MILES IS ALL RIGHT.

The report of the beef investigating committee adds another link to the chain of evidence, strong enough before, that the inner war circle is flatly against Miles, as it has shown itself to be against Schley and others who have won victory for our army or navy and honor for themselves, despite the efforts of the government to keep them in the background. Algerism is as vindictive as it dare be. It would emulate the methods which sent Dreyfus to exile for no better reason than that he was outside the circle of plotting, ambitious and unscrupulous fellow soldiers. There is a solemn warning in these out-croppings of despotism. We were warned months ago, in the United States Senate, by a Maryland Senator, to withhold a measure of the military power from the autocracy that would arise out of the excessive authority of one or two men in our military affairs. That voice was heeded to the extent that the budding militarism was nipped in time, its fangs extracted, and it can show nothing more now than intent, shorn of power to seriously injure those whom it would destroy. Miles may be berated by whitewashing investigating committees, by Eagan and Alger, and by all the lesser lights that revolve around the administration, but the verdict of the people will be, just the same, that he stated facts about the bad beef furnished the soldiers, and however much the War Department may be scandalized by the facts being made public, that the highest officer of the army cannot be pulled down by a participating commissary, without a howl from them that will shake loose a hurricane of disgust that even the President, though he may be willing, dare not invoke.

THE BALTIMORE ELECTION.

Democrats of Baltimore city are receiving well-deserved congratulations on their signal triumph in the great municipal contest of Tuesday last. They early realized their duty, and unitedly and manfully did they go to work to nominate and elect a first-class ticket. Wisely they chose their standard-bearers and loyally and enthusiastically, from the opening to the closing hour of the campaign labored earnestly for their election. They selected fortheir mayoralty candidate a man pre-eminently fitted to faithfully interpret, apply and carry forward the provisions of the recently-framed charter for the city government, the Hon. Thomas G. Hayes, a man of unquestioned ability, integrity and industry; and his colleagues on the ticket were likewise creditable to the party, possessing the fullest confidence of the people. This was the first and most important work, for, this done the battle was more than half won. With such nominees the party gathered strength day by day, and marched steadily on, with a re-united organization, to certain victory.

The result of Tuesday's election in the great city of Baltimore means much more than the ousting from power of Mayor Malster and the unworthy and in some instances disorderly retinue foisted upon that city through partisan blindness. It means, if we read the indications aright, the speedy return of the whole State to its wonted position among the Democratic strongholds of the country, there to abide.

THE PROMISE OF FUTURE LIFE.

In regard to life, human, animal and vegetable, there are some mysteries or secrets that at present remain unsolved. For instance, how the seed produces its kind—the same kind, the same characteristic as the progenitor in form of leaves, habit of growth and plant—how all is dormant "in potentiality" in the little particle we take between finger and thum is one of the deepest mysteries of nature. It is more wonderful than a fairy tale; stranger than any fiction the mind can frame. Only the profuseness of its manifestation has made it common, and the lily of the field, in all its mysterious resurrectional gorgeousness, that outglories Solomon, is passed unheeded.

So much for mystery. Some folks seem always to associate the word with ghosts, haunts, bogies, or "the terrors of the unseen world;" but all mysteries are like the lily, half in the seen world, and half in the unseen world, and by what we know of the seen we may judge of the unseen and our judgment may be correct. The agriculturalist, the florist, the stock-raiser, and those who deal with the manifestations of nature in its annual or continuous productions, the chemist among the "elements," the physician aiding the latent recuperative powers of nature, these all are students, more or less, of "the deep things of God," and co-workers with Him, for the Father of all has reduced His work to the understandable, so that the children of the Father may commune in common language and work.

Now, in attending to spiritual things the same general plan of thought can be depended on. There is the seen, the open and manifest; there is also the unseen, the motive, the power behind. There is nothing mysterious in human life and intelligence more than in "the grass that groweth up." There is no manifestation of human existence that cannot be judged of, understood, and manipulated by human knowledge and skill. Physical deformity or defect may often be corrected, so may also mental and moral defficiency. All the efforts of medical science is bent to the former, the vast organized effort for education for the latter, because we know that the spiritual and intangible is certainly and surely founded on the bodily and tangible. By the development of the muscles (the tangible) we develop the strength (the intangible); by the development of the brain and its convolutions (the bodily) we develop the mind (the moral and spiritual).

