WESTMINSTER, - MARYLAND.

W. L. W. Seabrook, - Editor.

Entered at the Postoffice at Westminster, Md., as Second-class matter.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1905.

Conditions in Russia do not appear to be improving and the country seems to be on the verge of actual revolution. 100,000 workmen are locked out at St. Petersburg and the telegraphers of the country are on a strike, greatly embarassing the government in its operations. Discontent is permeating the army and navy and, it is said, the loyalty of even the Czar's lifeguard is doubted. The crews of ten war vessels at Sevastopol mutinied a few days ago and a battle occurred yesterday between the mutineers and the vessels remaining true to the government. Several of the insurgent ships were sunk and, it is said, 5,000 men were killed in the fight. The country is in a deplorable condition.

Discussion of the Haman oyster bill, which has been so frequently defeated by the Maryland Legislature, seems to be gradually bringing the oystermen to the conclusion that something must be done to meet the exigencies of the case. They are beginning to realize that under existing conditions the oyster industry of the State is being gradually destroyed and some of the heretofore pronounced opponents of the Haman measure are now acknowledging the propriety of leasing the barren grounds of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries for oyster planting and culture. They claim, however, that the Haman bill is defective and needs change and amendment in several particulars, but inasmuch as the friends of the measure have always stood ready to accept any proposition really calculated to improve it, there is hope that some legislation, along the general lines upon which it is drafted, may be enacted at the coming session of the legislature. If those who have heretofore opposed the Haman bill are sincere in acknowledging the pressing necessity for some such legislation as it proposes, there should be no difficulty in getting a bill passed at the coming session of the legislature that will meet the general requirements of the case and prove of incalculable benefit to the people of the State generally.

On Sunday night a double-header through passenger train, on the Boston and Maine Railroad, crashed into the rear coach of a local train at Baker's Bridge Station, near Lincoln, Mass., killing 15 of the passengers and injuring about 30 others, a number of them seriously. The wreckage caught fire and some of the victims were cremated. The accident, it is said, was caused by failure of the engineer of the double-header train to distinguish a danger signal through a dense mist which had enveloped it after it was set by the brakeman of the local train.

Taking effect today the following changes have been announced by the Western Maryland Railroad: F. L. Brendel, chief train dispatcher at Hillen Station, to be trainmaster, Maryland division, with office at Hagerstown; W. O. Hiltabidle, trainmaster, Maryland division, to be chief train dispatcher at Hagerstown; R. W. Burgesser, chief train dispatcher at Hillen Station, vice Mr. Brendel; Mr. A. M. Clark, chief train dispatcher at Hagerstown, resigned.

Wm. Arch. McClean, editor and proprietor of the Gettysburg Compiler, has purchased the subscription list and good will of the Littlestown Jeffersonian, which suspended publication two weeks ago.

Woodbridge G. Osborne, a Western Maryland freight brakeman, on train No. 114, residing in Hanover, was painfully injured in Gettysburg, last week. This was the third accident to have occurred at this place and in the same manner.
