Republican Ticket.

For President,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT,
of New York.

For Vice-President,
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS, of Indiana.

For Congress,
ROBERT GARRETT,
OF BALTIMORE COUNTY.

Election Next Tuesday.

Judge Parker believes in a Navy of "respectable, but not menacing proportions." That's the kind Russia has now.

The American people do not want their prosperity interrupted by Congressional tinkering with the tariff or the currency system.

Candidate Davis is about the only venerable thing connected with the Democracy this year. Its issues are fresh every morning and live but a day.

No Democratic candidate for Congress can deny that every good piece of legislation on the statute books has been opposed by Democratic Congressmen.

Judge Parker's plea that the Senate will remain Republican for four more years is an argument that the best way to carry on this great Government is to deadlock it.

Most of the Democratic members of Congress are just as much in favor of free silver now as they were in 1896. The sound money Democrats are in the minority.

Judge Parker seems to have forgotten that the Republican Party's policy in the Phillippines has, after exhaustive debate, already received the enthusiastic approval of the American people.

When asked why he was going to vote for Roosevelt, a Chicago teamster replied "Because I don't want to lose my job." The average workman has a pretty good idea of what constitutes a paramount issue.

Don't forget to turn out on Election Day. It is a big election, a very important one to every man, woman and child in this country, and every voter ought to make it his business to go to the polls. The Republican party is not afraid to give that advice to even their opponents, if it will reach Republicans in so doing, because if every voter turns out the Republicans are in the majority in this country and they will elect their ticket.

A QUESTION OF LABOR.

The Republican Party now controls the House of Representatives and should the Presidential election be thrown into that body by reason of failure by a majority of the electors to agree on a candidate, there is no doubt as to the result. The Democrats often call attention to the House as the representative body which is the nearest to the people, and they are entirely correct in that statement. The House is now fairly representative of the American people. The great industrial States are there represented by Republican majorities because that party stands for industrial development and protection to labor and capital. The states where little encouragement is given to undustrial development and to labor are appropriately represented by Democratic majorities.

The Census figures show how appropriately these two parties represent the two sections of the country. The States which have Republican majorities in the House have two-thirds the population of the United States, or 51,530,001 people while the Democratic States have 24,456,574.

The Republican States have seven-eighths of the industries as measured by the product of labor, $11,469,040,835 to $1,531,108,326 in the Democratic States. The Republican States also have five-sixths of the wage earners, or 4,873,937 to 828,823 in the Democratic States. The same ratio holds good in regard to the wages paid to labor. In the Republican States there are annually paid in wages $2,423,941,790, while in the Democratic States the annual wages paid amount to but $300,590,131.

These figures show very plainly how the great industrial States vote on the great industrial policy of protection which divides the two parties, and how the States where no respect is paid to labor vote.

The election this year is a contest over this labor question. It is a contest between the two policies regarding the rights of labor. The House of Representatives now properly represents the sentiment of the country on this question. The men who are dependent on their labor should take time to go to the polls and deposit their ballots in favor of the policy which represents their interests. That is the only way to continue the protection they have so far as the Federal Government can give it in a general policy. They should not leave their rights to be taken care of by the men who in Congress represent States and communities where labor is not respected or protected, but where manual labor is regarded as degrading.

Place only two crossmarks on your ballot. Place the first X in the box to the right of the names of your choice for president and vice president; place the second to the right of the name of your choice for Congress. Place no marks after the names of the presidential electors.

Election Next Tuesday.

HOW TO VOTE.

The opinion of Attorney General Bryan that a X in the square to the right of the names of the candidates for President and Vice-President will count for names of all the candidates for electors of the persons intended to be voted for, greatly simplifies the marking of the ballot at the approaching election, but under the drastic election law of this State it is so easy to spoil ballots that it is still deemed important to give detailed and explicit instructions to voters to avoid such defects as may cause them to be thrown out. The following directions show how to safely cast a ballot for the Republican candidates for President, Vice-President and Congressman, in this county:

"See that the ballot given you has indorsed upon it the initials of the judge from whom you received it.

"See that the judge who gives you the ballot calls out your name and residence in a distinct voice.

"Vote the ticket by marking a cross (X) mark in the space provided therefor to the right of and opposite the names of Roosevelt and Fairbanks and also in the space to the right of and opposite the name of Robert Garrett.

"These two marks will cause your ballot to be counted for the entire Republican ticket.

"Make the cross (X) mark entirely within the square provided for the purpose, namely, to the right of the names of Roosevelt and Fairbanks and also to the right of Robert Garrett, the Republican candidate for Congress.

"The Court of Appeals has decided that the cross mark must be made entirely within the square and not extend beyond it in any way.

"Do not make any other mark whatever on the ballot; if you do, your ballot will not be counted.

"Any mark whatever on the ballot except the cross (X) mark, whether in the square or out of it, will cause the ballot to be rejected.

"Do not make a dot or circle or any other mark but a cross (X) mark in the square.

"If you mark any square on your ballot with any kind of a mark other than the cross (X) mark entirely within the square, your ballot will not be counted.

