The Pennsylvania Railroad, having secured a controlling interest in the Baltimore and Ohio, will now shape the policy of that great work and possibly operate it in a manner that may militate against the interests of Baltimore. That, however, remains to be seen. Hon. John K. Cowen has resigned the presidency of the Baltimore and Ohio, and Mr. L. F. Loree, of the Pennsylvania, has taken his place. Mr. Cowen's resignation was, it is said, entirely voluntary, the Pennsylvania having desired to retain his services in that capacity. It is intimated that he will be retained as chief counsel of the Baltimore and Ohio.

The Republican State Central Committee will meet at Raine's Hall in Baltimore, on Tuesday, 4th inst., for the purpose of fixing the date for holding the State convention to nominate candidates for Comptroller of the Treasury and Clerk of the Court of Appeals, and also to prescribe the time within which the primaries for the nominating conventions for legislative and county candidates shall be held. It is said that the date of these primaries will be fixed for sometime in July, or very shortly after the expiration of thirty days from the date of the meeting of the committee. While it is desirable that nominations shall be made in time to give an opportunity to meet the requirements of the new election law, it is probable that any time in July will be regarded as too early a date for some of the counties and the committee should carefully consider the matter before taking action.

Status of our New Possessions.

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided several important questions in relation to the status of Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands and our other recently acquired possessions. Half a dozen cases were decided, the conclusions of the court being summed up in two of them, however, in one of which the Government won and in the other sustained an adverse decision. Practically, however, it was a government victory.

In the De Lima case, which was an appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the State of New York, in which the court below had sustained the collector of customs in levying duties to the amount of $13,000 on merchandise imported from Porto Rico, the Supreme Court held that the imposition of such duties, at the time of the importation, was unlawful. The principal and most interesting feature of this decision is that, in the opinion of the Supreme Court, Porto Rico and the other possessions obtained from Spain by the Treaty of Paris, became Territories of the United States immediately upon the ratification of that treaty and were no longer foreign countries to which then existing tariff laws could be applied. The duties exacted were therefore illegal and the plaintiffs in the case are entitled to recover them back.

On the other hand, in what is known as the Downes case, the decision of the Supreme Court sustained the government's contention by declaring the Foraker act constitutional. This was the case of Downes against Collector Bidwell, of the port of New York, in which suit was brought by Downes to recover back duties to the amount of $659,035 exacted and paid under protest on certain oranges consigned to the plaintiff at New York, and brought thither from the port of San Juan, in the island of Porto Rico, in the month of November, 1900. This case involved the question whether merchandise brought into the port of New York from Porto Rico since the passage of the Foraker act is exempt from duty, notwithstanding the third section of that act, which requires the payment of "15 per cent of the duties which are required to be levied, collected and paid upon like articles of merchandise imported from foreign countries."

The opinion of the court below, sustaining the contention of the government, was affirmed by the Supreme Court. The court said: We are of opinion that the island of Porto Rico is a Territory appurtenant and belonging to the United States, but not a part of the United States within the revenue clause of the constitution; that the Foraker act is constitutional, so far as it imposes duties upon imports from such island, and that the plaintiff cannot recover back the duties exacted in this case.

Neither of the decisions was unanimous. In the De Lima case Justices McKenna, Shiras, White and Gray dissented, and in the Downes case Chief Justice Fuller, and Justices Harlan, Brewer and Peckham dissented from a majority of the court. It is interesting to note that the division was not entirely political. In the De Lima case Justice White, one of those who dissented, is an old time Southern Democrat, while Justices Brown, Harlan and Brewer, who were of the majority, are Republicans. Justice White was of the majority in the Downes case, while Justices Harlan and Brewer joined Chief Justice Fuller and Justice Peckham, Democrats, in dissenting.

The effect of the decision in the Downes case is to sustain the view that the new possessions are to be governed in such manner as Congress, by law, shall direct, but that, until Congress shall formulate and enact such laws they cannot be treated as foreign countries, at least in respect to the imposition of tariff duties. Hence, it is supposed, that duties hitherto imposed upon merchandise imported from the Philippines, must be refunded. Other cases, however, are pending, in which the court's decisions may modify this condition, and it is possible that pending such discussions the government may continue to exact such duties.

An additional rural free delivery route will be established in Adams county, Pa., July 1st, from Gettysburg to Bonneauville station. Length of route, 18 miles; area covered, 8 square miles; population served, 562; number of houses on route 125; carier, A. J. Noel.

A prominent director of the Western Maryland Railroad is authority for the statement that there is nothing now before the board in the shape of an offer of any kind for the city's interest in the property.

The amount of the Chinese indemnity has been finally fixed at $337,000,000.

The Reading and the Western Maryland.

From the Baltimore Evening Star.

The talk about the sale of the city's interest in the Western Maryland Railroad has been renewed during the past few days, and it is now said that there are two bidders, each of whom is willing to make a definite offer.

One of these bidders, according to report, expresses a readiness to pay a sum equal to the city's direct investment in the road, the interest on the money and the interest paid on the securities guaranteed by the municipality. In the course of years these items have run up to more than $8,000,000.

