CHAIRMAM HULL, THE FARMER AND THE TARIFF

The farmers have exported more products of all kinds during the last three years than in any previous period in America's history. This fact shows they have not lost the world's markets.

It is a hard fact for internationalists who clamor for American participation in European politics and free traders who harp on the profits in foreign trade to explain. Chairman Hull, of the Democratic National Committee, attempts to sidestep it in a statement in which he says: "They (Republicans) point to the quantity of farm products while they keep completely silent about the prices, as though the farmers were interested in quantity exported rather than prices received."

It is not the farmer who is interested in the quantity exported, --it is the international free trade propagandist, like Mr. Hull, who is interested in that and who has been yawping for months that the cause of low farm prices was the alleged loss of our European markets, due to our "Chinese wall" tariff and our foreign policy of abstention from European entanglements.

The Republicans have been telling the farmer the quantity of his exports has little or nothing to do with his prosperity. If so he would have been rolling in wealth during the last three years; he would have been in clover in 1921,—the year our farm exports were the greatest in history.

The Republicans have been telling the farmer his prosperity depends upon his home market. It is a fact; as cold as ice, as tangible as grindstones. The record of farm prices for 30 years proves conclusively that they go up or down according to domestic consumption (not exports) and domestic consumption depends upon American industrial activity. This fact has been set down in black and white in an official report on agricultural conditions, signed by such Democrats as Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi and Joseph Robinson, of Arkansas.

Industrial activity in America depends upon American industries supplying American consumers. They cannot do this if foreign industries supply them. Every foreign-made article sold in this country means one less American-made article sold.—and that means the American workingman who makes it being thrown out of a job. The proof of this is written indelibly upon the pages of American history. A Democratic tariff has invariably meant industrial depression in the United States, unemployment on the increase and the prices of farm products on the decrease.

Continuing, Chairman Hull complains that the tariff has prevented the law of supply and demand from operating in our international trade affairs. True,—for which the American farmer should thank the Republican party!

Were the American farm producer exposed to the law of supply and demand in international trade he would be compelled to sell his wheat from 12 to 20 cents per bushel lower than he now does. He would be compelled to compete with New Zealand and Scandinavian dairy products which are driving the dairy interests of England into bankruptcy because they can and do lay their products down in England at less than the English dairy interests can produce them,—and England's dairy interests are producing at much less cost than American dairymen can.

The Fordney-McCumber tariff is solely responsible for the fact that the level of farm prices in this country—low as they may be in many cases—is much higher than the level in other countries. Repeal the tariff, destroy its protective barriers, admit the flood of cheap grain, cheap meat, cheap dairy products and what would happen? The law of supply and demand in international trade, which Mr. Hull praises, would operate. American price levels for farm products would be beaten down to foreign levels. Instead of the American farmer getting more foreign markets, the foreign producers would grab the farmer's American market.

Mr. Hull and the Democratic party cannot persuade the American farmer to accept such a program!

UNIVERSITY ADVISES SOWING BARLEY

Carroll County Leads State. Safe In Average Winter.

College Park, Md., Oct. 4 (Special).—Because this is the year for planting winter grain W. B. Kemp, of the University of Maryland, suggests that it would be well to sow some barley instead of so much wheat.

"Low wheat prices in the last few years have directed attention to barley as a partial wheat substitute, especially on those farms where there are cattle and hogs to consume ground barley in place of part of the corn in the feed mixture," says Kemp.

Maryland's Production Low.

"In the last census year Maryland produced one bushel of barley to 90 bushels of wheat. Nearly all of this was winter barley and was grown mostly in a few counties. Carroll county led with one bushel to 20 of wheat.

"Barley lacks in winter hardiness as compared to wheat, and this fact alone has tended to check its spread. In a year of severe winter injury to wheat, barley may be killed almost entirely, but when conditions are favorable its yield is so much heavier than wheat that at present prices it unquestionably has a place as a feed crop.

Safe In Most Winters.

"It will come safely through most winters on typical Maryland farming soils as far west and north as the lowest altitudes of Frederick and Washington counties. It should be seeded earlier than the best wheat seeding dates.

"While the showing made with barley in Maryland is very favorable, yet one inexperienced with the crop cannot be warned too strongly against substituting more than a relatively few acres for wheat. Experience later will guide in determining the amount that may be sown safely."

ANNUAL RALLY, MEN'S BIBLE CLASSES

The third annual rally of the men's Bible classes of the Sunday schools of Carroll county will take place in Westminster on Sunday afternoon, October 28. Two years ago this event drew to our city the largest crowd Westminster had ever seen. This year with more automobiles and more good roads the attendance should be even larger.

Every Sunday school in the county is asked to send as many men as possible to take part in this demonstration and make it the great success it deserves to be.

The men will assemble around the court house at 1:30 P. M. where the procession will be formed, and the line of march will be from there to Alumni Hall. Here a great mass meeting for men will be held, immediately following the parade, addressed by Dr. A. R. Steck, of the Lutheran Church of Carlisle. Dr. Steck is an orator that no one will want to miss.

At the same time in the armory there will be held a great mass meeting for women, addressed by a speaker of national reputation, name to be announced later.

All schools are asked to bring an appropriate banner to be carried in the line of march, and those communities desiring to do so may bring their own band to enliven the procession with sacred music. All Carroll county is invited to Westminster on this day.

