For County Surveyor,
WILLIAM E. ROOP.

The complications of the new election law are such that no Republican voter heretofore registered should take it for granted that his name is now properly on the list of registered voters. This is especially the case where districts or precincts have been divided. Every Republican voter in such districts or precincts should see to it, personally, that his name is now on the list in the precinct in which he resides. Don't fail to do so. It is highly important.

Tuesday next will be the last day this year on which a voter can obtain a transfer, or new voters can be registered. The pending election is of tremendous importance. The voters are to decide whether the infamous election law enacted by the Democrats at the extra session shall be endorsed and other still more extreme measures to place obstructions in the way of properly qualified voters casting their ballots shall be adopted, or whether this effort to fasten the rule of a political oligarchy upon the people shall receive a fitting rebuke at their hands. No voter can cast his ballot unless he is registered and every voter opposed to the schemes of those who are seeking to perpetuate their power should have his name on the lists.

His Past Foreshadows His Future.

The Advocate, while indulging in very uncomplimentary expressions about President Roosevelt, last week, unwittingly paid tribute to his independence of character and manly self-assertion. It says "he was shoved on the ticket with McKinley because Platt of New York wanted to get rid of him." It is charged that Senator Platt is, or rather has been, the "Boss" of the Republican party of New York. He has, undoubtedly, exercised great influence upon Republican officials in that State, and it was claimed that no Republican nominations for public places within its limits could be made without his consent. But in the case of Mr. Roosevelt, at least, that assertion did not hold good. Roosevelt was nominated by the Republicans of New York as their candidate for Governor against the opposition of Mr. Platt, who consented to it because he could not prevent it. He discharged the duties of the office in an independent and upright manner, and not at all to the liking of New York's senior Senator. The latter realized the Governor's popularity with the people, and took advantage of it by proposing and urging his nomination for the office of Vice-President. Mr. Roosevelt was averse to the proceeding, but yielded and accepted the nomination when it became apparent that he was the choice of a vast majority of the Republicans of the country for the second place on the national ticket. He became President under about as few political trammels as any past National Executive, and, if his past course can be taken as a criterion, he will discharge his duty, as he may see it, with perfect fearlessness and without regard to personal consequences. The opinion of the Advocate concerning his probable course is directly opposite to that here expressed, but it is evidently warped and distorted by partisan prejudice and should be heavily discounted by its readers.

Republicans of Carroll county! Read the article in the editorial columns of the SENTINEL this week, under the heading, "An Infamous Conspiracy," and then, if you have moved from the district or precinct in which you were registered last fall, go to the registers of that district or precinct, at their sitting on Tuesday next and have your name transferred to the list of registered voters in the district or precinct where you now reside. You will, otherwise, in all probability be deprived of your vote. If you are not registered at all do not fail to have your name placed on the lists on Tuesday next. It will be the last sitting for transfers and registration and your last chance to be in a position to assist in the effort to defeat the "infamous conspiracy."

Don't Forget to Register on Tuesday Next, October 8th.

Last Day of Registration, Tuesday Next, October 8th. Don't Forget It.

AN INFAMOUS CONSPIRACY.

It begins to be seen that the extra session of the Maryland Legislature called by Governor John Walter Smith was the initiative in a conspiracy which may properly be designated as infamous, as its purpose was to restore the power of the Democratic bosses, which the people repudiated in 1895 and again in 1897—not by an open manly appeal to the voters of the state, but by ways as dark as were ever practiced by the "Heathen Chinee." The election law, which throws as many obstacles as possible in the way of a free exercise of the right of suffrage, was not the only measure intended to accomplish that purpose. That law bears equally upon the illiterates of both parties, and, taken alone, would probably prove as detrimental to one as to the other inasmuch as many Democrats, who are not illiterate, are righteously indignant at the slight and shame placed upon their fathers who are, and will visit this indignation upon the party that has humiliated them, thus, it is likely, more than offsetting the losses that the Republicans may sustain by errors or failures of their illiterates to vote properly. Taken alone it might prove a disastrous boomerang to the party responsible for it.

