LETTER FROM DETROIT

We are in receipt of the following letter from one of our subscribers, Miss Jennie Harman, a former resident of this city, but now a resident of Detroit, Michigan:

"I receive the paper regularly every week and it is a welcome visitor.

We are all well and every one is working. There seems to be plenty of work. The draft has called away so many of our young men and different firms have put girls in their places.

We have girls for taxi cab drivers, running elevators and working in shops.

Every thing is high and scarce. Coal seems to be priceless for a person cannot get it at any price, and it is getting very cool. A fire would feel very comfortable these days.

The fire in your town the other Saturday night was a terrible thing.

I had quite a long vacation—eight weeks. I visited Mrs. Orendorff, in Dayton, Ohio, and had a fine time. Have you seen them since they came back to Maryland?

We were glad to see Mr. Hoffman and Mr. Barnes when they were in Detroit.

I will close for this time with much love to all our dear Maryland friends.

I remain as ever.

JENNIE HARMAN

KEPT BABY'S CORPSE 20 YEARS

The pathetic story of a mother's long years of silent grief, which ended only in her death, came to light a few days ago in the historic town of Greenville, Tenn., within the shadow of the old homestead of President Andrew Johnson. When the mother died there was found stowed away in an upper room of the home an air-tight casket in which lay the withered form of little Estelle Hill, a curly-haired child of nine years, who died 20 years ago.

Mrs. Hill, the mother, could not bear the idea of separation from her only child and purchased a metallic casket and provided a small chamber in which the body remained through all the intervening years.

Mrs. Hill had provided a place of burial in Greenwood cemetery at Knoxville, Tenn., for herself and the child and papers found in the home gave instructions that the two were to be buried in the same grave. The mother's last wishes were followed.

"THE WIZARD OF WISELAND"

The patrons of Westminster are promised a rare treat in musical comedy at the Opera House on Tuesday, October 9th, when the highly successful extravaganza, "The Wizard of Wiseland" will be presented. The book of this much talked of attraction has a well outlined plot, according to press criticisms, and the music and lyrics are of strictly meritorious type. A strong company of singers and comedians, assisted by an excellent chorus and ballet, from all accounts, have been appearing to crowded houses in every city visited. The proof of the pleasure afforded by the performance in these places lies in the fact that return dates have been asked for by many managers, so that music and amusement lovers here may expect a high-class and enjoyable event. The scenery and costumes used in this merry trip into the weird and beautiful mythland are said to be of the most lavish type, the transformations alone being marvels of scenic art and ingenuity.

Music lovers are guaranteed a list of the best and most popular song hits (solos, duets, etc) offered on the road this season by any musical organization.

Brief exercises will be held tomorrow morning at eight—thirty o'clock, at the Court House, this city, in honor of the "Boys" who are going to Camp Meade. The young ladies will present each man with a box of candy. They will be escorted to the train which is due in this city at 9.33 o'clock.

RED CROSS ITEMS FROM WINFIELD

Those who did not attend the Red Cross meeting at the Hall Thursday night are the losers thereby. Rev. Mr. Parrish, from New Windsor, standing amongst his hearers, gave us a fine, heart-to-heart talk, which was much appreciated. We were sorry not to see more of the Winfield people present, why ignore a good and glorious cause when it is right in your midst? Women of Winfield, rally to the help of your country and to your town's good name. Five joined with us that night. Mrs. Willard Buckingham, Mrs. Clarence Baker, Mrs. Samuel Hood, Mrs. Otis Buckingham and Mr. Arthus Zile. We meet every Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Dr. E. D. Cronk. He and Mrs. Cronk are members, and have kindly given us use of a warm, pleasant room where we have every facility to do good work. Come and join us.

Sixty-five women, representing Baltimore city and almost every county in Maryland, assembled yesterday at Council Headquarters, 518 North Charles street, Baltimore, for the October meeting of State and county committees of the Women's Section, Maryland Council of Defense. The women have now gotten their work well in hand, have adopted a uniform outline of reporting the business of their committees and neither time nor words are wasted in presenting and discussing business. Along almost every line work goes increasingly well, and only those who hear these detailed reports can have any idea of the tremendous amount of efficient work being accomplished with small expenditure of money, so that Maryland has cause for intense pride in her woman army. Among the members of the committee present from this city, were: Mrs. Mary A. Fitzhugh, Mrs. Maurice S. H. Unger and Mrs. John H. Cunningham.