"Be sure not to deface or tear your ballot in any way.

"If you make a mistake in marking it, do not attempt to make a correction; return it to the judge and get another. You are entitled to a third ballot if the first two have been spoiled and returned, but you must not consume more than seven minutes in marking it.

"Mark your ballot with the indelible pencil which you will find in the election booth.

"Do not use your own pencil; your ballot will not be counted if you do.

"After marking your ballot, fold it exactly as it was folded when handed to you by the judge, and give it to the ballot judge without permitting anyone to see how you have marked it.

"See that the judge tears off the coupon and deposits the ballot in the ballot box before you leave the room."

Election, Tuesday, November 8th, 1904; polls will be open from 8 A. M. till 6 P. M. Don't fail to vote for Rosevelt and Fairbanks and Robert Garrett.

HON. JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS.

This gentleman made what the Democrats no doubt regard as a great speech, in Odd Fellows' Hall, this city, on Monday evening, at a large Democratic meeting. Mr. Williams occupies the position of leader of the Democrats in the House of Representatives and is a man of national reputation, a fact which naturally attracted a large audience, among which were numbers of Republicans. Dr. J. W. Hering presided and prefaced the introduction of the speakers with a speech in which he gave expression to the Democratic apprehension that the election of Roosevelt would threaten the peace of the country. Mr. Williams took up the measure where Dr. Hering left off and for three-quarters of an hour endeavored to impress his audience with the idea that Roosevelt is a dangerous man. Coming from a Mississippi congressman Mr. Williams' plea for peace, gentle peace, must have seemed farcical to the intelligent portion of his audience. That he greatly magnified the dangers of war, in the event of Mr. Roosevelt's election, goes without saying and no doubt many an intelligent Democrat smiled in his sleeve as he illustrated the temperament of the President by picturing the man going about with a club, because of cowardice, or bullyism and carrying a chip on his shoulder to provoke a fight. To really intelligent, sensible men, familiar with the history of Roosevelt's administration for three years and more, these attempts to paint him as a bully seeking quarrels with sister nations, are simply ridiculous, and nobody knows it better than Mr. John Sharp Williams, who must have very little respect for the intelligence of his audience to palm off upon them an estimate of Roosevelt's characteristics so really foreign to the actual temperament of the man. Nobody denies that he is a strenuous ruler, but he is not a whit more so than was Andrew Jackson, one of the patron saints of the Democracy. In fact, nothing has occurred during his administration quite so strenuous as some of the incidents that marked the administration of that great Democrat and American.

Mr. Williams' argument on the tariff question, to which he devoted considerable time, was full of sophistries. His ideas are theories only and cut very little figure in the face of facts with which the people of this country are entirely familiar. He denied that the Democratic party is in favor of free trade and said that free trade is impossible, as the need of revenue necessarily implies the imposition of tariff duties, which work protection to American interests. This he said, in substance, in face of the fact that England, which is recognized as a free trade country, imposes tariff duties on many imports. He practically argued against protection yet seemed anxious to have it understood that the Democratic party does not object to such protection as necessary tariff duties will afford. All of which seems inconsistent with the cleancut declarations of the Democratic national convention that tariff protection is robbery of the many for the benefit of the few.

Mr. Talbott made a characteristic speech and that is about all that need be said about it.

Election Next Tuesday.

Voters should be careful not to go into the booths at the polling places and mark their ballots with soiled hands, as a finger mark of any kind, however faint, may be construed under the present trick law as an intention of the voter to identify it, and so it may not be counted, especially if it shall be a Republican ballot. Use plenty of soap and wash your hands clean before voting.

The Ticket and How to Mark It.

On the fourth page of the SENTINEL this week will be found the list of nominations made by the several parties, as they will appear on the official ballot to be voted on the 8th of November. The names are not arranged alphabetically, as has been customary heretofore. The law does not, it is said, require this, and if custom had been followed in this case the name of Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist candidate, would head the ballot. As arranged, however, the names of Parker and Davis, followed by the names of the Democratic candidates for the electors, are at the head of the first column. Then follow the names of Roosevelt and Fairbanks and the names of the Republican candidates for electors, the column ending with the names of the congressional candidates in alphabetical order, the name of Robert Garrett, the Republican candidate, being the first. In the second column the names of the Prohibition and Socialist candidates appear in the order named.

Only one mark will be required to vote for President and Vice-President, and that must be made in the square to the right of the name of the candidates for those offices. For instance, to vote for Roosevelt and Fairbanks it will only be necessary to make a X in the square to the right of their names, next to which is the word Republican. Another mark must be made to vote for Congressman, and that must be in the square to the right of the candidate's name and the party designation. To vote for Robert Garret place the X to the right of the word Republican as it follows in the line with his name. Voters should be very careful not to let the lines of the X touch any part of the lines of the square in which it is to be placed.

KEEP THE HOUSE REPUBLICAN.

When the 8th of November rolls around, every man ought to realize that he owes it to himself to get out to the polls and cast his vote for the ticket of his choice. He owes it to his country, to his State and to his family and neighbors. Patriotism and business both are concerned.

