THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The President's message, which was read in Both Houses of Congress on Tuesday, is a voluminous document and treats of about every subject of national importance now before the country. It is impossible to give an intelligent abstract of the document in the limited space of an ordinary country paper, but among the things recommended are the following:

A graduated tax on inheritances, so as to reduce "swollen fortunes," and a graduated income tax.

Further extension of Federal power, so that the national Government may supervise all interstate corporations and their business.

A law to limit the hours of work of railroad employes.

Compulsory arbitration of serious disputes between employers and employes, so as to prevent strikes.

That Japanese be put on the same basis as other foreigners and given the right of naturalization as American citizens.

Law to prohibit corporations from contributing to campaign funds.

That entire control over divorce and marriage laws be given the Federal Government.

Currency reform, though he does not commit himself to the bankers' plan.

Extension of employers' liability laws.

American citizenship for Porto Ricans.

Building of one battleship a year to maintain the navy at its present strength.

Free trade with the Philippines.

Drastic laws to prevent child labor.

That the Government be given right of appeal in criminal cases, as it "has now definitely begun a policy of resorting to the criminal law in those trust and interstate commerce cases where such a course offers a reasonable chance of success."

That courts be prohibited from setting aside judgments and granting new trials on technicalities where there has been no miscarriage of justice.

The message is a bold and plain presentation of the President's views touching the varied questions discussed, and, in some respects, will provoke bitter controversy and differences of opinion even among the Republicans of the country. Many of the suggestions of the message are admirable and ought to receive the unqualified approbation of men of all parties. But the views it expresses are the President's, not his party's, and will not, in some instances, at least, be acquiesced in by leading Republicans. Notably this will be the case in reference to the question of the exclusion of Japanese children from the public schools of California. Clearly this is a matter for State action alone, unless power in the premises shall be extended to the General Government by a further amendment of the National Constitution. The same thing may be said of the suggestion that entire control over divorce and marriage laws be given the Federal Government.

In relation to our intercourse with and duty toward foreign nations there is undoubted weakness in the Federal Constitution. As the matter stands the government has no legal right to redress wrongs committed upon foreigners in any of the States of the Union. This is embarrassing and has already been a source of trouble and annoyance to the government on more than one occasion. This, however, is a question for consideration outside of the matter of the public education of children and it may not be regarded as a thing impossible that constitutional power will be delegated by the States to the Federal Government in the premises. This, however, can hardly be said of the public school question. The States are not likely to surrender their exclusive authority in this matter to the central government, and it is more than doubtful whether the treaty-making authority of the nation can be successfully invoked to deprive them of it.

The recommendation that a law should be passed providing for a graduated inheritance tax and, if possible, a graduated income tax will meet with favor with the masses of the people. The evident object of this recommendation is to impose upon the multi-millionaires of the country such taxation as will not only largely increase the public revenues, but, at the same time, serve to restrict the dangerous growth of individual wealth. In relation to an income tax the Supreme Court has decided, upon a divided opinion, that such taxation is unconstitutional. The proviso in the recommendation that such a tax be imposed, "if possible," probably means that the highest court of the land may revise and reverse this decision. If that cannot be done, however, the Constitution should be amended to give the necessary authority to Congress to pass such a law.

The recommendations that the government should be given more complete control of corporations by which it may stop their inordinate profits; that the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission should be enlarged, and that political campaign contributions should be prohibited by law, are also in harmony with the general trend of popular opinion. Such difficulties as lie in the way through constitutional limitations should be removed in the only possible and regular way. Congress may enact laws, however, to meet these cases, leaving to the Supreme Court the final decision of their constitutionality.

Gen. Louis Victor Baughman.

Gen. Louis Victor Baughman, Ex-Comptroller of the Treasury and a close friend and associate of the late Senator Gorman, died at his home, Poplar Terrace, two miles west of Frederick, on Friday morning, 30th ult., aged about 61 years. Gen. Baughman had been in failing health for a year or more. He was one of the most prominent and influential Democrats in Western Maryland, and was a leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1907, until his health failed. He was once a candidate for Congress against Judge L. E. McComas, but was defeated. At the time of his death he was the Maryland member of the Democratic National Committee. He was a son of the late John W. Baughman, for many years editor and proprietor of the Frederick Citizen, and succeeded his father in control of that journal. He leaves a widow, who was Miss Helen Abell, a daughter of the late A. S. Abell, founder of the Baltimore Sun, and is survived by two children, Col. E. Austin Baughman and Mrs. Charles C. Conley. His funeral took place on Monday from St. John's Catholic Church, Frederick, and was attended by an immense concourse of citizens. Dr. J. W. Hering, of this city, was one of the honorary pallbearers.

