finance committee, which in turn submitted it to a caucus of Democratic Senators, not for the purpose of compelling any Senator to support it, but for a sort of family consultation at which all complaints could be heard and everybody could have a chance to aid in bringing about that harmonious action that will be absolutely necessary to pass the bill, even allowing that the populist Senators will vote for it, as they say they will, because of the retention of the income tax. The caucus appears to have had a good effect and Senators who have been worrying are now smiling over the prospects for democratic unity.

It is expected that the Finance committee will at once report the bill to the Senate, although there are indications of an intention on the part of the republican members of the committee to attempt to delay action on the plea that they should be given time to prepare a minority report against the bill. They may be given several days to prepare their report, but the democratic sentiment is so strongly in favor of prompt and speedy action that their time is bound to be cut short. They should not really be given a day, as the report can be made at any time after the bill has been reported.

Much uneasiness is felt among Senators at the reports concerning the condition of Senator Vance's health, which is now said to be continually getting worse. He has not been able to perform any duties at this session, but his friends—that includes everyone who ever came in contact with him—are loath to believe that his illness is hopeless, as press dispatches report it to be.

It has been apparent ever since this Congress got down to business that there was a weak spot in the rules of the House, but it was not until the long contest for a quorum to vote on the Bland bill for the coinage of the seigniorage, the end of which is not yet in sight, showed the helplessness of the House in the absence of a voting quorum that members became fully aroused to the necessity of a change. But they are now, and nearly 150 democratic members have signed a call for a caucus to be held as soon as the Bland bill is disposed of, to decide upon the nature of the change to be made. Democrats do not wish the Speaker to follow Reed and count a quorum, but a large majority of them want a rule that will prevent members sitting in the House and refusing to vote to make a quorum, and they are going to have one, too.

The Senate committee on Printing has begun the investigation of the charges of the improper award of the contract for publishing the Patent Office Gazette, but the evidence so far taken amounts to nothing, and the source from which the charges came is of itself almost sufficient to disprove them.

The feeling among Southern democrats in Congress on account of the recent speech of ex Congressman Abram S. Hewitt, of New York, has been greatly exaggerated. With few exceptions the southern Congressmen regard the matter with entire indifference. Representative Caruth, of Kentucky, says: "He is in his dotage," and Representative McMillan, of Tennessee,: "I certainly shall not make Mr. Hewitt a national issue by talking about what he says." Many of the older members recall numerous instances of Mr. Hewitt's devotion when in the House to protection and opposition to any tariff reform that cut into any of the businesses that he or his father-in-law—the late Peter Cooper—had money invested in and smile at his attack on democratic Congressmen of the present day. When a member of Congress Mr. Hewitt enjoyed the reputation of being a common scold.

Senator Faulkner, of West Virginia, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, has named the following gentlemen as members of the executive committee: Senators Jones, of Arkansas, White, of California, Mitchell, of Wisconsin, Smith, of New Jersey, and Pasco, of Florida, and Representatives Pigott, of Connecticut, McAleer, of Pennsylvania, Bynum, of Indiana, McMillin, of Tennessee, McRae, of Arkansas, Whiting, of Michigan, Heard, of Missouri, Jones, of Virginia, Wheeler, of Alabama, and Forman, of Illinois. A meeting of the entire committee was held on Tuesday to map out the outlines of the campaign work, and to select a smaller committee to take actual charge of it.

We are in receipt of a letter from Mr. W. J. Swain, of Bridgeville, who writes to contradict the announcement made by a Federalsburg correspondent concerning the nuptials of Mr. Swain and a young lady of this county. It is a sad fact that there is in the land anyone who is so forgetful of propriety or so malicious as to send such an item without authority.

Queen Anne.

Some of our town folks attended the entertainment in Denton, on the 12nd, given by the "Good Will Fire Company," of Centreville, and felt fully repaid for the tug over the muddy roads, which, however, were hardly a subject for complaint when compared with those of our sister counties. But, really, if any town on the Eastern Shore has muddier roads than Hillsborough we advise them to use shells, as Queen Anne has done.

Mr. Thurman, formerly of Philadelphia, has established a temporary photograph gallery at this place. This is an opportunity for home patronage that people should avail themselves of. Our young cyclists taken in a group would make a fine picture and a first-class advertisement.

Several of our enterprising citizens have put street lamps at their places of business. Why not have the town incorporated?

Rev. C. D. Harris, of Easton, preached in the M. E. Church, South, on Friday night of last week.

The visit of the evangelist, J. W. Lee, marks an epoch in the history of this community.

Mr. Frank Barwick and son have been spending a few days with friends here.

Negro Travelers Singing at Night.

From the New York Sun.

Whatever may have been the origin of some negro stories told by Joel Chandler Harris, negro nurses down on Eastern Shore of Maryland used to delight children with the tar baby legend long before Mr. Harris had put pen to paper. The Eastern Shore version of B'rer Rabbit's adventure with the tar baby is much like the story as told by Harris's Uncle Remus.

One of the pleasant things of rural Delaware is the singing of the negroes. It is characteristic of the colored people to delight in "runing," as the phrase is, which means visiting from cabin to cabin late at night, and no matter at what uncanny hour business may call forth a white man he is sure to encounter one or more groups of negroes tramping the "big road" and cheering their journey with song. Superstitious fear and good fellowship forbid that any negro should travel by night alone, and on moonlight nights all the ways are vocal with the choruses of these late travelers. As heard at a distance of half a mile on quiet nights, the music has a mysterious charm to put a spell upon the dullest ear.

March Weather.

