WESTMINSTER, - MARYLAND.

W. L. W. Seabrook, - Editor.

Entered at the Postoffice at Westminster, Md., as Second-class matter.

SATURDAY, MAY 3, 1902.

The newspaper which slanders by innuendo deserves the immeasurable contempt of decent people.

The final disposition of the Western Maryland Railroad is still in doubt. A "battledore and shuttlecock game" is apparently being played regarding the matter. Last week the Second Branch of the City Council of Baltimore was reported to favor the sale of the road to the Fuller Syndicate, while the First Branch was regarded as uncertain. This week the First Branch accepted the Fuller bid with substantial unanimity and now the Second Branch is in doubt, and final action has been deferred till Monday evening.

End of an Endless Chain.

A number of persons in this county have received letters or circulars from a firm, with the name of Van Kirk & Robins, located at Wilkesbarre, Pa., proposing to sell a fountain pen and to give employment to the recipients of the letters. The proposition required each recipient to remit $2.50 for the pen and to write ten letters per week, similar to the one received, to other parties, for which the compensation was to be $5. Some persons in this county have accepted the proposition, and, we have been informed, cases have transpired where the letter writers have been paid the stipulated compensation. In other cases those who remitted for the pen were informed that some delay in forwarding it was inevitable as the article could not be manufactured with sufficient rapidity to meet the demand for it. Referring to the scheme the Gettysburg Star and Sentinel states that it has been ended by the exclusion of the letters from the mails. The Star and Sentinel says:

"Being denied the further use of the mails for their scheme, by the Post Office Department, the firm of Van Kirk & Robins, of Wilkesbarre, has suspended operations. A dispatch says that several weeks ago the firm rented a small office and mailed thousands of circulars to every part of the county and adjoining counties, making glittering offers to correspondents. In a little while the firm had to move out of its cramped quarters and hire a whole building for the transaction of its business. Orders were coming in faster than they could be filled. A member of the firm made a proposition to Postmaster Hahn to pay the salary of an extra clerk. When the firm began business it had one clerk. When it closed down it had forty. An order came from Washington that trouble would follow if an attempt were made to mail more of the circulars. The shutters were closed and business ceased."

Dealing With Combines.

Attorney General Knox has instituted proceedings to test the lawful, or unlawful, character of the "Beef Combine." Pending the result of these proceedings some action on the part of the people themselves has been suggested in various quarters. The labor organizations in Baltimore have proposed abstention from the use of meats for thirty days, substituting therefor a fish and vegetable diet. The Memphis Appeal makes a similar suggestion to the people of the country. This is a very practical method of bringing the combine to terms and might be employed successfully in localities where its rapacious extortion is pinching the purses of consumers. By a general movement of this character the supply of meats would speedily become greater than the demand for them and the inevitable result of lower prices would ensue.

But, after all, this would be only a temporary expedient, and might be defeated in the end.

Legal means of restraint must be found or worse consequences will eventually result. The "Beef Combine" is only one of many octopuses that grapple the people with their tentacles and throttle their efforts for relief. The whole brood of such impositions must be placed under the power of law. If the power is not inherent in public authority from the very nature of the case, it may be conferred by constitutional enactment and this course should be adopted without delay. The welfare and existence of the government demands it. The people will suffer wrong without violence up to a certain point, but when once aroused to the exercise of active resentment governments are futile means of dealing with their awakened passions. The matter is one with which there should be no dilly-dallying. Delays are dangerous. Repealing the duties on meats, which somebody suggests as a remedy, would only be a makeshift. Little meat would be imported in that case. We export it even under present conditions.

If the hand of law cannot constitutionally be placed upon the Beef Combine, the Standard Oil Swindle, and other equally reprehensible organizations, amend the Constitution and give power to Congress. The people will then see to it that a Congress shall be elected that will know how to deal with the subject for their protection against the greed of corporations. Otherwise the time may come when violence will be invoked to right the wrongs under which the masses of the people are made to suffer. In a recent editorial the New York World hints very strongly at such a result. In its issue of the 20th inst., the World says:

"The Beef Trust has done more in a fortnight to set the people thinking keenly and deeply on the problem of monopoly than all the Trusts that manipulate unedible things put together could possibly do. Steak at 25 cents a pound is the 'price that staggers humanity.' It is the 'anti-climax of the dinner pail.'

History abounds with illustrations of the fact that whoever and whatever interfere between man and his meals invite disaster. The French Revolution began with a cry for food under the windows of the King's palace. It was the bread riots of half-fed England that forced a Tory Government to repeal the taxes on corn in very fear of what might happen if it did not. The American people, having always been the best-fed people in the world, will resent all the more fiercely the artificial dearness and scarcity of food which the Trusts are conspiring to create.

Fire detroyed nearly all the out-buildings on the farm of Mr. Frank D. Brown, at Woodstock, Howard county, last Saturday evening. The flames spread rapidly and totally consumed two barns, two corn houses, a large granary, a hoghouse and a wagon-shed. In these various building there were 200 barrels of corn, 300 bushels of wheat, 10 tons of hay and a large lot of straw and fodder and farming implements, aggregating in value more than $500, all of which were burned. Mr. Brown succeeded in moving his stock to a place of safety. The loss is estimated at $6,000, with a partial insurance in a Montgomery company.

Baltimore Exposition and Carnival.

