The county fairs are now educating the farmer in scientific agriculture by putting a horse around the mile track in 2.11 1|2.

Moustaches it is said are to be in fashion again. Young men adopt them to look older, and then finally cut them off to look younger.

Attendance at the New York churches is said to be much larger than usual this summer, but probably the congregations were as usual largely made up of visitors to the city.

After spending what they want on their own sporting career, a good many men generously turn over the small change that is left to fit the children out for fall term of school.

The great decline in modern statesmanship was suggested at the conference of governors when most of them appeared without tail coats and plug hats.

It looks as if the Minnesota man who has vowed to let his hair go uncut until the European war is over, was likely to save a very considerable amount of money that he has been paying the barbers.

The President is now said to have a plan in mind for the relief of the Southern cotton planter by governmental agency. Has he also in mind a similar plan for the Northern lumberman?

CHAUTAUQUA

The Westminster Chautauqua Association and the whole community have reason to be very happy today. Last night closed the most successful and perhaps the most interesting Chautauqua season. When on Friday afternoon and night the series of entertainments began with the concerts of the Dunbar Soiree Singers and the splendid lecture "Bright Eyes and Wild Hearts of the Northern Woods," by Dr. Chauncey J. Hawkins, on all sides were heard expressions of wonder and of doubt as to whether the pace set could be kept up throughout the week. As entertainment followed entertainment, doubt passed away, for while it can not be said that each exceeded in excellence those that went before, it can be said that all were equally entertaining and profitable, and that this is the general opinion is attested by the fact that the audiences increased in size from night to night, until last night when the great tent was crowded to overflowing at the crowning act of the week, the splendid concert of the Varkony-Hines Company, and the play, "The Man from Home," by the Avon Players.

Dr. Turner, the Superintendent, was in his happiest mood throughout the week, and handled the exercises with his accustomed skill and good judgment. The tent crew was not as large as in former years, but the young gentlemen composing it were equal to their task, and by their uniform courtesy made many friends.

As the best evidence of the success of the Chautauqua just closed is the fact that of the 700 tickets required to be disposed of in advance to ensure the return next year, more than 600 have been already subscribed for, and more than 100 guarantors have already signed the contract for the coming year.

While the whole community is to be congratulated, special praise and commendation is due to Mr. H. P. Gorsuch, chairman of the local Association, Mr. N. H. Baumgartner, its treasurer, and Mr. George R. Grumbine, chairman of the advertising committee, for their splendid work and untiring zeal in doing the preliminary work whch made the week a great success.

HAMPSTEAD'S CARNIVAL AND FAIR

"The Biggest Event of the Week in Maryland," is the slogan the people of Hampstead are using to advertise their annual Carnival and Fair, to be held in that town Friday and Saturday, September 10 and 11. A most elaborate program consisting of several big parades, military drill and sham battle, band concerts, addresses by both Republican and Democratic candidates for the nomination for governor as well as other candidates of both parties from Carroll and Baltimore counties, is announced. The enthusiasm is not confined to the town of Hampstead. Neighboring towns and communities, it is said, have entered into the affair with a true carnival spirit.

Friday will be Republican day and the town will be a veritable "Mecca" for the candidates of that party. It is expected that William T. Warburton and O. E. Weller will both make addresses. The big industrial parade will also be held on that day. In line, it is anticipated, will be found Westminster's crack military company and Boy Scouts, several volunteer fire companies with their apparatus, a troupe of cavaliers, several bands of music and other features, besides the scores of displays of merchants, fraternal organizations, farmers and others. The selection and crowning of the carnival queen will be at night, following a grand masked frolic and parade.

A magnificent automobile parade is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, September 11, in which more than a hundred decorated automobiles are expected to enter. That will be Democratic Day and a host of Democratic candidates will be in evidence.

Baseball games, free street performances, motion pictures and vaudeville and numerous amusing attractions will fill the entire time both days.

