He saw it about two weeks ago but failed to get a shot at it. He brought it to this city and hung it in front of Mr. O. C. Corbin's store on East Main street where it can be seen. The rabbit weighed five and a half pounds.

From our Silver Run correspondent Tuesday, December 1, the Federal Inspectors visited the Study farm near the farms of Messrs. Maus and Babylon, near Silver Run, and found a number of hogs suffering from the foot-and-mouth disease. The farm was placed under quarantine and preparations are being made to have the animals killed. The farm is occupied by Mr. John Bemiller.

The fire companies of Frederick are agitating the question of demanding compensation from the County Commissioners for such services as they may render in fighting fires in the county. Mr. Robert A. Bennett, president of the United Fire Company, says that the company's huge machine was damaged to the amount of $300 at the Mt. Airy fire. He said that some one told a member of the company that the town would stand good for any accident, but had only reimbursed the company to the amount of $100. "Some one," and "a member of the company," are very indefinite authority for stating that "the town would stand good for any accident."

The Good Roads Commission has secured a typical traction engine, has fitted its wheels with bands, covering the cleats, and is sending it over the roads from Cumberland to Frederick, to demonstrate that the bands in no wise interfere with the pulling power of the machine over the steepest hills. The engine in this case is hauling a threshing outfit that weighs three and a half tons. It is a 16-horse power machine and is owned by Charles Morgan, of Flintstone. It has crossed the mountains east of Cumberland without difficulty. This practical demonstration will probably solve the contention between the Roads Commission and the traction owners. The latter should certainly meet the Commissioners at least half way in their efforts to introduce a satisfactory solution of the perplexing question.

A dispatch from the Washington Bureau of the Baltimore Sun, to that paper on Tuesday, stated that "a tentative plan has been determined upon by the Administration for a division of the Federal offices" in this State, and that "the plan, it is said, contemplates Senator Smith getting the appointment of Samuel K. Dennis as United States District Attorney and William P. Ryan Collector of the Port of, Baltimore, while Senator Lee is to secure the United States Marshalship for William W. Stockham and the appraisership for Walter B. Warner, and a Lee man, whose name has not yet been recommended, for Surveyor." If this be true it cuts out Mr. Steele from the collectorship, but there may be hope for him in Senator Lee's unnamed choice for the Surveyorship.

Vernon A. Fogle, 30 years old, was arrested in the mountain near Emmitsburg Friday last by Deputy Sheriff Adelsberger and Constables Rowe and Sprenkle, charged with stealing two horses, one belonging to Thomas R. Saylor, of Walkersville, and the other to Charles Garber, York Road, this county. He was committed to jail in default of $500 bail for the grand jury. The horse belonging to Saylor was stolen Tuesday night and Garber's horse the following night. Word was received from Deerfield that a man was seen with horses answering to the description of the stolen animals, and officers started in pursuit. He was seen on the road near Slabtown riding the Garber horse. As the officers closed upon him he made for the mountain. He was located in underbrush and arrested. He said he took the horse to take a ride. He turned the Saylor horse loose before the officers found him.

BRITONS WELCOME XMAS SHIP

Luncheon Given in honor of the Jason's Arrival.

London, Nov. 27—There was a large gathering at the American Luncheon Club today at a repast given in honor of the arrival at Devonport this week of the Christmas ship Jason, bringing Christmas presents from the children of America to the young folks of the warring countries of Europe.

John Callan O'Loughlin, representing the newspapers in the United States which aided in collecting the presents sent by the children of America, was the guest of honor. The Jason is preparing to leave Devonport tomorrow for France and consequently her officers could not be present.

Walter H. Page, the American Ambassador, presided. Among those present were Lord Northcliffe, Sir George Riddell and Robert P. Skinner, the American Consul-General. Mr. O'Loughlin described the organization of the enterprise and the enthusiasm with which American women and children contributed to the unique undertaking. Sir George Riddell expressed the appreciation of Great Britain. He said Americans were noted for their original ideas and the enthusiasm with which they carry them out.

Mr. Page explained that the British Government had taken charge of the gifts and that they would be distributed through the British and Belgian relief committees.

