Every man in the county, who has knowledge of anyone entitled to register, who has not done so, should call the attention of his friend or neighbor to the fact that next TUESDAY, October 5th, is the last day for registration. Read the editorial on the first page of the SENTINEL, this week.

To Be Reckoned With.

The Democratic "Machine" of this State, in its zeal to disfranchise the negroes, seems to have overlooked a fact which every voter who contemplates casting his ballot for the pending amendment to the Constitution should take into careful consideration before reaching a final conclusion on the subject. The leaders of the movement, or some of them at least, are beginning to hedge on the real purpose of the amendment, in evident apprehension that the Supreme Court of the United States may declare it a violation of the National Constitution, if it shall be held that it is designed to disfranchise negroes only. They are making the poor plea that it will not disfranchise all negroes, while at the same time arguing that it will not disfranchise any white man and hence is not inimical to the supreme organic law of the land, the Constitution of the United States. The plea is faulty and puerile and will have no weight with the Supreme Court, as the purpose of the amendment is, without question, to disfranchise negroes only. If it were tenable, however, it would still have an authority to be reckoned with, an authority not to be swerved from effective action by mere technicalites. That authority is the Congress of the United States.

The Fifteenth Amendment, which declares that "the right of the citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race color or previous condition of servitude," has two sections, the second of which is as follows:

Sec. 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

This section is probably superfluous, as Congress has power to enact any law necessary to give force and effect to the Constitution. But its incorporation as a part of the Fifteenth Amendment gives peculiar emphasis to that authority.

It is very well known that the so-called Force Bill once introduced in Congress only failed of enactment because of sympathy for those Southern States which were struggling with the problem of a vast illiterate colored population. The Maryland Amendment, according to its sponsors, proposes the disfranchisement of colored men, of whom there were last Fall 50,336 entitled to vote, as against 237,380 white men with that right, or only one colored man in nearly six of the voting population of the State.

What more likely, from this condition, if Maryland shall adopt this amendment, than that the Congress will be called upon to act upon its inherent authority, repeated and emphasized by the second section of the Fifteenth Amendment, and enforce that article "by appropriate legislation."

In view of such a contingency, gentlemen of the Democratic Machine, it ill becomes you to endeavor to force this measure upon the people of this State, as, by doing so, you may involve your brethren further south in the legislation which, though deprecated, may become necessary.

Hudson-Fulton Celebration.

The festivities, which began at New York, last Saturday, and have been continued throughout the present week, commemorate the first complete exploration of the Hudson river by Henry Hudson, and the inauguration of successful commercial steamboat navigation on its waters by Robert Fulton.

Hudson was born near London, England. On April 4th, 1609, he set sail from Amsterdam, Holland, in the "Half Moon", a small vessel, only 80 feet long.

In September, he entered the river, which now bears his name. The Dutch, who succeeded the Indians as owners of what is now New York State were then the leading commercial nation of the world. The interest aroused among the early Dutch traders by Hudson's voyage led to the erection of traders' huts along the Hudson river as early as 1613. The first permanent settlements were made at Fort Orange (Albany) in 1624, and at New Amsterdam (New York) in 1626. The English took possession of this territory in 1664; surrendered to the Dutch in 1673; but regained permanent possession in 1674; and thereafter New Amsterdam was known as New York. The American or United States period began, of course, with the Declaration of Independence, in 1776.

Robert Fulton was born in Lancaster county, Pa., in 1765. Robert Fulton was not the inventor of the steamboat, and the present celebration so far as he is concerned is held in honor of the fact that he first successfully inaugurated commercial steamboat navigation of the Hudson river, with the "Clermont," in 1807. A dozen or more steamboats were built and operated in this country before Fulton's time. The first was built by John Fitch and was tried on the Delaware river in 1786. Fitch also built the second which was tried on the Delaware river in 1787. The third was built by James Rumsey, though this seems to have been driven by a water jet and not by steam, and was operated on the Potomac, at Shepardstown, W. Va., in 1787. The fourth was built by Fitch, and ran from Philadelphia to Burlington in 1788. Fitch also built the fifth in 1789, and this one was placed in regular service on the Delaware in 1790. The fifteenth and last steamboat before 1807 to make a trip under her own steam was the side-wheeler Phoenix, built by John Stevens, 1806—1807, which, being debarred from the Hudson by Fulton's monopoly with the Clermont, steamed to Philadelphia by sea, and became the first steamboat to make an ocean voyage.

