The naval fight between the Japanese and Russians, so long anticipated, seems to be as far as ever in the future.

Baltimore Goes Democratic.

An election was held in Baltimore on Tuesday for four members of the Second Branch and twenty-four members of the First Branch City Council. At the same time the voters were called upon to decide for or against three loans, aggregating $13,000,000 of which $10,000,000 is for the construction of a sewerage system for the city and the remainder for the Annex and the enlargement and improvement of the parks. All three loans were carried by the following large majorities: Sewerage, 11,924; Annex, $10,739; Parks, 6,666.

The Democrats elected three of the four members of the Second Branch, City Council, and nineteen of the twenty-four members of the First Branch. The total vote cast for members of the First Branch was 66,110. The Democratic majorities, after subtracting the Republican majorities, aggregate 2,879.

The Baltimore Election.

Our Democratic friends will probably exult over the result of the election in Baltimore, on Tuesday, as a great Democratic victory, but while it affords a crumb of comfort the margin of majorities is not great enough to brag about, especially as nearly forty per cent. of the registered voters of the city failed to cast their ballots. The whole number of votes polled did not much exceed 66,000, while the number of voters registered approximates 108,000.

Then, interest in the election was chiefly concentrated on the loans submitted to the voters for acceptance or rejection and, it is said, numbers of Republicans voted for Democratic candidates because prominent members of their own party were active in opposition to an increase in the city's indebtedness for the laudable purpose of a sewerage system.

The indifference manifested by so large a number of the voters was remarkable. Every daily newspaper in Baltimore rang with appeals to the people to vote for the loans and a most strenuous canvass was made in their favor. Notwithstanding these efforts more than a third of the voters failed to show up at the polls. It may be that this is an indication that spring elections are failing to arouse the interest usually incident to State and National campaigns and that, if a full vote is desirable in municipal contests, it will become necessary to go back to the old plan of holding them in the fall.

BLOODY WORK IN POLAND.

Easter Day in Russia fell this year on Monday, May 1st, and was celebrated throughout the Empire, by parades and other public exercises. Disturbances among the people were apprehended, but the day passed off peacefully except in some of the Polish provinces. Warsaw was the scene of the most fatal events of the day. There a large procession of people carrying the red flag of revolt was charged by Cossacks, who used their swords with such savagery that 57 persons were killed and 17 seriously injured. At Lodz 7 were killed and 3 seriously injured and at Praga 4 were killed, making a total of 68 killed and 20 seriously, if not fatally, hurt. Of course the people were helpless and defenceless against the savage attack of the soldiers and were massacred to maintain the sovereign power of a single individual, the Autocrat of all the Russias.

With such occurrences transpiring in Russia it is not surprising that liberty-loving Americans sympathise with the Japanese against their gigantic foe, without taking into consideration the question of the justice of their effort to drive the Russians out of Manchuria. Such butchery as that perpetrated at Warsaw, on Monday, is abhorrent to the mind of every human being who believes in the truth of the event which was being celebrated—the Resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee Dead.

General Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, U. S., Army, retired, was stricken with apoplexy, while traveling homeward from the North on the New Haven and Hartford Railway, at 3 o'clock last Friday morning, and died in Providence Hospital, Washington, D. C., at 11.30 the same date. The attack came upon him while the train was at Mott Haven, on the East River, New York. Two physicians were summoned and after an examination found that Gen. Lee was able to continue his journey. When he arrived at Washington he was taken to the hospital, at which his death occurred. Gen. Lee was a distinguished cavalry officer in the Confederate service during the Civil War. He was afterwards Governor of Virginia and was appointed consul-general at Havana, Cuba, by President Cleveland, during the latter's second term. President McKinley requested him to retain the position and he rendered valuable service to his government before and during the war with Spain, in which he served as a major general of volunteers.

Gen. Lee was a nephew of Gen. Robert E. Lee, commander of the Confederate armies. He leaves a widow and five children. His remains were interred in Hollywood Cemetery, Richmond, Va. He was in his seventieth year.

In Judge Wright's branch of the Criminal Court of the District of Columbia, on Friday last, the case of the United States vs. Machen, Lorenz and Crawford, charged with defrauding the government in connection with contracts for mail-carriers' satchels, was set for trial on the 22nd inst. Attorney Worthington, representing Crawford, took exception to the new indictment in the case and said he would file a demurrer. He also gave notice of a motion for the severance of Crawford's case from the case against the other two defendants. Attorney Douglas stated that he would raise the question of the jurisdiction of the court in the case of Machen, because of the absence of his client, who is in prison in West Virginia.

A colored man about 35 years old, supposed to be Murray Stange, of Charlestown, W. Va., was killed a few days ago in the tunnel at Mt. Airy by falling from a freight train on which he was riding.

Piotr Kasrmieresak, a native of Poland, died at Detroit, Mich., yesterday, aged 114 years. He never used tobacco or liquor and spent most of his time in the open air.

Press Notices of Mr. Seabrook's Book.

From the Lutheran Observer, April 28, 1905.

