DEVOTED TO AGRICULTURE, POLITICS, GENERAL NEWS, &c.

Vol. 16. CHESTER TOWN, MD., DECEMBER 1, 1855. No. 31.

VALUABLE PROPERTY For Sale.

352½ ACRES.

THE subscriber, intending to leave the county, will sell his farm known as the lying and being upon Fairlee Creek, one and a half miles from the Chesapeake Bay, and seven and a half from Chestertown, in Kent county, Md. This farm may be called in a high state of cultivation, having been limed, ashed, and manured very recently. Within the last three years have been spread, covering about two-thirds of the arable land for the fourth time—one half the balance has been covered three times and the remainder once. This farm is considered one of the best in the county, for grazing purposes, being well adapted to grass, and having running water in every field. It is very conveniently situated with respect to market for all kinds of produce, having upon it and being within thirty miles of Baltimore.

"EVERLASTING,"

8000 BUSHELS OF LIME

TWO LANDINGS

THE BUILDINGS

on the premises are in good order ($1000 having been expended upon them the past season) and well adapted to uses for which designed, viz:—Granary, Stabling, Shedding, Loft Room, &c.

For school, church and mill facilities, this property cannot be surpassed, there being a well conducted grist and saw mill adjoining; four churches within five miles, school within one and a half miles.

There is a pump of excellent water convenient to house and barn. Also a thriving and flourishing full bearing, of choice and very early fruit, and many other advantages generally considered minor, but which in reality are a farmer's comfort and his pleasure. There is a plenty of

WOOD AND TIMBER for farm use, and some young thriving chesnut and locust. A fine meadow can be made with very little cost; in fact, the incipient step towards it has already been taken. All persons wishing to buy land in this county would do well to come and survey this property.

This farm is offered at private sale until the 25th day of November next, and if not sold by that time it will be for rent the ensuing year.

TERMS OF SALE:

$4000 cash will be required on the 1st of January next. A credit of 8 years will be given for the balance.

There are other inducements connected with this property, which cannot fail to please purchasers. For further information address Editor Kent News, or ## Trustee's Sale.

UNDER a decree of the Circuit Court for Kent county, Maryland, in Equity, the subscriber will offer at public sale, at Mr. John McDaniel's Hotel, in Chestertown, on the 4th day of December, 1855, at 12 o'clock, M., all that

TUESDAY,

FARM OR PLANTATION

of which the late John D. Cruikshank, died seized and possessed, containing about more or less. The soil is naturally kind, and may be rendered highly productive by the application of lime and guano; a large portion of the farm has been limed, and is now very productive. The situation is excellent; it lies directly on the stage road leading from Chestertown to Rock Hall, and is not over two miles from the former; is convenient to Washington College and other schools; to mills and places of public worship; the neighborhood is distinguished for its prosperity and enterprise. The improvements are a FRAME DWELLING with the Kitchen attached, and the usual out-buildings, all in fair order; an apple and peach orchards, both young and in full bearing.

152 Acres,

THE TERMS OF SALE,

as prescribed by the decree, are as follows: The purchase money to be paid in three equal instalments of 6, 18 and 24 months from the day of sale, and secured by the bond of the purchaser, bearing interest from the day of sale, with security approved by the Trustee.

RICH'D HYNSON,

Nov. 17, 1855.—tds.

The Del. Journal will please copy and send bill with paper to the Trustee.

N. B.—There are about 100 acres of land adjoining this farm which may be bought at private sale.

Land at Public Sale.

THE undersigned will expose to public sale, on

THURSDAY,

the THIRTEENTH day of December, 1855, at half past eleven o'clock, A. M., at the tavern porch of John McDaniel, Esq., in Chester Town,

ALL THAT TRACT OF LAND,

called the "Bolton Farm," containing

215 *Acres,

more or less, lying within three miles from Chestertown, on the public road leading from Worton, and adjoining the lands of Messrs. Isaac Parsons, Wm. Vannort, and Thos. Hynson.