It has always been a whim of some so-called religions to assume a high superiority to their "material frames," their "vile bodies" (mistranslated, by the way). They affect to be quite independent of anything in the way of "mortal coils," which they would fain have us believe are a real detriment to their better interests, and their main desire, so they say, is to be rid of them. Moreover, they condescend to pity the poor, grovelling materialist, who depends on his brains for his wits, and pose as those who have reached an altogether higher plane of spirituality in which tune, space and sense have no existence. An article on this subject in a recent magazine, says: "They must rid themselves of the encumbrance of what is called common sense." By the way such people talk on paper and "in meeting" one would imagine that they would treat the carcasses they despise as the "mire of the street" and take delight in shuffling them by all and any means; but in the event of a mad-dog or a wild steer on the rampage they will drag their animated corpses out of the way with a celerity that equals, or excels even, the activity of the poor materialist who believes that his "body is the temple of the living God."

There is nothing novel about this superstitious infatuation. Some of the modern religious fads, that pose as bran new, are really only the reductio ad absurdum of an error, that for extreme veneableness, reaches back through every known heathenism, and almost all creeds, to Rome, Greece, Egypt and Babylon and, in fact, for that matter, to Mother Eve's pet snake who unfortunately, for her at least, gave her the impression that she couldn't die at all. Modern science—experimental science—has negatived the continuance of human life, the Bible has emphatically denied it, except by means and processes that it claims to show. But some want a religion that makes them pleased with themselves and "happy," and study is a difficult and laborious task in which one has to add "line upon line, precept upon precept," fact upon fact, and even then, after much toil, sometime the whole thing goes wrong or cross, and comes to pieces, and it is so much easier to sit and be told something nice, that you have heard before, that you don't understand, and it might hurt you to try, so you can lean prayerfully on the the pew in front and take a dose.

In regard to the promise of future life in the Bible there is no uncertain sound. The "spirit" of the future is "the body that God giveth," "like unto Christ's glorious body." Ghosts and haunts have no place in the theology of Moses and the Prophets, Christ or the Apostles. Nothing could be plainer than the story of the resurrection of Jesus. Nothing more convincing than the "handle me, and see," to doubting Thomas.

Modern science has once for all solved the problem of the manifestation of human action and intelligence, and has proved it, beyond a doubt, to be based on material structure. The Bible is the only source of information that bases our hope of future life in a material structure also, and has given us a pledge and a specimen in the person of "that man whom He hath ordained, whereof He hath given assurance unto all men in that He hath raised him from the dead." Modern science is a negative and the Bible is a positive, but they are a unit in this regard: Bible doctrine is that "there shall be a resurrection of the dead" not a change of the modus vivenda of the living. "If a man die, shall he live again?" was Job's query. If a man doesn't really die he never ceases to live, so that speaking of "living again," in such a case, is neither grammar nor sense. Moreover, what would one want with his old "coil" tacked on again after it has been once safely "shuffled", and so a celebrated Baltimore preacher, (Rev. R. Harcourt, D. D.) has informed us in a recent sermon that bodily resurrection is no longer to be preached as tenable, and that even a Bishop of the Methodist Church has come out in open denial thereof. "Consistency is a jewel."

Whooping Cough.

I had a little boy who was nearly dead from an attack of whooping cough. My neighbors recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I did not think that any medicine would help him, but after giving him a few doses of that remedy I noticed an improvement, and one bottle cured him entirely. It is the best cough medicine I ever had in the house—J. L. MOORE, South Burgettstown, Pa. For sale by Hugh Duffey, Hillsboro; R. J. Colston, Ridgely; W. E. Brown, Denton,

Cecil Democrats will hold primaries today, and will thus be the first county in line for the coming campaign.

ELECTIONS THIS FALL.

The following State elections will be held next November:

Iowa—For governor and other State officers.

Kentucky—For governor and other State officers.

Maryland—For governor and both houses of the Legislature.

Massachusetts--Forgovernor, State officers and both houses of the Legislature.

Mississippi—For governor, State officers, a Legislature and all county officers.

Nebraska—For justice of the Supreme Court and two members of the Board of Regents.

New Jersey—Eight State Senators, sixty members of the Assembly and county officers.

New York—Two justices of the Supreme Court in First Judicial district, one justice in Fifth district, three justices in Eighth district, and 105 members of Assembly.

