EDITORIAL NOTES.

The new tariff bill became a law at midnight last Monday. President Cleveland did not sign it. His reasons for not doing so were that the bill contains inconsistencies and incongruities which ought not to appear in a tariff law, and was not all that the people expected, but he concludes that it will certainly lighten many tariff burdens that now rest heavily upon us. Mr. Cleveland has great hope that the bills placing coal and iron ore on the free lists will be passed, and says: "I love the principles of true Democracy, because they are founded on patriotism and upon justice and fairness toward all interests. I am proud of my party organization, because it is conservatively sturdy and persistent in the enforcement of its principles. Therefore, I do not despair of the efforts made by the House of Representatives to supplement the bill already passed by further legislation, and to have engrafted upon it such modifications as will more nearly meet Democratic hopes and aspirations. I am sure that there is a common habit of underestimating the importance of free raw materials in tariff legislation, and of regarding them as only related to concessions to be made to our manufacturers. The truth is, their influence is so far reaching that if disregarded a complete and beneficent scheme of tariff reform cannot be successfully inaugurated."

The platform adopted by the Delaware Democrats is a very long and strongly-written document. It endorses this economical and wise administration and the efforts of Congress toward carrying out the Chicago platform—these efforts which are finally to give the quietus to combinations and trusts formed to oppress the people. This is the financial plank: "In accord with the national Democratic platform of 1892 we declare that we hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discriminating against either metal or charge for mintage, but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, adjusted by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the two metals, and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the markets and in payment of debt and we demand that all paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin."

Uncle Sam is distributing his new rifles among the soldiers of the regular army. They are said to be the best in the world, and are capable of killing at 3500 yards, with smokeless powder which has been introduced. The bullets from these rifles, at a distance of thirty feet from the weapon's muzzle, penetrate twenty-four inches of seasoned white oak. At a distance of 200 yards they go through forty-five inches of poplar plank three-fourths of an inch thick. At a distance of 2000 yards they penetrate four inches of dead plank, and still have enough power at 3200 yards to pass through a human body.

The many acts of violence and outrage by anarchists of Europe, and the coming of these criminals to our shores, have aroused a deep and widespread demand for stricter immigration laws. The lawless and worthless of other lands should be apprehended and hustled back. The coming session of Congress will in all probability pass such a law. Anticipating an influx here of the anarchists of France, who are now being run to their dens by government officers, the Senate passed such a bill at the late session, but the measure did not get through the House, that body being about to adjourn.

It is authoritatively estimated that the putting of binder twine on the free list will be a saving of a million dollars a year to the farmers. Free lumber (in all forms) saves the people sixty millions. These are two of one hundred and six articles, heretofore heavily taxed, which are by the present tariff law made free.

The Democratic State convention of Delaware met at Dover last Tuesday and nominated Mr. Ebe W. Tunnell, of Lewes, for Governor, and Mr. Samuel Bancroft, Jr., of New Castle, for Congress. Both nominations were unanimously made. There was a great crowd and much enthusiasm.

Ex-State Senator Charles E. Coffin has been nominated for the short and long terms in Congress by the Fifth district Republicans. Sydney E. Mudd was one of his principal competitors. Mr. Mudd was in Congress several years ago, a Republican House having "counted him in."

HON. W. L. WILSON RENOMINATED.

Congressman W. L. Wilson, who framed the principal part of the new tariff law, has been renominated by the largest and most enthusiastic convention which has ever assembled in West Virginia, the Associated Press tells us. This is the seventh time he has been similarly honored. In an interview Mr. Wilson was asked if he considered that the principle of tariff reform characterized the act, even though the rates were not all he wanted.

"Yes," said he, "the principle is there, and after all the great struggle has been to secure recognition of the principle rather than the perfection of detail. The detail must come by the irresistible force of circumstances, now that the principle is established."

"What is there," Mr. Wilson was asked, "in the assertion that a resumption of the tariff agitation next winter will bring a recurrence of business unrest?"

"That is wholly unwarranted," said he. "There need be no general bill reaching all industries, so that the legislation will not be such as to affect commercial affairs generally. The tariff rates will remain stable on the very great majority of articles, and it will be upon comparatively few that the perfecting of details will be necessary in order that the tariff reform placed on the statute-books shall be a consistent whole."

MR. RUSSUM BEATEN.

The Republicans held their Congressional convention at Ocean City on Wednesday. There were several candidates who expressed through their friends present a willingness to run. Mr. C. O. Melvin, of Somerset, called the convention to order in the Atlantic Hotel ball-room. The resolutions adopted reaffirm their allegiance to the Republican national platform of '92. This is an endorsement of the recently repealed McKinley law. The resolutions also declare "love for the whole country, North, South, East and West, and denounce as the enemy of all him who would injure any section." This is a new departure in Republican conventions, and, of course, it is hoped by them may catch votes. The resolutions also give expression to the old and hackneyed and repudiated charge that the business unrest under the McKinley law, just repealed, was chargeable to the Democratic party! The names of those put in nomination for the long term were Phillips L. Goldsborough, of Dorchester; A. Lincoln Dryden, of Somerset; Dr. I. A. Barber, of Talbot. Mr. Dryden was nominated on the sixtieth ballot. Mr. Russum, of Caroline, was not put in nomination for the long term.—The contest for the short term was between Mr. Russum and Mr. Mallalieu. The latter won by a small majority. Mr. Russum can console himself with the reflection that it is to be a long race, anyhow, and that it is better to be "scratched" from a contest the result of which is certain defeat.

