ODD FELLOWS' HALL.

Nov. 3rd, 8 P. M. ; "Line up for Bryan in the Morning."

Nov. 3rd, 9 P. M. ; "In The Sweet Bye and Bye."

Our Brother Bright of the Enterprise, Hampstead, is a very busy man On Wednesday morning early he telephoned to the SENTINEL asking a favor, which it gave us great pleasure to grant. As he has not the time for a trip up Salt River, his modest request was for a little salt, that he might prepare a bath at home.

All patriotic citizens will rejoice in the election of Otto Felger as a Congressman from the State of New York. Mr. Felger rose from a sick bed, in spite of the advice of physcians and the protest of friends, to go to Albany to vote for the anti-race track bill. His election to Congress demonstrates the fact that, when a great moral issue is squarely joined, the hearts of the people are right.

"There was a day when at election time men ceased to be neighbors and friends, but that time has passed," said a Democratic farmer of Woolery's on election morning. This truth gives cause for rejoicing. The time has come when political differences do not affect the personal relations of thoughtful men. We are all neighbors, all desirous of the welfare of the Nation, though honestly differing as to the best means of attaining it.

It was charged before the election that Mr. Talbott was promoting a trade in Baltimore county, by which he was to receive the votes of Republicans in exchange for votes of Democrats for Mr. Taft. The result gives some color to the charge. Mr. Talbott received a plurality of 1,929 in the county, while Bryan barely missed losing the county, his plurality having been but 223. If Bryan had received as large a plurality as Talbott in the county the whole electoral vote of Maryland would be in his column. It is not surprising that Mr. Talbott is now receiving curses loud and deep from some of his loyal Democratic supporters.

A Prosperous Future.

There is scarcely a doubt that the election of Mr. Taft to the Presidency assures a prosperous condition of the country during his administration. The result of Tuesday's election indicates that the people have faith in his ability to so administer national affairs as to insure confidence in the varied industries of the conntry and thus promote an increase in business in every direction. His election has nipped the wild schemes of his opponent in the bud and there is no doubt that he will pursue a safe and sane course in relation to the pressing and important questions already confronting the nation. Many exalted encomiums upon his wise judgment and prudent action in all the important stations heretofore filled by him were expressed during the recent campaign, but it is not too much to say that he deserved them all. Fortunate it is for the country that such a man is to be its Chief Executive during the next four years.

Always for Taft.

The SENTINEL early discerned the peculiar fitness of Judge Taft for the Presidency and during eighteen months prior to his nomination frequently, in its editorial columns, urged that action. It has been the fashion of a good many people to express the opinion that the nomination was made under the dictation of President Roosevelt and the influence of Federal officeholders. In this locality, at least, such an expression is without foundation. The Republicans of this county wanted Taft and through their county convention so declared, in the most decided terms. Many of them had learned through the columns of the SENTINEL of his great ability and his success in the various public stations in which he had served the country with signal devotion. His great qualities as a jurist and as an executive have now become thoroughly known to the whole country and this paper feels no ordinary pride in having been among the earliest journals to recognize those qualities and to urge that they be put into action in the highest office in the country.

Robert Garrett.

While the defeat of Robert Garrett as the Republican candidate for Congress in this district is to be deplored by all citizens who believe in clean politics and respect for law and order, Mr. Garrett himself is to be congratulated upon having made an earnest effort to overthrow the dominion of a political boss who seems to hesitate at nothing disreputable in pursuit of his own political fortunes. Just how Mr. Talbott, with a large body of influential Democrats in Baltimore county against him, and in the face of unrefuted charges of collusion with monopolies for the sake of his personal aggrandizement, made by those Democrats, managed to roll up a plurality of nearly 2,000 in that county, while the presidential candidate of his party received but a little over a beggarly 200, is one of the things that must puzzle the average citizen, but may not be a serious problem to his close political associates. It is up to Mr. Talbott to give a reasonable explanation to his party for this extraordinary result.

But Mr. Garrett has nothing to explain or to apologize for in the conduct of his campaign or its result. From first to last he stood firmly against the employment of any questionable method in his interest, as a candidate, and throughout his career in that relation has labored earnestly for the purification of the ballot, the honest enforcement of the law and the freedom of state and national legislators from questionable influences. He is a citizen whom the people should delight to honor and must possess the unqualified respect of men of all parties.

The re-election of Governor Hughes in New York was a triumph of the best element of the people over the worst. He was antagonized openly by the corrupt politicians of his own party, as well as by the gambling fraternity and those generally who have no respect for civic virtue. With these forces arrayed against him he entered the canvass with the certainty of defeat, apparently, staring him in the face, and by the sheer force of a straightforward, honest presentation of the issues involved, turned defeat into victory. His election was a triumph for official integrity and public decency of which honest citizens of New York have great reason to be proud and in which the whole country has a deep interest.

