A Tribute to a Beloved Physician
DR. J. HOWELL BILLINGSLEA

On Sunday, afternoon, January 28th. the sad news came to the people of Westminster, that another of our old citizens had been called from a life of usefulness in the community to his eternal and well earned rest.

After an illness of only three days, of paralysis, Dr. James Howell Billingslea, one of the best known and most beloved physicians, died at his residence East Main street, in the 74th year of his age.

In his early manhood he came to Westminster with his father, who was not only one of the leading physicians of his day, but who served his State and his country in many ways, serving in the State Senate and taking part in the affairs of the day.

After studying medicine with the late Dr. Joshua W. Hering, he graduated with honor at the University of Maryland and succeeded his distinguished father in the practise of medicine in Westminster and the surrounding county. A worthy son of a noble father he continued his studies, and kept abreast of the times and enjoying the confidence and esteem of all with whom he came in contact.

Kind, courteous, safe, while keeping discoveries, taking no unnecessary risks, resorting to surgery only in cases of necessity when human life was endangered, and whose very presence in the sick room inspired confidence and action as a tonic and a benediction to his patients.

He is survived by his widow who was Miss Carlotte Spaulding and six children, Messrs. J. Howell Billingslea, of Seattle, Washington, Robert, Levine and Leeds, and Misses Lottie Leigh and Mary, of Westminster; two brothers, Dr. Charles Billingslea, of Westminster, and Louis L. of Philadelphia, and one sister Mrs. Ada Frazier, wife of Dr. James Frazier, of Baltimore, and the following nephews and nieces — Major Clarence C. Billingslea U. S. A. now stationed in the Philippines; J.Smith and Misses Caroline, Sue and Elizabeth Billingslea, of Westminster, and Messrs Edward L., Albert and Claude Billingslea, sons of the late Capt. Albert Billingslea, of Chicago.

His funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon from his late residence, and was conducted by Rev. Edgar Read, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church of this city, assisted by Rev. Charles E. Shaw, Rector of Ascension Episcopal Church, and Rev. Frank Gibson D. D. of Baltimore, a former rector and friend of the family.

The floral tributes were numerous and the handsomest ever seen in the city filling a large wagon, and included wreaths, crosses, and bunches of lillies, roses, violets and a pall of smilax completely covering the casket, on which rested a magnificent bunch of white roses.

After the simple service at the house which was in accordance with the wishes of the deceased, the interment took place in the Westminster Cemetery, in the presence of an immense throng of people amongst whom were many to whom he had ministered as a physician and friend and who feel a personal loss in his death.

Truly a good man has gone home, and Westminster has lost one of her very best citizens. After a long and useful life he rests, for He whose love exceedeth ours has taken him to Himself to be forever with the Divine Healer, whose example and precepts he so faithfully followed.

A doctor of the "old school," who was ever the honored guest and trusted friend of those to whom he devoted his life work of healing the sick, his memory will be cherished and remain a perpetual benediction in many homes and in the community in which it was spent.

"Heimgang!" so the German people
Whisper when they hear the bell
Tolling from some gray old steeple,
Death's familiar tale to tell.
When they hear the organ dirges,
Swelling out from Chapel dome,
And the singers' chanting surges—
"Heimgang!"—always, going home.

"Heimgang!" Quaint and tender saying,
In the grand old German tongue,
That hath shaped Melanchton's praying,
And the hymns that Luther sung.
Blessed is our loving maker,
That where'er our feet shall roam,
Still we journey towards God's acre,
"Heimgang!"—always, going home.

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS MEET.

The High School Teachers Association of Carroll County met and reorganized on Friday, January 26th in the assembly hall of the Westminster High School, and the teachers enjoyed one of the most interesting programs ever rendered at one of these meetings. The order of business was as follows:

(1) Organization by Election of Officers.

Mr. F. R. Young was elected President and Mr. J. F. Reese was elected Secretary.

(2) Music by Westminster High School Orchestra.

