ROBERT GARRETT IS NOTIFIED.

ADVISED OF HIS NOMINATION BY SENATOR W. B. BAKER.

HIS SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE.

Nearly Three Hundred Republicans, Representing Every Faction and Every Section, in the Committee. Mrs. Garrett Wins Admiration of Her Guests—Charmed by Her Personality —Other Ladies Help to Receive.

From the Baltimore American.

Mr. Robert Garrett's notification of his nomination for Congress on Saturday, by the Republicans in the Second district, was more like a political housewarming with attendant social features than a formal ceremony at which speakers greatly air their oratory.

The usual committee of three or five from each district, representing the cream of influence, was conspicuous by its absence, and instead there came delegations of unusual size, larger, indeed, than are sent to conventions.

Then, again, the ladies were much in evidence, and their tact and refining influence helped materially to make the affair a most enjoyable one. There was an informality about it all that pleased those who were fortunate enough to participate and it gave them an inside view of the candidate's home life, which cannot fail to leave a favorable impression.

The notification ceremony took place on the lawn fronting the fine residence of Mr. Garrett at Charles street and Wyndhurst avenues, where rows of chairs had been arranged for the guests. These came in special trolley cars to the terminus, and were thence transported in buses. Upon their arrival they were greeted by Mr. Garrett, who presented each guest to Mrs. Garrett and to Mrs. Edward Guest Gibson and Mrs. Charles E. Rieman, who aided in receiving.

MRS. GARRETT A WINNER.

Mrs. Garrett was easily the central figure, and the tact and versatility with which she entertained the 300 Republicans made everyone of them feel at home. The old timers were so taken with her democratic ways and the happy way in which she entertained her husband's guests that they, in all seriousness, suggested to Mr. Garrett having his wife accompany him on his campaigning tours.

Said one grizzly veteran: Boys, she's a wonder. If she ever gets among the voters it's all up with Talbott. I don't believe there's a Democrat in the District who could resist her. I have heard of English women who went out to help their husbands, and brought about their election. If they were half as tactful and fascinating as this little woman, I do not wonder at their success."

Mrs. Garrett's popularity was evidenced late in the afternoon, when she appeared with Robert Garrett, Jr., in her arms, and the men crowded around to say nice things about the chubby youngster, who crowed his delight over the unexpected attention.

Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Rieman also exerted themselves to make the stay of the politicians pleasant. It was a new experiene for them and they entered upon their task with some misgiving, but they soon felt reassured and contributed greatly to the success of the affair. When the reception was over they realized what was meant by the handshaking ordeal, but if either of them suffered from the numerous hearty grips they gave no evidence thereof. They said afterward they enjoyed it all immensely, and are more interested in politics and politicians than ever.

NOTIFICATION CEREMONY.

The reception on the lawn preceded the more serious event, that of notifying the candidate, and his acceptance of the nomination. It was after two o'clock when all of the delegates were seated in chairs provided for them, and addressed by Mr. O. E. Weller, chairman of the district committee, who announced the purpose of the gathering. He referred to the glorious weather as an augury of the success of the Republicans in the district, and then presented as the spokesman for the committee, "that tried and true Republican, William B. Baker."

As Mr. Baker moved forward he was greeted with hearty applause. He said, in part, that the pleasant duty had been assigned to him to notify Mr. Garrett of his nomination "He knows it all ready," said Mr. Baker, whereupon there was a ripple of laughter, 'but he knows something else. He knows the Republicans are wide awake and united and will give him loyal support, and that in November the Second district will give a majority for Taft and Garrett. In my humble judgment, the vote they will receive will be larger than was given Teddy.

"The statement has been made that Mr. Garrett, like Mr. Bryan, had been twice defeated; but there is this difference: While Bryan's vote has decreased at every recurring election, that of Mr. Garrett has continually increased. He was beaten 2,100 votes the first time and 1,200 the second. The next time he will be elected. All that is necessary to insure victory is for every Republican to work. Every man must do his duty. This district has been carried four times by the Republicans, and they can do it again. On each occasion Bryan was a candidate the state sent a solid Republican delegation to Congress, and I am confident that in the coming election we will do it again." (Applause).

