The True Policy.

The Maryland Democratic Editorial Association says the policy of the Republican party "not only restricts the markets for the products of agriculture, but it places the agriculturist at the mercy of monopolies and trusts, which are daily eating out his substance." It requires very little argument to expose the fallacy of these assertions. That the policy of the Republican party has enlarged instead of restricting the markets for the products of agriculture is seen in the home demand for these products. Instead of being dependent upon the foreign demand, in competition with the cheap agricultural labor of Russia, India and the Argentine Republic, the Republican policy has steadily developed manufactures, which, in spite of an immense influx of foreign agriculturists and the rapid growth of agricultural production in the great Northwest, has created an ever increasing home necessity for the products of the soil, until, under the inexorable law of supply and demand, the farmer is now realizing better remuneration for the products of his land and labor than he has done for years.

Facts, also, furnish the best answer to the twaddle about trusts and monopolies. Under the Republican policy there is scarcely an article consumed by the farmer that is not cheaper than ever. His agricultural implements cost less under the present law than they did a year ago. His groceries are in the same category. Clothing never was cheaper than it is today. The American farmer of practical views cannot fail to see that the policy which produces these results must be advantageous instead of injurious to his interests, as these Democratic editors tell him, and, if he be wise, will vote only for the men who will sustain a course of government calculated to promote his welfare. The Republican policy on this subject is the true policy for Republican America, and the free-trade with the foreign governments commended by the Democratic editors of Maryland is fraught with mischief to every branch of American industry.

Not a National Election.

It is very apparent that the Democratic editors of Maryland are anxious to give the next State election a National complexion. In the address they have issued to their fellow Democrats they deal largely in matters almost wholly irrelevant to State issues, talk about reforming the public service, abolishing useless offices, restoring the simplicity of the government, and so on, as if the Democratic party of Maryland were charged with a special mission to right wrongs and reform abuses—which, after all, for the most part, are but figments of Democratic editorial imagination, conceding that the editors are sincere in their expression. It is pretty apparent that our Democratic brethren of the press have a well conceived purpose in endeavoring to force the issues of the State campaign into federal channels. The operations of the federal government are farther removed from the people, except in the beneficent postal department which confers such incalculable benefits upon them. A good deal of sound and fury can be kept up along this federal line and the people can be more readily misled upon it than they can be in the affairs of State and county, that lie right at their own doors. The preposterous misrepresentations made in the Congressional campaign of 1890 deceived many a citizen into remaining away from the poll or in voting against his party because of the supposed effect of the McKinley tariff law.

If the approaching campaign were a National one the people, who were deceived last year by the most glaring misstatements of facts, should receive with great caution Democratic allegations concerning the administration of National affairs. But it is not. Its main issue is the question whether the misgovernment, that no Democrat can deny has dishonored this State, shall be perpetuated. There his been no abandonment of boss rule, or of the bosses under whom a Governor was elected to office who was ignorant of important official duties; a Comptroller who neglected obligations no less important, and a Treasurer who, in consequence of this ignorance and neglect, was able to appropriate, from time to time, large sums of money belonging to the State to his own uses, or for other purposes. On the contrary these bosses seem more strongly entrenched in power than ever before, and many Democrats are vieing with each other in an effort to do honor to the chief of the boss element. The government of Maryland by the Democratic party, accepting Democratic testimony concerning it, has been conspicuously corrupt and inefficient, and the people should not be diverted from setting aside this rule by any specious attempt on the part of anybody to bring into the campaign irrelevant issues.

The Maryland Democratic Editorial Association met at the Hotel Rennert in Baltimore on Monday and adopted an address to the Democratic voters of the State. The paper is only remarkable in one respect—the apparent apprehension of the Democratic editors that the party must be up and doing to prevent Republican success. To spur the Democrats to proper efforts to prevent that assumed calamity, some of the dreadful consequences of its occurrence are recited, among which is the election of a Republican State Treasurer. It might be generally supposed that, after Maryland's recent experience with a Democratic State Treasurer, the presence of one of the many able and upright Republican financiers in the State in the Treasurer's office, as its head, would be rather acceptable to the tax-payers who are paying the penalty of trusting too implicitly in Democratic integrity.