But, as stated, this law does not stand alone as the outcome of the gigantic conspiracy. The apparently innocent census law, passed ostensibly for the purpose of correcting false enumeration by federal officials was designed to play no small part in the struggle of the old bosses for that supremacy in the State which they have already recovered in the party. The law required the several Boards of Supervisors of Election to furnish the census enumerators with copies of the lists of registered voters in their respective districts, a provision which to many appeared to involve a wanton waste of the people's money, as none of the uninitiated could see any benefit to be derived from the proceeding. Neither has it been, nor can it be of benefit to the State. But its design is becoming apparent. It was to help the bosses in their efforts to regain absolute and permanent control of the State and local governments. The enumerators returned the names of all voters registered but not found by them and noted the names of all persons entitled to vote but whose names were not on the registry lists. These returns are in the hands of the Governor and, it is alleged, have also been given to the Democratic managers, but refused to the Republicans. The service of a writ of mandamus to compel the Governor to permit access to them has, up to this writing, been evaded by that functionary, a fact in itself calculated to arouse a reasonable suspicion that he is using his executive authority to perpetrate a wrong upon a portion of his fellow-citizens and to aid the bosses in their efforts to throttle the will of the people.

It can readily be seen that the Republicans may be subjected to great difficulty in preventing the disfranchisement of many of their voters who are properly registered, but who were absent from their homes on business or for pleasure when the census enumerators called and failed to find them. The number of persons whose names are on the lists of registered voters, but were reported as not found by the census enumerators, and the number reported as found who were not registered, were extraordinarily large. According to the reports of the enumerators for this county the lists contained the names of 1558 persons who could not be found, and 1586 were found of voting age who were not registered. This would mean one absent registered voter in every six of those registered, and an equal proportion unregistered. The report by districts was as follows:

Districts.	Registered But Not Found.	Not Registered.
Taneytown	112	78
Uniontown	91	73
Myers	58	62
Woolerys	129	121
Freedom, Pre. 1	399	460
Freedom, Pre. 2	79	78
Manchester	142	112
Westminster, Pre. 1	116	116
Westminster, Pre. 2	64	57
Hampstead	207	125
Franklin	22	32
Middleburg	55	58
New Windsor	66	63
Union Bridge	71	71
Mt. Airy	67	80
Total	1558	1586

Considering the close scrutiny with which the lists of voters are watched and the efforts made to register persons entitled to vote, by the respective parties, the accuracy of the enumeration is open to the gravest sort of doubt, but admitting its accuracy, it, like the enumeration of each of the other counties and of Baltimore City, is part of a public record, and the right of access to it belongs to the people. The refusal of any functionary to permit this is a gross denial of a public right, but to concede the privilege to the representatives of one party and deny it to another is a flagrant injustice and should arouse people of all parties to manifest their displeasure in the most effective manner at the polls.

We are not inclined to believe that Democratic elections officers in this county will consent to be made use of to carry out any scheme to deprive voters having the proper qualifications of the right to cast their ballots, but if there be any officer of registration willing to obey party orders, the Republican associated with him should exact the most indubitable evidence that a voter has actually removed from his precinct, before consenting to the erasure of his name. Where there is any doubt about it the voter is entitled to that doubt and if the registers cannot agree let the courts decide.

Further, the manifest determination of the Democratic managers to win by foul means, if necessary, should spur every Republican to use his utmost effort to have every voter of the party registered and his ballot cast at the election in November. Anti-machine Democrats should unite in this effort to foil the bosses, for they, themselves, will not be less in servitude politically than will be the Republicans if Gorman-Rasinism shall triumph.

Indubitable evidence that the Democrats are making use of the census enumerators' returns of registered voters not found and voters unregistered, in Baltimore, has been discovered and published by the Evening News of that city. This proof is a facsimile of two sample pages of the poll book used by the Democratic executive of the Fifth precinct of the Tenth ward of Baltimore, which the News obtained from a reliable source. These pages contain the names reported by the census enumerator as registered and moved from the precinct, and as on the census book but not registered. Of course the enumerators did not designate the politics of these parties, but that is readily done when the lists are in the hands of the party officials. The exposure of this trick by the News threw the Democratic managers into a rage and Mr. Rasin accused Mr. Frank P. Curtis with having furnished the information. Mr. Curtis denied it. The medium through which it was obtained by the News, however, is not material. The fact that the Democrats have been furnished with these lists is the main thing and taxpayers can now see that their money was employed in the interest of the Democratic party and for the purpose of obstructing and hindering the Republicans in registering and polling their vote.

As stated in the first part of this article the Governor had not been found to accept service of the writ of mandamus therein referred to, at the time it was written, but the writ has been served since that time. At this late day, however, the returns made by the enumerators will be of little service to the Republicans, who must make extraordinary and expensive efforts to gain information which is furnished to the Democratic party at the people's expense.

