ROCK HALL ITEMS

From the text "We should live soberly, righteously and godly in this present world," Pastor Burr, of the M. E. church on Sunday morning delivered a plain practical and brief sermon on Christian living which was well received by a good congregation. Sunday afternoon was so rainy that less than one hundred attended Sunday School service. The superintendent formed them into one class and conducted the exercises himself with satisfactory effect.

Prayer meeting and teacher's meeting being held on the same evening has caused more or less confusion among the prayer meeting participants, in that some thought the prayer meetings were being displaced. The church attendants could never relish long the idea of two different services on the same evening as one or both would be rather hurried and non-effective of good results.

Rock Hall has been noted as one of the cleanliest and neatest town on the Shore but she appears to be getting away from that honor. It seems that residents are being annoyed by the accumulation of waste paper and other litter on or about their premises brought there by the wind. They wonder where it comes from and trace it to the multiplicity of mercantile establishments whose proprietors sweep the waste paper and other refuse into the street then the winds scatters it helter skelter to the annoyance of residents and travelers. Some of our merchants we know are mindful to burn their sweepings. Would it not be well for all to do the same and thus have restored the town's good reputation?

Another question much discussed and still debatable among residents, to what extent has property owners control of the public thoroughfare beyond their line along the same? Messrs. Editors your valuable paper is highly prized here and if you will insert a brief of the law governing this question you will confer a favor on many of the NEWS' readers. [A man pays taxes to the middle of the public road but of course he has no control in the way of hindering public travel.—Eds.]

There was no perceptible sign of stringency of money because of the dullness of the oyster business on Saturday night. Merchants here were doing a brisk trade and all ice cream parlors were well patronized.

Festivals here are about ripe and deliciously palatable and will be on for a month to come. Candidates and "politics," will have no excuse for failing to meet the people.

The St. Johns R. C. festival on Saturday night was, as usual, a splendid affair and largely attended.

The dwellings on "Alex. Row," which have been vacant for sometime, are gradually assuming life and activity. Several of them are now occupied by desirable tenants.

Capt. G. T. Sewell was much surprised, recently, when he was informed by the shipping officials of the port of Baltimore, that he was one of the oldest sailing masters in point of service on the bay. His first appearance as having charge of a vessel was on board the pungy, Halsion, when he was 17 years of age; he is now 60. He has been a skipper for 43 years and is entitled to retirement on full allowance by the young man who is now his mate on the schooner, Mary E. Crockett.

What this section needs is corn bread. There has been a meal famine for quite a while. No corn is the cause.

My! the lightning flashed, the thunder roared, the rain poured and the wind howled here on Monday at a terrific rate. Much damage to fruit ensued and corn was felled flat to the ground. The terrific northwester of Wednesday almost stripped trees of what fruit remained on them from Monday's storm. There is considerable typhoid fever with us; Mrs. Hester Middletown and Mrs. T. E. Jones are very ill with it. Mr. S. B. Colyer and little daughter, Myrtle, are rallying from the disease.

Mrs. James Quick through J Waters Russell has purchased the Larrimore property in Allen's Lane and will move there.

Some of our farmers coraled the oystermen on Wednesday and marched them to the corn fields where they did lively work cutting off corn.

Famous Horse.—The Sun says: "Mr. Joseph Guest, of Chestertown, Kent county, has sent to Democratic headquarters, in the Eutaw House, a shoe from a famous horse owned by him, named Samuel J. Tilden.

The horse is 39 years old and is described by Mr. Guest as a noble animal, whose iron shoes are good luck. He sent this one, gilded and nailed to a board, as a talisman for Judge Crothers and the whole Democratic ticket.

A similar shoe from the same horse, he says, has brought other candidates luck. It once, Mr. Guest says, was the cause of Connecticut going Democratic, and also had a good deal to do with the election of Grover Cleveland the second time.

The horse was originally owned by Mr. Thomas Vandyke and Mr. Guest writes that Judge Crothers has ridden behind him."

A Magnificent Gathering of Trimmed Hats

To those of you who have admired our displays of previous years, we say: they are ecliped, outclassed.

Trimmed Hats from $5.00 to $90.00, and all the in-between prices—fetching copies and adaptations of imported designs—large hats for the women who can wear them, and smaller models for those who prefer them.

And every hat has that touch of originality, that air of "differentness" that distinguishes our production from all others.

Should you prefer a hat trimmed to your especial order, and desire suggestions, we have at your disposal model hats—both imported and of our own creation—in abundance. And millinery materials—shapes in felt, velvet and silk, feathers, wings, aigrettes and flowers—at most moderate prices.

Suits for the Little Woman

The little woman has heretofore had two alternatives to face. Either she must wear a young girl's suit and look, perhaps, unduly youthful. Or she must have a larger suit altered—practically remade—which was not always satisfactory.

Now, we can fit the little woman perfectly—in suits that are women's suits—smaller repieas of the full size garments—perfectly proportioned, and needing, in most cases, no alteration whatever.

Our Mail Order Department is equipped to give prompt and accurate service. Samples of Silks, Dress Goods, Wash Fabrics and so on will be cheerfully sent if you will write for them.

For as long as life and memory lasts
We will remember thee. MAMMA.

In the cold and silent grave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
Tried so hard, but could not save.