A PLEASANT SOCIAL

A very pleasant social was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob D. Starner on Thursday evening, August 26, in honor of their son, Wm. C. Starner, of Holtsville, Cal., who is home on a visit after an absence of a few years. The evening was spent in playing games and social chats. Ten o'clock everybody was invited to the dining room where a table was laden with all the good things of the season to which all did ample justice. At a late hour all departed for their homes expressing themselves as having spent a very pleasant evening. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob D. Starner, Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Doty, of Campbridge, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin R. Starner, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Holly Dell, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Starner, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. David Kauffman, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. O. Starner, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Starner, Mr. and Mrs. David Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Starner, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Starner, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fitze, Mr. James B. Baxton, Mrs. Wilbur Michels, Misses Marjorie Yingling, Anna Starner, Mollie Babylon, Mary Hull, Alice Starner, Treva Hull, Ruth Baxton, Helen Kauffman, Margaret, Gladys and Mary Starner, Lydia Dell, Louise Doty, Bell and Ruth Starner, Mary Smeak, Mary, Edna and Elizabeth Starner and Corneine Myers, Messrs. Wm. C. Starner, Ernest Loney, Arthur Starner, Walter Marker, Carroll Myers, David and Harold Starner, Robert Starner, Elmer and Carroll Fritze, Carroll Starner and David and Ralph Starner.

A Full Republican Vote at the Primary Election, Tuesday, September 14, Will mean an active campaign Preceding November 2.

Frock, of Union Mills; Mrs. David Martin, of Brummel; Mrs. Keener Wagner and Mr. Jacob Morelock, near this city. After a short service at the house on Monday the funeral took place from St. Benjamin's Lutheran Church, at 10 A. M., and was conducted by Rev. Wm. F. Hersh, the pastor. Interment was in the adjoining cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. John B. Buxton, Charles Peltz, Jesse Nusbaum, Samuel Corbin, John Schweigart and James W. Beacham. Mr. F. C. Sharwas funeral director.

MRS. D. HARRY WEAVER

Mrs. Nettie Weaver, wife of Mr. D. Harry Weaver, publisher of the Coatesville, Pa., Times, died suddenly at her home in Coatesville, on Saturday, aged about 45 years. Mrs. Weaver was a daughter of Mr. Milton A. Woodward, a prominent citizen of Frederick. Her husband is a son of Mrs. Weaver and the late J. Edwin Weaver, of this city. He survives her, with two children, a son and daughter. She also leaves her father, two brothers, Elmer Woodward, of Brunswick, Md., and Milton A. Woodward, Jr., of Coatesville, and one sister, Mrs. Emma Engelbrecht, of Frederick.

Henry Watterson seeks to excuse Wilson. "President Taft," he says, "left the Mexican question to President Wilson." And the latter, we may add, evidently plans to leave it to his successor in a much more complicated form than when he got it.

St. Benjamin's—Sunday school 9.30 A. M. No regular services.

W. F. Hersh, pastor.

Cardinal Gibbons, bearing a letter from the Pope, called upon President Wilson yesterday. The communication, it is stated, is an invitation and request from the Pope, urging the President to unite with him and other neutral nations in an effort to restore peace between the nations at war in Europe, this country to take the leading place in the movement. The Cardinal's conversation with the President was confidential and it is not known whether the Mexican situation was discussed. After his interview with the President the cardinal visited the State Department and talked with Secretary Lansing. He is quoted as having said, "I think the prospects of peace are brightening."

Stockholders are advised to attend corporation meetings, and if they did, no doubt they would be allowed to move to adjourn.

(Monday next, being a legal holiday, Court will set on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.)

Though the people of this country undoubtedly want a permanent, nonpartisan tariff commission they don't want it appointed by a Democratic president who will select a majority of its members from among the men who are opposed to a scientific protective tariff. They want a tariff commission created by the friends of the protection principle. They want it to ascertain the facts and submit those facts to Congress for its guidance in determining the amount of duty necessary to give the American wage earner adequate protection from the cheap labor of foreign countries. They want a tariff commission not subservient to the White House but acting in its own right and according to its own judgment under authority of law definitely prescribing its powers and duties. They want a commission governed by law and under no obligations to a Democratic president who opposes the principle of a protective tariff.

