Germany has in Prof. Rudolf Falb a weather prophet who rivals Hicks and is said to have made some astonishingly accurate predictions. He has now covered the last six months of the year with these prognostications. He predicts a rainy July, the wet weather and low temperature to increase in the second half of the month. August is to be likewise. Hicks' predictions for June concluded with the words: "June ends growling very warm;" a clear miss. Of July he says: "About the 5th to the 7th look for very warm wave." The 5th is past and the day was cool, but growing warmer, with signs of a further moderate rise in temperature.

Independence Day was observed very quietly in this city. Business was almost entirely suspended and numerous national flags were displayed. Some time ago Andrew C. Spencer brought to this office a reptile caught in his new ground, near Smallwood, which he said Prof. Simpson supposed was a "water puppy." It is rarely seen east of the Rocky Mountains, and lives either on land or in water. When in the latter element it develops fins.

Union Bridge was quite lively on the Glorious Fourth. During the day two games of baseball were played by the Union Bridge and Frederick Clubs. At 6 o'clock in the afternoon a parade of the Band, Baseball Club, Order United American Mechanics and the Fire Company took place, and at night a festival, which will be continued to-night, for the benefit of the baseball club, was held.

A Sad, Sad Tragedy.

Deep and universal sorrow was felt in this city and elsewhere throughout the county and in many parts of the State when it became known on Saturday last that Mr. Edward S. Baile, whose home was about two miles north of this city, had been found dead in his barn, under circumstances which left no doubt that it was a case of self-destruction. Between 12 and 1 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, a messenger came hastily to this city to summon Dr. J. T. Hering to attend Mr. Baile, and in a short time it became known that a tragedy of some sort had occurred. Very soon this information was followed by the announcement of his death and the manner in which it had occurred. Substantially, the painful and distressing story is as follows: When the hour for the noonday meal arrived Mr. Baile was not about the house and Mrs. Baile supposed he was at the barn. Taking one of her little children with her she went to the barn and called him. Getting no response she opened the door to the feed-entry and saw his hat lying near the entrance. The entry was so dark that nothing could be seen beyond. The presence of the hat at once aroused Mrs. Baile's fears and, procuring a lantern, she entered the barn, accompanied by Mr. John Byers, who happened to be present. In less time than it takes to tell it they found Mr. Baile sitting on some straw and chaff in the entry, in a corner between the feed chest and wall. His head was thrown back, his right foot crossed over the left and his right hand over the left. In his right hand he still held a 38-calibre revolver, of the bulldog pattern. Mrs. Baile supposed he was seriously wounded and immediately despatched a messenger, with urgent haste, for Dr. Hering, and did not know certainly, until his arrival, that her husband was dead.

Dr. Hering found that a bullet had entered the right temple, two inches back of the eye and had passed straight through the head, coming out at about the same point of the left temple. The mark where the bullet struck the wall was discovered, but the missile could not be found. Death was practically instantaneous and from the condition of the body Dr. Hering supposed the fatal act had been committed about 11 o'clock. There was no doubt about its suicidal character. A colored youth in Mr. Baile's employ had asked permission, sometime during the morning, to use one of the horses on Sunday, and the reply was: "Yes; take anything I've got. All my affairs will be settled to-day." Some of his associates say that on more than one occasion he had threatened self-destruction, but such declarations were never seriously considered. The cause of the act was, without doubt, financial embarrassment, although on the morning of the day of his death, having brought milk for shipment to Baltimore, to the station in this city, as was his custom, he appeared to be in a pleasant mood. He also met some friends at Pleasure Park during the morning, who saw no signs of distress in his manner, and could scarcely credit the announcement of his fatal deed.

Mr. Baile was a son of the late Isaac C. Baile and was, through both his father and mother, connected with some of the most prominent families in this county. From his boyhood until his graduation in 1880 he was a student at Western Maryland College, where he was a universal favorite of his fellow-students on account of his genial and generous disposition. After his graduation he married Miss Clara Hoppe, a daughter of the late Josephus H. Hoppe and a granddaughter of the late J. Henry Hoppe. They resided, for a time, on the Baile homestead in Wakefield Valley, and then purchased the splendid home and farm, two miles north of this city, where they have since resided, and which is one of the handsomest in the county. The title to the place is in Mrs. Baile, but it is said to be somewhat incumbered, a fact which, with other pressing indebtedness, made the unfortunate man despondent and led to the act which has brought such poignant grief upon his family and friends. Mr. Baile was about thirty-six years old, and leaves a widow and four children, the youngest being a babe about a year old.

Funeral services were held at the house at 1 o'clock, Monday afternoon, Rev. P. H. Miller, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church of this city, officiating, assisted by Rev. Dr. J. T. Ward, who was president of Western Maryland College during the period of Mr. Baile's attendance as a student. The remains were interred in Benjamin's Cemetery, in the presence of a grief-stricken multitude of relatives and friends. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. N. H. Baile, brothers; J. Frank Getty, George E. Hoppe, Robert L. Hoppe, Elmer E. Hoppe, brothers-in-law, and J. W. Smith, cousin of the deceased.

On Saturday, June 29th, there met at the residence of Mr. Louis M. Sellman, Warfieldsburg, a very pleasant concourse of people, the occasion having been the sixth birthday of his son, Loui Jean. Shipley Items.