LETTER FROM STOCKHOLDERS COMMITTEE DOLLINGS CO.

Dollings Stockholders Protective Committee, 205 Martlin Building, Columbus, Ohio.

To the Editors:-

The Dollings Stockholders Protective Committee desires to sincerely thank those of you, who, in behalf of the Dollings stockholders in your respective communities, generously extended the courtesy of your columns to announce the logical policies of The Dollings Stockholders Protective Committee operating for the benefit of those stockholders to save their respective investments from loss.

This committee fully appreciates the importance of your high circulative efficiency, which is well proven by the fact that the beneficiaries of the information contained in your published articles from August 12th to August 20th, produced inquiries from over thirty thousand stockholders in the several states where Dollings securities had been sold. It is highly interesting to note,—and must surely be a gratifying fact to you publishers—that in almost all instances, these letters contain acknowledgements of the respective sources of the stockholders information, and definite mention of the particular newspaper read by each.

The executive staff of The Dollings Stockholders Protective Committee, now serving more than twenty thousand stockholders of The R. L. Dollings Company and its subsidiaries, (who were caught in the largest financial catastrophe of this generation) is now pleased to state that organization of the said stockholders—without which they can accomplish nothing,—is now being carried out in such a thorough way that in the course of the next few weeks hundreds of District and County Protective Committees will doubtless be operating in full accord and co-operation with the General Protective Committee. The time has now come to begin real action, and the prospect of success constantly spurs the Committee on in its work. Realization of the true purpose of this committee, that of saving the stockholders from financial loss, will certainly prove a most gratifying and worthy accomplishment, and one in which you as representative publishers, will have had an important part.

Naturally the fight in behalf of all these stockholders who have met their trivial assessment, to save their money through the efforts of this Protective Committee represented by the Chairman, Mr. John A. Bushnell, of Columbus, Ohio, is due to begin very shortly. Therefore, any information and advice to your subscribers through the columns of your publications, instructing stockholders not to neglect their opportunity or defer their action; to address John A. Bushnell, Chairman, or The Dollings Stockholders Protective Committee, 205 Martlin Building, Columbus, Ohio, if they want the money-saving services of this committee, will be of the highest value to them.

The Dollings Stockholders Protective Committee has now reached the point where it becomes necessary to engage corporation attorneys in the several states, and reliable executive appraisers; and this means that all those who have not paid their assessments to date should be courageously advised to do so at once, while those who have not yet become aware of the efforts of this committee and the services it is rendering, should write in and obtain all information of its plans for the saving of their money without loss of time.

The fact that a certain number of the stockholders appear unjustifiably indifferent, which avails them nothing and only makes the loss a more definite one, simply delays progress and curtails ultimate success. Delay on the part of the stockholders means delay indefinitely knowing the value of the securities in which they have their money invested; still worse, it means personal financial loss, which we now believe may be prevented in great measure.

The obligation resting on these stockholders to protect their investments is very important to them indeed, and any further advisory announcements in The Dollings stockholders behalf, you may conclude to offer the patrons of your publications, will be most highly appreciated.

Very sincerely yours,

Dollings Stockholders Protective Committee.

NEWTON CONVICTED OF CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD

Wednesday, in the criminal court of Baltimore, after a trial extending over several days, Emory M. Newton, at one time a resident of this city, was convicted of conspiracy to defraud the subscribers to the Union Finance Company of Baltimore, of which he was the president and apparently the sole owner.

When the Tidewater Cement Company of Union Bridge, this county, was in its formative period Newton came to this city from somewhere in the west to solicit subscriptions to the bonded indebtedness of the company and was very successful. While here he married Miss Mary Larrimore, a then resident of this city. Having completed his labors for the Tidewater Cement Company, Newton and his wife moved to Baltimore where he has been engaged in a number of financial ventures, one of which was the promotion of a cement plant in Kentucky, which fell through for want of sufficient financial backing.

Former State Auditor William A. Gillespie, and Harold N. Dickey Jr., several weeks ago were convicted of conspiracy to defraud, the state charging them with making a false audit of Newton's affairs. They have been sentenced to the penitentiary.

Newton has made a motion for a new trial, and was released on bond.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS GET PENNANTS

Last winter at a meeting of the executive committee of the Carroll County Sunday School Association, a resolution was adopted, offering a pennant to each school in the county that made during the year a ten per cent gain in membership. These pennants are made of black felt, beautifully lettered in orange. A similar one, made of blue and pink was offered to each school building a cradle roll equal to fifteen per cent of the membership of the entire school.

All this was done in accordance with a suggestion made by the State Association in which most of the counties are cooperating.

After a study of the reports of 1923, these awards have been made as follows: The schools winning a membership pennant, were, Baust Union, Silver Run Reformed, Finksburg M. P., Wesley Chapel, M. E. Westminster Lutheran, Westminster M. E., Westminster M. P., Mt. Airy M. E. S.

Those winning a cradle roll pennant were, Harney U. B., Taneytown Presbyterian, Pleasant Valley Lutheran, Deer Park M. P., Krider's Reformed, Westminster Church of God, Linwood Brethren and Woodbine Lutheran.

In addition to the above the following four schools won both membership and cradle roll penants, Taneytown Reformed, Freedom M. E. S., Manchester Reformed, and Union Bridge Brethren.