These boys are deserving of much praise for the amount of time and hard work they have put in their music. They are under the direction of Miss Ida F. Lockard.

(3) Address by Mr. S. M. North, Supervisor of High school. In the absence of Mr. North, Dr. Gifford, instrutor of psychology at Goucher College, was called upon, and his address was most interesting and instructive. In his address Dr. Gifford showed how the High School is taking over many of the activities of the church and the home; and because of these activities it was shown why the qualifications for teachers were necessarily much higher than in former years. He inreduced three genedal groups of problems; namely. (a) What is the nature f the High School pupil? What do we know about him? How does he differ from the college pupil? (b) Aims that society or social life present before us.

(c) The set of problems that come out of readjustment and adapation.

In speaking of adolescence, Dr. Gifford said that "it is not a synonym of ab-normality or a period of life that is absolutely different from that which goes before". He then illustrated various effects of the adolescent period which teachers must carefully considerer; such as, physical changes, instinctive characteristics, social instincts, new emotional attitudes, changes in intellectual interest, and attitudes of indifferehce.

Dr. Gifford showed that there are four distinct aims of education: the physical, the vocational, the social or social civic, and the cultural.

In conclusion, he classified some of the reconstructions that seem to be demanded in the present day High School:

(a) The change in emphasis from the Curriculum to the child, (b) Individual needs and difficulties, (c) Our High Schools must be sensitive to instinctive needs, (d) How a teacher can keep growing.

(4) Music by the Orchestra.

Adjourned at 12 o'clock until afternoon session. Afternoon session called to order at 1:30.

(5) Address by Mr. Chas H. Kolb on the Broadening Vision of the High School Age.

Mr. Kolb's address was most interesting, and the points he brought out were very clearly and well put. His discussion of the different methods in teaching pupils between the young age and the adolescent period was very instructive.

Another point which has caused much serious discussion was brought forth by Mr. Kolb; namely, the fact that special training should be given to High School teachers as apart from elementary teachers.

An interesting discussion on this subject by Mr. Edw. K. Coughran, Mr. Wilbur L. Koontz, Miss Julia D. Roeder, and Mr. E. W. Craumer followed.

(6) The Proper Studies and Curriculum to be offered in a small town High School, or the Adaptation of the High School to the needs of its Pupils, was the subject of a most interesting address by the President, Mr. F. R. Young. Without seeming to be at all radical in his ideas, he gave very convincing statements which tended to prove that our present Curriculum contains some studies which are useful for developing the brain, but practically worthless to men in the ordinary walks of life. Mr. Young said that these studies were mere relics of the dead and could well be replaced by more useful and modern subjects.

Fillowing this came a heated discussion of Mr. Young's address by Mr. Geo. F. Morelock, Mr. J. Keller Smith, Miss Katherine Fiscel, and Mr. N. E. Basler, and other teachers vitally interested in the subject.

(7) Demonstration Work by Miss J. Corinne Troy.

The demonstration of efficiency in domestic science by Miss Troy was perhaps the most interesting event of the day. The subject of Miss Troy's addres was the problem of having hot lunches for school children at a minimum cost. A coal oil stove, gas range, and fireless cooker were used in the demonstration, and Miss Troy was assisted in her work by three of her pupils neatly dressed in their plain white cooking costumes. Roast Beef, Tomato Soup, Potatooes, and Cocoa were prepared.

The subject of providing hot lunches for school children is well worthy of attention since it has been proven that hot lunches are not only more healthful than cold ones, but also they create a greater brain power.

(8) Miscellaneous Discussion.

(9) Appointment of an Examination Committee by the Superintendent.

Those appointed were: Mr. Maurice S. H. Unger, Chairman, Mr. Charles H. Kolb, Mr. J. Keller Smith, Mr. Wilbur L. Koontz, Miss Grace A. Witherow, Miss Virginia Merritt.

(10) Adjournment.

J. FRANCIS REESE,
Secretary.
