WESTMINSTER, MARYLAND.

Entered at the Postoffice at Westminster, Md., as Second-class matter.

SATURDAY, JUNE 13, 1891.

A number of the nominations made by the Democratic convention of Kent county, which was held on Tuesday last, were dictated by the Farmers' Alliance.

The friends of Hon. Frank Brown were made quite happy by the evidences of favor bestowed upon his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, at the meeting of the State Central Committee. The Carroll county farmer seems to have the lead in the race for the nomination.

The Democrats are very much exercised over the result of the municipal election in Wilmington, Del., last week. The Republicans swept the city by a triumphant majority. Delaware is a small State and the city of Wilmington casts a large vote. Democrats realize that the electoral vote of the State is not safe for their Presidential candidate at the next election. In fact there is very little doubt that upon a fair and full vote the Republicans will have a handsome popular majority.

The Democrats of Cecil county are not as harmonious as they might be. They held their county convention for the nomination of a legislative ticket and candidates for county officers on Tuesday last, and, it is said, the Wirt faction was dominant and controlled all the proceedings. Mr. Wirt is a State Senator and one of the few members of the Upper House of the General Assembly who refused to bow the knee to the Baal of Bossism. It is a pity there isn't a Wirt in every county of the State.

A sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Finance is industriously at work collecting data upon which to make an exhibit of the effect of different tariffs upon "prices and wages—the cost of living and the remuneration of labor" —in this country. The inquiry will be extended to the record of the wholesale prices of all the articles that can be embraced in the investigation and will be carried back as far as possible. It will result in giving to the country some valuable information.

New York Banks have offered to take up the fifty-one millions of dollars of 4½ per cent. government bonds falling due September 1st, at the low rate of 2 per cent. per annum. The government has also received offers to take the bonds at 1½ per cent. They may, however, be redeemed an cancelled instead of being extended at this extremely low rate, as both the President and Secretary Foster are confident they can be taken up without any serious strain. The offer to take them at so low a rate of interest is a remarkable evidence of the high credit of the government.

There is a prospect that some of the Democratic ballot-box stuffers in Hudson county, N. J., who were convicted of this crime some months ago, may get into prison at last. An appeal was taken, in the cases, to the Supreme Court, which has affirmed the rulings of the court below. A farther appeal to a still higher court can be made, but in one of the cases the bondsmen have withdrawn and the convicted man has gone to jail. There are about fifty other cases waiting trial. Those New Jersey Democrats, like their Baltimore brethren guilty of similar practices, don't seem to be familiar with the doctrines laid down as a basis of Democracy by Thomas Jefferson.

While the Democratic press, with, perhaps, a very few exceptions, has criticised, blamed and ridiculed Mr. Blaine's attitude towards England on the Behring Sea question and his controversy with Lord Salisbury on the subject, Senator Morgan, of Alabama, a prominent Democratic member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, cordially sustains the Secretary of State and approves the course of the administration in the matter. The display of a little less partisanship and of a good deal more patriotism, concerning the rights of the United States in the premises, would be more creditable to our Democratic cotemporaries, who are lending the full weight of their moral support in favor of England's pretensions. They could imitate Senator Morgan's example to advantage.

An Adverse Verdict.

Sir William Gordon Cumming, a distinguished English officer and a former personal friend of the Prince of Wales, has been worsted in a trial for slander and libel, instituted by him against a Mr. Wilson, who charged him with cheating at cards, the jury rendering a verdict for the defendant. The alleged cheating is said to have occurred during a game called baccarat, several months ago, at which the plaintiff won a hundred pounds. The playing took place at Tranby Croft, the residence of the defendant. The prince of Wales was present and the baccarat set used in the play belonged to him. His connection with the affair has provoked much adverse comment among the English people, who think their prospective king might be more profitably employed than in keeping the game at a baccarat table. The plaintiff in the case will suffer severely in consequence of the verdict. He will be cashiered from the army, which he has honored by brave and gallant deeds and will be expelled from the social clubs with which he is connected and perhaps ostracised from society generally. The trial has occasioned unusual interest in this locality because of the residence in Carroll county of a brother of the plaintiff, whose home is in Freedom district. It is intimated that Sir William will shortly visit the United States and will then doubtless become the guest of his brother in this county. In the trial in which he has been worsted he contended against powerful odds, the Prince of Wales, who was a witness in the case, having become hostile to his cause, so that, while the testimony was adverse to him, the result must be taken with some degree of allowance. That a good many English people still believe in his innocence was manifested by the vigorous hissing of many of those present at the trial, chiefly ladies.