MR. GARRETT'S ACCEPTANCE.

As Mr. Garrett stepped forward to make reply the 300 arose and gave him an ovation. It was sometime before he was permitted to proceed. He then said:

"I gladly accept the nomination for Congress proffered to me by the Republican party in the Second congressional district, and in doing so I desire to state that it is my purpose to do all that lies in my power to further the principles of and to aid the measures advocated by the present administration and by the candidates for president and vice president on the Republican ticket.

"My sole object in taking an active part in politics and becoming a candidate is to further the interests and welfare of all the people.

"And I desire to remind you, and through you the voters of the district, that in choosing Mr. Taft for their next president it is essential to support him beyond this point by sending to Washington a Republican House of Representatives.

"It will be impossible for him to succeed in carrying out the policies to which he has pledged himself, and which are of vital importance to the country unless he has the support of Congress. I depend on every man here to exert himself to the utmost, as I myself shall do, to assure a Republican victory in this district in November.

"In the last congressional campaign our party made great gains in the district, and I appreciate deeply the honor and privilege you have conferred upon me by once more making me the standard bearer at a time when we can confidently expect success." (Long and continued applause.)

When he concluded his remarks Mr. Garrett invited the big committee into the house where an elaborate luncheon had been prepared. Mrs. Garrett, Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Rieman served the guests, who subsequently scattered about in groups on the lawn and spent the remainder of the afternoon in formulating plans.

Later in the evening the guests were taken back to the terminal in buses, where special cars were in waiting.

THE DUTY TO WAGE WAR.

We have a right to take pride in whatever is honest and true in our commercial, industrial and financial systems of business. But this right is only the other half of the question. Along with it goes the duty to wage war against whatever is wrong and false in business methods and conditions. The two can never stand together in peace, any more than light and darkness can coalesce, or the lion and the lamb lie down together. There is, between these two, a perpetual declaration of war to the death, and the duty of every honest and faithful citizen is to carry a loaded gun for iniquity and wrong wherever it manifests itself, whether it be in political, in commercial, or in industrial life.—Wall St. Journal.

SIX TO FIVE.

Westminster Wins.

From the moment when Doyle said "Play Ball," in the game on Saturday between Westminster and Mechanisville, until the last batter was down there was not an instant in which the battle was not uncertain and consequently full of interest. In the first inning Westminster rooters were a little uneasy when Jenkins walked two men to first, but were relieved when he struck out two and the fifth man at the bat went out on a fly. The chief feature of the game was the splendid pitching of Dixon, who was in good form and struck out Westminster's hard hitters. Spencer made three of the six hits secured by the home team and even he was fooled when he came up the fourth time; and Herd simply could not find the ball. Gorsuch held him remarkably well and had only one passed ball to his discredit. The interest reached its cilmax in the ninth inning. The score stood 6 to 5 in favor of Westminster. Oursler connected with the ball in great shape and sent it whirling far into the right, but Butler reached it in time and accomplished that which everyone supposed impossible, changing Oursler's expected safe hit to an out. Frazer followed with a two bagger, and afterward worked down to third. L. Warner struck out. Then came a strange happening. Gittings came to the bat. Doyle called "One ball," "Two balls," "One strike," Three strikes." Frazer, on third, was playing the game, and when Westminster players heard the call "Three strikes" and abandoned their position supposing the game over, slipped home and touched the plate. Seventy-five per cent of the spectators recognized the umpire's mistake. Jenkins had pitched only four balls, and two of these were balls, without question. The only way to account for the mistake of Mr. Doyle, who umpired a clean game, was the slipping of the pointer of his indicator, which marked three strikes instead of two. After much friendly but positive discussion it was agreed to put the men in statu quo. Gittings stepped up to the plate. Jenkins shot him a hot one but it went wide, and the Mechanicsville rooters sent up a yell of joy, "Three balls," "Two strikes"; score 6-5 and a man on third. But the agony was over in an instant when Jenkins sent one straight over the plate and found the hole in Gittings' bat. The Mechanisville boys are fine fellows, played well individually and in team work and accepted their defeat like men.