The health of our community is good at present and all our laborers have plenty to do. The harvest season, with all its busy labor, is upon us again and the harvest is a good one. The recent rains made the ground very soft in the grain fields where machinery has to be used. Every growing and ripening crop in this locality looks remarkably well exept corn. Many cornfields have spots of from ¼ to 1 acre in them bare of corn. Some have planted their fields 2 and 3 times. The oats and potato crops are looking remarkably well and the yield will certainly be satisfactory this season. Our apple orchards are looking very full. We think we shall have plenty of fruit for winter and cider this fall.

Warfieldsburg Items.

The farmers are about through cutting their crop of grain which is a fair one. We had a very fine rain this week which has started the corn, that, though short for the time of year, is growing rapidly and will make a fair crop, with an occasional shower.

There is a fine prospect for a good oats crop. Fruit will be scarce.

Drs. Gardner an Ridgely, of Baltimore, spent the 4th with J. B. Allison and family.

Manchester Items.

The harvesting season, which was delayed several days last week on account of the rain, is now in full blast and most of the farmers by the close of the week will have their grain upon shocks. The acreage was large, the stand good and the quality above the average. The heavy rainfall on Thursday last was quite beneficial to corn and potatoes. It was the heaviest of the season, washing many fields and roads quite badly.

Although the threatening weather interfered with the attendance at the festival of class No. 4, Mrs. May C. Gettier, at her home on North Main street. The wares were generally disposed of and the class are plus $10, to return to the repair fund.

Among the graduates of the Reisterstown High School were Messrs. Geo. Trump, Martin Baltozer and Miss Ada Trump of this place.

LATER.—The National holiday was ushered in with abundant noise, the small boy adding to the din with his fire crackers. A portion of the band paraded and quite a crowd joined in the jubilation, firing salutes and making the midnight hour resound with shouts and the noise of explosives.

During the morning the Enterprise Baseball Club of Woodberry arrived and joined issues with the Manchester club, to the great discomfort of the latter, which received an overwhelming defeat, the score having been 28 to 8 in favor of the visitors. The game was repeated in the afternoon, but with a much more satisfactory result. The home club played in much better form and with more nerve, and kept the visitors down to six runs. The visitors were again victorious however, but they only had one run to spare, the home club having scored 5. Mr. Robert Shower was umpire. The clubs lined up as follows:

Sams Creek Items.

On last Sunday evening we received in our section a very heavy rain. Especially so on the head waters of Sams Creek—almost a cloud burst—doing some damage by way of washing cornfields and roads and removing some small bridges. There was no lightning or thunder during the rain which lasted nearly an hour.

Our farmers are about through with their grain cutting which they find to be a heavy crop. No serious accident occurred to any of our farmers during harvest except the usual breaking of machinery.

Those who have threshed their barley say the yield is most excellent.

In our section at this time business seems to be brightening up somewhat. Mr. Solomon T. Engler & Son are doing a fine milling business with their new plantigrade process. Their flour gives excellent satisfaction. Our storekeepers are also doing a good business. N. E. Franklin, who commenced keeping store last spring, is well patronized.

Some of our people who have been on the sick list for some time are now improving. Mr. Eddie Carlisle, who accidentally fell off a load of rails and hurt himself badly, is out again. Mr. Thomas Bond, who has been quite feeble in health, has somewhat improved, though not able to do anything. Elder Wm. H. Franklin, who was last winter operated on by Dr. Tiffany, of Baltimore, has entirely recovered and is now able to at end to his ministerial duties again. John Rigler, living with Charles H. Roop, who had been sick for the last two weeks, is out again.

Some of our poultry raisers have been unlucky with their growing chicks. Minks killed, one night not long since, for Mr. John Franklin, one hundred young chickens, for Mrs. Susan Evans 75, and for some other persons along the creek more or less. Some of the minks paid the penalty of their crimes.

It is said that Senator P. J. Bennett, will this season make on his two Sams Creek farms nearly 150 tons of hay. The Senator is superintending the harvesting on his farms this season.

Middleburg Items.

The storm last week did considerable damage in this vicinity. Mr. John F. Buffington's corn-crib was blown over and a large shade tree in the yard at his residence was literally torn to pieces. Only the trunk was left standing. The wheat was blown down and considerably damaged. Farmers found it very difficult to harvest it and many of them had to run rakes through it before their reapers could be used in cutting it. On Sunday evening another heavy rain occurred, which washed the gardens and cornfields very badly.

The hay crop, which was secured in excellent condition, is a very heavy one. Wheat harvest is about over.

New Windsor College.

The Presbytery of Baltimore met in Eck's Hall, East Fayette street, Baltimore, on Monday, and discussed plans for the financial reorganization of New Windsor College, at New Windsor, this county. The committee appointed to examine the condition of the college, consisting of Robert H. Smith, John V. L. Graham, John P. Ammidon, Theo. K. Miller, and Rev. James Fraser, reported that the institution, which is under Presbyterian auspices, has about forty acres of land and is incumbered with a debt of about $10,000, of which $6,000 is in mortages and $4,000 in judgements. The report also stated that the college has deteriorated as a Presbyterian institution. The committee recommended that the college be continued.

The report was adopted and resolutions were passed to the effect that the college be retained under Presbyterian auspices, and that the committee be authorised to make further investigation and solicit subscriptions by stock for the institution, payable conditionally upon the purchase of the property. The committee is to report again at the fall meeting of the presbytery, which will be held the second week in October. A resolution commending New Windsor College to all parents seeking to place their sons and daughters in a Christian collegiate institution was also adopted.

Resolutions on the death of the late Rev. Dr. A. M. Jelly, president of the college, were passed and will be sent to his family.