Reciprocity With Canada.

The province of Newfoundland, which refrained from entering the union with the Dominion of Canada, is seeking to arrange a treaty of reciprocity with the United States. The project would, perhaps, have been accomplished ere this, but for the fact that the Dominion wants to share in its benefits and has requested the government at Washington to consider the matter. Commissioners on the part of Canada have already interviewed Mr. Blaine in regard to the subject, visiting Washington for the purpose. The government, however, while not averse to treating with the Canadian government, will be careful to protect American interests and Mr Blaine, it is understood, has outlined to the Commissioners the plan and terms upon which he will consent to enter upon negotiations. The correspondence between the Secretary and the Commissioners, except that portion relating to the basis for treaty stipulations suggested by the government, has been made public, by the Canadian government. The mere fact of the suppression of this important information by our Canadian neighbors indicates that Mr. Blaine has not consented to consider any suggestion that might be detrimental to the interests of our own people, which are undoubtedly safe in the hands of the present administration.

About sundown on Wednesday a fire occurred at the Concordia Opera House, corner Eutaw and German streets, Baltimore, which inflicted serious damage to the building and contents. The loss is estimated at $60,000. The hall of the main building, with all its handsome pictures, fixtures and decorations, is a wreck. The first floor, under the hall, is damaged by water. The front part of the building, containing the library, offices, anterooms and cloak-rooms, are slightly damaged by fire, and are much injured by smoke and water, but to what extent it is impossible to say. The whole place was flooded. The Annex was not seriously damaged, and $5,000 will put it in repair. The rear portion only was burned out. The walls are unharmed and the roof is practically so.

President Hippolyte, of Hayti, hearing that a revolution was imminent in Port au Prince, caused eighty suspected persons to be put in irons, one of whom was the wife of General Sully, arrested in place of her husband, who made his escape. Subsequently Sully and his friends rescued the prisoners, whereupon the president ordered fifty persons to be shot to death, many of whom were innocent of conspiracy. Scenes of horror, caused by the president's order to assassinate individuals, are being daily enacted on the streets of Port au Prince.

Sir William Gordon Cumming, who was virtually convicted of cheating at cards, by the adverse verdict in his suit against his accusers, was married on Wednesday to Miss Florence Garner, daughter of Commodore William Garner, of New York. When the verdict was pronounced aginst him he offered to cancel his engagement to Miss Garner, but, believing him innocent, she declined to accept the proposition and insisted on the marriage. Sir William and his bride will probably visit the United States in the autumn.

Herbert Simmons, who, with Chas. Bailey, is charged with robbing a Northern Pacific train of $20,000, near New Salem, N. D., last August, jumped from a train going at full speed, south of Monticello, Minn., Tuesday, while being taken from St Cloud to Fargo for trial. He struck in an embankment of sand and was apparently not hurt, as he got up at once and ran into the woods. Simmons' home is in Wheeling, W. Va.

The Democratic State Central Committee met in Baltimore on Thursday and named Thursday, July 30th, at noon as the date and hour for holding the convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor, Comptroller, &c. The convention of the Fifth Judicial District comprising Anne Arundel, Carroll and Howard counties, will be held in Annapolis, September 24.

Reading, Pa., and vicinity has recently been flooded with well-executed counterfeit dollars. Tuesday night the police arrested a woman about twenty-four years of age who gave her name as Beatrice Collins, of New York. On her person was found a dozen counterfeit dollars and about $65 in good money. She is very reticent. The police are looking for her male accomplices.

Mr. George M. Shriver, private secretary to President Charles F. Mayer, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and Miss Elizabeth Nancy Chism, were quietly married Thursday morning, at nine o'clock, at the home of the bride, No. 120 West Mosher street, Baltimore, by Rev. Joseph T. Smith, assisted by Rev. Mr. Shriver, father of the groom.