Danbury, Conn., which usually goes Democratic by 600 majority, elected the Republican candidate for Mayor on Monday by a majority of 315. The Republicans also elected the City Clerk and all the Councilmen except one.

The Western Maryland Railroad.

The Western Maryland Railroad has recently become a topic of popular conversation and a subject of public interest. Public attention has been called to it during the last few weeks as never before, by reported efforts on the part of the West Virginia Central, the Norfolk and Western and of private individuals in the interest of unknown parties to acquire control of its system. On Monday last an ordinance was introduced in the First Branch of the Baltimore City Council for the sale of the road to Gen. John H. Bryant, of New York, for the sum of $1,500,000. The sum specified was so far below the value of the work that it was regarded only as a "feeler." It was hinted that Gen. Bryant was simply the agent of the Norfolk and Western Railroad and that if the city manifested a willingless to consider the matter the offer would be considerably increased.

Whether these suppositions are correct or not, it is evident there is a desire on the part of some interest to obtain the city's controlling power in the Western Maryland Railroad. The West Virginia Central Railroad is seeking a tidewater terminus at Baltimore, and can readily connect its line with the Western Maryland at Williamsport. The Norfolk and Western Company, it is alleged, has the same purpose. It is already connected with the Western Maryland at Hagerstown, by the Shenandoah Valley Railroad. Under these circumstances sharp competition might be expected between the roads seeking to gain control of the W. Md. No evidences are yet apparent that such a condition of affairs exists, and there is ground for suspicion that some hidden interest is involved in the matter.

Col. Hood, President of the W. Md., is an able and far seeing railroad manager, and is just now engaged in some enterprises that threaten serious consequences to the trade of the Pennsylvania system. He has projected several lines to connect the W. Md. and Philadelphia and Reading system. The Potomac Valley Railroad to connect the W. Md. and B. & O. Railroads, at Cherry Run, is under contract and work is being pushed rapidly along its line. The Phila., Harrisburg & Pittsburg Railroad of the Phila. and Reading system has already made a connection with the W. Md., at Shippensburg, Pa., and Col. Hood has the lines surveyed for connecting branches with the P. & R. system through York, Pa., to Chickies, near Marietta, Pa., and to Bowmansdale, eight miles west of Harrisburg, on the Phila., Harrisburg & Pittsburg Railroad in the Cumberland Valley.

The latter line, if completed, would about parallel the N. C. Ry. to Baltimore. The completion of these branches would create competing lines with the Pa. R. R. system to Baltimore and elsewhere and there can be little doubt the work will be hampered and resisted by the latter company in all possible ways. Whether the movements to procure the city's controlling interest in the Western Maryland, above referred to, have any connection with this feature of the matter is not apparent. They must, however, whatever may be their purpose serve to embarrass and prolong the effort to construct the connecting branches between the W. Md. and P. & R. systems, a circumstance that is to be seriously regretted. Perhaps it would be sound financial policy on the part of the city of Baltimore to dispose of her interest in the W. Md. Railroad, if the price to be paid should be equivalent or nearly so to the city's investment in the work, and the sum should be paid in hard cash. But to accept the bonds of any railroad company, in lieu of the money, with a guarantee of the payment of the interest, would not be a wise business transaction. In that case who would guarantee the guarantor?

But we are strongly inclined to the opinion that the very best policy of the city, under all the circumstances, is to maintain its independent control of the Western Maryland Railroad. Col. Hood has by wise and comprehensive plans already built up the road and made it of incalculable benefit to the business interests of Baltimore. His plans for connections with the P. & R. system, if carried into effect, will, with absolute certainty, add immeasurably to the traffic of the W. M., and give Baltimore the benefit of another line to the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania in competition with the Pennsylvania Railroad. It seems reasonable to conclude that it would be advantageous to the city of Baltimore, and the Western Maryland Railroad as well, to foster this competition rather than to prevent its consummation by disposing of the city's interest in this work.