Immortality. By Rev. William L. Seabrook, Pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Newberry, S. C. The Vir Publishing Co., Phila., Pa. Pa. 203. Send orders to Rev. W. L. Seabrook, Newberry, S. C.

The questions with which this book deals are of immediate and unwasting interest. The ever-present reality of death keeps them ever fresh. Ceaselessly, from home after home, as the dark shadow falls upon it, there rises the old inquiry of Job: "If a man die shall he live again?" To this inquiry the volume before us brings a response assured, triumphant, satisfying. It reviews the influence of the hope of immortality in lighting up the gloom of death, traces its universality, shows that it is consonant with reason and that it is demanded by love. It finds foregleams of it in the old Testament and shows how, in the New, this hope becomes certainty, for it rests upon the historical fact of the resurrection of Christ. The closing chapter tells of the comfort of this assured hope—its solace to the sorrowing and its consolation to the dying. It is an impressive book, sympathetic in its interpretations of the yearnings of sorrowing hearts and strong in its responses. The author has thought much on the subject and read much, and his pages are illumined with apt quotations in prose and poetry from others who have pondered deeply this great theme. It is a book that will find a welcome in every home where there is longing for

"the touch of a vanished hand
And the sound of a voice that is still."

From the Baltimore American.

A BOOK FOR LAYMEN.

"Immortality," by Rev. William L. Seabrook, 12 mo., 203 pages. The Vir Publishing Company, Philadelphia, Pa.; London, England. Price $1.10, postpaid. Orders sent to the author at Newberry, S. C., will be filled promptly.

The theme of Mr. Seabrook's book is one in which all intelligent people must be interested, and sooner or later all who learn to know the value of this little volume will want to read it. Although it is written by a clergyman, his treatment of the subject shows clearly that he has not always been a clergyman. It is a book for the layman, written by one who was trained in the law department of the University of Maryland under such men as Col. Charles Marshall, Bernard Carter, John P. Poe and Richard M. Venable, and approaches the subject by methods which will be more familiar to the lay mind, and at the same time more convincing to it possibly than the theological method. The book and the author have our hearty commendation.

STATE MILITARY ENCAMPMENT.

The encampment of State troops, this year, will be located at Belair and will take place in August. It is said that the soldiers are enthusiastic over the selection, which is the same ground upon which the brigade encampment was held two years ago—the McCormick property. The encampment will continue ten days: The entire brigade will take part, as follows: Brigade Commander Lawrason Riggs and staff, the Fifth Regiment, the Fourth Regiment, the First Regiment, the First Separate Company, Troop A and the Signal corps. It is expected that between 2,000 and 2,500 men will be tented on the field. There may be a troop of cavalry from Fort Myer, as was the case two years ago. There are about 100 acres in the tract on which the encampment will be held. The water facilities are excellent and the sanitary conditions cannot be surpassed. On the farm there is a field of 40 acres, on which drills will take place. The program to be followed during the encampment is yet to be prepared by Adjutant General Clinton L. Riggs. It will probably be named Camp Warfield, in honor of the Governor.

Nan Patterson, charged with the murder of "Caesar" Young, a race track book-maker, was tried for the third time, in the court of Recorder Goff, of New York, last week and the early part of this, and for the third time the jury failed to agree. Young, who was a married man, was, it is alleged, endeavoring to break off his illicit relations with the woman, who had deserted her own husband and taken up with the book-maker. He and Nan were in a carriage together and he was on his way to a steamboat wharf to sail with his wife for Europe when he was fatally shot. The main question is whether Nan did the shooting and that is not by any means perfectly clear. At least three juries have failed to find it so. Ever since her arrest she has been imprisoned in the Tombs, but may now be released, either on bail or by the abandonment of the case on the part of the State. The case has become a "cause celebre" and has excited extraordinary interest all over the country. Public opinion, generally, is that the State did not make out its case against the accused.

The Orange Grove flour mill and elevator, belonging to the C. A. Gambrill Manufacturing Company, three miles from Catonsville on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, with several dwellings and the railroad station, were destroyed by fire on Monday night. All the machinery, a large quantity of wheat stored for grinding and 600 barrels of flour were burned. The mill was the largest in the state. It was 150 by 175 feet in dimensions, five stories high and had a capacity of 1200 to 1500 barrels per day. The elevator was 100 by 150 feet with 23 bins, each of which had a capacity of 5,000 bushels. The dwellings destroyed were owned by the company. The mill and its equipment was valued at upward of $200,000. It gave employment to 35 men. The same company owned the next largest mill in the State also, which was wiped out of existence by the great Baltimore fire. The amount of insurance carried on the Orange Grove Mill is not known.

At the election for officers of Maryland House of Correction, held at that institution yesterday, Mr. C. H. Fowler, of this city, was re-elected one of the guards. Col. Jesse J. Moore, of Washington county, was re-elected superintendent. Gov. Warfield was absent from the meeting attending the funeral of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee in Richmond. Superintendent Moore reported that there are in the insititution 168 white and 220 colored males, 14 white and 23 colored females. The cost of maintaining the inmates was 6¼ cents a day. The income from various industries during the past month was $2,491.40.