In view of these facts every Republican who has changed his residence, from one voting precinct to another, should make it his business to get a transfer at the sitting of the registers on Tuesday next. Let nothing prevent this action.

The complications of the new election law are such that no Republican voter heretofore registered should take it for granted that his name is now properly on the list of registered voters. This is especially the case where districts or precincts have been divided. Every Republican voter in such districts or precincts should see to it, personally, that his name is now on the list in the precinct in which he resides. Don't fail to do so. It is highly important.

Municipal Legislation Needed.

The Advocate, of the 21st ult., had among its local brevities some reference to a matter which should receive attention and action by the municipal authorities of Westminster. It said:

If a man should stay on the street all night and spend it howling and shouting, he would soon be arrested for making a nuisance of himself and for creating a disturbance, and very rightly, too. But if a man should not be allowed to do this, why should some old cur of a dog or a dozen cats be allowed to bark and howl half the night to the annoyance of the sick and the disgust of the well? The man who keeps a dog of this kind should shut him up during the night or else kill him—the latter would be the best. Westminster has fully a hundred of each that could be spared.

As the man who owns a dog that makes night hideous by barking, howling or yowling will not kill him or shut him up, (of course there are honorable exceptions) it is high time the corporate authorities should pass an ordinance requiring the suppression of the nuisance. The ordinance should require owners of dogs to keep them shut up at night or have them killed by the night watchman. And this officer should have peremptory instructions to kill every dog found on the street between 10 o'clock at night and sunrise or later in the morning. The town appears to be infested by dogs of this description. Cats are also an occasional nuisance, but not half so annoying as the canines. Let some action be taken promptly to relieve suffering humanity of the distress and loss of sleep caused by these noisy brutes.

A Good Nomination.

We notice that one of the Republican nominees for the Legislature from Baltimore City is Mr. J. Leonard Hoffman, for several years past the efficient Adjutant General of the Department of Md., G. A. R. Mr. Hoffman did gallant service during the Civil War as a member of Capt. Alexander's Battery, Baltimore Light Artillery. He is a gentleman of fine intelligence, of the highest character, of incorruptible integrity and honesty and should he be elected, which it is extremely probable he will be, the city of Baltimore will obtain the services of a faithful and efficient representative, who will most jealously guard her interests and also those of the whole State as well. In this era of good feeling, when the Blue and the Gray have put behind them the bitterness of the past, may we not see the remnant of the armies of Grant and Lee, living in Baltimore, going together, with a common impulse, to give their support to a man whose bravery was tested on many hard fought fields, and whose every effort will be directed to the good of his city and the State he is so proud of and loves so well. *

While the project for the sale of the Western Maryland Railroad has been revived, and a resolution to submit the question to a vote of the people of Baltimore was introduced in the Council of that city on Monday, it is not likely to be consummated. There is a growing sentiment among Baltimore business men that it would be a grave mistake on the city's part to surrender its control of the road. The Western Maryland is now the only railroad of any consequence having a terminus in Baltimore, which has become only a way station on the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio systems. As the Pennsylvania has now a controlling interest in the Baltimore and Ohio and the general interests of those who manage both roads lie in other directions then our Maryland metropolis, her possession of the Western Maryland is about all that prevents the possibility of her being completely bottled up by her rivals on the seaboard. It is said that an offer of ten millions of dollars has been made for the property. If true this only indicates the great value placed upon it by those desirous of diverting trade from Baltimore. The business of the city has already profited by the road to a degree in excess of all her investments in it. Hardly any sum would compensate her for the alienation of its control now and her citizens will act wisely if they shall not permit it.

James T. Trainor dropped dead on Monday afternoon while cutting corn on his farm near Calvert, Cecil county, Md. He was 51 years of age. He leaves two daughters and one son; also five sisters. Mr. Trainor was for years an engineer on the Western Maryland Railroad, but since the death of his father had resided at the old home.

Columbia vs. Shamrock II.

In the contest between the American yacht Columbia and the English yacht Shamrock II for the America's cup the first two of the five races have been won by the Columbia. Two races have been sailed which were declared off because the yachts failed to make the required time over the course. In the races won by the Columbia she had a rather narrow margin, coming in in the race of Saturday last less than two minutes ahead of her English competitor, and on Thursday in something over three minutes. Both races were intensely exciting. In the last one a steady wind blew from start to finish and neither yacht had the advantage of a flawy breeze. The Columbia proved to be the better boat, but the vessels are nearly equally matched and accident might yet give the English the victory. But the chances are greatly in favor of the Columbia and of our retention of the America's cup.

