GETTING TOGETHER.

Many misunderstandings between individuals and between parties waould be prevented if people would only get together and talk matters over calmly and in friendly spirit. It is the remaining apart that does the mischief, because it engenders suspicion and wrong views. There is a wonderful clarifying and smoothing power in the sitting side by side in a spirit of fairness and with the one desire of reaching the truth and cultivating friendly relations. This is where boards of conciliation, commissions and interviews, official or unofficial, have their value.

But this getting together is useful not only when discordance of views exists, but also in getting people of similar opinions to work as one body for the futherance of some good object. The progress of many cities is retarded not so much from diversity of views and absence of a spirit of accord, as from the fact that their citizens do not get together and co-operate. A single individual, however good his project and however pure his motive, may accomplish little standing alone, but the combination of a number of individuals animated by the same purpose can often achieve wonders in promoting the business, social, esthetic and moral welfare of the place in which they live. One person is but one, but let him join with another and the power is more than doubled. It is said that one and one make two, but in numerals they often stand for eleven and that is generally the ratio of influence when they get together and work.

Assessors Appointed.—The following assessors were appointed on Tuesday by the County Commissioners of Queen Anne's: R. Bruce Massey, first district; Saulbury Seney, second district; F. Marion Hunter, third district; James E. Cockey, fourth district; C. C. Strong, fifth district; J. Milton Arringdale, sixth district, and J. Edward Stevens, seventh district. Thomas H. Barcus, of the second district, was appointed clerk to the assessors; O. T. Davidson of the fifth, and Benjamin F. Hartley, of the seventh district, appointed as clerks to the Board of Control and Review.

HICKS FOR MAY.

In his forecast for May Rev. Irl R. Hicks promises the denizens of this mundane sphere a highfalutin', ripsnorting time. Beginning with May 2, 3 and 4 we are promised warmer weather, which will be a welcomed change, indeed, from the cool bracing atmosphere of the present following a week of copious rains.

After the 4th the seer says the barometer will fall, accompanied by cloudiness and rain, all of which will have its birth in the land of the setting sun and will travel eastward over the air route. Again, on the 9th, we'll have one of those much quoted old "regular storm periods," which will hold down the boards until the 12th. Rev. Irl says the moon will be on the celestial equator on the 6th, which would lead the average mortal to believe it will be a pretty big job for the equator to stagger under, and being round one would suppose it would roll off. However, it hops off—that is, the moon does—and gets in perigee on the 8th, but its sojourn is brief—about 24 hours, the seer says, the computation of time for our calendar day—and then "New Moon at an eclipse node falls on the 9th, the central day of the period," whatever that may mean, and so there you have it.

To quote the long-range forcaster and give his exact words, so that there'll be no misunderstanding among those who rely on their "I told you so: "We do not hesitate to say that this promises to be a very decided and dangerous period. Storms of tornadic character are more than probable during this period, calling for watchfulness on the approach of all threatening storm clouds. It goes without saying, of course, that dangerous storms possibly may not develop at this time, or that many localities will not be visited by them if they do; but this stubborn fact remains, that violent storms are more than probable, and no locality has any positive guarantee that it will not be visited by them. Hence, it is the part of wisdom and common sense to watch and not be surprised."

The seer gives himself a wide latitude—a very wide latitude indeed.

"There will be a great strain on the earth" about the midriff of the month of flowers, but Reverend I. R. H. does not attribute this fact to any over act upon the part of Haley's comet, which is traveling about somewhere and for which thousands have been rubbering.

Notwithstanding the advanced season those fellows who plant their lima beans will not get an opportunity to get their crops in any earlier than usual—about the 15th, when all danger of frost is usually over, but after the 15th to the 22nd it will be much warmer, when they will have opportunity to pursue their avocations without let or hinderance. More storm periods are promised from the 25th to the 27th, followed by cooler. "The month ends as we enter a regular storm period," so we can be morally certain what we're to have in June from the long-range forcaster.

In memory of my dear Son William H. McElwee who departed this life May the 8th 1909.

On the memory of that morning
As I stood with aching heart,
Seeing the one I loved so dearly
Pierced by death's most evil dart
A bitter cup, a shock severe.
To part with one I loved so dear.
BY HIS MOTHER.

Six years have passed but yet we miss him.
BY HIS SISTER.