The question of removing the Lutheran Theological Seminary from Gettysburg to Baltimore was discussed at length by the board at its meeting at Gettysburg. The committee was continued. Money has been contributed—some by a Baltimorean—for putting up some of the buildings. The commencement exercises were held in the evening.

The store of W. O. Baker, in Keedysville, Washington county, was broken into Wednesday night by burglars, and about $120 worth of goods carried away. The postoffice is in the store, and several dollars' worth of stamps were also carried off.

An earthquake destroyed the towns of Badia, Calavena and Tregnanzo, in Northern Italy, on Sunday last. The people were compelled to take to the fields for safety.

There is a great drouth in Mohawk valley. The Mohawk river is at the lowest stage known for years. Cattle are suffering, and there is a scarcity of milk.

Gen. Schofield, the senior officer of the U. S. Army, will shortly be married to Miss Georgia L. Kilbourne, a charming young lady aged 26.

Sir John MacDonald, the Canadian premier, died on Saturday last.

Commencement Exercises at New Windsor College.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON AND SERMON TO CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS.

Rain, rain, rain! Nothwithstanding this, however, the Presbyterian Church was well filled on Sunday morning, 7th inst., to hear the eloquent Baccalaureate Sermon, by the Rev. J. W. Rogan, of Baltimore.

The discourse was the production of a master, and the congregation gave the preacher the most attentive hearing, and your reporter heard many words of commendation as the people passed out of the Church, and many regrets expressed that the whole public could not have heard it.

His subject was: The Ideal Manhood, and how to realize it. His text was taken from Ephesians, 4 : 13—"Unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ."

The following points were elaborated, enforced and illustrated in an admirable manner:

1. One of the requisites of an ideal man is knowledge.

2. The perfect man is one who is possessed of and has most cultivated the religious faculties of faith and conscience.

3. The ideal man is one of great love.

4. While I might mention a number of other elements, I would sum it all up by saying: the most perfect man or woman is the one one who, as the text suggests, takes Jesus Christ as the model, and most closely resembles him. "Unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ."

5. In discussing the way in which we might hope to approximate the perfect manhood, the speaker showed that it was to be by aiming at it; by perseverance, by little and little, and lastly, by watching the model.

The evening was fairer, and a large audience assembled to hear the annual sermon to the two Christian Associations of the College. The Rev. J. Addison Smith, of Baltimore, was the preacher.

As the Baccalaureate was admirably suited to the occasion, so was this sermon to the young men and women who compose these societies. Mr. Smith is a brilliant, impassioned orator, and held his large audience spell-bound from the beginning to the end of his discourse. His telling hits and illustrations of a wasted life can never be forgotten.

The text was from 2nd Chron., 28 : 22, and his subject was a character study on the dramatic career of Ahaz, the eleventh King that sat on the throne of Judah, the man that would have his own way or die. Ahaz had every thing in his favor; the possibilities for a brilliant reign were unique; he had a splendid historic past to animate him; his father Jotham was a noble king and man, and yet, with all this in his favor, Ahaz went to the wall, "unwept, unhonored and unsung." The lessons from his life and reign are many.

1. Danger of headstrongism.

2. Dreadful doom of that man that the inspiration of holy character and disaster cannot reach and turn to God.

3. The ghastly curse that one can be to individuals, a community, a nation.

4. What that man gains that gives up the God of his fathers.

The Church was handsomely decorated with growing plants and flowers by the good taste and graceful hands of the New Windsor ladies.

CLASS-DAY EXERCISES.

Monday night was clear and College Hall was filled to overflowing by the youth and beauty, together with more than a sprinkling of the older people of town and country, to hear the Class Day exercises of the Senior Classes.