Great preparations are being made in Baltimore for the big Industrial Exposition and Carnival which is to be held there from May 27 to June 14 and which will eclipse anything ever attempted before in that line. Industrial Park is situated at Pennsylvania and North avenues and will be one grand scene of light and splendor. The great Bostock-Ferrari Mighty Midway Carnival Company will be the amusement attraction and will furnish a number of the finest shows of their kind that have ever been seen in this section of the country. A large area of the park in the rear of the Exposition hall will be occupied by these strong attractions which will consist in part of the great Zoological Arena from the Pan-American and Charleston Expositions, where the most wonderful exhibitions of trained wild animals will be given; Gaston Ackoun's Beautiful Orient with its people of the far east, its camels and elephants and scenes of oriental pomp and splendor; Fair Japan, a village of these most wonderful people, showing their modes of life and industries, their sports and games as in the land of the Mikado; The German Village with its yodlers and good cheer, Chiquita the living doll whose sensational elopement and marriage at Buffalo a few months ago was heralded all over the country, the magnificent Venitian Gondolas with their $50,000 electrical plant and military orchestrian, the wonderful and mystifying Crystal Maze the most magnificent ever constructed, the Moorish Palace of Illusions wherein one's head is turned by the strange sights seen, the laughable Barnyard Circus in which the beasts of the field and the fowl of the barnyard give most clever performances, besides wonderful free acrobatic and aerial acts. In the Industrial Hall will be seen magnificent exhibits by Maryland's leading merchants and the Fourth Regiment Band will give afternoon and nightly concerts. Special rates will be made on the railroads and steamboats from all parts of Maryland and it is proposed to make the fete a gala one such as has never before been known

About midnight of Tuesday nine heavily loaded freight cars of a train drawn by two engines were left standing on the main track at Highfield, while the other cars were being shifted. The grade at the point named, which is about half a mile west of Blue Ridge Summit, is heavy, and the nine cars, as soon as left, began to move down the mountain. Edward Black, the flagman, who was in charge of the cars, applied the brakes, but the momentum was too great and a frightful speed was soon attained. At Edgemont three of the nine cars jumped the track and crashed into the water tank and tool chest located there, making kindling wood of tank, cars and chest and scattering the oats, fertilizer and coke, with which the cars were loaded, in every direction. The remaining six cars remained on the track and ran clear to Hagerstown. The flagman closed his eyes and clung to the running-board of the car on which he was located, and was not aware that one-third of the runaway cars had left the track. He says the distance from Highfield, 22 miles, was covered in about 10 minutes.

Mr. Wm. Henry Shryock, for ten years Grand Treasurer of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Maryland, died at the home of his brother, Gen. Thomas J. Shryock, Baltimore, Grand Master of the Masonic Grand Lodge and ex-State Treasurer, at an early hour on Tuesday morning, in his 68th year. Mr. Shryock was from early manhood identified with the business interests of Baltimore, first in the furniture establishment of his father, Henry S. Shryock, then in the lumber business as a member of the firm of Johnson & Shryock, and, at the time of his death, as president of the Third National Bank of Baltimore. He was a prominent member of the Masonic Fraternity, and his remains lay in state at Masonic temple for several days previous to his funeral. He was twice married and leaves a widow and one son, Mr. Henry Clay Shryock, the latter being the son of his first wife.

Wm. McKinley Osborne, United States Consul-General at London, England, died at his home at Wimbledon, on Tuesday, at the age of 60 years. Deceased was a cousin of the late President McKinley. He was a native of Ohio, and a lawyer by profession. He practiced at Youngstown, Ohio, where he was mayor in 1874-5-76. He afterwards removed to Boston, Mass., where he also practiced the profession of law successfully. He was secretary of the Republican National Committee in 1896. His death was caused by Bright's disease.

A false alarm of fire in a large five-story building in Philadelphia, used as a cigar factory, on Wednesday, created a panic among the 1200 employees, 90 per cent. of whom were girls of 12 years old and upwards. A mad rush for the stairways ensued, and in the rush seven girls of 12 to 18 years and a woman aged 25 years were tramped to death. Three others were fatally injured and forty or fifty received more or less serious injuries.

The Republican congressional convention of the Fifth District of Maryland, which was held at Chesapeake Beach, on Thursday, unanimously renominated Hon. Sidney E. Mudd for Congress.

The New Windsor Orchestra gave an open air concert in front of Prof. Brown's home, Thursday night, which was greatly enjoyed by those who were lucky enough to be present. Give us some more music, boys, for "Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast."

We would like to correct a mistake made by the Union Bridge correspondent last week about the game of ball played at that place, between the New Windsor team and the team from the M. C. I. He said that the first team of N. W. met their Waterloo at the hands of the second team of the M. C. I. The game was between the second team of New Windsor and the first team of the M. C. I. who had three players from the Union Bridge team. We do not think they have any cause to rejoice, as the score stood 29 to 26. The N. W's. were handicapped throughout the contest. They were not used to the kind of diamond they have up there, which is situated on a hillside and the unpire's eyesight seemed to fail every time the N. W's. got ahead. We are very anxious to have the M. C. I. give us a return game, but they seem unwilling to do so. Bring your team down boys, and we will show you how to play ball.

The second team of New Windsor will play the junior team from Westminster, on Saturday, the 3rd inst.

This Store Rests Safely On the Good Will of the People.

Your confidence has been won by constant, conscientious striving to be just and to please. We will keep it as we have won it. The writer of this ad. recently visited some of the larger cities in the South and visited their Dry Goods Stores, and nowhere did he see stores in towns of 75-000 population that could compare with Westminster's stores, and we think you should be proud of your stores and their stocks. We are not conceited, but feel we are justified in saying, Westminster, for her size, is one of the best cities in the United States, and our store is among the very best in the State and our business keeps on growing and, with the young men associated as they are in this firm, will continue to do so. We never advertise anything but facts and always have the goods advertised, and no matter what kind of sale other stores may advertise we guarantee to show you the same goods for the same and in most instances less money. It's the goods behind the advertising that make a store—though some stores seem to think advertising is all that's necessary.

SPRING HOUSE CLEANING.

The time is here for putting the house in order for spring and summer. We are prepared and ready to
