By order of
COUNTY CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

It is stated, apparently with authority, that Mr. Robert Garrett is willing to accept the Republican nomination for Congress in the Second district. While he is opposed by some Baltimore county Republicans there seems to be no opposition to his candidacy in other portions of the district. He is a clean man and unfamiliar with the tricks which mark the professional politician and which are so characteristic of the Democratic nominee. If nominated he ought to receive the solid vote of the Republicans and the support of all independent Democrats.

Gov. Warfield, in his address at the Farmers' Grange picnic, near Taneytown, on Saturday last, alluded to the part played by Gov. Thomas G. Pratt in successfully resisting a movement for the repudiation of the debt of this State. The Governor might have informed his audience that this one of his predecessors, who had the honor to aid by his advice and counsel in accomplishing that object, was elected as the candidate of the Whig party in 1844. That, practically, the Whigs of the State, among whom, if we mistake not, were ancestors of Governor Warfield, were the stern opponents of repudiation, and that, upon the advice of Gov. Pratt, their representatives passed a stamp-tax law which made it possible for the State to maintain its faith with its creditors and save the honor of the Commonwealth.

There appears to be an era of good feeling between the political parties in Missouri, if a recent incident is a sample of conditions in that State. Two Judges of the Supreme Court of the State are to be elected in November and the Republicans held a convention at Jefferson City, on Thursday of last week, for the purpose of nominating candidates for those offices. The incident which peculiarly marked the occasion was an address of welcome delivered by the Chief Executive of the State, Governor Joseph W. Folk, who was elected as a Democrat by forty thousand majority when Roosevelt had a plurality for President of something more than twenty-five thousand. In the course of his remarks Governor Folk said that "parties should not attempt to win by partisanship, but because they stand for something good for the people."

It is a rather singular fact that while the Republican ring which ruled Philadelphia for a long time was guilty of extensive graft the credit of that city is still superior to that of New York. Recently these two cities had occasion to borrow money and each issued bonds for that purpose. New York offered $11,000,000 of four per cents which sold at 100.97, while Philadelphia's three and a half per cents brought 101.25. A principal cause of the better credit of Philadelphia is that while New York is saddled with an enormous debt Philadelphia's indebtedness is small, in comparison, and her tax rate much less than that of the larger city. On the whole it seems that, notwithstanding the practice of graft by the Republican ring in one case, the city government, under its rule, has been conducted more economically than that of the big Democratic municipality. But then New York has been about as badly plundered in the past, by the officials of that corporation, as any city in the world.

About the best reason that can be given for the general public approval of the appointment of Mr. Alfred S. Niles instead of Mr. James P. Gorter to the Supreme Bench of Baltimore, as successor of the late Judge Baer, by Governor Warfield, appeared in an editorial article in the Advocate last week. It is true, the design of the article referred to was not to compliment but to condemn the Governor for his action in the case, and it took the executive sharply to task for not appointing Mr. Gorter instead of Mr. Niles. The writer of the article in question, while expressing the opinion that party politics ought not, "in any improper way, be injected into the judiciary of the State," bluntly declared his preference for Mr. Gorter because "he is one of the most influential members of the Democratic party of the city, and has rendered valuable service to his party." It is not claimed that he is any better qualified for the judgeship than Mr. Niles, but that he is a better Democrat and was endorsed by such Democrats as Senators Whyte and Rayner, Congressman Gill and many others. It does not appear, however, that these gentlemen endorsed him as a Democrat, but as a lawyer qualified for the bench. The regularity of his Democracy does not appear to have been in question with the distinguished gentlemen above named, one of whom, at least—Senator Rayner—has not always been a regular of regulars himself. But our Advocate writer seems to have put the question of Mr. Gorter's Democracy before the matter of his qualifications and, if that were in the minds of his advocates and supporters generally, a better reason for the appointment of some other man could not well be given.

THE GOVERNOR WAS RIGHT.

William Lee, a young colored man, was legally hanged on Smith's Island, Somerset county, on Thursday of last week, instead of at Princess Anne, the county town. The crime which Lee expiated with his life was a brutal assault on two white ladies in Somerset. After its perpetration he fled to Virginia, but was captured and taken to Baltimore, where, on account of violent threats made to lynch him, by citizens of Somerset county, if the opportunity ever offered, he was tried, condemned and sentenced to death. As the law requires the execution of a capital sentence to be made in the county in which the crime for which it may be imposed shall have been committed, it became necessary to send Lee to his death in Somerset. It seems morally certain that if he had been sent to Princess Anne only a strong military guard could have prevented the populace from seizing him from the officers and probably burning him at the stake. Apprehending such a popular uprising and fearing that other lives might have been the cost of such a conflict between the lawful officers and the mob, Governor Warfield had Lee sent at night, by boat, with a scaffold ready for the execution, to Smith's Island and there the culprit was duly hanged until he was dead, without the knowledge of those who were clamoring for an opportunity to lynch him.

