The New School Law.

The apprehension which was felt last week that the Legislature would adjourn without being able to agree upon a general school system for the State, was dissipated on Saturday last by the announce ment that the House had agreed to all the Senate amendments to the bill. The bill which has passed embraces a general tax of ten cents on the $100, distribution of the fund according to population, boards of county school commissioners, one for bill for the reason that no law could inthe people, and to whom the general con- it had been stated by the friends of this the repealing act passed the Senate, but on the discharge of his high duties. trol is given for their respective counties; bill that the only object the Legislature school-house trustees for each school-house one party the best position and an advandistrict to be elected by the people of the tage in the courts, when suits are brought collected under the bill from colored peo- testing, which will inevitably follow. ple to such schools as may exist in counter the Methodist Episcopal Church was reties or elsewhere for the education of colored children.