For two hours the house was entertained with a program which fell behind nothing which we have had on similar occasions in the past. Your space would not allow particulars; indeed to appreciate the occasion and enjoy the amusement it was absolutely necessary to have been present. During the entire evening laughter and applause was the ruling order. The following was the program: Roll call and reading of minutes, by Mr. H. D. Ensor; Welcome Address, Miss N. E. Lambert; Vocal Solo, Miss C. V. Marsh; Census report, Mr. T. E. Carlisle; Class Poem, Mr. W. W. Gearhart; 1st Vol. Class History, Miss Marsh; Instrumental Trio, Miss Amy L. May, Messrs. Carlisle and Ensor; 2nd Vol. Class History, Miss Marsh; Miss Marsh's History, Miss Emma L. Englar; The Sweet By and By, Mr. Ensor; Class Oration, Mr. H. E. Koons; Class Pictures, Miss May; Miss May's Picture, Miss Englar; Presentation of Senior Dignity to the undergraduates, Mr. Koons; Conferring of diplomas, awarding medals, and presentation of Class gifts, Mr. E. D. Getzendanner; President's diploma, medal and present conferred by Miss Lambert; Farewell Address, Mr. Getzendanner; Farewell Song, The Classes of '91.

After these amusing exercises came the reception given to the Faculty and the Classes of '91 by Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Jelly. Refreshments were served in the dining hall, followed by characteristics post-prandials, and the occasion was one which will remain a lasting and happy remembrance.

ANNUAL SOIREE AND CONTEST.

Tuesday night was another gem of "Leafy June." The sky was unclouded and as softly beautiful as only a June sky can be, nature seeming to conspire to bring together a large audience to witness the success of the annual soiree and contest of the undergraduates for prizes. College Hall was crowded to its utmost capacity and yet could not accommodate all who sought to enter its classic precincts; but those who were fortunate enough to do so, were well repaid for the effort required to accomplish it. The program of the evening, which was admirably rendered, was as follows:

Chorus, "The Mountain Land," Misses Annan, Brewer, Jelly, Marsh, May, Rea, Wollet, Messrs. Annan, Brown, Carlisle, Ensor and Getzendanner; oration, Patriotism, Mr. Leslie A. Smelser, New Windsor; piano duet, "May Queen," Miss Addie C. Jelly, New Windsor, and Miss Maggie E. C.; piano duet, Caprice Hongrois, Miss Amy L. May, Washington, D. C., and Miss Clara V. Marsh, Ellicott City; oration, Fiction, Mr. Harry A. Jelly, New Windsor; oration, America and Progress, Mr R. Smith Snader, Carroll county; piano duet, Invitation au Galop, Miss Addie C. Jelly, New Windsor, and Miss Annie E. Lyon, Newark, N. J.; recitation, "The Last Hymn," Miss Katharine Brewer, Annapolis; oration, Our Forefathers, Mr. B. Brice Blackford, Washington, D. C.; vocal solo, "I'm so Shy," Miss Jennie L. Mussina, Pennsylvania; oration, Love of Country, Mr. Thomas T. Brown, Jacksonville, Md.; piano solo Mazourka No. 2, Opus 24—Tschaikowsky, Miss Addie C. Jelly; oration, Rest, Mr. John A. Brown; piano trio, "Welcome to the Spring," Miss Anna Annan, Emmittsburg, Miss Katherine Brewer, Annapolis, and Miss Jennie Walker, Harford county.

Following the close of this portion of the evening's exercises came the distribution of prizes, so far as they were awarded, by President Jelly.

The F. J. Devilbiss prize, a gold medal, for the best essay on English Literature, was won by Mr. Guy B. Warner, of Carroll county.

Hon. P. J. Bennett prize, gold medal, for the greatest improvement in arithmetic, Mr. Hugh H. Owen, Granite, Md.

In the preparatory schools: Solid silver sleeve buttons, marked "N. W. C.," for greatest improvement in Spelling, Lee Slingluff, Avalon Farm; an illustrated copy of English History, Frank L. Houghton, Philadelphia, Pa.; an illustrated copy of English History, for greatest improvement in Reading, Miss Mary McLanahan, Baltimore.

Faculty prize, Avon Edition of Shakespeare, for best essay on Othello, Miss Nettie E. Lambert, New Windsor.

The Trustees' prize, twenty-five dollars, to the graduate who attained the highest scholarship and deportment for four years' course, Miss Nettie E. Lambert.

