THOMAS A. SMITH.

Caroline Democrats are alive to the interests of this county in the coming campaign, and will be without doubt represented in the State convention by delegates favorable to the nomination of Hon. Thomas A. Smith, who is a candidate for Comptroller. The local Democracy is solid for him. In an interview Thursday Mr. Smith said:

"I will be a candidate for Comptroller before the Democratic State convention. Many party and personal friends in Caroline and various parts of the State, including Westerd and Southern Maryland, have urged me to become a candidate. This I have concluded to do, and hope to be again named for the Comptrollership. I may say just here that I have not heretofore actively sought a nomination, but have always preferred to work in the ranks. That was my wish when I was the party's senatorial nominee, and in 1897 when the State convention made me a candidate. The real strength of the party and its candidates in '97, when there was party dissension, was not, in my opinion, fairly tested, and hence my desire to measure the issues before the people in 1899. I wish to add, however, that the success of the Democracy is to me a matter of far greater importance than personal ambition; and should the wisdom of the delegates from all parts of the State, in convention assembled, dictate the choice of another for the position I will enter the canvass with as much zeal as I could possibly were I the one selected, and his success and the success of the ticket will be as earnestly championed. I recognize the fact that the present effort to redeem the State and place it in its wonted position in the Democratic column should not in any way be hindered by undue clashing of personal or sectional interests. There is now every reason to hope that this spirit pervades the whole party, and that the breach separating many Democratic voters from their former friends has disappeared. With a good ticket, harmoniously nominated, the Democrats should easily win the election in November."

Mr. Smith's modest statement in reference to his candidacy for the Comptrollership is what his many friends might have expected. Although in every way fitted for the office, and eminently deserving of it, having waged a gallant fight against heavy odds in the great contest of '97, he far in advance bespeaks harmonious action, even if it be necessary to eliminate himself for the contest, the outcome of which is almost an assured victory for the Democrats. His many friends in the State, particularly those of the Eastern Shore, should, however, abate no effort to secure the elevation of so worthy a Democrat.

A LETTER FROM MR. GELLETLY.

To the Editors of the JOURNAL.

One of the strongest instincts of the human mind is the love of home. Nearly akin is the attachment to the locality, State or country, where one is brought up, or is wont to dwell. Further reaching still is the general sympathy with humanity on all the face of the earth, and just in proportion to intellectual, moral and spiritual culture, so strengthens and widens the linking bond to home, to country and to man. There is no subject of such universal interest to humanity as humanity; no world in the reach of the telescope that commands anything like so much attention as mother Earth. And it is vain that some rise early and so late take rest in order to impress upon people the necessity for fitting themselves for sudden and hasty transmission to some far-away sphere in which they have no interest. The idea, however logically elaborated or eloquently pronounced, can find no receptive lodgment in the human mind; in fact, common sense rejects and resents it, and so the advocates thereof are fain to refuge in the assumption of authority, or arrogate to themselves a superior and spiritual sense, to which common and material sense is opposed.

In considering this subject from a biblical point of view we can go further still. All through the "ancient classic" there is no special mention of any planet but this. Its history is of man and the Earth; its laws are for man and the Earth; its prophecies concern man and the Earth; its gospel and redemption are for man and the Earth. The Bible tells us that "God so loved the world," and as a plan for the purifying, the elevation, the redemption, and the glorifying of the world and the race of man, it will always commend itself to the better class of thinking humanity in spite of all efforts to project a universal and permanent emigration of the race, and the ultimate depopulation and incineration of the planet. Isaiah tells us that God formed the Earth and made it. "He created it not in vain, He formed it to be inhabited." This is the general tone of the whole volume. No one has ever found a single quotation in it in which Heaven, or any world or planet there, outside of this one, is suggested even distantly as the ultimate home of the race. Any one with a good Bible concordance can settle this point for himself in a short time by running over the quotations under the word "Heaven." As for the much-referred-to "Abraham's bosom," with its hard-hearted company, it is no place for a decent man to go, far less to take his family to see the exhibition. Moreover, we have the positive statement in various ways from the mouth of the Saviour Himself that He alone ascendeth to Heaven, and that where He goes (went) His disciples or anyone else cannot come. We have His plain statement in the Sermon on the Mount that "the meek will inherit the Earth," (quotation from Psalms, by the way) and in the prophetic song of the redeemed in Revelations 10th and 5th the refrain is, "we shall reign on the Earth." So much for the New Testament. One only needs to open the Old Testament anywhere in the "Prophetic Books" and read the glowing descriptions of the coming ages of glory and beauty, of righteousness and peace—the civilization par excellence, the climax of human and divine effort, the culmination of hopes. Merely from a literary point of view some of these productions of old are incomparable in their magnificent breadth of thought and grandeur of expression, but their limit is humanity. They include the "whole Earth"—no more. A great deal was said of a certain rich New Yorker who made himself notorious by saying that this country wasn't fit for a gentleman to live in, and so crossed the Atlantic and had himself naturalized in Britain, but what must be thought of those who can't find a place on the whole Earth good enough—not even Britain, who sing

