The Advocate says that any white, intelligent tax-payer who condemns "Governor Smith for calling an extra session of the General Assembly or the acts passed by that body" is "more in favor of a generally penniless class ruling the state than the property-holding citizens." Does the Advocate favor a property qualification for voters? Its language certainly bears that construction.

The important information that Aguinaldo has taken the oath of allegiance to the United States comes from Manila. The act was voluntary on the part of the leader of the Filipino insurrection. Neither threats nor promises were made to influence him in the matter. He was permitted to consult with former comrades who have given in their adhesion and become friendly to the United States, and became convinced that resistance to this government was without hope of success. It is believed that he took the oath in good faith and that his influence will go far toward the pacification of the detached and scattered bands of guerillas yet in arms. In this respect he may be made very useful to the government and counteract the evil effect of his previous pernicious course. While prudence dictates that he should be kept under restraint it is more than probable that he will not otherwise be severely dealt with. It will be a great deal better to employ his services in the consummation of peace and good order than to pursue a course toward him that would insure his bitter hostility and prompt him to further hostile action; if the opportunity should be given.

President McKinley has nominated Gen. Frederick Funston, the captor of Aguinaldo, to be a Brigadier General in the Regular Army. This prompt recognition of the great service rendered by Gen. Funston meets with the general approbation of the people, although it is said to be distasteful to some of the regular officers who hang around Washington. As Gen. Funston takes the place of a retiring brigadier his appointment interferes with the promotion of some other officers; but his history as a soldier fully justifies his advancement, outside of the sentiment of admiration excited by his last daring exploit. He is by no means a reckless commander of men, but a cautious and brave officer, who knows how to strike stunning blows when the opportunity offers. The perfect success which marked his entire plan to capture Aguinaldo, demonstrates that, while it was a daring conception it was not a foolhardy venture, but a well digested and carefully matured scheme, and shows its author to be a resourceful as well as a thoroughly courageous soldier. The little Kansan may yet wear the stars of a lieutenant-general and command all the armies of the United States. He is a born soldier not a machine-made one.

A horrid nightmare disturbs the rest of our neighbor of the Advocate. It takes the shape of a dense, black cloud looming up in the South and sweeping on towards our goodly Maryland, threatening disaster and distruction as it rises higher and draws nearer. But what strange phenomena is this that now show upon its deep, dark bosom? Are those faces which appear upon its front, faces innumerable, with protruding lips and with craniums clothed with black and kinky hair? Oh, horror! These are Virginia and South Carolina negroes, swarming up like locusts to Sparrows Point and other points in Maryland for the purpose of overwhelming and destroying the Democratic party, and turning this good old Commonwealth into a negro government. Will not somebody wake up our alarmed neighbor, and break the spell of this horrid nightmare. It is only seven months yet till election time and nobody who has come into Maryland from another State since the election last year, or who may come here between this time and next November, will be entitled to vote at the election in that month. Negro colonization is only a bad dream, neighbor, or the product of a perfervid imagination. Don't let it longer disturb your rest. But don't imagine, either, on the other hand, that if the Republicans were in the colonization business the new election law would be a hindrance in their way. They'd be sure only to colonize people who could read their ballots. As the whole colonization story, however, is a myth, the Advocate's frantic outcries need disturb nobody else.

Necessity vs. Right.

Notwithstanding the bold assertions of Democratic politicians and some Democratic newspapers that what was done by the General Assembly of Maryland, recently in extra session, was necessary and right, the Republicans, generally, and hosts of Democrats are of a decidedly contrary opinion, at least as to the rightness of its proceedings. As to their necessity that depends upon the purpose to which that word applies. An individual or party may find it necessary to do some act that no right thinking man will justify because the purpose of the act is not right. "Necessity" and "right" are, therefore, very different terms. Democratic politicians in Maryland conceived the idea that it was necessary, in order to continue their hold upon the State government, to call an extra session of the Legislature and enact such laws as would make it impossible, or extremely difficult, for certain citizens to exercise rights and privileges conferred upon them by the constitution. The Governor adopted the idea and issued his proclamation accordingly. The Legislature met and carried out a program arranged for it by the party dictator. That was deemed the necessary part of the scheme to make the State of Maryland over to a conscienceless Ring, which, when previously in power, denied the people their rights, prostituted the ballot by a system of the most outrageous frauds and made legislation at Annapolis a subject of barter and sale.

This description of the political condition in Maryland previous to 1895 is drawn with extreme moderation. That that condition was worse than stated, even hidebound Democratic newspapers will hardly deny. It was so bad, indeed, that even a Carroll county Democratic convention was led to denounce it, and the chairman of the Democratic county central committee supported the denunciatory resolution in a speech savagely attacking Gorman and Gorman methods.