The new offer is a great advance on others previously submitted and shows conclusively that the line is worth considerably more than former estimates. If it has a value of $8,000,000 for outsiders, who must acquire additional stock to get control, the question naturally arises, is even $8,000,000 adequate compensation for the transfer of the property?

Clearly, the only way of arriving at what Baltimore ought to receive for its share in the road is to make a careful appraisement of earning capacity and immediate future possibilities. No sum within reason would truly compensate the municipality, which has made many sacrifices to build up the property, for its transfer to unfriendly hands. A sale should not be consummated at all unless Baltimore's welfare is amply safeguarded.

The SENTINEL has repeatedly expressed views similar to those here so well put by the Evening Star. It may be said, however, in addition, that the provision of the requisite safeguards in the matter will not be easy of accomplishment. Under existing conditions the road is a valuable contributor to the trade of Baltimore. The city probably cannot legally impose such conditions upon a purchaser of the road as would bind him to run it in her interest. The possibilities of the future success of the work under its present control, and the great advantage Baltimore possesses in being able to direct it absolutely, put over against the risk of diverting trade into other channels by its transfer to other hands, seem to indicate that it would be wise action on the part of the city authorities to "let well enough alone."

Protestant Episcopal Diocesan Convention.

Bishop Paret, at the opening of the Protestant Episcopal Diocesan Convention, in Emanuel Church, Baltimore, on Wednesday, stated clearly his position—both personally and officially—in regard to the rubric of the church which forbids the reservation of the consecrated elements of the Holy Communion. The expression of opinion followed a concise statement of the developments during the year in connection with the intercourse of the Bishop and the Rev. Elbert B. Taylor, of Westminster, in regard to this same rubric. No mention was made in the address of the name of the Westminster clergyman.

CASE OF MR. TAYLOR.

Of the events that have occurred since the last convention the Bishop said:

"I have not yet mentioned one incident in the course of the year which has been exaggerated very far beyond its true importance. The laws of the church require the bishop to visit every parish and congregation in his diocese at least once in every three years, and within that limit they leave him full liberty of action. For good reasons of various kinds there are always five or six instances in which that limit is almost reached. In one instance where I had deferred visitation, still keeping within the limit of the three conventional years, there was a difference between the bishop and the rector upon a point of rubrical duty, and, wishing to have that difference removed before visiting, I did, as directed, by the canon law of the church, ask for a council of conciliation. That council, of the five nearest bishops, after a patient hearing, rendered a decision, which will be published in full in in our journal, but the important point of which was their decision 'that the rector should accede to and obey his bishop's godly council in the matter of the difference between them.' And this decision was the only advice or council which they gave. In the hope that this decision would be obeyed I at once appointed and made a visitation, still within the time limit of the three canonical years, having before the day of visitation received the rector's assurance that he accepted and would conform to the decision of the council.

"It seems strange that this incident should have been so exaggerated that an organization from several dioceses should make it the occasion of a threat of civil proceedings against the Bishop of Maryland—a very empty threat, since the Bishop was entirely within the lines of his lawful and canonical rights. With the rector's acceptance of the decision of the council the case seems to have been closed."

In his statistical statement the Bishop reported that besides making direct official visitation to about 100 churches, he had made almost as many less formal visits for special occasions and services. During the year he confirmed 1,221 persons, 10 of them privately; preached 110 times, gave 71 addresses, administered the Holy Communion 49 times, took part in 4 marriage services and at 2 burials, held 2 ordinations and consecrated 1 church and 1 cemetery. The clergy list, he stated, numbers 122 persons—12 more than last year—1 bishop, 115 priests and 1 deacon.

The General Synod of the Lutheran Church in the United States began its biennial sessions at Des Moines, Iowa, on Wednesday. Rev. C. A. Britt, of Taneytown, is the only clerical delegate from this county. Messrs. P. B. Englar and Edwin Sharretts, of this county, are lay delegates. Among the clerical delegates are Revs. C. S. Trump, of Martinsburg, W. Va., and Rev. J. U. Asper, of Frederick county. The First Lutheran Church, of Baltimore, has extended an invitation to the Synod to hold its forty-first biennial sessions, in 1903, in that church. The General Synod's jurisdiction embraces 24 district synods, extends north of the Potomac river including a few churches in Virginia and West Virginia, from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, has about 250 delegates equally divided between clerical and lay, and represents a total of about 250,000 communicants. The powers of the body are advisory, not judicial. It prescribes the confessional standard for the church, and issues the materials of worship and instruction, but leaves organization, discipline, academic and theological education exclusively to the district Synods. The General Synod controls all missionary operations, both home and foreign.

One of the boldest and most successful house robberies which has been committed in Frederick county for years took place at Thurmont during a busy hour of the day, on Saturday, when the residence of Daniel Freeze was entered and robbed of nearly $100 in money and a quantity of negotiable paper. The burglars walked in at the front door of the house during the momentary absence of Mrs. Freeze and went upstairs, where they quietly and sacked several rooms of valuables and departed without attracting the least attention. The town is much stirred up over the robbery, many being of the opinion that professional sneak thieves are in the community. Mr. Freeze went to Frederick and stopped payment at the banks of the negotiable paper stolen.

