Evangelist Wm. D. Laumaster, who has been in our midst for the past ten days, engaged in special meeting in the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, has given expression to some very complimentary things concerning Westminster as a town and place to live in and he has done this in his public utterances from night to night in speaking to the large audiences who have gone to hear him preach the gospel. Among other things he said that our town is beautiful for situation, with fine surrounding country, good streets and sidewalks and well lighted. He also paid a fine compliment to the way in which the residents care for their homes and yards. Banks, churches and schools and public buildings came in for a share of praise, as well as the business interests in general. As to the standard of the newspapers and their equipment, he found them up to date and equal to, if not better, than many in larger cities. Mr. Laumaster did not claim that the town was free from all that was wrong, or that it did not need anything to make it better, but that, from a large experience in many places, he thought Westminster was a delightful town to live in. His stay in our city is enjoyed by many who have come to know him as a man who desires to do the greatest good for the people. He says he is pleased to be among us.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

Taneytown Trinity Lutheran Christian Endeavor Society held a social on George Washington's birthday. About sixty of its active members were present besides a number of the honorary members and friends, in all 118.

An interesting program was rendered by some of the members, music by the Sunday school orchestra and appropriate amusements and refreshments. In all a sociable and good time was enjoyed.

This society has good meetings, well attended by the members and members of the church.

The members of the society have been working to get the young people to sit up front, especially the boys in a group. By so doing it has greatly helped the singing and the young folks as well as it is easier for them to take part.

Special music either instrumental or vocal, and recitations are planned for each C. E. meeting. The offerings for two evenings of the month are used for missions. For the regular missionary night a special program is planned by that committee. The C. E. World is used. Part of its plans carried out. Subjects for talks, questions to be answered are given out in advance of the meetings, then the young people will get up and give splendid talks.

Brandenburg M. P. Christian Endeavor Society gave the play, "A Prophecy Fulfilled or Mrs. Church's Baby." The program came from The United Society of Christian Endeavor.

The play was well attended and enjoyed very much. The Society realized eleven dollars. The county treasurer will receive one-tenth of it.

The officers of the Finksburg Society were installed by Dr. Bowers, president of Maryland M. P. Conference, Sunday night, February 28th. It was an impressive service.

A National and State Ticket of Fifty Years Ago.

AN INTERESTING RELIC OF CIVIL WAR TIMES

The Sentinel is indebted to Miss Mary B. Shellman for a copy of the National and State ticket voted by Unionists of Maryland at the election in November, 1864. Of all the candidates on the ticket there is but one survivor, Hon. Robert J. Jump, of Caroline county, who was elected Comptroller of the Treasury. Mr. Lincoln, who headed the ticket, received a substantial majority, having been voted for by fully half the male citizens of legal age.

Thomas Swann was the Union or Republican candidate for Governor, but deserted the party at the close of the war. In connection with his candidacy an interesting incident, which occurred in this county, is related. The boys of Frizellburg manufactured a gigantic Swan, or possibly a goose, though it was designed as a compliment to the candidate for Governor, and a hundred of them, residing in that locality, drew the effigy on wheels to a meeting in this city, at which Mr. Swann was one of the speakers. Prof. Geo. F. Morelock, superintendent of the public schools is said to have been one of the boys. Folowing was the ticket:

A SURPRISE PARTY

The many friends of Miss Jessie Parker, of Emory, gathered together and gave her and Miss Margaret Leight a surprise party on Monday night, March 1, 1915. At an early hour the guests arrived and soon the house was filled with merry voices. The girls both were greatly surprised. Games of all kinds were indulged in until a late hour when refreshments were served in abundance. After spending a most delightful evening all departed for their homes in the wee small hours of the morninig, very heavy hearted, after bidding Miss Parker adieu before her departure on an early train for Hockingport, Ohio, where she, with her parents, will reside. Among those present were: Misses Jessie Parker, Fannie and Margaret Leight, Ethel Upperco, Anna Bond, Hazel Zepp, Edith Beam, Naomi Upperco, Pearl Zepp, Clara Burk, Mary Gill and Ruth Taylor; Messrs Chester Myers, Lester Taylor, Walter Mummaugh, Arthur Carr, Geo. Parker, Saul Myers, Benjamin Roop, Edgar and Benjamin Bond, Raymond Burk, Robert Raver, Vernon Gill, Bond Roop, Arthur Burk, Harry Parker and Lewis Leight.

HIGH SOCIETY

President Wilson in an address the other day at a Berea college meeting, compared the ways of the simple mountain folks with those of high society. "The airs of the select are often amusing," said the President.

The value of the services rendered by the circles called "Society," is the subject of many differences of opinion. Undoubtedly society people do a very large amount of philanthropic work. But there is a disposition among the men of these circles to shunt these tasks off on the women. When a man acquires a million dollars, one would think he could well spare from money making some time for philanthropic causes.

Some of them do. But the great majority think they can serve the human race by proxy.

Probably the most serious charge to be made against high society is its waste of time. The whirligig of teas, balls, receptions, continues summer and winter. It is hard work, consuming vitality, and rendering no edequate return.

The business men of this country feel that people of South America should be so anxious to buy our goods that they will proceed to acquire the English language to find out about them.