Now, it is extremely doubtful whether the supreme dictator of his party had any show to regain his old-time power without depriving a portion of the citizens of the State of their constitutional privileges—hence the supposed necessity for an extra session of the Legislature and the enactment of a law to render the constitution partially inoperative. This necessity, however, did not make the enterprize righteous. On the contrary it is the factor in the whole proceeding that stamps it with blackest infamy, because its basis is the denial of the rights of the people.

Now, gentlemen of the Democratic press, are you prepared to deny the assertion that, for years preceding the election of 1895, elections in Maryland were generally marked by the greatest frauds? Have you the hardihood to deny that graveyard registration, repeating, pudding tickets, false counting, or violence, one or all, marked every election during the period named and until the Democratic Ring was overthrown, with the assistance of honest Democratic voters, in 1895? Are you not aware that the Ring was guilty upon every count in this indictment? and do you not know that it could not regain power except by the process of disfranchisement adopted by the General Assembly at its extra session? That is why Democratic politicians thought the extra session necessary—necessary to the restoration of the power of the Ring. But Right? Never! It is a libel upon the word to use it in that connection.

For the Sentinel.

WHAT A JEFFERSON DEMOCRAT THINKS OF IT.

MR. EDITOR:

Permit me through your columns to address the gentleman who wrote the editorial in last week's edition of the Democratic Advocate headed "No Apologies."

For brazen effrontery and political subserviency you, Mr. Advocate, have few equals, and 'tis easy for you to brush the matter aside in the way you have done, to your own satisfaction, but there are hundreds of Democrats in Carroll county who demand an apology. Some of them have been disfranchised, sir, by the very men whom they have voted for and elected. Others, like myself, are sons of fathers who have been so unfortunate as to have grown up into manhood in an age when schools were not so numerous as now, and other opportunities were denied them.

We, sir, demand an apology because we shall have to aid in paying $150,000, squandered by men who style themselves Democrats.

And lastly, sir, if this is right to disfranchise men who are tax-payers, men who are many of them better citizens than those who hold up their hands in holy horror at those who cannot read, I say sir, if you are right, I hope you will use your editorial influence to have the gentlemen from Carroll, who aided by their votes the passing of this iniquitous legislation, renominated, and the Democratic illiterates in Carroll will view with pleasure the vindication which the high honorables, the simon-pure, anti-bribery, high-toned, "Bridel" Hoffacker, Dr. Norris, Mr. Walsh, and Mr. Anderson receive at the hands of an outraged people.

I repeat it sir, they need a vindication, and by all means let them be renominated.

I am most respectfully yours,

A JEFFERSON DEMOCRAT.

EASTER GOWNS, BONNETS AND GLOVES ARE READY.

Florists and dressmakers; milliners and merchants conspire to bring the Easter blooms to perfection at the Eastertide—be it early or late in coming. And the store looks as beautiful now as at Christmas.

Your store—and the audience of glad fellow-ownership gets greater and greater. Stores do not own folks as in days gone by—when granddaughter shopped where grandma had bought. Now you rather own the stores—making that one yours which serves you best, and spurring the store's owners on to making it wonderfully beautiful and bright. There's a satisfaction in it all for you—to bring your guests to "the store I generally go to" and hearing them say, as almost every one does say who knows: "Miller Bros. is the best shopping place in Western Maryland, and we are made to feel so much at home and comfortable there."

We want you to feel that this is "your store" in every way. You can go through the various aisles and floors, and gaze and price to your heart's content. Intelligent salespeople will answer your questioning.

A soft mellow light will help you to judge. Broad aisles for your convenience. Goods carefully arranged for easy choosing. Everything priced with a thought to quick selling. Thus, insuring our customer's interests, we add to their goodly number.

The spring fashions are set now—are beyond the realm of experiment—and one buys outfittings with the utmost confidence, at this store. Easter dress is ready.

Marvelous Exhibit of Fashion's Headgear.

The Opening of our Millinery Department has taken place with all the eclat of a very big affair—which it was; and even now people are talking of the very pretty and becoming styles displayed by us. The spring has also arrived with its warm noontime, making all our lady friends desirous of acquiring something in the form of new headgear, and as "the styles" have been at last approved, it now remains for you to decide what you desire to pay for a hat, and select the most becoming from our vast stock; but if you wish for some unique design of your own this Spring, come to us with your ideas and we will readily and satisfactorily build upon your theories.

THE Dress Goods Department

Is possibly the most interesting to you. We have been very careful to make the best selections for this Spring's business that this store has ever made. We could not say any more.

Among the worsted goods you will find every desirable shade and every desirable weave and you will find it at the most desirable prices. Our greatest success has not been in trying to make all we could out of one season's business but it has been due to the fact that we mark every piece of goods on the very smallest possible margin.