The "Jason" is the ship on which the box containing 100 articles of clothing, nearly all new, or but slightly worn, collected in Westminster by Miss Mary B. Snellman, was sent to the women and children of Belgium. In addition she also sent $14 in cash.

Ascension Protestant Episcopal Church, through the Rector, Rev. Carlton Barnwell, $27 and from the Sunday school $5; Collection from the Union Thanksgiving service through Rev. L. E. Bennett $16.50, a total of $62.50. Smith-Yingling Co. sent 10 cases of corn and 10 cases of peas; Miss Josephine F. Reese, of Willis street, cash donations and several large packages of clothing; Mrs. W. L. Seabrook, box of clothing; Mrs. J. A. C. Bond has knit one dozen woolen scarfs and several pairs of wristlets and bands; several ladies at the M. P. Church Home are knitting scarfs while other ladies of the town are also busy knitting various needed articles. So with the donations already reported Westminster has surely responded most generously to the call of distres from the stricken Belgians.

On Saturday, November 28th, a family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Frank, at Maple Grove. A very pleasant day was spent. CATTLE DISEASE YIELDING

Charles W. Melville, secretary of the State Sanitary Live Stock Board, said Tuesday that he felt that this State is yielding to the work of eradication and prevention. Only one new case was reported. That came from Cordova, in Talbot county. The disease has been discovered on a farm where there are 14 cows, 2 calves, 34 sheep and 50 hogs. A suspicious case was reported from this county, but it is not certain that the disease is the trouble there. Local live stock dealers are being permitted to receive cattle between 7 A. M. and 5 P. M. under the conditions that the cattle come from non-infected districts in Government sealed cars and be slaughtered immediately.

Western Md. College

On Tuesday, December 1st, a new building to be used as the recitation hall of Western Maryland College, was formally dedicated with simple, but appropriate ceremonies. The new building, three stories in height and 120 by 60 ft., stands south of Hering Hall and is connected with it by a raised corridor. Built of red brick and trimmed with Indiana limestone, the building is an imposing structure and ranks in beauty with other recently erected buildings on the campus.

The building has seventeen spacious class rooms and three laboratories, chemical, biological and physical. The interior is finished in stained oak and furnished with the most modern class-room equipment. It is surmounted by an observatory containing the telescope and fitted with every convenience. The laboratories throughout are newly furnished and are one of the most attractive features of the building. A portico of Indiana limestone is at the main entrance and bears the fitting inscription "Audite."

The dedication ceremonies were opened by the procession of trustees, faculty and student body through the halls to the upper hall. Here the dedication took place. After singing the hymn, "Lord of all being throned afar," and the repetition of the Lord's Prayer by assembly, President Lewis introduced Dr. Charles Billingslea, president of board of trustees. After giving a short history of the proceedings that led to the undertaking of constructing such a building, Dr. Billingslea congratulated the trustees, faculty, students, architect and contractors upon the completion of the building.

In closing Dr. Billingslea told of the action the trustees in nomming the building after the one man whose untiring devotion and ceaseless interest had alone made the building possible. A tablet bearing this man's name is to be placed on this building. The name was awaited with breathless interest and when that of Dr. Thomas Hamilton Lewis was announced, it was received with long and hearty applause.

Next followed the reading responsively of the 115 Psalm. Then Dr. Lewis formally dedicated the building to the advancement of knowledge of this and future generations. The old custom of sprinkling the portals with wine, of strewing the entrance with grain and of anointing the walls with oil was observed. After singing the college song and giving the college yell for Lewis Hall, the assembly broke up to make a more detailed inspection of the building.

ORGANIZING CHARITY WORK

It is generally felt that there will be many calls for charity this winter. The business disturbance which the country has suffered has thrown many people out of work, and those able to give will need to open both hearts and purses.

It is vitally necessary that all available charity resources should be efficiently used. There are a great number of people who have clothing to give away that is perfectly good. It might not look wholly appropriate at a full dress ball, but it would keep a workingman comfortable for many months. Much of such clothing is distributed haphazard. People give it to the first drunken tramp that comes along. Meanwhile, hardworking people in the next street are shivering, too self-respecting to ask for help.