Severe on Senator Wellington.

Maryland students at the institutions of the Reformed Church, at Lancaster, Pa.—the academy, theological seminary and Franklin and Marshall College—feeling outraged by the conduct of United States Senator George L. Wellington in relation to the assassination of President McKinley, resolved to give expression to their feelings on the subject, and at a meeting of which Edward S. La Mar was chairman, unanimously adopted the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, Almighty God in His mysterious Providence has visited upon us as a nation and as individuals unutterable grief in the loss of our most excellent and beloved president, William McKinley; and,

Whereas, We recognize, as does the world, in our departed president a man of generous impulses, of wisdom, of patriotic devotion and beautiful character; and,

Whereas, The tenderest sympathy is due Mrs. McKinley in this her dark hour of trial; and,

Whereas, The senior senator from Maryland, Hon. George L. Wellington, has expressed and manifested indifference to the death of our president, thus showing narrowness of mind, vindictiveness of spirit and well-nigh savage hatred; and,

Whereas, Mr. Wellington, in denying to Mrs. McKinley a message of sympathy in his capacity of United States Senator, has shown a lack of Maryland chivalry and gentlemanly consideration; be it

Resolved, By the Maryland students matriculated in the Reformed Church institutions at Lancaster, Pa.,

That he has shown a want of nice sense of propriety, a lack of manly qualities, and has visited reproach and shame upon our state, of which we are so proud; further,

That our patriotism and intelligence are insulted and finer sensibilities outraged; and be it further

Resolved, That Mr. Wellington is unfit to represent our state in the higher branch of the national legislature, and that it is due his constituents that he place his resignation in the hands of the Governor of the state.

A Disaster in the Philippines.

While Company C, Ninth U. S. Infantry, was at breakfast at Balangiga, on the island of Samar of the Philippines, on Saturday morning last, the command was surprised and attacked by 400 bolomen and nearly fifty of them killed. The company numbered 73 officers and men of whom only 24 escaped and 11 of those were wounded. Many of the men were killed before they could grasp their rifles, but those who were able to do so fought with desperation and, it is reported, killed 140 of their assailants before they were overpowered. The bolomen secured all the company's supplies and rifles except three. Capt. Connell, First Lieut. Bumpus and Surgeon Griswold of the company were among the killed.

The island of Samar lies near the centre west of the Philippines and is of considerable extent, though only about one-eighth or one-tenth the size of Luzon or Mindanao. A dispatch from Omaha, Neb., says that Senator Dietrich, who has just returned from the Philippines, visited Samar while there, and declares that the "island is filled with banditti and outcasts." When the insurgents were driven out of Luzon and the other nearby islands those who did not take the oath of allegiance fled to Samar. In a short time the island, which had been peaceable, was the hotbed of trouble. All the bad characters of the archipelago gathered there and forced the natives to join their forces. These banditti have violated every rule of war and civilization, and it will doubtless require considerable force to bring them to terms."

Private De Prend, who was on guard at the vault containing the remains of President McKinley, in West Lawn Cemetery, Canton, Ohio, on Sunday night, alleges that he was assaulted by two unknown men, while in the discharge of that duty. He says that while at the rear of the vault about 7.45 o'clock, he noticed a man behind a tree about 40 feet from him. The soldier gave the challenge. The man paid no attention, he says, but instead dodged behind the tree. The soldier says he advanced and gave a second challenge, and the man came to another tree about 12 feet nearer the soldier. The guard says he fired, but as he did so his gun was struck into the air by a second man who had approached while his attention was diverted to the first man. The bullet went wild and the soldier says he was then struck a heavy blow on the head and his clothing cut with a knife. The shot, however, was heard by the officer of the day, who rushed to the spot, but only the soldier who fired was there. His story was as above related. He said the man who attacked him was masked, but that he could recognize the other one. Most of the commissioned officers doubt De Prend's story. Some think he may have been laboring under a mental hallucination. One officer, however, believes the story. De Prend says one of the men had a package or bundle wrapped in paper, and the officer referred to is of the opinion that, from pure cussedness, somebody intended to blow up the vault. Gen. Otis, also, to whom the facts were reported, believes De Prend's story.

BRAIN-FOOD NONSENSE.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at W. Scott Zepp's, Druggist, Westminster. Get Green's Special Almanac.