The Governor has been severely criticised by prominent citizens of Somerset county and others for his course in the case. It is held by his critics that he has cast a slur upon the fair fame of Somerset county. It is asserted by them that the law-abiding element is sufficiently strong to have prevented mob violence in the matter and would have exerted the necessary effort to have prevented it. The Governor, however, had no such assurance. On the contrary, there was sufficient ground to fear an attempt to lynch Lee and subject him to torture before dispatching him. He well deserved the death which he met, but it would have been a disgrace to Somerset county and the State of Maryland, if a condemned criminal had been taken from the officers of the law and his execution anticipated in the brutal manner contemplated by those who favored a lynching.

Some of the Governor's critics, while giving him credit for his efforts to uphold the majesty of the law, express the opinion that he should have sent Lee to Princess Anne under a strong military guard and, if that had led to a conflict between the mob and the soldiers, with bloodshed and loss of life, the responsibility would have been on the citizens of Somerset county. That sort of reasoning seems illogical on the part of those who approved the removal of Lee to Baltimore and his trial in that city. If that precaution were necessary to prevent a lynching, there would seem no earthly reason why the Governor should not have employed any other legal means to save the public from the shame of such an action after the man was condemned to death.

WANTS TO BE PARTY AUTOCRAT.

Mr. Wm. J. Bryan's head seems to have been turned by the flatteries of which he has recently been the subject, and he is undertaking to play the role of party autocrat. Acting as if this were his rightful prerogative, he wrote to Judge Owen P. Thompson, of Jacksonville, Ill., directing him to request the resignation of Mr. Roger Sullivan, of that State, from the Democratic National Committee, alleging that Mr. Sullivan had been appointed a member of the committee by fraud, and that his presence on the body was a contradiction of all that could be said in behalf of the party's good intentions. Accompanying the letter to Judge Thompson was a message to the people of Illinois, to be made public in case Mr. Sullivan declined to retire from the committee. Mr. Thompson, as might have been expected, has refused to accede to Mr. Bryan's demand and the latter's message has been published. In it he says:

"You can do little to advance Democratic principles so long as you permit the most fundamental of the principles, namely, the right of the majority to rule, to be violated. Mr. Sullivan was selected as national committeeman by delegates who were not chosen by the convention. As he was one of the leaders in the high crimes and misdemeanors committed against the Democracy of Illinois, his refusal to resign cannot be attributed to ignorance of the facts, but is proof positive of his unfitness for the place. We are about to enter upon a campaign in which our party will appeal to the people and ask the confidence of the nation. I do not know how you, the Democrats of Illinois, could better open that campaign in your State than by demanding his resignation."

Mr. Sullivan states in reply to this that the charge made by Mr. Bryan was declared by the Democratic National Convention of 1904 to be a misrepresentation and libel, and that a committee on credentials representing every State and Territory in the Union declared that the men whose course he, Mr. Bryan, now champions were liars and villifers. The message, Mr. Sullivan says, is proof that "he, Mr. Bryan, is mistaken again, as he was on the free-silver question, and that he is wrong again, as he was when he permitted himself to cut so unenviable a figure as he did in the Bennett will controversy." Mr. Sullivan further says that "it is Mr. Bryan's misfortune to jump to conclusions too readily." But the conclusion of Mr. Sullivan's statement leaves the inference that he regards Mr. Bryan's course toward himself as an attempt to play the dictator.

"I would like to remind Mr. Bryan," he says, "that the 'fundamental principles of Democracy' which he speaks of do not include recognition of political czardom. Democrats may have their leaders, the leaders may have their followers; but their leaders will never be autocrats and the followers will never be serfs, obedient to the orders prompted by court favorites."

As Mr. Sullivan continues to hold his place on the National Committee Mr. Bryan must be constrained to admit a failure of the Democratic party to convince the people of its good intentions. Such an exception was, however, unnecessary. With or without Mr. Sullivan's resignation the people are not prepared to credit the good intentions of a party which proposes to select, for the third time as its candidate for President, a persistent believer in the fallacy of free silver coinage and a depreciated currency.

But the gist of the controversy between Mr. Bryan and Mr. Sullivan is that the former has assumed a tone which savors strongly of autocracy, an attitude which it is not likely the Democratic party, notwithstanding its many imperfections and its oftimes submission to bosses, will tolerate.

A meeting of the directors of the House of Correction was held Thursday and the election of a superintendent deferred until September.

Gov. Cummins Renominated in Iowa.

The Republican State Convention of Iowa, which met at Des Moines on Wednesday, renominated Governor Albert B. Cummins. This result followed a hard fought contest between those Republicans in that State who favor tariff revision and those who are denominated "Stand-Patters," or who are supposed to antagonize any change in tariff schedules. Governor Cummins was the leader of the "Progressives" and Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury in President Roosevelt's Cabinet, the "Stand-Patters." There were 1642 votes in the convention, of which Mr. Cummins received 935 to 707 for other candidates.