It is always possible to raise money freely on a genuine appeal for destitution of deserving people. The hunger of your neighbors, in your own home town, will bring larger gifts than any other religious, philanthropic, educational, or missionary cause.

Churches and fraternal organizations are supposed to take care of needy members. This allows the general feeling to spread that every one is comfortably provided for. But there are a great many persons who have no ties of this kind.

Every town ought to have some central organization or committee that would take general charge of distributing funds and supplies. Where this is done, the workers acquire a certain expertness in sifting appeals. They are able to distinguish cases of deserving need from those that come from indolent or vicious people, who would better be left to the public authorities. money spent systematically along these methods will go several times as far as haphazard and unorganized charity.

MRS. ELVIRA SELBY

Mrs. Elvira Selby, daughter of William Brandenburg, a lineal descendant of Duke William, of the Duchy of Brandenburg, and Rachel Purdum, died Tuesday night, 1st inst., at ten-thirty o'clock after 3 days illness of cerebral seerosis, at her home in Sykesville, in the 90th year of her age. She was born February 21, 1825, near Goshen Mills, Howard county, and was next to the eldest of a family of twelve children.

She was twice married. Her first husband was Warner Gaither and her second husband was Mordecai Selby, prominent in the neighborhood of Freedom, and one of the oldest members of Wesley Church.

Mrs. Selby was a lifelong member of Springfield Presbyterian Church, and lived a consistent and beautiful christian life. She was never so happy as when doing for others, and while she had been an invalid for 2 years, threre was never a word of complaint, and her only grief was that the willing feet could no longer carry her to loving service and the gentle hands minister to other's wants.

She remembered distinctly when the rails were laid for the B. & O. Railroad and sent hot coffee to the men who worked on it in freezing weather.

Mrs. Selby is survived by one son, Mr. John E. Gaither, a daughter, Mrs. Susan Thompson, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The funeral service, conducted by Dr. Charles R. ADVERTISING IN DULL TIMES

A man connected with one of the printing trades says that he had feared that business in his line would be hurt owing to the dull times created by the war. He had been a good deal pleased to see that his newspaper customers seemed to be getting their usual advertising business. Some of them were doing better.

Yet in many of these towns, the export trade of the factories had been cut off, and there was complaint of slow times in the retail stores. This seemed to prove that merchants have generally learned that the fact that sales fall off is no reason for stopping effort to increase sales. On the contrary, it is a special reason for pushing goods.

Even in the dullest times, there are always a great many thrifty people who will take advantage of a bargain. They watch chances closer in slow times. A 10 per cent cut in a standard line of goods looks big to them. If you advertise a real bargain in the newspapers, it will attract more interest now than it would in very flush times.

HUNTER-EBAUGH

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place on Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Ebaugh, at Greenmount. In the presence of about 130 invited guests their daughter, Lulu M., was given in marriage to Grover C. Hunter, of Westminster.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Geo. C. Dougherty, pastor of the U. B. Church, Greenmount.

Promptly at 7.30 o'clock to the familiar strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, played by Miss Nannie Murray, the bridal party, with Miss Mary Null, of Cranberry, bridesmaid, and Mr. Grover C. Little, of Westminster, as groomsman, entered the parlor, approached the canopy of white and green where the ceremony was performed.

The bride, carrying a bouquet of bride roses was charmingly gowned in silk messaline covered with shadow lace and trimmed in pearls and crystals, with the tulle bridal veil fastened with white rose buds.

The bridesmaid wore a gown of white crepe de Chine, covered with shadow lace and carried a bunch of pink carnations.

The parlor was artistically decorated with evergreens and ferns. Congratulations and a wedding supper followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter were the recipients of many useful and beautiful presents. The wedding party left Wednesday for a short honeymoon to Washington and other cities. After their return they will make their home with the parents of Mrs. Hunter, at Greenmount, for the present. A host of friends extend to them their congratulations and best wishes as they begin their married life.

The bride, who is popular with the young folks of the community, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Ebaugh, of Greenmount, and the groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. T. Hunter, near Westminster.
