WESTMINSTER, - MARYLAND.

Entered at the Postoffice at Westminster, Md., as Second-class matter.

FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1907.

The Peace Conference at the Hague does not seem to be accomplishing much towards the preservation of international peace.

When an Ex-President goes on a fishing trip it is thought a matter of sufficient consequence to let the people of the country know it and so we are told that Mr. Cleveland will spend the next ten days trout-fishing in the vicinity of Utica, N. Y.

John D. Rockefeller was said to be dodging the service of process issued by the United States Court in Chicago. He is wanted as a witness in the suits against the Standard Oil Company. He does not balk at destroying the livelihood of some of his fellow-men, nor at the general robbery of the masses but his conscience makes him hesitate to commit perjury and he dare not tell the true history of the great monopoly of which he is the head. He was unsuccessful in evading the process servers, who caught him at Pittsfield, Mass., on Wednesday.

Reports from Constantinople state that terrible massacres of Armenians have occurred during the last few days in the vilayets of Bitlis and Van. Kurds, joined by Turkish soldiers, are the perpetrators of these massacres and spare neither men, women nor children. Bitlis and Van lie in the extreme eastern section of Armenia, but the Turkish government could probably prevent such outrages if disposed to do so. The Christian nations of Europe should long ago have put an end to them, even if to do so it had become necessary to destroy the Turkish empire. But that terrible bugbear to Europe—the balance of power—evidently stands in the way, and so the Armenians are left to the tender mercies of the savages who murder and despoil them.

HAS SPOILED HIS CHANCES.

Mr. Joseph D. Baker, of Frederick, who has been prominently mentioned as the possible nominee of the Democratic party for Governor of Maryland, has probably destroyed his chances of receiving that honor. Mr. Baker is a pronounced temperance man and stands by his principles. Interviewed by a newspaper reporter on the subject he said:

"I am a temperance man and always have been. It is a fact that I have always declined to be a member of any club where liquor is sold. I would not sacrifice a single jot of my conviction and principle on this subject to hold any office in the gift of the people of Maryland. I do not understand that it is necessary for a man to drink liquor in order to be a Democrat. If it is, they might as well count me out."

That is a manly attitude, at any rate, and even liquor dealers must honer Mr. Baker for his frankness, albeit they will hardly favor his candidacy.

Mr. Baker is right in assuming that it is not necessary for a man to drink liquor to be a Democrat, but he would not have been far wrong if he had assumed that in about five cases out of seven the men who sell liquor are Democrats. That, at least, is the relative proportion of the political affiliations of liquor sellers in Westminster. In Baltimore the preponderance of Democrats in the business is probably still greater, and, what is more important, the support of the Democratic liquor sellers is essential to Democratic success. After his frank and fearless expression of antagonism to the liquor selling business Mr. Baker is not likely to receive enthusiastic support from that source.

JUDGE THOMAS A PROBABILITY.

Four vacancies in the Courts of this State are to be filled by election in November—two of them on the Court of Appeals Bench and two associate judgeships in the Second Circuit. One of the Court of Appeals vacancies is that caused by the death of the lamented Judge I. Thomas Jones, now being temporarily filled by Judge Rogers, of Howard county, under appointment by Governor Warfield. Judge Rogers, it is said, has indicated that he will not be a candidate for election to this judgeship, but desires to retire from the bench at the expiration of the period for which he was appointed. Associate Judge Wm. H. Thomas, of this city, is prominently mentioned for the nomination as the Democratic candidate. The conditions are peculiar in both parties in the circuit. Howard county has no Democratic lawyer who is considered sufficiently prominent to occupy a place on the bench of the Appellate Court and the nominee of that party must come either from Anne Arundel or Carroll. The Republicans are supposed to have but one lawyer on the circuit who measures up to the requirements of the position—J. Wirt Randall, of Annapolis—and he will probably be their candidate. The Baltimore American has this to say about the situation:

If Judge Thomas, of the Fifth Circuit, is nominated for associate judge of the Court of Appeals, it is assumed that he will resign as circuit judge, thus creating a vacancy for which there will have to be nominations by both parties. While Judge Thomas shares with Mr. James M. Monroe, of Anne Arundel, attention as being the most prominent candidates for the prospective vacancy on the bench of the Court of Appeals, there has been no announcement that the former will retire from the circuit bench after his nomination for the higher position. He could retain his place on the circuit bench until after the election, and if elected to the Appeals Bench he could retire from his present position, thus creating a vacancy which Governor Warfield could fill by appointment prior to his retirement. This appointment would last until the general election two years hence. If Judge Thomas is nominated for the Appeals Bench, and resigns, Mr. Louis D. Clark, a young attorney of Howard county, will probably be nominated by the Democrats. In event Judge Thomas does not retire and if elected to the Court of Appeals, Governor Warfield would probably appoint Mr. Clark to the vacancy. All these plans might be upset by the nomination of Mr. Monroe.

From time to time there have been reports that Judge Revell, of Anne Arundel, would resign because of impaired health, but until his resignation is an accepted fact any discussion of his successor is premature. The discussion has gone so far in Anne Arundel that Mr. James R. Brashears, of that county, has been suggested as the probable candidate of the Democrats. Mr. Monroe has also been mentioned as a candidate for the circuit judgeship.

The Republicans of the Fifth circuit have only one candidate for the Appeals bench, Hon. J. Wirt Randall, of Anne Arundel. They have not considered any prospective vacancies that may arise through the resignation of Judge Thomas if not nominated by his party to succeed Judge Rogers, nor have they discussed a candidate to succeed Judge Revell if the latter retires.

The judicial convention will not be held until after the state conventions of the two parties shall have made nominations for governor and for other important places on the tickets. The state nominations may have an important bearing upon the judicial tickets. There is a prospect that Hon. J. Wirt Randall will be nominated for governor, and in that event the Republicans of the circuit would have to look around for a candidate for the Court of Appeals.

The American published the photo of Judge Thomas among those of other prospective candidates mentioned.

The other vacancy in the Court of Appeals will be in Southern Maryland—the Seventh Circuit—where the Republicans have Hon. Sydney E. Mudd, Hon. Adrian Posey and Col. L. Allison Wilmer, all strong and capable lawyers, from whom to select a candidate. The Democrats will probably nominate Hon. John P. Briscoe, the present incumbent.

UNWRITTEN LAW'S EXTREME LIMIT.

A murder trial at Houston, Halifax county, Va., terminated on Saturday with a verdict which declared the accused not guilty, although there was no pretense that he had not killed, after several hours of premeditation, an unarmed man. The traverser was Ex-Judge William G. Loving, of Lovingston, Nelson county, and his victim was Theodore I. Estes, a reputable young citizen of that vicinity. While the ostensible defence in the case was insanity, reports of the trial indicate that the resort to that plea was little more than a pretext, the "unwritten law," as it is called, having been relied upon for a verdict of acquittal.

The story of the case, briefly told, is that Judge Loving's daughter charged young Estes with an attempt to assault her feloniously, while driving with her in a buggy. The girl's story furnished the provoking cause of the murder and her father, without seeking to ascertain whether it was true or not, deliberately armed himself with a double-barrel gun, loaded with buckshot, hunted up young Estes and shot him to death, without affording him the slightest opportunity to demonstrate his innocence of the offence.

Upon the trial the prosecution offered to produce testimony going to prove that the story of the attempted assault was a mental hallucination of the girl, who was evidently under the influence of liquor, having taken a drink of whiskey before starting on the drive and again from a flask offered her by Estes. But the court decided that the testimony was not admissible, as the facts alleged by the prosecution, even if true, were unknown to Judge Loving when he slew the victim of his anger.

A Virginia jury has exonorated the murderer and, by inference, stained the name of his victim with a dastardly crime, of which few people, notwithstanding the suppression of evidence of his innocence, will believe him guilty.

It is true the dress of the girl was disheveled and she was in an hysterical condition when they returned to the house of the friend from which they had started on the drive; but the young man went for a physician and in every other manner acted as one unconscious of having committed so grave an offence as that with which he was charged by the girl. He made no attempt to avoid Judge Loving when told that the latter was approaching with a gun. The buggy in which Estes and the girl were driving was in the vicinity and under the eye of persons in other vehicles throughout the drive and yet no one noticed anything unusual in the manner of its occupants. While these facts were not permitted to go to the jury they seem well attested and belief in the innocence of Estes is general. Yet as far as a Virginia Court could brand him he lies in a dishonored grave while his murderer is declared not guilty and is set at liberty.

