Republican Ticket.

For President,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT,
of New York.

For Vice-President,
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS, of Indiana.

For Congress,
ROBERT GARRETT,
OF BALTIMORE COUNTY.

No Democratic promise survives the statute of limitation.

American voters have as little taste for free trade as they have for the free soup that goes with it.

We may naturally expect a few Western Union telegraph amendments to the Parker letter of acceptance.

Mr. Bryan is not going to campaign in New York. He has no desire to share the blame for the inevitable defeat of Judge Parker in that State.

The Democrats propose to make the campaign on the trusts and the tariff. Remember the Cleveland Administration's action on these subjects.

Col. Bryan is reported to have a very severe sore throat. Natural result of trying to swallow the dose fixed up for him by Hill and Belmont.

Voters who are asked to put the Democratic party into power should remember how long it took to clear away the Cleveland wreckage.

"The tariff is a robbery and a fraud" according to the Democraic platform, but the party's candidate promises not to proceed against the robbery for at least four years.

Judge Parker asks that no attack be made upon President Roosevelt's personality. The Judge has evidently been studying that personality to good advantage.

"Republicans are not responsible for good crops" shout the Democratic managers. But the farmers know that good prices and Republican administrations always go together.

There must be a streak of stubbornness in Judge Parker. Even in his letter of acceptance he refuses to admit he was wrong eight and four years ago when he voted for free silver.

It should be remembered that Mr. Roosevelt has not asked Judge Parker or any one else to spare his personality or his record in this campaign. He is always ready to make the fight in the open.

Judge Parker will soon have the satisfaction of knowing that he will figure in a distinguished list of Americans that include such names as Greely, Seymour, Tilden, Hancock, Cleveland and Bryan.

The word has gone forth that David B. Hill and William Jennings Bryan are both going to Indiana to make political speeches. It is merely a suggestion, but why not put them on the same platform and have them engage in a joint debate on the money question. Bryan says he has nothing to take back.

Judge Parker's lament over the decay of the merchant marine is a good illustration of what would occur throughout the entire industrial world under the free trade policy to which he stands pledged. American ships cannot compete with the free trade built ships of England, manned by the underpaid sailors of Europe and Asia. Neither could our factories, compete with those of other countries under like conditions.

POSTMASTER GENERAL PAYNE DEAD.

Postmaster General Henry C. Payne died at the Arlington Hotel, Washington, D. C., of dilatation of the heart, at 6.10 P. M., Tuesday, in his 61st year. General Payne was a native of Ashfield, Mass., where he was born November 23rd, 1843. His father, Orin Pierce Payne, was the keeper of a livery stable, but a man of much force and excellent character. The son received an academic education and at the age of 20 went to Milwaukee, Wis., where he became an active and successful business man and amassed a large fortune. He was an ardent Republican and always took an active part in politics. From 1880 until his death he was a member of the Republican National Committee and for ten years was postmaster of Milwaukee. President McKinley offered him the choice of an ambassadorship to Germany, Russia or Japan, but he declined, preferring to remain in his native land. He was identified with many business enterprises at Milwaukee. His health has not been robust for two years, but his fatal illness only extended over a week. President Roosevelt and other public men say of him that he was the most lovable man they ever knew.

THE WAR IN MANCHURIA.

The latest report from the Russo-Japanese war is that the Japanese are approaching Mukden and the Russians retiring. A battle has been regarded as imminent, but may not soon take place. The Russians are apparently being massed at Tie pass, the most defensible position that can be taken and regarded as well nigh impregnable. It is hardly so important to the Japanese as to justify an attempt to carry it by assault at the risk of defeat and the loss of many men. Unless some way to flank the Russians out of it shall be found the Japanese may well be content to hold the ground they have already taken and wait until the Russians shall be forced to take the aggressive.

The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia has fixed October 18 as the date for hearing of arguments on the appeal cases of Messrs. Machen, Lorenz and the Groffs, convicted some time ago of conspiracy to defraud the government and sentenced to pay fines of $10,000 each and to imprisonment for two years.

REGISTER! REGISTER!!

Republican reader, if you are entitled to register, but your name not on the lists, don't fail to have it placed there. Tuesday next will be your last chance this year.

Mr. Davis' Inconsistency.