"I am a theoretical free-trader," said an intelligent gentleman in the presence of the editor of the SENTINEL, a few days ago, "but when I am told, and it is demonstrated to me, that the prices of many manufactured articles have declined largely when protected by a high tariff, I am led to think there must be something about the matter that I don't understand. A solid fact of that character, I admit, is too much for my theory." The list of such solid facts is so extensive that the free-trade theory ought to stand small chance with the American people.

The Maryland Democratic editors, in their address to their fellow-Democrats of the State, assigned as one of the reasons why a Democratic Legislature should be elected the necessity of a new assessment. Did our brethren of the Democratic press forget that this necessity has existed for a number of years and that Democratic Legislatures have neglected to enact a law to provide for a reassessment of property, and in doing so distinctly violated party pledges on the subject? If the course of Democratic Legislatures in the past can be regarded as a criterion of future action on this subject the only way to get an assessment law passed is to send a majority of Republicans to the Senate and House of Delegates.

A collision occurred between the Cincinnati express and a freight train on the Metropolitan Branch of the B & O. R. R., at Warring's Station, about half past four o'clock last Tuesday, which resulted in the killing of three persons and the wounding of three others. Those killed were: Curtis E. Elliott, engineer of the expres train, of Baltimore; J. H. Murphy, the fireman of the freight, and S. G. Burdett, postal clerk. The injured are: Fireman Miller, of the express, Henry Groff, engineer, and Charles Peacock, postal clerk, the latter two of Baltimore. Miller was badly hurt.

Mr. Brown Entertains the Editors.

Mr. Frank Brown, President of the Maryland State Agricultural and Mechanical Association, in recognition of their services in promoting the exhibition at Pimlico in 1889, entertained a large number of Maryland editors at luncheon, at Hazazer's Hall, Baltimore, on Monday afternoon last. Mr. Brown, doubtless consulting the convenience of the Democratic editors of the State, fixed the date of this expression of his appreciation of the services of the press in furthering the Pimlico exhibition, on the occasion of the meeting of the Maryland Democratic Editorial Association, the members of which predominated in the gathering, although there was a considerable sprinkling of Republicans and others present. He feasted the editors right royally and made an address of welcome, appropriate in character and in good taste, which was warmly applauded. This was followed by many responses on the part of the Democratic editors present who made the occasion quite a boom for Mr. Brown's candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the Governorship.

The full test of Mr. Brown's address, referred to above, is as follows:

Gentleman of the Press:—You are welcome—a thousand times welcome. The latch string will always hang out at my door for the Press of Maryland. This is not an occasion for speech-making, and I hope you all understand that you are my guests today because I have not had the opportunity to thank you publicly for the great service you rendered the State Exposition a year ago.

Owing to my absence last summer in Europe, I was unable to get you together to make the acknowledgement, which I do here today.

My reason for selecting this date was owing to the fact of my attention being called to the Annual Convention of the Democratic Editorial Association, and I thought it would be very opportune to have the entire Press present, when you could meet on common ground and break bread with one of your warmest friends, and one that takes a deep interest in all that tends to Maryland's welfare.

My fellow Marylanders, I speak to you as such, for whether you owe birthright to this old commonwealth or not, you are now Marylanders, and upon each of you there is a responsibility resting, the importance of which you may not realize. It is to the Press that all men must bow some time during their lives. And it is on this line I will take the liberty to speak.

"You gentleman have it largely in your power to make or break. All interests seek through or by your channel to become successful or famous. "In union there is strength." Individually you may differ as to men, means, measures, politics or methods; but there is not one of you who does not wish prosperity, peace and happiness to the people at large.

The industries and resources of this State are as varied as those of any State in the Union. With the vim and energy of our people fully awakened by the Press, her progress and prosperity are assured. Therefore, I urge upon you the necessity of fully recognizing your importance. Get together for a common purpose, and let that purpose be to advocate, build up and foster the enterprises of the State at large.