The election for Congress this year is very important. A national House of Representatives is to be chosen, and a great deal of the country's prosperity and industrial welfare for the next two years depends upon the result. There is no telling what unrest and positive disaster might follow a Democratic victory at the polls.

Not since the Fifty-third Congress have the voters of this country trusted the control of the House of Representatives to the Democratic party. They had turned over the reins of the Government to the Democrats and the atrocious Wilson tariff law was the result. The country suffered for years thereafter, although in the very next Congress the Republicans were given control again and repealed the law.

It is not credible that the people of this land are now contemplating turning the House over to the Democrats. They have been living and prospering under Republican legislation and they know what it is. They have no reason to change.

But the only way to make sure that there shall be no change is to get out to the polls and vote. There are Republican votes enough in the land to assure the retention of a good working majority in the House, but they will have to be cast. It will not do any good for a man to sit by his fireside and entertain protective tariff and sound money doctrines. He must go to the polls and make them good.

So, be sure that you turn out yourself and bring a neighbor with you.

DINED WITH A NEGRO.

Ex-Governor Frank Brown, who is going about raising the race issue in this State and abusing President Roosevelt for having entertained Booker T. Washington at the White House, is now up against an accusation of the same character, as will be seen by the following affidavit made by a Dorchester county colored man:

I, James A. Hughes, residing in Vienna, Dorchester county, Md., hereby certify that I, by special invitation from William Sherman, president of the Nanticoke Steamboat Company at that time, dined with ex-Governor Brown on or about the year 1885 or 1886, on the steamer Nanticoke, while she lay at her wharf in Vienna.

At the time of this occurrence the ex-Governor was postmaster of Baltimore and had gone to Dorchester county on business connected with that office.

Hughes, who makes the affidavit, had previously made a statement of the affair to ex-Congressman Kerr, in which he said that he was introduced to Postmaster Brown, who shook hands with him and complimented him for voting the Democratic ticket. Hughes took a seat at the table near Mr. Brown, and was treated in every way as were other guests at the table. In his statement Hughes gives the names of several residents of Vienna who were also guests at the dinner.

Those who know Hughes say that Mr. Brown cannot say that he did not recognize him as a colored man, since he is not a mulatto, but his complexion is of an ebony hue.

The story has been in circulation several days and thus far has not been denied by Mr. Brown. It simply shows that all the commotion raised by the Democrats about the Booker T. Washington incident, is only for the purpose of prejudicing the minds of voters in Southern States against the President.

It is not the only case of prominent Maryland Democrats dining or lunching with a colored man. When the remains of Vice President Wilson lay for a time in the City Hall, Baltimore, Fred. Douglass was one of the guests at a lunch or banquet given to the committee accompanying the body in transit to Massachusetts, and Judge Brown, of Baltimore, entered the banquet hall arm in arm with that distinguished colored man. Other prominent Democrats were present, among them, we believe, United States Senator Whyte, though of that we are not positively certain.

The War in Manchuria.

The only news of importance from the war in Manchuria is to the effect that, by their recent assault on Port Arthur, the Japanese have won such commanding positions as insure the downfall of that stronghold at an early date.

There's no trouble about marking your ballot right if you think a bit. If you want somebody else to do the thinking for you ask somebody who is not as tricky as a trick ballot.

Election Next Tuesday.

TRICK BALLOTS.

The Frederick Republicans are complaining that in the list of official nominations printed in the newspapers of that county the names are so arranged that all the Democrats have to do to instruct their voters is to tell them to make a X in the first square at the top of the first column and in the last square at the bottom. That is exactly the arrangement of the names in this county, but the Republicans are not kicking about it. The law does not require alphabetical arrangement of names, or that of Debs, the Socialist candidate, would be placed first on the list. It could hardly be expected that the Democratic members of the boards of election supervisors would forego the advantage this affords them of arranging the ballot to facilitate its marking by their own voters, as there is no violation of law in so doing.

In Southern Maryland, however, we are informed the Democrats are resorting to a despicable trick to mislead all illiterate voters exept their own. Different lists of nominations are being circulated, in all of which the Democratic candidate for President is at the top and for congress at the bottom of the first column. The candidates of all the other parties, including the Republican, are shifted about so that it will be impossible to tell until election day just where they will appear on the ballot. This prevents any but the most general instruction and makes it difficult for the illiterate voter, if not a Democrat, to tell where to place his mark.

Letter to W. H. Lindsay.

WESTMINSTER

Dear Sir: If it took 10 gallons to paint your house last time with somebody else's paint, and takes 8 with Devoe, we save you $8 or $10; for painting costs two or three times as much as paint.

Mr Ezra Rathmell, Williamsport, Pa, always used 11 gallons of mixed paint for his house; Devoe took 6.

But that isn't all; that's only first cost; how long will it wear?

The paint, that goes furthest in covering, wears best too.

All paint, true paint, and full-measure, are on one side; part paint, false paint, and short-measure are on the other. What can you expect?

Yours truly
F W DEVOE & CO