At the fourteenth annual commencement of the Southern Homeopathic Medical College, in Baltimore, last night, George Wm. Dehoff, formerly of this county, was among the graduates. The alumni association of the institution held a banquet during the evening at the Hotel Rennert, at which Dr. George T. Shower responded to the toast, Past and Future. Drs. B. C. Catlin, Henry H. Stansbury and Maurice E. Shamer comprised the committee in charge of the affair.

Another explosion at the plant of the Rockdale Powder Mills Company, at Hoffmanville, Baltimore county, occurred a few days ago, and started a fire which destroyed the mixing house, pump house and press house. The explosion occurred in the mixing house. Fortunately nobody was hurt on this occasion.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Held on a Serious Charge.

Luther Sies, who formerly resided somewhere in the vicinity of this city, but whose home is now in the neighborhood of Ladiesburg, Frederick county, was committed to the jail of that county on Friday last upon the serious charge of having feloniously assaulted Mrs. Annie Stitely, wife of Mr. Carty B. Stitely, a farmer, also of the vicinity of Ladiesburg. According to Mrs. Stitely's statement, the assault took place at her home on Thursday afternoon, Sies having called there during her husband's absence, ostensibly to fix a baby carriage which needed repairing. After the assault Mrs. Stitely made her way to the home of her brother-in-law, about a quarter of a mile distant, and informed him of the occurrence and also told her husband the story when he returned home. A warrant for Sies' arrest was issued by Justice Grabill, of Johnsville, and the arrest was made by Officer Stephen Myers. Bail was fixed at $250, and failing to give it the accused was committed. Mrs. Stitely, who is about 30 years of age, is a daughter of Emanuel Lugenbeel, of near Johnsville. Sies is a day laborer and has a wife and one or two children.

Her remains were brought to Carrollton on Sunday morning last and interred in the burial lot on the place where she formerly resided. She was held in high esteem by the community in and around Carrollton. She usually did the washing and ironing for the white people in that locality. She was a true Christian. She leaves several children.

The farmers are very busy planting corn and potatoes. Labor is very scarce in this locality. Farmers need help to plant crops but it can scarcely be had at any price.

The fruit trees of all kinds look beautiful in their full dress of blossoms. The prospects for a big apple crop never were better than at the present time.

The wheat fields are looking as tho' there will be a big crop the coming harvest. The grass fields, as a rule, do not look so well for a big crop of hay.

Manchester Items.

Everybody is busy plowing, planting and gardening, while trees are putting out their full foliage, mixed with the blossoms in their full glory and beauty, giving evidence that spring is here.

Mr. Ed. Hoffacker, of Hobart, Pa., raised an excitement on Monday as he passed along North Main street with his lumbering outfit, consisting of two traction engines, saw and shingle mills, and two cottages, on wheels, in which the workmen and members of their families live while cutting and sawing timber. He was on his way to a tract of wood land near Alesia, having finished a 40-acre tract on the farm of Mrs. Musselman.

At the election for mayor of this corporation on Saturday, 29th ult., D. L. Dubbs, present incumbent, was re-elected for the current year.

On Tuesday as Dr. J. H. Sherman was descending the grade on North Main street in his buggy, on his way home from a professional visit in the country, the back strap broke and the buggy rushed upon the horse's heels. The animal soon became unmanageable and dashed down the street in a full run, past the home, and down the steep hill north of town. Although the doctor was able to keep him in the drive way he could not control him. The fifth wheel of the buggy was continually cutting him, so close had the doctor pulled him to the vehicle. It was only after his mad dash up the next hill at the home of Mr. Edward Weaver, where Mr. Sam Weaver took in the situation, rushed upon the runaway and grabbed the reins, that the horse was gotten under control. Mr. Weaver was dragged some distance before that was accomplished. The harness was adjusted and the doctor drove back home, with the horse cut and bleeding and with the consciousness that he had had a close call.

On Wedne day night of last week a thief visited the premises of Mr. David H Starner and stole two fine pigs. This is not the first time a thief has visited the same place within the past year. Lookout for a pending horse race in this vicinity. Recently there was a hot discussion between two parties concerning which of them has the fastest animal and it nearly gave some trouble; but everything passed off very quietly after all, and it was decided to have the great race in the near future. Most of the people say they know the "gray" will be the winner.

If there are any young men in this vicinity who wish to secure very good employment such as the United States Navy offers, they will do well by applying to Mr. G. T. Palmer for desired information. The navy is a good place for good men from the ages of 17 to 35.

Mr. Cyrus Dubbs and family visited Mr. D's. parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dubbs, near Lineboro. Mr. D's mother is seriously ill and is under the treatment of Dr. J. F. B. Weaver, of Manchester.

WESTMINSTER.

Dear Sir: What would be the result of selling poor paint with this guarantee?

"If you have any fault to find with this paint, either now in putting it on, or hereafter in the wear, tell your dealer about it.

"We authorize him to do what is right at our expense."

That means pay damages, don't it? Here's another guarantee:

"If your state chemist finds this paint adulterated, we will pay his bill, and send you $1000."

We stand by both of these guarantees; as we are the maker, we know all about it. Yours truly