Hicks predicts the weather for March as follows: March will be eventful. About the 3d a warm wave and growing storms will appear in western parts, and between that date and the 6th they will have advanced to the Atlantic, leaving cold, fair weather behind. A sudden and violent storminess will return with the new moon about the 7th, lasting in its eastward progression through the reactionary centers 8th and 9th. Sharp thunder, rain and sleet southward, and heavy snow northward will result about this time. Numerous causes will produce much irregular, violent phenomena, lasting perhaps into the storm period 13th to 17th. Watch these dates. They will bring dangerous storms. Suffering will result. Cold will rush close behind storms. Feed and protect your stock. On and about the 20th and 21st, storms and gales, with probable earthquakes. Rain, thunder, sleet and snow, followed by cold. A marked storm period from 25th to 29th. Be on the watch.

Increased Train Service to Atlantic City.

The Pennsylvania Railroad announces that an increased train service has been placed in effect from Philadelphia (foot of Market street) to Atlantic City, as follows:

Express trains at 8.50 a. m., 4.10 and 5 p. m. week days; 9.15 a. m. Sundays, and 2 p. m. Saturdays.

Close connections made from Baltimore by express trains leaving Union Station 12.53 and 4.10 a. m., 12.05 and 1.20 p. m.; Saturdays 10.45 a. m.

Returning trains leave Atlantic City at 7.35 and 9 a. m. and 3.55 p. m. week days; 4 and 8.10 p. m. Sundays, making close connection with express trains to Baltimore.

Excursion tickets, good for six months, now on sale, Baltimore to Atlantic City.

A Problem in Percentage.

A Goldsboro correspondent writes to the JOURNAL under date of February 27: "We have had for some time quite an argument over percentage, and have as a last resort appealed to you for a decision. A man buys a horse for $100 and sells it for 25 per cent. less; how much money would he secure? Is not 25 per cent. one-fourth on or one-fifth off? Please answer through the JOURNAL."

A horse which cost $100 and was sold at a loss of 25 per cent. brought $75. Formula: Selling price equals cost multiplied by one plus the rate percentage of gain, or it equals the cost multiplied by one minus the percentage of loss.

The attention of the readers of this paper is called to the annual statement of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, which appears in this issue. This company is the largest and oldest in the world, and its assets reach the enormus sum of over $186,000,000, invested solely for the benefit of its policy holders. To all those interested in the subject of life insurance we would advise to call on the company's special agent in Denton, Mr. Jas. N. Todd.

LADIES CLOTH.

Light-weight Broadcloth, you'd almost say

Fine Wool, fine weaving, careful finishing—any Ladies Cloths are supposed to be all that.

But here are two qualities, first on the counters this morning, that lift the peg of excellence to a high than-ever notch for like grades.

14 styles at 50c
8 styles at 65c

Each full 52 in., wide. Dressy, wearful and in choice mixtures and plain colors.

TAILOR CHECKS.

Almost a hundred spick-and span styles with a larger range of color blendings than we have ever shown.

54 styles at $1.00
40 styles at $1.25.

Fine grade stuffs. All-wool and Silk-and-wool. You'll find them at the Plaid Dress Goods counter under a clear light, which brings out all the delicate tints tangled in these lovely weaves.

JAPANESE CREPE

All over the store the touch of the Japanese is potential, His thought or his goods or both are immanent. All Japan watches all America and all Europe for a market

Let these Japanese Crepes tell how much succsss awaits the watching.

They are Silk-and-Cotton dainty films of things. Few women know the stuffs to-day. Soon every woman will know them—too beautiful to remain obscure.

The shades are masterpieces of delicacy; a beautiful unity pervades both fabrics and colors. Four sorts on the counters to-day, covering a variety that is already much beyond a hundred and increasing.

LINENS.

Buyers of Linens at retail need to beware of the sham reductions now freely advertised. Before the writer is an alleged bargain—a dozen Napkins for which a confiding purchaser paid $3, considering them cheap because reduced from $5. Besides them another dozen from one of our regular lines, exactly the same in make, size, count of thread and value that have been selling here in the regular way for eight years at $3.

The merchant that sold them at $5 and reduced them to $3 doubtless thought he was giving a bargain—honest, but ignorant. Ignorance is a fault that may be pardoned, imposition upon a confiding public is a crime. But there is poor consolation in losing money even by honest ignorance.

BOOKS.

It was more than half a generation ago that we set aside the cut-and-dried way of Book retailing and dealt in Books precisely as we deal in other merchandise.

Men who knew books and knew the public taste did the buying, and they bought in such quantities that the least of little prices were always commanded. It startled the happy-go-lucky booksellers to see what little profit we were contented with.

Plenty of Booksellers are still worried by that little thing—the plainly marked price in every Book; always as low as anybody's, usually away below the ruling rate.

Out of it all has grown under this roof the largest retail Book business in America, and the conditions that created it are still potent.

If there are tempting lots to be had anywhere we know it; very likely have the first offer of them.

That's what keeps the line of special attractions so notably great.

Here's a sample handful from one table:

From the Pyramids to the Acropolis. By T. DeWitt Talmage. 25c.
Ready! Ay, Ready! and other addresses. By T. DeWitt Talmage. 25c.
Both of the above in handsome 16mo volumes, bound in half calf antique, gilt tops boxed. Made to sell for $1.
Ready! Ay, Ready! In cloth with silver stamping. Made to sell for 75c. Our price, 18c.

These are some of the famous Henty Books—think of Henty Books at 35c!

By Pike and Dyke: a Tale of the Rise of the Dutch Republic.
A Tale of Waterloo. One of the 28th.
With Clive in India, or the Beginnings of an Empire.
In the reign of Terror; the Adventures of a Westminster Boy.
The Congo River; a Story of the Slave Squadron. By Harry Collingwood.
The above are in neat 12mo vols., handsomely printed. Our price, 35c each.