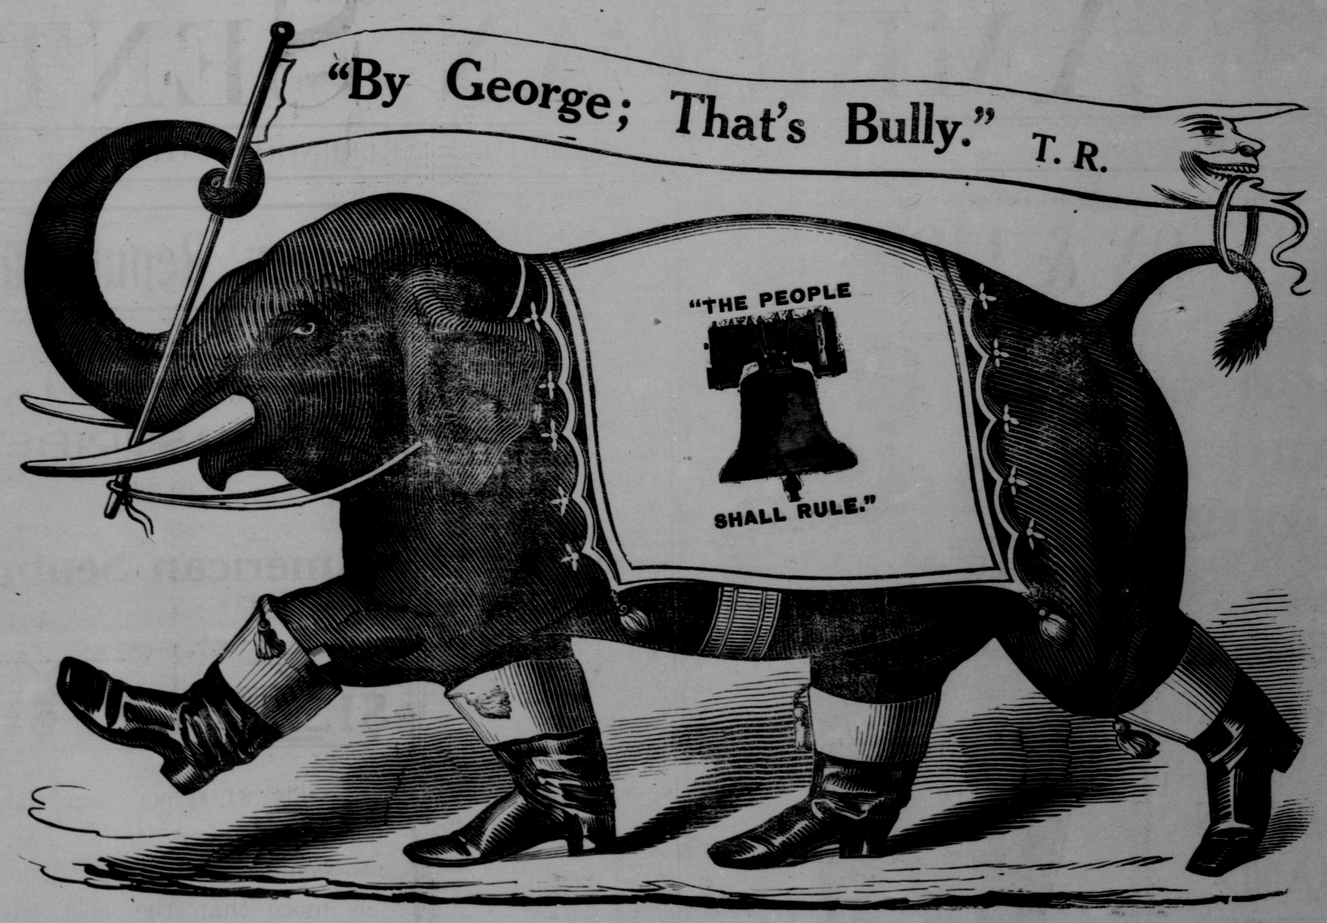
In 1900 Bryan carried Colorado, Idaho, Missouri, Montana and Nevada, in addition to States carried by Parker in 1904, but lost Maryland.

242 electoral votes necessary for a choice.

Returns from Maryland and Missouri are incomplete. Both are very close, wiht probability of a divided electorate in each.

I Bet on Taft.

I Bet on Bryan.



REPUBLICANS WIN GREAT VICTORY !

Bryan Policies Rebuked By The People.

New York City, Democracy's Stronghold, and Baltimore City Join The Procession----The Great Middle West For Taft. Republicans Have Substantial Majority in Congress.

Taft Has At Least 302 Electoral Votes. Missouri And Maryland May Increase That Number. Popular Plurality, 1,225,000. Republicans Gain Congressmen in the South. The People Still Rule.