The result will probably be hailed by free traders as a victory against tariff protection, but the resolutions adopted by the convention, which voiced the views of the victors, give no comfort to protection's enemies, as they declare in most emphatic terms in favor of the system. Here is what the convention said on the subject:

"We are uncompromisingly in favor of the American system of protection. Duties on foreign imports should not be levied for revenue only, but should be so adjusted as to promote our domestic interests, enlarge our foreign markets, secure remunerative prices for the products of our factories and farms and maintain a superior scale of wages and standard of living for American labor.

"Wise and unselfish tariff laws maintained in the interest of the general welfare, equally opposed to foreign control and domestic monopoly, are essential to our commercial and industrial prosperity. We believe that all inequalities in the tariff schedules which inevitably arise from changing industrial and commercial conditions should be adjusted from time to time, and condemning without reserve all assaults upon the protective system, we favor such reasonable and timely changes as will keep the tariff in harmony with our industrial and commercial progress.

"We favor the reciprocity inaugurated by Blaine, advocated by McKinley and Roosevelt and as recognized in Republican platforms and legislation.

Conditions in Russia are threatening, and discontent appears to be spreading to the army and navy. At Sveaborg, Finland, a portion of the military at the fortifications mutinied and seized the forts on several islands. They were, however, finally compelled to surrender to loyal troops. At Cronstadt an uprising of troops occurred, but the government reports that it has been put down. The crew of the cruiser Pamyat Azova mutinied and raised the red flag. The officers of the vessel were killed by the crew and the ship is now somewhere in the Gulf of Finland in possession of the mutiniers. Whether these uprisings are part of a preconcerted plan cannot be stated. They were probably only sporadic outbreaks, but may be the forerunners of other uprisings which the government will find it difficult to quell. Still, just as long as a large portion of the army remains true to the Czar, there can be no successful revolution in Russia.

Chief of Detectives Charles S. White, of York, Pa., has made an important arrest in the person of J. K. Corbett, a young man apparently about 22 years old. Corbett has been representing himself to the merchants of York to be the proprietor of the King Rat Paste Company. When arrested by the detective he was sitting at a table in the dining-room of the Pennsylvania House, at York, and after a preliminary hearing was sent to jail. About 50 of the York county merchants, together with several of York's wholesale dealers, appeared at the hearing bearing duplicate orders which had been raised from one dozen to three dozen and to give testimony concerning the rat paste "king." All of the merchants showed how they had been fleeced out of their money with the bogus rat poison nicely labeled in a little wooden box.

Thomas Martin, 50 years old, an employ of the Thomasville Lime Company, at Thomasville, York county, Pa., was roasted to death on Wednesday in a lime kiln. Martin had gone to the top of the kiln to perform his duties of picking stones. The sudden dropping of the kiln precipitated him among the burning lime. He called for help and his fellow-employees did all in their power to rescue him. They were unable, however, to get him from the kiln before death occurred. His body was burned almost to a crisp.

Mrs. Charles A. Schott died in Washington at midnight on Tuesday. By a curious coincident Mrs. Schott passed away on the fifth anniversary of the death of her husband of the same disease, almost the same hour and on the same day of the week her husband died. Mrs. Schott had been grieving all day on the anniversary of her husband's death, and as the hour drew near she seemed to fail, and just at midnight she was seized with an attack of heart failure, just as her husband was, and passed away.

Mr. John Henry Allers, a farmer residing between McDonogh and the Wilson Sanitarium, on the Western Maryland Railroad, committed suicide on Wednesday, by blowing off the top of his head with a shotgun. He had been absent from his home for eight weeks, where, his family did not know. He was about 60 years old and was probably demented. He leaves three sons and three daughters, all grown.

At Camp Roosevelt, Mount Gretna, Pa., this week, the Department of the East, U. S. A., comprising the federal troops and the national guard from Delaware and the District of Columbia, began their work in maneuvering and working out the schedule of overland marches, drills and skirmishes as arranged and mapped out for them by Major General Fred. D. Grant, commander-in-chief in charge.

UNCLE SAM LOANS HIS SOLDIERS TO JOHN ROBINSON.

The John Robinson Shows are billed for two performances on Tuesday, August 14, in this city, on John street, and the advance couriers tell of an augmentation to their usual excellent program in the shape of two companies of U. S. cavalry from the world's greatest military riding school at Fort Riley, Kansas. These dare-devil riders have astounded the world with their remarkable exhibition of horsemanship, and their addition to the usual excellent offering of this father of shows was only accomplished after much red tape and a strong pull with the military heads of Uncle Sam's army. Within the past few years the riding of the soldiers of the regular army in this country has been brought to such a perfection that the oldest of the successful circus riders have been apprehensive of their laurels, and the coming of the show will afford an opportunity to witness the daily contests between the favorites of the sawdust arena and the daring soldier boys in blue.

These hardy fighters scorn the use of tights and riding shoes, and clad in their regulation uniform, with heavy army boots, they perform with daring ease and consummate skill every remarkable feat of horsemanship known to modern and ancient riding.
