BEAM'S MERCHANTS' HOTEL,

SOUTH CHARLES STREET.

THE subscriber (late proprietor of the Globe Inn,) respectfully informs his friends and the public that he has leased that MAGNIFICENT BUILDING, erected by Dr. Houck, on SOUTH CHARLES STREET. The house is in complete order and newly furnished. The location of the house being in the centre of business, and in the neighborhood of the Railroad Depot and a short distance from the Steamboat Landings, renders it one of the most central situations in Baltimore. The subscriber having had long experience in Hotel keeping, hopes by strict attention to business to merit a share of public patronage.

ATTENTION.

TO FEVER AND AGUE PATIENTS.

BEFORE, as well since, the discovery of the great remedy for Fever and Ague ROWAND'S TONIC MIXTURE (now called Rowand's Improved Tonic Mixture with the written signature of John R. Rowand on the mouth of each bottle, to distinguish it from a lot of "adulterated Tonic Mixture," made during the author's absence and disconnection with its manufacture and sale from the spring of 1839 to 1841) "pretended" cures for this troublesome complaint have always been springing up in various parts of the country. ☞But mark! since its discovery and almost universal and exclusive use throughout the U. States, Canada, Texas, Mexico, West Indies, South America, &c., all new remedies "steal its good name"—counterfeit its taste, smell and appearance as closely as they can—imitate its manner of using—copy its directions—and by various other shifts and prevarications attempt to palm off upon the credulous and unwary their paltry guess-work Tonic Mixtures and Pills in place of the old favorite, sterling and supreme remedy. Nothing perhaps could more positively prove the excellence of the true medicine than this one fact—for were it not the "first best" they would not select it out, for receiving their "hypocritical respects," but would confer their "compliments" upon something else they deemed the "foremost cure." And what more convincing argument do fever and ague patients need to guard them against any and all of these counterfeit and spurious imitations, and to render them careful to procure the genuine and undoubted remedy of the Proprietor himself, in Philadelphia, or of his accredited agents throughout the United States, &c.

POOLE'S HEALTH RESTORATIVE.

THE subscriber, the discoverer of the Health Restorative, having been for more than twenty years afflicted with continued illhealth, experiencing all those horrible sensations attendant upon a general functional derangement of the stomach and bowels, such as nausea, loss of appetite, lassitude, pain in the head and eyes, pain in the shoulders, soreness about the stomach, pain and soreness about the kidney and loins; sick headache, costiveness, and extreme general debility; and, under the treatment of the regular faculty, (many of whom had attained to extensive and exalted professional reputation for skill and moral worth,) received no permanent benefit.

The subscriber, during this protracted period of suffering, had watched the symptoms of his disease closely, and had not been an indifferent observer to the effects of the many remedies used, which were, in most cases, such as were brought to bear and immediately to act upon the stomach and bowels, which were already so much weakened from the disease that they were unable to supply the wants of nature, while scarcely any thing was done to act directly upon the skin and the extreme organs. Having come to the conclusion that, as the regular and natural functions of the skin were to remove a large amount of effete matter from the blood by sensible and insensible perspiration, that this continued action was absolutely necessary for the promotion and preservation of health, determined to try external applications, believing that, if the natural functions of the skin were restored by appropriate treatment, the restoration of the health of the patient would be the result; and, in order to effect this object, the subscriber deemed it necessary to use such remedies as were calculated to stimulate and strengthen the weak parts in their action—nature, in the meanwhile, throwing to the surface, by means of this preparation, the cause of the disease, which was then removed by the increased action of the absorbents, and, in the meantime, a free and equalized circulation of the blood is kept up, which is no less important to health; for certain it is that, in the same proportion as the blood fails to flow to the surface and extremities, so its action is increased upon the internal organs.

After trying a variety of irritants, stimulants, and absorbents, variously combined, to the surface, and tonics calculated to stimulate and strengthen the stomach and bowels, he was fortunate in compounding a remedy, the use of which has been the means of imparting strength and vigor, not only to the digestive organs, but the resulting good effects of which have been experienced in the whole system.

The Restorative will not only be found efficacious in dyspeptic cases, but in all cases where nature's powers, whether from weariness or ill treatment, have become weakened or morbid in their action, whether general or local, in all cases where blistering or cataplasms can be used to advantage, the Restorative will be found most efficacious, superceding, in a great measure, all other stimulants and irritants. Persons suffering with protracted Bronchitis, Sore Throats, and that form of Consumption to which many divines and others, who are in the habit of much public speaking, are subject to, Chronic Rheumatism, Pain in the Back, Lumbago, &c. Affections of the Kidney, Sprains and Bruises, Stiffness of the Joints, Nervous Affections, Affections of the Spine, Swellings of long standing, Wens and Tumors, Bites and Stings of Poisonous insects, Scalds and Burns, Chillblains, Recent Wounds, Fits and Spasms, Cholics, Toothache, Protracted Pleurisy, &c.

The subscriber is influenced in bringing his remedies before the public by an ardent desire to benefit suffering humanity. Having been, for so many years, a martyr to much suffering himself, he can readily and naturally sympathize with the afflicted; and having been, at last, in a great measure restored, he is extremely solicitous that his fellow beings, who are or may be enduring all anxieties of mind and physical distress which are the unavoidable results of ill health, as he believes, may have a remedy within their reach that is efficient and certain in imparting the inestimable blessing of health in the remedies as now offered to the public. Influenced by these views and motives, he hopes it will be in his power to do much good in his day and generation.

☞ A direction will accompany each bottle, signed by the subscriber in his own handwriting. JOHN POOLE.