The festivities attending the Hudson-Fulton celebration which began last Saturday, were witnessed by millions of people. War-ships of all nations took part in the water parade. Models of the Half Moon and Clermont were followed on the river by 2,000 other vessels. The war-ship-fleet alone was nine miles in length. The 57 warships in line each fired a salute of 21 guns, 1197 big guns booming forth in honor of the man, who first explored the Hudson and of him who first navigated it in a steam boat.

Every Republican voter registered next Tuesday, October 5th, will add one to the Republican majority in November.

Badly Burned in Garage.

With his clothes ablaze, Charles Boylan, 17 years old, 2813 Hampden avenue, ran from the garage of the Mount Vernon Motor Car Company, 1118 Cathedral street, Baltimore, Monday afternoon. He probably owes his life to Patrolman McGahan, who rolled him in the gutter and extinguished the flames with a bucket of water.

Boylan is employed as a mechanician and shortly after 4 o'clock he was working on the motor of an automobile, when there was a flare. His clothes, saturated with gasoline, caught fire. He wore a jacket, which with presence of mind he threw from his shoulders and ran into the street screaming.

Patrolman McGahan seized him and rolled him into the gutter. In the meantime another employee brought a bucket of water. McGahan threw it over the burning clothes on the boy, who was in agony.

In a few minutes the injured boy, with McGahan and another employee, were in the car of Mr. B. F. Goodwin, proprietor of the garage, and raced to the Maryland General Hospital.

The injured young man is a son of Mr. John Boylan, formerly of this city, and a grandson of the late Mrs. Bridget Boylan, whose funeral he attended in this city several weeks ago. Mr. James Boylan of this city, who is his uncle, learned by telephone that though badly burned about the body, his face escaped the flames, and that though he suffers intensely his condition is not serious.

Who Won the Game.

The Sunday Baltimore American, under the headline "Mt. Airy Single Men Win," says: "Before a crowd of 500 lovers of the National Game the married men of Mt. Airy defeated the single men 25 to 24. E. Beall and A. F. Miller were the opposing twirlers, and Miller had the best of the argument. The lineup:

"Single men—Smith, lf; H. Hood, 1b; Kain, 2b; N. Hood, ss; Banks, 3b; Aldridge, cf; Lewis, c; Skeggs, rf; Miller, p.

"Married men—Simpson, c; Lewis, lf; Smith, 3b; Clay, 2b; Shipley, ss; Roberts, rf; Snyder, cf; Routzahn, 1b; Beall, p."

The game was played last Thursday.

Great deeds compel regard. The world crowns its doers. That's why the American people have crowned Dr. King's New Discovery the King of Throat and Lung remedies. Every atom is a health force. It kills germs, and colds and la grippe vanish. It heals cough-racked membranes and coughing stops. Sore, inflamed bronchial tubes and lungs are cured and hemorrhages cease. Dr. Geo. MONEY COMES IN BUNCHES to A. A. Chisholm, of Treadwell, N. Y., now. His reason is well worth reading: "For a long time I suffered from indigestion, torpid liver, constipation, nervousness, and general debility," he writes. "I couldn't sleep, had no appetite, nor ambition, grew weaker every day in spite of all medical treatment. Then used Electric Bitters. Twelve bottles restored all my old-time health and vigor. Now I can attend to business every day. It's a wonderful medicine." Infallible for Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Blood and Nerves. 50c at all druggists.

FRIGHTFUL FATE AVERTED.

MARRIED.

On Sept. 23rd, 1909, by Elder E. W. Stoner, at his residence in Union Bridge, Mr. John E. Horning, of New Windsor, and Miss Laura Keefauver, of Frederick.

DIED.

In memory of our dear baby, Jacob D. Starner, Jr., who died two years ago, October 2nd, 1907.

Memory recalls the sad hours
Of two years ago to-day,
When we laid our dear baby
In the church yard far away.

When you ask us, do we miss him?
Yes, it fills our hearts with pain;
But his spirit softly whispers
Weep not, in heaven we will meet again.

By his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob D. Starner.

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear mother, Sarah C. Sheatz, who departed this life one year ago, October 5th, 1908.

Her suffering days are ended,
Her grief and misery ceased;
God called her to His heavenly home
With Him to live in peace.

Our home is sad and lonely,
Every spot is so desolate and drear,
As we listen to hear the voice of mother
That we never again can hear.

One year ago mother left us
In this world of sorrow and pain,
But she has gone to live with the angels,
Never to return again.

We miss thee in the day time mother,
We miss thee in the night,
We miss thy kind and loving smiles
That used to be in sight.

We hope some day we'll meet you,
When partings are no more,
Where we shall be with mother
On the happy golden shore.

By her children.