Dr. J. W. Hering is being suggested by Democratic leaders in this State as a possible nominee of the party for Governor to succeed Gov. Warfield. Commenting upon the fact the Baltimore Evening News of Wednesday speaks of Dr. Hering in a highly complimentary manner.

Shipley Items.

The protracted meeting of Zion Chapel, which comenced on the 25th ult. is in full blast and bids fair to be productive of much good.

The corn husking and fodder hauling season here is about over, and fall plowing is in evidence everywhere. A few are turning their attention to butchering.

Our grain fields are looking beautiful and the early sown grain has made much progress during the fall months.

Our public roads are in fine condition and those who have produce to haul away are making good use of them.

Our faithful teacher, Mr. Grove J. Shipley, attended the Teachers' Institute in Westminster, last week.

Those who have pigs to sell here are getting $5 a pair. Pigs are scarce and in good demand.

Since the hunting season has come in, any quantity of rabbits have been captured. Some hunters have killed as many as 16 to 18 in a single day; others only 2 or 3. We have seen 10 to 12 of our neighbors in one gang on some days, with as many dogs and guns. Just think of the great slaughter on such days. Yet we are glad to note that there has been no gunning accident reported.

On the 17th ult. Miss Bertha Wagner, daughter of Mr. Elias Jerome Wagner, accidentally ran the prong of a table fork in one of her eyes. While she was trying to untie a hard knot in one of her shoe strings, the fork slipped and took an upward direction, striking the eye lid, passing through into the eyeball. Dr. Wells, of Westminster, is the attending physician.

Those having wormseed to distill, say it does not yield well, but the oil is bringing a good price. We hear that it is worth $2.40 per pound.

A few weeks ago we noticed, in the Melrose items we believe, a question as to who is the oldest newspaper correspondent in the county. We have waited to see who would answer the question. As we have not seen any answer and taking it for granted that the correspondent had some kind of reason in view for making the inquiry permit us to say that your Shipley correspondent has been corresponding for the SENTINEL, for 20 years consecutively. Who can beat it?

TOKENS OF CHRISTMAS

Our Holiday Array is in Full Display

Merry Christmas? yes, a "Merry Christmas" is an expression of courtesy greatly in vogue at this season of the year.

But in reality, is this merriment entirely expressed by words? No, we haven't words to express the gratifying pleasantness produced by selecting your "Christmas presents" with us. There is something here that demands the admiration of all — be it father, mother, brother, sister or sweetheart.

You have heartily responded to the advantages of early buying—but we especially urge you to make your purchases early. Holiday goods are scarce, duplicate orders almost impossible.

TOYLAND and FAIRYLAND

Old Santa Claus has moved his procession of toys for girls and boys, right down through the center of our store—there he stopped and left them, but will be back after while. Such a beautiful lot of toys you young folks never saw. Doll, Dolly, Dollies, and a pretty, bright and pleasant family they are. The assortment is large; both foreign and domestic makes are represented. We are selling lots of them. Some sleeping Dolls, kid body Dolls, jointed Dolls, and bisque Dolls, in all sizes, some beautifully dressed. Prices are very moderate.

ALSO CARS, ANIMALS, WAGONS, CARRIAGES, LITTLE HOUSES, SMALL FURNITURE, CHINAWARE, HOME UTENSILS, IRON TOYS, TIN TOYS, SOLDIERS, MECHANICAL TOYS, WITH INSTRUCTIVE WORKINGS; PUZZLES, CHRISTMAS TREE ORNAMENTS AND PICTURE BOOKS.

A word to the parents:—Don't entertain the slightest hesitancy in letting your little ones visit this fairyland, we want them to come. Our exceptional advantages in buying these goods make the prices very reasonable.

Holiday Bazar in the Basement

We haven't much to say, the fact is these goods speak for themselves in a more comprehensive tone than words can describe.

You will surely miss a treat if you don't visit this showing. You will find handsome works of Art, Lamps, Vases, Dinner, Tea and Toilet Sets in excellent quality. Prices very uniform.

We specially ask you to notice the 5c, 10c, 25c Tables.

In the Clothing Store

Individual and Original

You ought to celebrate the Christmas events in a new Suit or Overcoat.

They are cut and fit and made by tailors who thoroughly understand "clothes building" for the Individual.

They have such a mastery finish that it takes a pretty keen eye to distinguish them from "original" made-to-order clothing.