The residence of Dr. Zachariah T. Ridout, about five miles from Annapolis and north of the Severn river, was destroyed by fire, about 3 o'clock on Tuesday morning, and his brother, Horatio S. Ridout, perished in the flames. An uncle and aunt of Dr. Ridout and his wife and three children were rescued from the burning building, but, it is supposed, his brother was unaware that all had been gotten out and went back after one of the children whom he thought had not been saved. He had only reached the stairway when the building fell in upon him and he perished. He was an estimable young man and was very popular. He was engaged in business in Annapolis.

The entire south end of Frederick county, Va., is deeply agitated over a mysterious disease which is rapidly killing off the live stock, and which resembles hydrophobia. Animals always die within 48 hours after being attacked with the disease. The symptoms are frothing at the mouth, a horror of water, emaciation, frenzy and then death. Several weeks ago a dog known to be mad bit a cow. The latter died with the strange disease, and other dogs ate her body. It is thought the disease spread in this way. The Board of Health has quarantined all dogs. The matter is being investigated by U. S. and State specialists.

The long-continued wet weather has caused much of the wheat in Baltimore county to be of such rank growth that a considerable portion of the stalks have been beaten to the ground by the rain, but farmers are hopeful that much of it will get all right again after the return of warm and dry weather.

The train bearing the President and Mrs. McKinley and the party accompanying them on the tour through the West, ended its journey at Washington, at 7.30 o'clock, Wednesday morning, exactly on schedule time. Mrs McKinley was immediately removed to the carriage in waiting and driven slowly to the White House. She looked pale and worn, the natural result of the grave ordeal through which she has recently passed.

At the business meeting of the National German Baptist Conference at Lincoln, Neb., on Tuesday, the standing committee decided to hold next year's conference in Eastern Pennsylvania, at a place yet to be decided, but probably at Philadelphia. The division of Northwestern Ohio was also a candidate, but the decision in favor of Pennsylvania was almost unanimous.

Judge Edward Stake, in dealing with the case of a negro woman in Hagerstown who thrashed her husband, intimated that a wife had a right to use as much force as possible—not merely moral suasion—to make her husband go home if she found him running on the streets with another woman, and that a husband had no right to be walking about the streets when his presence was needed at home.

The Department of Agriculture has issued a report on the ravages of the green pea louse, giving warning that this insect, one of the most important of those which ravaged the crops of the country during the past two seasons, will widen its range geographically and increase the amount of destruction.

At Pen-Mar Thursday the crowd was estimated at 5,000, of whom 1,500 consisted of Knights of Pythias' excursion from Washington, D. C., with about 250 from Baltimore, the balance from Hagerstown, Chambersburg and other points along the Western Maryland railroad.

A severe thunderstorm passed over Howard county Wednesday. The rain came down in torrents and the wind blew a gale. The rain was accompanied by hail and the lightning was severe.

Mrs. Agnes Greason, 23 years old, wife of Mr. George T. Greason, of the Twelfth district of Baltimore county, was brutally assaulted by a negro Sunday night on the Shell road.

With the exception of supplementary statistics and indexing the records of the Civil War have been completed.

Mr. W. P. Hazen has resigned from his position in the United States Secret Service.

Mrs. Annie Russell, widow of William Russell, died at Alberton, Howard county, May 27.

Jacob W. Cramer died May 27 at Walkersville, Frederick county, aged 55 years.

The report of the Civil Service Commission shows that 45,641 persons were examined last year.

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?

WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1900.

MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:

Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,
EDWARD LYNCH.

THE FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLE
UNDERLYING THIS GREAT BUSINESS IS HONESTY OF PURPOSE, FAIR DEALING AND ABSOLUTE IMPARTIALITY.

This is the basic foundation on which we have built this business. By steadfastly adhering to this principle we have gained and retained the confidence of the people.

We never sell at a very low price one day and at an exorbitant one the next. That method does not prevail here.

This store, day in and day out, is the same staunch, true friend to the public. Its merchandise is always marked at the very lowest cash basis. When a price IS LOWERED it remains so until the last of the goods are sold.

This rule of absolute impartiality is positively inviolable—it is never departed from under any circumstances. No matter what reasons others may give for selling cheap ONE DAY of the week, our prices are always found to be lower—and are the same every hour of the day, every day of the week.

Your neighbor can never say that she bought any article at MILLER'S for less than YOU were obliged to pay.

The paper of the people, for the people and with the people.

A newspaper is an educator: there are all kinds of educators, but the man who spends money judiciously and liberally is betetr able to impart his knowledge than the man who has little or nothing to spend.
THE SUN is the highest type of a newspaper. The Sun's Special Correspondents throughout the United States, as well as in Europe, South Africa, China, and, in fact, all over the world, make it an up-to-date newspaper.
The Market Reports and commercial features put the farmer, the merchant and the broker in close touch with the markets at Baltimore, Norfolk, Charleston, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other places which are prominent centers.