The latest example of the wabbling of the Democratic party on public questions is furnished by the recent speech of its candidate for Vice-President, Mr. Davis, in which he said he favored a tariff that not only furnished revenue but provided protection to home industries. That is fine Republican doctrine and sounds strangely from a Democrat.

Some allowance must be made for Mr. Davis, however. He was talking to a West Virginia audience, and it is well known of course that West Virginia, from necessity and of bitter experience, is a protectionist State. Mr. Davis was afraid to stand up for the free trade doctrines of his party in that State.

His speech is fairly characteristic of the present attitude of his party, not only on the tariff question but on other public questions. The party is trying to straddle them. Following the example set by the party action on the gold question, when the convention went one way and the candidate went the other, the party is now splitting on the tariff.

The Southern and Western wings want free trade, as near as they can get it. To them the tariff is a robbery. The class to whom Mr. Davis talked know better and would not have free trade. But which wing is to rule? How are the people to know whether they would have free trade or modified protection under Democratic rule?

If they want the protective tariff there is only one way to insure it and that is to help elect a Republican House of Representatives this fall.

Wages of Railway Employees.

The Democratic Text-Book has recklessly ventured on the discussion of wages and admits that "railroad labor affords the most accurate barometer of wages." Then it seeks to show that the wages of railway employees advanced only one-and-one-half per cent from 1892 to 1902. The editor of the Democratic bible very discreetly passes entirely over the Democratic Administration of Grover Cleveland and goes back to the prosperous days of the Administration of Benjamin Harrison when wages were higher than ever before known.

From 1892 to 1897 we had a Democratic Administration and for four years wages went down and also the number of men employed decreased according to the estimate of Samuel Gompers, more than three million. This was true of railroad labor as well as of factory labor. In 1893 at the close of the Harrison Administration there were 873,600 men employed by the railways, and in 1894, after one year of Democratic Administration this number was reduced to 779,600, a decrease of 94,000 employees. The wages of those remaining were reduced, and the men engaged in railroad work did not receive either the work or the wages that they did under Harrison.

In 1898, after one year of Republican Administration, the number of men employed by the railroads was again substantially as in 1893, when the former Republican Administration closed, and in 1903 the work and wages on the railways had increased until there was one million, three hundred and twelve thousand, five hundred and twenty-seven employees receiving wages amounting to $757,000,000. This is an increase of nearly 70 per cent. in employment and wages for railway men, and it runs through all departments of the railway business from engineers to common laborers. As to the rate of wages, it can be safely left for the railway men themselves to say whether they are better off now than they were under the Cleveland Administration. They know that they have received substantial increases in wages, and that engineers, firemen, conductors and brakemen receive from fifteen to twenty per cent. higher pay now than they did ten years ago. The admission of the Democratic Text Book that railway labor is the best barometer of labor conditions now and in 1894 is fair, and workingmen may safely accept it. Last year the railways paid $300,000,000 more to their employees than they did in 1894, and that $300,000,000 marks the difference in earnings for railway men under Republican and Democratic administrations.

The members of the Maryland Republican Editorial Association were the guests of Mr. John B. Hanna, chairman of the Republican state central committee, at dinner, at the Hotel Rennert, Baltimore on Wednesday. About fifteen members of the association, representing as many papers in various parts of the state, were present. Before the dinner a business meeting was held, at which officers were elected for the ensuing year.

Registration of voters this year will end on Tuesday next. Every Republican eligible to do so should have his name on the lists. Tuesday will be his last chance if he be not already registered.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC BALTIMORE.

Miss May Irwin, the charming and incomparable comedienne, will open her regular season at Dixon & Zimmerman's Academy of Music in Baltimore. Miss Irwin has long been one of the most popular comedienes in America and was the first to raise the coon song to an acceptable level for the refined pleasure seeker.

CONAWAY.—In loving remmbrance of our dear daughter and sister, Mamie E. Conaway, nee Pickett, who died two years ago, October 2nd, 1902.

We miss her coming footsteps,
We miss her everywhere;
Home is not what it used to be
Since our dear Mamie is not there.

We saw her suffering and heard her sighs,
With trembling hands and weeping eyes;
But now she calmly sleeps at last
All pains, all grief, all suffering past.

Farewell, dear Mamie, a sad farewell;
The loss to us no tongue can tell,
And when on earth we breathe no more,
We will meet you on the other shore.

By her Parents, Brothers and Sisters.