Within the past few years Maryland has made great strides as a manufacturing centre. Upon the seas of all nations ships are sailing under the white wings of Maryland Cotton Duck. The products of her canning factories grace the tables of the world. The whirl and hum of her machinery are felt in every clime. We manufacture from the baby-carriage to the palace car. We construct from the yawl-boat to the steel cruiser. Look at Maryland's resources, her coal fields, her minerals, and her oyster beds of the Chesapeake and its tributaries. We have iron, copper, chrome, asbestos, silver and gold, and mountains of marble, lime-stone, and granite that are being developed to a considerable extent.

It is not my intention to lecture you upon your duties as journalists, for your work and record well show you to be fitted for that post of honor.

Your professional calling is one of the highest and most responsible that men can assume. You are the sentinels on the watch-tower of time. You scan the horizon of events, and speak to the masses below as to the hour and its needs. When the dark clouds of danger threaten our political institutions, it is through you that we must learn of the peril. Or, when the bright sunbeams of peace and plenty smile upon the land, we gain the knowledge from your columns. You are not only chroniclers of events, but largely educators of the people, to lead in thought and to urge to action. Every hour of the day, and every minute of the hour you are on duty, to protect, uphold, defend, encourage, enthuse and espouse that which tends to build up and make this State great.

Men who follow other avocations have duties to perform which oftimes take them from the people. But not so with you. The welfare and prosperity of all come under your observation. You are in constant communication with the entire world, through the medium of your exchanges, your correspondents and telegrams. You see and know the thoughts of all sections of this great country. Then, as I said a while ago, this is indeed a great force and power. Utilize it. Combine it, and make it felt for the benefit, the good, and the gain of this grand and glorious mother of ours, "Maryland, My Maryland."

And, now, as to the debt of gratitude I owe, you can rest assured that the work of the Press during the summer of 1889, in behalf of the Maryland State Exposition will never be forgotten by myself as its President, nor by any of those interested in its success, which was so largely due to the unanimous support of you gentleman through the columns of your papers. And I have made this opportunity to return the most hearty thanks of the Maryland State Agricultural Association in general, and myself as its President in particular.

Before closing, I have one more appeal to make to you, in my official capacity as President of the Maryland State Agricultural and Mechanical Association, and that is that you pledge yourselves, one with the other, to give enthusiastic support to the efforts that will be made by the citizens of Maryland to present her resources, products, manufactures and natural advantages, at the World's Fair, at Chicago, in 1893.

We are citizens of a great State. Although of small area, there is not one embraced within the bounds of this great country that can better afford to exhibit herself with all that God has blessed her; one whose credit is unimpeached, whose record in peace or at war is the peer of any country of its size under God's sun, one who can boast of a happy, prosperous and conservative people, one who can boast of its safe and sound financial institutions; one who can boast of the most beautiful and attractive women known to man, and, last, but by no means least one, who boasts of a Press of which any State in the Union might be proud.

And with a rising vote, I move that the Press of Maryland commit itself today in behalf of the old commonwealth at the World's Fair, in 1893.

And, now, a toast to you all, wishing you progress and prosperity, I hope you will consider me yours to command as long as you support sound, safe and judicious measures tending to promote the best interests of our happy home, the State of Maryland.

Ground was broken for the monument to the memory of Gen. Grant in Riverside Park, New York, on Monday last. Gen. Horace Porter was the orator of the occassion. An immense throng of people witnessed the ceremony of turning the first sod. After the public demonstration a dinner was given at Delmonico's at which upwards of a hundred prominent citizens, among whom were several who surrendered with Lee at Appomattox, were present. Of these was Judge H. Kyd Douglas, of Hagerstown, who made one of the after dinner speeches, and who said that he "had come from the banks of the Potomac to pay tribute to the memory of the man to whom he did not consider it a military disgrace to surrender."

Three robbers boldly entered the Oak-Valley Bank, at Valparaiso, Saunders county, Nebraska, Monday morning. One of the robbers drew a revolver, but before he could cover Cashier Chamberlain, the cashier had secured what cash was in sight and C. K. Johnson was snapping a revolver at the intruders. One robber fired a shot at Johnson, grazing his neck, and all three robbers ran. Two escaped in a buggy, but the third was captured.

