HOG CHOLERA IN COUNTY

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has notified the Kent News that there are several cases of hog cholera in Kent county and gave us the names of the farmers who now have hogs with the disease.

The following instructions were sent us also:

"Stay away from other people's hog's, keep people away from your hogs. Use care in moving hogs to your premises for any purpose. Keep your dog tied up, keep other dogs away. Promptly burn or bury the carcass of any animal that dies on your premises, see that other people do the same. If a hog in your herd appears sick, lose no time in calling a competent person, veterinarian, if possible, to examine it. If evidence of hog cholera is found in your herd, exposure, lose no time in vaccinating." if there is or has been a possibility of

ROCK HALL

The High School faculty has arranged for another Lyceum Course to be held during the winter. There will be five entertainments and pledges for tickets are being secured.

"The Red Cross, a mother to the soldiers." No doubt about that, God bless her. But don't she fail to make good sometimes? Evidently, no stars were added to her crown at Chestertown yesterday a week ago, when a young man all alone, left on the Ford for Camp for Camp Meade, without the slightest recognition from any Red Cross member. The young man felt the slight very keenly. "In as much as ye did it unto one of these, my brethren, ye did it unto me." However, when the young man reached Baltimore he was placed in charge of the Red Cross by his sister and a member went with him to camp and they promised to send him a complete outfit within two weeks. Had the Rock Hall Red Cross known that he was on his way to camp they would have exemplified the spirit of that brotherhood and sisterhood organization.

"A mistake Corrected." In reference to the item of the Seventh Day Adventists Camp Meeting published in the News two weeks ago will say, it was written verbatim as given by a brother of the faith. Glad the correction was made as it encourages some of us poor sinners to hope for a longer time in which to make "Our peace, calling and election sure."

Rev. "Lank" Prettyman was a welcome visitor to this place last week.

A. J. Smoot who has been spending a pleasant sojourn at the M. E. parsonage returned home on Friday of last week.

A number of our farmers are hard hit by the inability to procure labor One farmer in Eastern Neck had only one man and he has left, leaving his employer with only one field half ploughed and his corn to cut off before he can seed wheat

Private Leonard Leary and Frank Sewell were week-enders at their homes.

Mrs. Hayward Ashley received word from her son, Signalman Romaine Ashley, that upon his arrival on the other side he would be sent to the front. He has been on a transport since last spring.

Mrs. Marion Collison received a letter from her son, Norman, written on August 8th. It had apparently been sent to France where it was remailed and arrived here on last Saturday.

Mrs. Walter Hadaway, Sr., had a letter from her son, Charles, in France. He has not yet been sent to the front, likes the country very well and has plenty to eat. The last notation was a welcome one to the mother as she had been fretting about the food question. A change in location has placed him in a more congenial company and there is much jolity among them.

Miss Loleta Kendall and Miss Ruth Prettyman spent Sunday with the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Bratt. Miss Prettyman has now gone to Baltimore where she will be a telephone operator.

Mrs. Mary E. Warner and son, LeRoy, are spending the week-end with her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jacquette.

C. Frank Wheatley is making a stay in Baltimore with a view to moving there that he may be near his son, Burke, who was registered in the recent draft and may be called for military service.

Miss Anna May Harrison has been hostess to Miss Elsie Jones, of Baltimore. Mrs. W. Thomas Harrison and family will move to Baltimore to be with Mr. Harrison who has been employed there for some time.

Miss Genevieve Hersch will become a pupil at Strayer's Business College, Baltimore.

The four observation towers at Huntingfield, Swan Point, Tolchester and Fairlee Creek are each manned by four soldiers and the big guns at Aberdeen are sending shells down that splash the water as big as a house. The observers at Huntingfield are from South Bend, Ind., where they say there is no water except for drinking. They came here from Pooles Island where they found it very uncomfortable for nerves when shells were dropping all about.

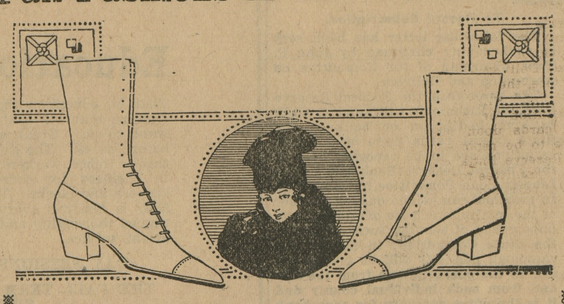
Fall Fashions in Women's Shoes



With Uncle Sam taking hand in the designing of women's shoe fashion there have never been more attractive styles than this seas n.

Tops are lower, being eight inches. Leathers are limited to black, white, grey and two shades of tan.

Regardless of these restrictions, however, the shoe designers have produced some of the finest models in years, and we state with all confidence that you will be particularly well pleased with the results, as shown by the attractive models now on display at our store.

Make it a point to pay us an early visit and get first hand information on "What is right in style" for Fall.

What Can a Woman Do?

"The women of France will always be associated in my mind with one woman, a peasant, whom I saw at the entrance of one of the Metro stations in Paris at the beginning of the war. She was bidding farewell to her soldier son. There was a world of sadness in her eyes, but no hesitation, and she was smiling bravely as she kissed him first on one cheek, then on the other, and gave him a loving little pat on the arm. She was still as he turned to wave a last adieu from the bottom of the steps, but I never heard such sobs as shook her slender body, once he was out of sight. I had stopped to inquire the way to the American Counsulate; the man to whom I spoke did not know. The woman overheard my question and the response, and even in that moment of intense grief, with that spirit of divine self-forgetfulness which was characteristic of the French people those days, and gave me the directions. We talked for a moment; he was her only son, her only child."

It was a little thing, but it is typical of France and the French women, who in the awful years since that August day of 1914 have never faltered. Bravely they have responded to every call. Shall it be said that women of America are less heroic?

Your country calls, Your future welfare, liberty, everything you possess, are at stake. The best interests of the whole wide world are involved in this struggle; will you volunteer for service?

It is not only that the Government and the big business concerns engaged in war work must have trained office workers to take the place of men who are "over there," but there is the vast volume of extra work incidental to the war and absolutely necessary to VICTORY. The demand for secretaries, stenographers, book-keepers, typists, cashiers and clerks extends to every branch of commercial activity—to the railroads, banks business and professional offices, as well as to the great industrial plants. Salaries have never been so high, nor opportunities so great, but aside from any question of personal aggrandizement, it is your patriotic duty.

Understand the work must be done if we are not going to fail in the great crisis.

What can a woman do? It has been proved that she can do almost anything a man can do.

A few months of training at BEACOM'S and YOU can relieve the government of your part of the burden at least.

If you wish to know what a woman can do, what YOU can do to help your country in this emergency, call upon the B B C for full particulars. If you are truly in earnest, call or write at once.