About 15 or 20 Acres is in good young TIMBER. The soil is good clay bottom, and is well adapted to clover and plaister. A portion of the land has been twice limed, and Lime has acted finely. There are no Buildings on the property—it having been cultivated in connection with another farm, but there is a fine location for buildings and improvements, and the situation may be made a pleasant one.—The neighborhood is good and healthy.

THE TERMS OF SALE,

are—one fourth cash, or in a few weeks after the sale—the balance secured in one, two and three years, in three equal instalments. Possession can be given on the 1st day of January next.

Mr. Walraven, adjoining the premises, will show them to any one who may call to examine them.

GEORGE VICKERS, Agent for Joseph Walraven.

POETRY.

FEMALE FIRMNESS.

BY PHŒBE CAREY.

Well, let him go, and let him stay—
I do not mean to die;
I guess he'll find that I can live
Without him, if I try.
He thought to frighten me with frowns,
So terrible and black—
He'll stay away a thousand years
Before I ask him back!

He said that I had acted wrong,
And foolishly beside;
I won't forget him after that—
I wouldn't if I died.
If I was wrong, what right had he
To be so cross to me?
I know I'm not an angel quite—
I dont pretend to be.

He had another sweetheart once,
And now when we fall out,
He always says she was not cross,
And that she didn't pout,
It is enough to vex a saint—
Its more than I can bear;
I wish that girl of his was—
Well, I don't care where.

He thinks that she was pretty, too—
Was beautiful as good.
I won'e if she'd get him back
Again, now, if she could?
I know she would, and there she is—
She lives almost in sight;
And now its after nine o'clock—
Perhaps he's there to night.

I'd almost write to him to come—
But then I've said I won't;
I do not care so much, but she Shan't have him if I don't.
Besides I know that I was wrong,
And he was in the right;
I guess I'll tell him so—and then—
Oh, I wish he'd come to-night!

MISCELLANY.

THREE JOLLY HUSBANDS.

Three husbands, in the country, by the names of Tim Watson, Joe Brown and Bill Walker, sat late one evening drinking at the village tavern, until being pretty well corned, they agreed that each one on returning home, should do the first thing that his wife told him, in default of which he should the next morning pay the bill. They then separated for the night, engaging to meet again the next morning and give an honest account of their proceedings at home, so far as they related to the bill.

The next morning Walker and Brown were early at their posts, but it was sometime before Watson made his appearance. Walker began first.

"You see when I entered my house the candle was out, and the fire giving but a glimmering of light, I came near walking into a pot of batter that the pancakes were to be made of in the morning. My wife, who was dreadfully out of humor, said to me sarcastically—

"Bill, do you put your foot in the batter."

"Just as you say, Maggy," said I, and without the least hesitation I put my foot in the pot of batter, and went to bed.

Next, Joe Brown told his story:

"My wife had already retired in our usual sleeping room, which adjoins the kitchen, and the door of which was ajar; not being able to navigate perfectly, you know I made a dreadful clattering among the household furniture, and my wife, in no pleasant tone howled out—

"Now do break the porridge pot."

"No sooner said than done. I seized hold of the handle of the pot, and striking it against the chimney-jam broke it in a thousand pieces. After this exploit I retired to rest and got a curtains-lecture till I fell asleep."

It was now Tim Watson's turn to give an account of himself, which he did with a very long face, as follows:

"My wife gave me the most unlucky command in the world; for I was blundering up stairs in the dark, when she cried out—

"Now, Tim, do break your neck."

"I'll be cuss'd if I do, Kate, said I, gathering myself up the best way I could—no, I'll sooner foot the bill."

"And so, landlord," continued Tim, "here's the cash for you. But, by jingo, this is the last time I'll ever risk five dollars on the command of my wife."