From Pleasant Ridge correspondent.

CHANEY—GRIMES

Miss Alice Chaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Chaney, of near Woodbine, and Mr. Frank Grimes, of Woodbine, were married at the Mt. Olive parsonage by Rev. Bond, on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. A splendid dinner was given in their honor. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Grimes will start housekeeping this week on the fine farm Mr. Grimes has purchased at Morgan.

SECOND LIBERTY LOAN IN FULL SWING

GEORGE R. GEHR COMMITTEEMAN FOR THIS CITY AND COUNTY

The second Liberty Loan was started in Baltimore Monday morning with great vigor. Bells were rung and whistles were blown to usher in the momentous event.

The early noise which started at 10 o'clock in the morning announced the opening of the campaign by the meeting of the general committee of the Liberty Loan of Maryland at the Merchants Club. Practically every member of the committee was on hand, as were many of the representative business men of the city who are not members. Every banking institution in the city, including the national banks, the State banks, the trust companies and the savings banks had someone on hand to speak for them and to assure their wholehearted interest in making the campaign a success.

Prior to the general meeting there was a conference of the committee heads in the office of Van Lear Black, in the Fidelity Building. Here the general plan of the campaign was discussed, and no action was taken this being left to the general meeting which followed close on its heels.

The meeting at the Merchants Club was presided over by Col. Henry B. Wilcox, the general chairman. He outlined the work ahead and urged co-operation of all present. The needs of the Government in the emergency were pointed out by Colonel Wilcox, who said that although the sum allotted to Maryland to raise—approximately $52,000,000—was large, the money and the disposition to invest it were here, and it was the duty of the patriotic bankers and others to see that it was forthcoming.

Remarks were also made by former Governor Goldsborough, William Ingle, Van Lear Black, William G. Baker, Jr., Channing Rudd and others. None of the addresses were long, the slogan of the meeting being to get to work rather than waste time in talk. The keynote was that Maryland and Baltimore is expected to give a good account of itself in this campaign; that while it may require hard work, the patriotism of the people will be found sufficient to bring results.

"We've got this war to win", said Governor Goldsborough. "America must do as much as the Allies have done, and she hasn't done it. Don't be too busy hanging out flags and singing 'The Star-Spangled Banner.' In this fight for freedom it is the duty of all to save and make up this second Liberty Loan with fresh, clean money. Let us aid our leader, Woodrow Wilson—God bless and guide him—and lay on freedom's altar the tribute of mankind to suffering mankind. Put your hands down through your hearts into your pockets and answer the call of your President and of humunity. The war of 1917 is America's war, and I call on you all to enlist."

The fact that it was the purpose of the committee to buckle down at once to the task of raising Maryland's proportion of the subscriptions was attested by the early adjournment. The session lasted less than an hour, but the time was ample to create in all a warm enthusiasm and an eagerness to begin operations.

The business of forming the subcommittees and organizing the forces which will be lauched upon the work of reaching the masses was left to the executive committee, which went ahead during the day and by night most of the preliminaries had been completed.

Mr. George R. Gehr, of this city was appointed committeeman for this county.

Miss Isabell Guyton and Mr. William Patterson, of Baltimore, motored Tuesday evening to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Schaeffer, of West Main street, this city, where they were handsomely entertained at supper. During the evening they enjoyed some fine selections on the victrola.

We have received several copies of the "Rhino", a paper setting forth the advantages of asbestos products, published by the Baltimore Roofing and Asbestos Company at their plant at Asbestos, Md. The main building of this plant is over one-fourth mile long. Numerous improvements have been made from time to time, to the buildings and equipment. A new office building has just been finished and an opera house is contemplated. This company employs a large number of people and the plant is kept in operation both day and night to supply the large and growing demand for its product. Among other departments is a printing office equipped to do the finest kind of work. The "Rhino", with its well printed type, and halftones of a number of the officers and buildings, is an example of the printer's art which is not often excelled.