All this shows that the unwritten law was pushed to its extremest limit in the case of Judge Loving. If he were insane when he committed the murder it was the insanity of uncontrolled anger. There was too much method in his madness to attribute his acts to anything but ungoverned temper and it seems a monstrous perversion of justice to have denied the relatives of Estes the right to establish his innocence in the court before whom his slayer was tried as well as in setting his murderer free on the false plea of insanity.

The case sets a dangerous precedent and should be unsparingly condemned by the public. If it is to be followed every man's life might be placed in jeopardy by the falsehood of a malicious woman or the hallucination of an intoxicated one.

Admitting the propriety of the unwritten law the man who resorts to it should be held accountable and responsible if he takes the life of another while laboring under a false impression, or without such inquiry as will fully demonstrate the commission of the wrong which he undertakes to avenge. The failure of Judge Loving to do this should have been ventilated on his trial, the real facts instead of his daughter's unreliable story should have been brought out and he held guilty if it had then been shown that Estes was innocent. The acquittal of Judge Loving, under the circumstances, is almost as great a disgrace to Virginia as was the verdict of not guilty in the case of Lieut. Governor Tillman, who killed Gonzales, to the State of South Carolina.

Ex-Senator McComas to Marry Again.

Hon. Louis E. McComas has formally announced his engagement and approaching marriage to Mrs. Hebe Muir, the young and beautiful widow of the late Judge Upton W. Muir, of Louisville, Ky. The formal announcement is as follows:

"Mrs. Muir, the young and beautiful widow of the late Judge Upton W. Muir, of Louisville, Ky., to wed Judge Louis E. McComas, of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, formerly congressman and United States senator from Maryland. Mrs. Muir, nee Harrison, of Virginia, spent last winter in Washington with her mother, Mrs. Julian Harrison, of New York. Mrs. Muir and Judge McComas will be quietly married, probably in New York, and will sail on the Adriatic on July 17 and spend the sumer on the Continent. On their return they will reside at their new home, 2101 Wyoming avenue, on the corner of Connecticut avenue, Washington."

Rev. Dr. J. Spangler Kieffer, of Hagerstown, an eminent clergyman of the Reformed Church, has received a cablegram from his son Paul, a Cecil Rhodes student at Oxford University, Eng., stating that he had won an "Oxford First" in his final examination. This, it is said, is the highest honor that can be conferred by the university upon a student. Mr. Kieffer has completed his three year's course and will sail for America on the 10th inst.

Hagerstown correspondence in the Baltimore Sun states that the reunion committee of the Reformed Church has invited President Roosevelt to make an address at Pen-Mar on the 18th inst., the date fixed for the annual reunion, and that the Presbyterians have invited Mr. Wm. J. Bryan to be with them and speak at the same place on the 11th inst.; but it is old news that both these invitations have been declined, other engagements having prevented their acceptance.

George W. Stocksdale, of Thurmont, has sued the Western Maryland Railroad for $20,000 for the destruction of his store and warehouse by fire, the fire, it is alleged, having been caused by a spark from a locomotive of the company.

The second annual meeting of the State convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will be held in Cumberland July 9, 10 and 11. Ex-State Senator David J. Lewis will deliver the address of welcome and the response will be by State President James A. Fechtig, of Baltimore.

A terrific storm passed over Hyattstown and Comus, Montgomery county, Monday night. Lightning struck a number of horses, killing them instantly. Mr. Davis lost two horses valued at $500, and Arthur Nicholson a driving horse valued at $250.

It is stated that under recent proceedings fines aggregating more than eighty-one millions of dollars may be imposed upon the Standard Oil Company for violations of the interstate commerce law.

During the fiscal year ended on the 30th ult the receipts of the General Government of the United States were, approximately, $665,000,000 and the expenditures $578,000,000, leaving a surplus of $87,000,000.

THE CHARMING WOMAN

is not necessarily one of perfect form and features. Many a plain woman who could never serve as an artist's model, possesses those rare qualities that all the world admires: neatness, clear eyes, clean smooth skin and that sprightliness of step and action that accompany good health. A physically weak woman is never attractive, not even to herself. Electric Bitters restore weak women, give strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, beautiful complexion.