Pennsylvania—State treasurer, two judges of the Supreme Court and one judge of the Superior Court.

Ohio--Governor and all State officers.

Virginia—Secretary of the Commonwealth, treasurer and minor State officers.

Very little political importance, however, attaches to these elections, exceping the one in Maryland. This one-time reliably Democratic State has been carried by the Republicans twice in succession, but this year the Democrats expect to regain control.
—Wilmington Every Evening.

Many old soldiers now feel the effects of the hard service they endured during the war. Mr. Geo. S. Anderson, of Rossville, York county, Penn., who saw the hardest kind of service at the front, is now frequently troubled with rheumatism. "I had a severe attack lately," he says, "and procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It did so much good that I would like to know what you would charge me for one dozen bottles." Mr. Anderson wanted it both for his own use and to supply it to his friends and neighbors, as every family should have a bottle of it in their home, not only for rheumatism, but lame back, sprains, swellings, cuts, bruises and burns, for which it is unequalled. For sale by Hugh Duffey, Hillsboro; R. J. Colston Ridgely; W. E. Brown, Denton.

Philadelphia, Monday, May 1, 1899.

Cotton Dress Goods Most surprisingly priced. Several lines of new and beautiful cotton fabrics are on our counters at quite remarkable prices. Goods wanted right now and selling in other good stores at their full values are, by a fortunate trade incident, selling at a fourth to a half below their value.

And the array of patterns is a magnificent spread of beauty!

Beautiful Swisses at 8c a yard

These are daintily dotted Swisses printed in a multitude of exquisite designs by one of our most artistic makers; white grounds and brightly colored grounds. We've sold the same grade of Swisses at 18c. We know of their being sold today at 15c, and they are well worth it. It was a lucky accident that lets you share their beauty at eight cents a yard

Another remarkable value is still here because we were fortunate in getting another supply—

Woven Piques at 12½c a yard

A splendid quality of pique, with white grounds woven with plaids and stripes in a variety of colorings; also brightly colored grounds with woven stripes and plaids in white. They've been selling this season at 30c and 37½c.

12½c Lace Lawns at 5c a yard

The daintiest fabric that ever sold at this little price. A fine sheer cloth, with woven lace stripes, beautifully printed in a multitude of designs.

There are also—

12½c Batistes at 9c a yard.

American Dimities, as fine and dainty as the Irish sorts, at 12½c yd.

Pineapple Batiste

This delightful summer dress fabric was first made by a Scotchman and sold at 65c a yard. Then other Glasgow makers improved it and sent it to us to sell at 45c. Now a large shipment of 1899 styles has arrived and goes on sale at

37½c a yard

Forty-two exquisite patterns in the lot; the fabric is like an organdie, but more substantial, and has a finish that glistens like mohair. The same fabric has been selling elsewhere at 65c a yard. Direct importations in very large quantities help to this saving in cost on one of the most beautiful new cotton fabrics.

Still Some of Those Special Carpets $1.35 Wilton and "Extra" Velvet Carpets at 90c.

$1.35 Brussels Carpet at $1.

Mottled Moquette Carpets at 50c, which are made into good room coverings in combination with fancy borders. These borders are close to half price—65c to 75c a yard.

This carpet store holds a commanding position. It is untrammeled by precedent or engagement, or alliance with producers. With its important buying power it brings not only most of the finest productions to Philadelphia, but secures the bulk of such special lots as are forced to sale.

The collection of Mattings is entirely without rival. China Mattings, $6 to $18 a roll of 40 yards; Japan Mattings, $9 to $40 a roll. This $40 Matting is almost as fine as a Panama hat. The art of its weaving was almost lost by neglect, and a special loom was built to produce the lot we show.

Flower Seeds The quantity of seeds in each package is doubled this year, while the price remains the same. And the seeds are from the same grower whose seeds you have proven in the past. These varieties—

Balsam	Morning Bride
Dianthus Pinks	Phlox
Calendula	Morning Glory
Daisy	Stocks
Cockscomb	Petunia
Gourds	Wall Flower

And 55 other sorts at 3c a pkg.; 25c a doz. pkgs.

The seed packers thought some folks might prefer packages same size as last year's, at a lower price, so they are also here—half as many seeds as above at 2c a package; 15c a dozen packages.