WHAT THE PREACHER SAID.—A pious old lady who was too unwell to attend meeting, used to send her thick headed husband, to find out the text the preacher selected as the foundation of his discourse. The poor dunce was rarely fortunate enough to remember the words of the text or even the chapter and verse, where they could be found; but one Sabbath he ran home in hot haste, and with a smirk of self satisfaction upon his face, informed his wife that he could repeat every word without missing a syllable. The words were as follows: An agel came down from heaven and took a live coal from the altar.'

'Well, let us have the text,' remarked the old lady.

'I know every word of it,' replied the husband.

'I am very anxious to hear it,' continued the wife.'

'They are nice words,' replied the husband.

'I am glad your memory is improving, but don't keep me in suspense, my dear.'

'Just get the bible and I will say the words by heart. I said them over a great many times on my way home from church.'

'Well now let's hear them.'

'Ahem!' said the husband clearing out his throat: 'An Ingen came down from New Haven, and took a live colt by the tail, and jerked him out of the halter!'

The old lady fainted, and did'nt recover for three weeks.

"THESE ERE LEGS."—"My dear Bagley, in view of your relations with this life, how do you feel?"

"D——d sick," was the prompt reply.

"Don't swear my poor friend," said the parson, "and let me earnestly ask do you ever think of your latter end?"

"Lord!" said Bagly, I havn't thought on nothing else for more than three months."

"Not in the right way I'm afraid, Mr. Bagley. I beg you to pause and reflect! It is time you began to wrestle with the Lord!"

The sick man looked down at the miserable, calfless, poker legs, extending before him and with an ineffable expression of amusement in his countenance, exclaimed:

"Rastle with the Lord! What! with these ere legs!" pointing to his own.—"Why parson, he'd flirt me into Hell the very first pass!"

☞ An old lady was once plying her distaff, and listening devotedly to her daughter reading the Bible at her side. She was reading in the Book of Genises, and being not yet perfect in the art, she would now and then miscall a word. So it chance that she read stammeringly, these words:

"Now these eight did Milcah bore—"

"What, what's that?" said the old lady, "read that again.'

The good daughter complied, and looking more carefully, read, "did Milcah bear."

"Ah, that will do," said the old mother, "they might milk a bear, but to milk a boar, my daughter, is impossible."

BADLY BROKEN.—A well-known Providence sporting character tried his luck in that city the other day, and found it bad. The bank refused to discount for him, and his deposits were exhausted.—On turning his back upon the scene of operations, a sympathizing friend said to him:

"Tom, are you broke?"

"Yes," said Tom, with a sigh, "and so dead broke, that if steamboats were selling at a cent a-piece, I couldn't buy a gangway plank."

A PLAIN SPOKEN WITNESS.—"Facts are stubborn things," said a lawyer to a female witness under examination. The lady replied:

"Yes, sir-ee: and so are woman, and if you get anything out of me, just let me know it."

"You'll be committed for contempt."

"Very well, I'll suffer justly, for I feel the utmost contempt for every lawyer present."

☞ A mother seeing her child standing near a deep pond of water, and not being in a very good humor, cried out—

"Mind, you fall in that pond and get drowned and I'll give you a good whippin' for it."

BIG FANGO.—Dow, Jr., of the Golden Era says: "Life is a country dance; down outside and back; tread on the corns of your neighbor; poke your nose everywhere all hands round; right and left. Bob your cocoannuts,—the figure is ended.—Time hangs up the fiddle, and Death puts out the lights.

☞ The other day as a boy was about posting a handbill to the effect that a public speech was to be delivered, a gentleman passing by, stopped, read it, and exclaimed, in good earnest:

"I say, boy, you needn't stick that up, I've seen it.

☞ A green 'un who had never before seen a steamboat, fell through the hatchway down into the hold of the Winfield Scott, and being unhurt, loudly expressed his surprise: "Well, if the darn'd thing aint hollow!"