"They are but strangers here
Earth is a desert drear."

What are we to think of theologies that foster such senseless ingratitude for the blessings now enjoyed and the hope that is coming? The beautiful thought that we are progressing to a better state in this world has always been the motive power, the inspiration of righteous men and women, antiquated theology clouding the light, and venerable superstition blocking the way, nevertheless. It has been the star of hope in the past; at present it looks like dawn, although, verily, "the light shineth in the darkness, and the darkness comprehendeth it not," for, although education has progressed in many lines, the Bible is practically an unknown book. Little snatches are quoted in religious papers, and short texts extracted from it are orated on-and-off for an hour or two on Sunday. And although many have caught on to the spirit of its ethics, the spirit of its hope and ultimate redemption is a sealed book, and in regard to this latter "they grope along the wall like the blind." What renewed inspiration it would be to such to know that the labor they do and the interest they take in the intellectual and spiritual betterment of their fellows, their home, country, and world, will not all end in smoke and splinters when the Earth goes off like a stick of dynamite, but that we have a patient and conservative God, working with good through us, and no plant or planet of his planting will ever be rooted up. Therefore, pray we, "Our Father, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on Earth."

Last fall I sprained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I tried it and one-half of a 50-cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—F. A. BABCOCK, Erie, Pa. It is for sale by Hugh Duffey, Hillsboro; R. J. Colston, Ridgely; W. E. Brown, Denton.

A Card of Thanks.

I wish to say that I feel under lasting obligations for what Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has done for our family. We have used it in so many cases of coughs, lung troubles and whooping cough, and it has always given the most perfect satisfaction, we feel greatly indebted to the manufacturers of this remedy and wish them to please accept our hearty thanks.—Respectfully, MRS. S. DOTY, Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by Hugh Duffey, Hillsboro; R. J. Colston, Ridgely; W. E. Brown, Denton.

WANAMAKER'S.

Philadelphia, Monday, May 29, 1899.

The Muslin Underwear Was Never Better In making a million and a half pieces one might suppose that makers would grow hasty and careless, but system brings each detail to its own particular worker and the garments are as carefully made by thousands as individual garments are made at home. Very particular women tell us that their own home-done work would not be executed with the extreme care for details that appears in all of the better sorts gathered here at this time. Even the very cheapest pieces are substantially and neatly put together and made in liberal sizes. These hints of prices—

Night Gowns—

At 45c—Night Gowns of cambric; front trimmed with lace and fine plaits; neck and sleeves trimmed with lawn ruffle.

At 50c—Night Gowns of muslin; square yoke of clusters of plaits and rows of insertion; neck and sleeves embroidery trimmed.

At 60c—Night Gowns of muslin; pointed yoke of insertion and fine plaits; neck and sleeves trimmed with neat embroidery.

At $1—Night Gowns of cambric; round yoke of lace, trimmed with lawn ruffle, edged with lace; neck and sleeves lace trimmed.

At $1.25—Night Gowns of muslin in empire style, trimmed with pretty embroidery and insertion.

Petticoats—

At 75c—Petticoats of cambric, with deep lawn ruffle trimmed with lace.

At 85c—Petticoats of muslin; lawn ruffle, with three plaits edged with embroidery.

At $1—Petticoats of good muslin; umbrella ruffle of cambric with row of embroidery insertion and three plaits; cambric dust ruffle.

At $1.50—Petticoats of muslin; deep umbrella ruffle of lawn, trimmed with three clusters of three plaits each, and rows of insertion on the bias; edged with embroidery; gathered lawn dust ruffle.