SCORE BY INNINGS.

First Inning—Mechanicsville, struck out 2, one caught on third.

Westminster, Eckenrode struck out, Danner caught at first, Bankert fly and out.

Second Inning—Frazer made a hit and reached first. F. Warner walked. Gittings, Dixon and Barnes struck out. Spencer led off for Westminster with a two bagger. Diffendal went out on a foul fly to McGlone, Burnhart was given his first, Herd struck out, Jenkins sent the ball to second, reached first in safety and brought Spencer home, advancing Barnhart to third and home on a wild throw. Jenkins was caught at second.

Third Inning—Something doing. Gorsuch reached first by a neck; A. Warner bunted safe and McGlone made a hit, and all three scored. Oursler was caught at first, Frazer reached second when F. Warner went out at 1st and Gittings punched. Stoner for Westminster connected with the ball but failed to reach first, Eckenrode struck out, Danner was hit by a pitched ball, Bankert sent the crowd wild with a three-bagger bringing Danner home, Spencer sent him on his way safe with a good hit, Diffendal made three strikes but Gorsuch let the third one pass and the batter got on the bases, moving round when Barnhart was hit by a pitched ball, Spencer and Diffendal both worked home before Herd again struck out.

Fourth Inning—Dixon made a hit, Barnes struck out, Gorsuch went out at first, A. Warner got his first on balls; McGlone scored another hit off Jenkins, bringing Dixon home, advancing Warner to third, but Oursler failed to reach first. Westminster slid out easy, Jenkins at first and Stoner and Eckenrode fanned.

Fifth Inning—Frazer reached first on Barnhart's only error, a wild throw, and slipped down to second, later scoring. F. Warner struck out, Gittings bunted but failed to reach first, Dixon got his base on balls, but Barnes went out at first. Westminster did not tarry long at the bat. Danner and Bankert k'd, Spencer made a hit, but Diffendal failed to touch the globe.

Sixth Inning—Gorsuch again failed to reach first, though he touched the ball, A. Warner struck out, McGlone got to first but stayed there, for Oursler followed Warner's example. Barnhart gave McGlone a fly and was gathered in, Herd struck out, Jenkins made a hit but it proved profitless, for Stoner struck out.

Seventh Inning—Frazer and F. Warner struck out, Gittings secured first by a good bunt, Dixon followed him on balls, and Barnes went out to Jenkins. Butler, who took Eckenrode's place with Westminster, struck out, Danner sent a hot one to Dixon, but he fielded it in time, and Bankert fanned.

Eighth Inning—Gorsuch out at first, A. Warner and McGlone struck out. For the first time Dixon fooled Spencer, Diffendal gave F. Warner a chance to throw him out at first and he accepted. Barnhart sent a hot one to McGlone who fielded it splendidly and threw the runner out at first.

Ninth Inning—Butler gathered in Onrsler's fly, Frazer found Jenkins for a two-bagger, Warner F. and Gittings struck out.

A very sad death occurred here on Saturday last, when Mr. Harry Myers peacefully passed away, at the age of 25 years, 5 months. For some time he had been subject to epileptic attacks at long intervals, but they became more frequent and last week had so multiplied that he was compelled to abandon his trade of cigar making and take to his bed. Neighbors and friends witnessed the most pathetic scenes around his bedside, where the aged mother and young wife saw the end gradually approaching. Harry was a kind, genial young man, always cheerful and ready to lend a helping hand or do a kind act. He was possessed with a natural talent for music and many were the occasions when he entertained friends with his violin, banjo, piano, or with song. Less than 2 years ago he was married to Miss Lizzie Price, of Greenmount, who with one child survives him. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, who, with a brother, also survive him. His remains were taken to Greenmount on Monday and interred in the family lot of his father-in-law in the U. B. cemetery, Rev. Zuse officiating. Messrs. William Brilhart, Jacob E. Muselman, Arthur Burgoon, Herman Theiret, David Myers and Harvey Smith were the pallbearers, and Jacob Wink undertaker.