BALTIMORE'S CENTENNIAL.

All Marylanders will no doubt be interested in knowing that the great Exposition which will be given in Baltimore in the year 1897 bids fair to be a brilliant and glorious success.

That the holding of this exhibition will not only redound to the prosperity of Baltimore but to the development of Maryland's resources will not be questioned by those who have studied the ends aimed at by the Centennial Association.

This Association was chartered by the last State Legislature, its primary object being the celebration of the centennial of Baltimore as an incorporated city by means of an exhibition of manufacturing, commercial, agricultural and other industrial elements of the city and State.

It is, therefore, essentially a Baltimore and Maryland enterprise, intended to visibly portray the history, progress, wealth and resources of both, and to advertise to the world our unrivaled attractions to those who are seeking homes or investments in business or lands.

The charter granted by the Legislature is very liberal, with all the provisions authorizing the giving of an exhibition that in extent, variety, splendor and gorgeousness will be second only to the ever memorable World's Fair at Chicago in 1893. Although a Baltimore and Maryland exposition per se, in its actual scope it will be both national and international. It is expected that the exhibits from the Southern States will be particularly representative of the resources of that section of our country, but the Northern States are also cordially invited to participation, and all the indications point to an interstate display upon an elaborate and colossal scale.

The progress which has been made in the line of giving practical shape to the purposes of the Centennial Association indicates the earnestness of its projectors, and promises well for the complete success of the mammoth undertaking. The use of the word mammoth is fully justified when it is stated that according to the estimates, an expenditure of $2,369,700 will be necessary before the gates are opened.

The work thus far done is largely preliminary, but it is none the less important and significant of that which is to follow. The Board of Directors has been organized, comprising forty of the solid citizens of Baltimore, with ten more to be added, to complete the directory of fifty as provided by the charter. The President of the Board is Mr. Lloyd L. Jackson, one of our staunchest merchants and most public spirited citizens.

The building at the southeast corner of Saratoga and Liberty streets has been secured by the association as headquarters, its various apartments being respectively used by the Board of Directors and standing committees.

A General Manager has been elected in the person of Major Fred. W. Brackett, a gentleman intimately associated with the direction of the Chicago Fair, and eminently qualified for the important duties that have been imposed upon him.

Several of the working committees have been appointed by President Jackson, among them being the committee on Ways and Means, to which has been assigned the serious and responsible task of devising the methods for raising the money to carry on the Exposition. This committee is now engaged in the formulation of a plan that will, no doubt, be productive of a substantial financial support giving assurance of success.

NEWS FROM THE NATION'S CAPITOL.

Tuesday morning in every Custom House in the United States the new tariff law was put into effect and McKinleyism is dead—forever, unless the voters have undergone a great change of mind since the last Congressional election. The workings of the new law will soon bring out its many good points, and perhaps the bad features may not prove as bad as many good Democrats, including the President, fear them to be.

People who are oversmart often overreach themselves. A case in point is connected with the new tariff law. As soon as it became definitely known that playing cards were to be taxed 2 cents a pack the five or six manufacturers of them in this country were flooded with orders for the wholesale dealers, who had an idea that the tax would only have to be paid on those manufactured after the new law went into effect. They will learn better now, and the knowledge will cost them just 2 cents a pack, as the tax must be paid on every pack of cards sold. Had the wholesalers been less greedy they would have saved money, as all cards made after the law takes effect will have to have the 2 cent revenue stamp attached by the manufacturers, while the stock in the hands of dealers will have to be stamped by them.

Representative McCreary, of Kentucky, says pertinently: "The house has passed more good bills and enacted more important legislation than any of its predecessors in ten years, or of any with which I am familiar, and I have been watching the course of legislation for twenty years." Of the new tariff bill he says: "It is not as sweeping and comprehensive as I desire, but it is the best tariff reform bill since 1857, when a Democratic Congress amended the Walker tariff bill of 1846 by reducing the tariff rates to average rate of 18 per cent. The new tariff bill places wool, salt, lumber, farming machinery, cotton ties, cotton bagging, binding twine, and a number of other necessary articles on the free list. The duty on woolen goods and clothing has been reduced from an average rate of 98 to 48 per cent., and millions of dollars annually will be saved to the people on clothing and woolen goods alone."

The Democratic Congressional campaign committee will now begin to rush things. The news received is growing better and better, and even the Republicans are now beginning to admit that they have nothing upon which to base hopes that they will elect a majority of the next House. They have not yet reached the stage where they are willing to concede a majority to the Democrats, but let themselves down easy by expressing their belief that neither Democrats nor Republicans will elect a majority of the next House. This implies a belief that the Populists will elect a sufficient number to enable them to control the House. The Democratic committee is in constant communication with trustworthy correspondents in every Congressional District, but they have no knowledge of anything that indicates any such increase in the Populist strength. On the contrary, they are confident that the next House will be Democratic by a good working majority.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Ia., had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had bad colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by W. E. Brown, druggist.