The decided frosts of Saturday and Sunday mornings, it is claimed, have been felt by the young peaches, on the Eastern Shore, and fruit growers are anxiously awaiting the final outcome of the present cool spell of weather. The young peaches have not as yet shed their caps, which form a great protection to the fruit. But for this fact the effects of the recent frosts would have been most disastrous. Then, too, the foliage has served as a great protection.

The recent terrible accident on the Lake Shore Railroad, in which seven postal clerks lost their lives, has spread consternation among the clerks of the division, eleven of them having sent in their resignation, some of them by wire. The retirement of these, together with those killed and wounded in the collision at Kipton, Ohio, has badly crippled the system.

It has been discovered that John T. Hill, President of the Ninth National Bank of New York, who recently died at his home in New Brunswick, N. J., was a defaulter to the bank of which he was the head to the amount of $400,000.

At Burlington, N. C., Sunday morning, while Rev. R. A. Ricks, a minister of the Christian Church, was preaching a sermon to his congregation at that place, he suddenly fell dead in his pulpit with a stroke of apoplexy.

The compress and 1,400 bales of cotton at Henry Grove, Tex., were destroyed by fire Monday evening. Loss $150,000; covered to the limit by insurance.

A large portion of the village of Forestport, in Oneida county, N. Y., was burned Monday night. The loss will be about $50,000.

The first official act of Mayor Washburne, of Chicago, was to order the closing of all gambling houses in that city.

The great German General Von Moltke is dead. He was in his 91st year.

GRAND OPENING

—OF—

Spring Goods,

—AT—

OAK HALL,

NEW WINDSOR, MD.

Our stock is superior and prices lower than ever. Our dress goods are beautiful to look at—both in silk and wool. Wash goods of all kinds in abundance. A beautiful line of Dress Trimmings to select from. BLACK DRESS GOODS a specialty. Percals, Satteens, Challies, Pongees are pretty. In Notions we have a choice variety.

Spring Jackets For Ladies,

NEW AND NOBBY.

Spring Clothing of all kinds in great variety. Children's Clothing is one of our specialties. A beautiful line of Cassimeres and Suitings in stock. Our Hats are always of the very latest. Our Shoe Stock is one of the largest in the county to select from.

CARPETS & MATTING, we can show you a larger line than ever. Queensware, Woodenware, Groceries &c., are always full at the very lowest.

We are prepared to show you the largest general stock in the county to select from. Our prices are lower than ever before. Don't pay any advance on goods your dealer may ask as you can buy at the old price of us.

We ask you to visit us and see for yourself. Don't content yourself by sending for samples, as they do the goods injustice.

With many thanks for your past patronage we hope to receive a liberal share of your trade during the Spring.

Very respectfully yours,
oct-11 GEO. C. ANDERS.

FOR SPRING CROPS!

We manufacture all of our

and consequently have but one profit and can, therefore, guarantee to sell any of our brands from $3 to $5 dollars per ton less than the city mixtures sold through second hands. We do not only have ONE BRAND but we have a

to suit the requirements of each crop; and can sell the farmer anything that is necessary for the growing of

Oats, Corn, Peas, Potatoes, and general trucking. Our special brand of

for potatoes and general trucking, we guarantee to raise 25 per cent. more potatoes than any Fertilizer sold in the county, and we guarantee it, under the forfeiture of the purchaser's bill, to be as good in every way as the Mapes or Stockbridge Manure, (which has been known to raise 1,600 bushels per acre.)

WHITELOCK'S VEGETATOR.

On the Market for 30 Years.

We offer you the "VEGETATOR" in fine and dry condition for this Spring's use. It has always given general satisfaction where used on Early Truck, Potatoes, Oats, Corn, &c.

The application of the "VEGETATOR" to these crops prevents early firing during a drought. The yield is very abundant and growth quite active, thus enabling the farmers to reach an early as well as profitable market, and proving the "Vegetator" to be the fertilizer most needed. Manufactured by Miller, Lippincott & Co.