Drawers—

At 35c—Drawers of muslin, trimmed with cambric ruffle, with one row of hemstitching and cluster of fine plaits above.

At 50c—Drawers of cambric, trimmed with dainty embroidery with cluster of plaits above.

At 65c—Drawers of muslin, trimmed with wide embroidery with fine plaits above.

Corsets—

At 50c—Princess Summer Corsets; long or short waist; two side steels; double clasp in front.

At 50c—Flora Corsets, long waist; boned bust; double clasp in front; well boned.

At $1.25—L R Abdominal Summer Corsets; of durable net; Spoon clasp corded bust; heavily boned; adapted to stout figures.

Children's Wash Dresses A beautiful assortment of the dainty Dresses needed by the children for the summer days, is gathered here; and prices are most reasonable. These hints of them—

At $1.25—Neatly striped Dresses, with lapels over shoulder, edged with embroidery.

At $1.50—Gingham Dresses, with ruffle over shoulder; prettily trimmed.

At $2.75—Pretty two-piece Dresses of percale, with large sailor collar of pique, prettily trimmed.

At $4.25—Dainty Dresses of blue and pink chambray, with large circular collar, trimmed with white beading; short sleeves edged with embroidery; skirt also trimmed.

At $3—Combination Blouse Suits of navy blue flannel, with large sailor collar and shield front, trimmed with braid.

Women's Separate Washable Skirts More and more women are coming to fully appreciate the dress possibilities of the separate skirt. To be sure, it means an economy in dress that we, as sellers, shouldn't advocate—if this was an ordinary sort of a store. But it isn't. We find out the best from all standpoints—and advocate it, be it a boom or a boomerang to immediate sales. To supply best what is really best will bring us plenty of business in the aggregate—and serve you most faithfully.

A half dozen or dozen separate skirts, with a few pretty waists—both items inexpensive, if you please, give pleasant variety to summer dress and an air of freshness in the most wilting weather.

Well-shaped, well-made White Duck Skirts at 75c.

Well-made and liberal White Pique Skirts at $1.25.

White Pique Skirts, with touch of braiding or insertions of embroidery or some mark of embellishment—$2.50 to $20—mostly toward the lower prices.

Plain Pique Skirts, $1.50 to $2.75.

Linen Skirts, $1.50 to $10.75.

Novelty Skirts—white with color, or color with white, or some other weave than the usual. $11 and various prices under.

Porch and Lawn Chairs There's a splendid gathering of this cool, comfortable and substantial summer Furniture on the fourth floor. The best furniture of the sort, that is made, is here; and there are also prices that are quite unusual. These hints—

High back, wood frame Rockers, with back and seat woven with continuous reeds, at $1.20.

Reed Stools at 50c, worth double.

Chinese Hour-glass Reed Chairs; roomy and comfortable; two sizes, $4.50 and $5

These hints of the very best and strongest outdoor Furniture of its kind: frames are of highly polished maple and oak; seats and backs are woven of double cane.

Chairs, $1 to $3.20.

Rockers, $2.50 to $5.

Settees, $5 and $5.50; with rockers a dollar more.

Couches, $6 and $7.

FARMERS, TAKE NOTICE!

HEADQUARTERS FOR FERTILIZERS AND FARM MACHINERY!

Having removed my place of business from Main street to Railroad and Cannery avenues, where I have much larger and better facilities for transacting business, I shall endeavor to carry in stock a full line of

STANDARD FERTILIZERS AND FARM IMPLEMENTS,

—CONSISTING OF—

Binders, Mowers, Drills, Hay Rakes, both hand and self-dump, Land Rollers, Acme Harrows, Hallock Weeders, Sulky and Walking Cultivators, Spring-Tooth Harrows, Barrel Carts, Planet, Jr., Wheel Hoes. Headquarters for Binding Twine and sundry articles.

I would call especial attention to my line of Farm Wagons. The "Preston" two-horse wagon is a beauty and sells at sight, as well as the "Barrow" one-horse wagon, which can't be beaten either in finish or price by any house on the Peninsula. Don't drive 10 or 15 miles to deal with a stranger when you can buy right home at honest prices. Come and examine my stock. Fertilizers always on hand.

J. H. BARROW,