Some members of Congress are practicing their speeches before a mirror to make sure their gestures are properly timed, while others are trying them out in the back lot to see if they can holler loud enough.

THE WAR IN EUROPE

THE WAR NEWS ABOUT SAME AS USUAL

GERMANS ADVANCING, RUSSIANS RETREATING

BUT RUSSIANS CLAIM A VICTORY IN GALICIA

FIGHTING IN WEST WAR ZONE, BUT NOT MUCH CHANGE IN CONDITIONS

FRENCH CLAIM SOME SUCCESSES

ITALIANS HAMMERING AWAY AT AUSTRIANS

ALLIES STILL HELD BACK ON DARDANNELLES

GERMANS THREATENING ROUMANIA

Up to yesterday no material change had occurred in the war situation in Europe during the past week. The Germans are continuing their victorious advance into Russia, and are taking prisoners and munitions from the Muscovites. The extent of their achievements, however, is being exaggerated at Berlin, while Petrograd is still optimistic and hopeful. That is about all that can be said about the conditions concerning the German drive.

It is reported, however, that at the Galician end of the Austrian line, a battle has been fought in which the Russians won a decided victory. No details are given and the report lacks confirmation.

In the Vosges the French are still on the aggressive and Paris reports the gaining of ground from the Germans. There is, however, no notable change in the situation. Apparently nothing is occurring between the opposing armies in Flanders.

The Italians are still making rather slow progress in their campaign against the Austrians, who are making a stubborn resistance. In the Alps the Italians are gaining important positions, however, by mountain climbing against strongly fortified mountain tops. In the Gorz, the situation seems to be unchanged.

On the Dardannelles the Allies are hammering away at Turkish fortifications and report progress. The Turks, however, report that assaults on their fortified positions have been repulsed with severe losses to their enemies.

It is said that the Germans are massing a large body of men on the border of Roumania, with the intention of forcing a passage for war material to the Turks, if the Roumanian government continues to refuse a peaceful movement for that purpose, as it has hitherto declined to do.

Up to yesterday this summed up, in brief, the situation as it appeared in this great conflict.

DODGING JURY SERVICE

Active, industrious, successful men are apt to dislike jury service. Others of a more indolent type enjoy hanging around court rooms, they like the flattery from eloquent attorneys, and the position of brief authority. It is difficult to get representative juries.

In many states the dodging of jury duty has become a scandal. It was so called during the debate in the New York constitutional convention the other day. Yet a section that would have checked the evasion of jury duty was quickly put to sleep in that convention.

In some courts and states, there is a tacit understanding by which practically all the leading business and professional men escape this function. Through friendship with some official, their name is always kept out of the panel.

Jury service should be rather pleasant, if one looked at it aright. The juror sees many interesting sides of human nature. The battle of wits and of legal principles has its dramatic elements. The debate arising over questions of human conduct must interest anyone with an alert mind and human sympathies.

The excuse is that it takes time away from business. This shows how poorly most business men prepare themselves for the exigencies of life. Every man should have his understudy, who could do his work in case of his illness, and who could carry it along while he is taking needed vacations. This would enable a man to perform this duty to his state.

If every man well qualified for jury service would stop efforts at this evasion, the turn at this necessary function of good citizenship would come around but rarely, would be short when it did come, and ought to burden no one.

FIST FIGHTING

Some interest has been excited by a recent petition sent to the navy department, that fist fighting be permitted the students in naval schools in settling personal disputes, as a means of promoting manliness.

There are a large number of people who believe at least that boys of school age should settle their own disputes with their fists. One man who has raised up a good sized family with a kindly hand, says that when he heard his boy complain that he got a licking from some other urchin, he would give his son still another, to teach him to fight better next time.

But in mature life the trouble with physical combat is that it does not settle the justice of disputes. The big man, heavy [illegible] beef and brutal in muscle, [illegible] too arrogant. The fact that a [illegible] is puny of stature does not mean that he has no justice in his cause. If he must suffer not merely the original wrong, but a licking in the attempt to right it, his lot is indeed hard. As the principle of arbitration spreads, the power of the fist diminishes.
