BALTIMORE THEATRE

The Managers of the BALTIMORE THEATRE return their grateful thanks to the friends and patrons of the Drama, for the liberal encouragement they have experienced during the season just concluded: They are particularly thankful to the Stockholders who have aided them with the means of progressing so far in completing a new, commodious and safe building, for the accommodation of the Baltimore audience. Their anxiety to finish the front of the building and remove the obstructions to the entrances induces them to request that those who held stock in the old Theatre, and have expressed a desire to change it for Stock in the present one, will comply with the terms proposed, by paying to the Treasurer the additional Fifty Dollars, which will entitle them to a new certificate of the right of free admission, until the sum of two hundred dollars shall be repaid to them. The use to which the money is to be appropriated, and the advantages it will secure to the Stockholders, the Managers are confident will ensure a prompt compliance with this request.