Our statement of last week in relation to the death and burial of Mr. John Kreitzer, whose remains were brought here from near Red Line, Pa., needs correction. He was buried in the Reformed cemetery instead of the Catholic. He became a member of the Rev. S. M. Roeder's church near Glen Rock several years ago, of which his friends were not aware. Dr. Land officiated at his funeral in Trinity church. The account of his death given in the dailies was also incorrect as he did not commit suicide, but died from heart failure in a fit of anger and fear of arrest. Dr. John W. Dehoff, of York, was the physician at the coroner's inquest and found the above to be the cause of his death. The widow and a number of friends from Red Line attended the funeral.

The citizens of Greenmount and vicinity enjoyed a very pleasant function at the home of Mr. Jacob N. Dehoff on Friday evening of last week and participated in a water melon party given by Mr. D. The lawn and yard were decorated with flags and lanterns and a long table was loaded with the luscious fruit. 125 persons were present, 75 children and 50 adults, who all did full justice to 40 fine melons. After the feast there was fun making to burn, in games, song and general sociability.

Pocahontas Tribe of Red Men of this place, at their meeting on Thursday night last, decided to hold a basket picnic in the grove of Mr. Nelson Grove, Germantown extended.

They have had their hall repaired, frescoed, painted and furnished with new carpet and blinds at a cost of $650.

Mrs. John Boring and children, of Woodberry, are visiting Mrs. B's. parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Shaffer.

Miss Laura Myers and sister spent Sunday with their uncle, Mr. Frank Cofiel, and family, of Arcadia.

Mrs. Samuel L. Lilly, of Frederick, was a guest of her friend, Miss Fannie G. Ross, several days this week.

Mr. Isador Stricklin, near Maple Grove, while engaged in domestic duties, fell unconscious near his home on Monday last. Dr. Preston was called and found his condition serious. He was suffering from a weak heart. He is improved at this writing.

Mr. Charles Brilhart and sons are harvesting and housing their tobacco, which is of a fine growth. They have been quite successful in tobacco raising for several years.

The place for the holding of the Bachman Sunday School picnic has been changed to the grove of Mr. John D. Shaffer on the north side of Dug Hill, near the home of Mr. George P. Panebaker, along the Bachman county road. It will be held on Saturday, September 12th.

Mr. Noah Shaffer has had the front porch of his home enlarged to the full length of the building, adding much to the seating capacity.

On Thursday of last week Misses Dora Leese, Ray Hoffacker, Eva Bixler, Corinne Sherman, May Brilhart; Lizzie Shultz, Viola Caltrider, Baltimore; Bessie Hann, Greenmount; and Messrs. Wm. Mansenhimer, Guy Hanson, Prof. John L. and Ross Blocker and D. Groff Everhart took an outing to Moreland Spring, east of town, equipped with a sack of corn, where they enjoyed a corn roast. A large fire was kindled and the corn in husk was imbedded in the coals and came out deliciously roasted, and with the trimmings, gave them a royal feast. This and the merriment that prevailed made a red letter period in their summer vacations.

Dr. L. Trump and family were notified on Wednesday of the death of Mrs. John Pfeiffer, at a sanitarium near Elizabethtown, N. J. She was a resident here for many years but for some years since the death of her husband was with her son, Dr. Harry Pfeiffer. She was afflicted with nervous trouble for several years and went to the above place for treatment. The message stated that her remains were placed in a vault awaiting plans for her burial.

Mr. Charles Everhart has sold his stages, team and full express outfit to Mr. Harvey Burgoon, the star route mail carrier between here and Greenmount, who will carry passengers and mail between the above places, meeting all trains north and south on the Hanover Division of the W. M. R. R.

Rev. Groh, of Carlisle, Pa., whose death was announced in the dailies of Wednesday, was well known here from his visits to his daughter, Mrs. S. M. Roeder.

Mr. Frank Brilhart purchased through W. C. Sharer, agent, the home on South Main street, formerly a restaurant, for the sum of $900.