The judges for the contestants were: Dr. J. A. Buffington, Dr. L. H. Dielman and Job Hibbard, Esq. The following verdict, after much deliberation, was reached: The best oration, Mr. John A. Brown, Muscatine, Iowa, gold pen; the best oratory, Mr. B. B. Blackford, Washington, D. C., gold pencil. The applause which followed was deafening, the defeated candidates joining heartily in it.

On Wednesday night the faculty of the college, the students and the citizens of New Windsor district had a rare treat, in the annual address before the Literary Societies, delivered by Rev. M. N. Cornelius, D. D. of Washington, D. C. His subject was, "Character," which he handled in a manner that gave unbounded satisfaction. Following is a brief outline of the address:

Strong emphasis was laid on the four essential points—truth, honesty, purity and piety. The Dr. made good use of the Tranby Croft scandal and the Philadelphia bankers' soiree, and paid his compliments generally to shams and cant hypocrisy. His illustrations were drawn from every available source, and an irresistible vein of humor ran through it all, which occasionally convulsed the audience with laughter. He scored a great success and will always find a welcome at New Windsor.

Thursday morning was perfect and the commencement proper was held in College Hall in the presence of an audience far beyond the capacity of the building. The windows, passages, and all available standing room were occupied to the last inch. The program was attractive and was rendered in a manner which could not fail to gratify many expectant friends.

It was as follows: Music; Prayer, Rev. Emory Buhrman, New Windsor; Salutatory—Essay, "Non Nobis Solum," Miss Amy L. May, Washington, D. C.; Salutatory—Oration, "Objects of Beauty," Mr. Harry E. Koons, Middleburg, Md.; Music; Essay, "Social Panacea," Miss Emma L. Englar, New Windsor; Oration, "Benjamin Franklin, the great benefactor of mankind," Mr. W. W. Gearhart, Fairmount Springs, Pa.; Music; Prize Essay, "Othello," Miss Nettie E. Lambert, New Windsor; Oration, "Mind, the power of man," Mr. T. Earle Carlisle, New Windsor; Music; Honorary Oration, "Intellectual Philosophy," Mr. Elmer D. Getzendanner, Baltimore, Md.; Honorary Essay, "Pictures of the mind," Miss Clara V. Marsh, Ellicott City, Md.; Music; Valedictory Essay, "Our Future," Miss Nettie E. Lambert, New Windsor; Music; Valedictory Oration, "The Press," Mr. Howard D. Ensor, New Windsor.

President Jelly then conferred the usual diploma and the degree A. B. upon the following graduates of New Windsor College: T. Earle Carlisle, Howard D. Ensor, New Windsor; Elmer D. Getzendanner, Baltimore; W. W. Gearhart, Fairmount Springs, Pa.; Harry E. Koons, Middleburg, Md.; and also upon the following graduates of Windsor Female College the usual diploma and degree M. P. M.: Emma L. Englar, Nettie E. Lambert, New Windsor; Amy L. May, Washington, D. C.; Clara V. Marsh, Ellicott City, Md.; Prof. E. H. Norman then conferred diplomas upon the following graduates of the Windsor Business College: Isaac Ecker, Cherry Grove; Howard D. Ensor, New Windsor; Daniel E. Huffer, Downsville, Md.; Justus H. Ehlers, Hernwood, Md.; C. Hollis Matthews, Perryman, Md.; A. Raymond Walker, Perryman, Md.

Gold medals were awarded to the following ladies for having pursued a course of study outside of the graduating course: Miss Nettie E. Lambert, for a course in French; Miss Amy L. May, for a course in music; Miss Clara V. Marsh, for a course in music. After music by Joseph Maziotte & Co's Orchestra, who furnished the music for commencement this year, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. H. Marsh. The alumni and alumnæ, the president and faculty, the board of trustees and many visiting guests, together with many citizens, friends of the college, joined in a bounteous banquet in the college dining hall, which was followed by the happiest post-prandials.

And so closed another Collegiate year at New Windsor. A friendly public rejoice to learn from President Jelly that the prospect for the next year is the most promising at this season.
