The Reason Why

We Sell More

Building Materials of all Kinds

Lumber and Mill Work

Than Our Competitors

Is Because We Undersell Them

Our Prices are always less than the other fellow wants for the same goods. If you don't believe it, ask us for a price on something. We are after the business, and to get it we will give prices that can't be beat. Don't be misled on Quality and Grading. You know there's a difference, but you can't always detect it. The unscrupulous dealer knows this and takes advantage of your inexperience by giving you lower grade than you pay for. Our Quality is absolutely guaranteed. Our Grading is standard among the thousands Who Know. Send Us An Inquiry To-day.

We're out to undersell the other fellow and save you money—and we do it.

FOND OF NAILS, BOLTS AND TACKS.

In the current number of the Journal of the American Medical Association Drs. Vandivert and Mills, of the Missouri State Insane Hospital at St. Joseph, report the case of Sallie L., a mulatto, whose appetite for nails, bolts, tacks, mowing and reaping machines and all manner of shelf and heavy hardware resulted in her death at that institution recently.

In her stomach they found 1,446 separate articles of hardware and household use, which would have been of much greater benefit somewhere else. These included 453 nails of all sizes, 42 screws, 9 bolts, 105 safety pins, 115 hairpins, 136 common pins and a quantity of table utensils, grape seeds and the like. The total weight of the cargo was 2,268 grams, or about five pounds.

CHESTERTOWN LADS TRY DISTANCE RUNS

Great interest is being manifested in cross-country running by the students at Washington College these days. This is the first time that this branch of sport has been taken up, and from the number taking part it promises to be a big feature. The boys are now getting themselves in condition for Saturday, when the first cross-country contest will take place here. Manager Calvin Ryan, 1911, has had the course laid off and suitable prizes will be given the first five winners. The run will be for Washington College students only, and if this meet proves successful another one on a larger scale will be run off later.

The weather for the last two weeks has given the boys trying for the track plenty of opportunity to get down to work. The new State road, which starts at the college campus, is an ideal place for sprints, and the men report there every afternoon to Athletic Director Thompson, and it looks now as though the wearers of the maroon and black will be represented at several of the indoor games around Baltimore and Washington this winter.

Greater interest is being taken each year in track athletics here and the material so far looks good. Manager Ryan is now trying to arrange for one or more dual meets this spring besides holding the annual games during commencement week. Washington has the facilities for track athletics, as it has one of the best fields in the State. The quarter-mile cinder track was completed last year, and should be in the best of shape this coming season.

Besides the men trying for the cross-country run, candidates for the track team will be kept at work in the "gym" and sent out on the road when the weather permits.

TO TEACH POULTRY RAISING

The officials of the Maryland Agricultural College are much gratified over the result of the 10-day course in poultry raising which closed last Thursday, and the probabilities are that this course will hereafter be a permanent feature of instruction at the college.

The number of enrolled students was about 75. The students came from points as far north as New York and from Norfolk, Va., south.

The lectures began January 16, under the auspices of the college, W. T. L. Taliaferro, professor of agriculture, being designated to take charge of the work.

Textbook recitations were held daily by Roy H. Waite, of the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, who also gave daily demonstrations of practical methods of handling poultry for eggs and meat as practiced at the plant of the college experiment station. Mr. Waite was assisted in this work by Robert H. Ruffner, of the department of animal husbandry.

The number of enrolled pupils at the Maryland Agricultural College is 265. The number exceeds by 40 the largest ever registered at the college.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving but sad remembrance of Mary, the beloved daughter of Nathaniel and Annie C. Ashley, who died six years ago today, February 5, 1905, aged 6 years.

Six years have passed, our hearts still sore.
As time flies on we miss her more.
She sleeps, we leave her in peace to rest.
The parting was painful but God knoweth best.
Soon the winter storm be over,
And the spring comes fresh and fair.
We will meekly kneel beside her
And plant her chosen flower there.

PAPA, MAMA AND SISTER.

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear friend, Mrs. A. Scott, who departed this life 2 months ago, Feb. 3.

Oh how I loved my dear friend,
No one on earth can tell.
But Jesus loved her better
And took her home to dwell.

BY A TRUE FRIEND.

Mrs. Mary M. Baker, widow of the late James F. Baker, died on Monday, Jan. 23rd, at 4 a. m. at the home of her son, James F. Baker, of Rock Hall, in the 77th year of her age. Funeral services were held at the home on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Tickner of the Adventist church officiating. After the services the body was tenderly laid to rest in the family lot in Wesley Chapel cemetery, besides that of her deceased husband. The pall-bearers were her five sons, Richard A. and Wm. R. Hodges and James F., Charles E. and George V. Baker, and her son-in-law, Francis Hartman. Besides the five sons surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Mamie I. Staveley and Mrs. Margaret F. Hartman.

We miss thee from our home, dear mother,
We miss thee from thy place.
A shadow o'er our life is cast.
We miss the sunshine of thy face.
We miss thy kind and willing hand,
Thy fond and earnest care.
Our home is dark without thee.
We miss thee everywhere.

Oh, mother, thy gentle voice is hushed,
Thy warm, true heart is still;
And on thy pale and peaceful face
Is resting death's cold chill.
Thy hands are clasped upon thy breast,
We have kissed thy marble brow.
And in our aching hearts we know
We have no mother now.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber,
Peaceful in thy grave so low.
Thou no more will join our number,
Thou no more our sorrows know.
Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When the day of life is fled.
And in Heaven with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tears are shed.

BY HER CHILDREN.

RECEIVED $150 IN SHOE BOX.

The day before Christmas Jacob B. Bausman, an insurance agent of Hagerstown, Md., received a mysterious gift of $150, wrapped up in coarse paper, in an old shoe box. It was given by someone unknown to Mr. Bausman, with the stipulation that he was to use the money in taking a trip to Chicago with his wife within 30 days.

Mr. Bausman did not take the trip on account of his wife's health.

Thursday he received a letter signed "A Friend," stating that the 30 days were up and the writer had been informed that he and his wife had not taken the trip. The writer stated he would extend the time 60 days, but if they did not go he would call at the expiration of that period and take away the money.

THE OLD-TIME HAM.

President Waters, of the Kansas State Agricultural College, says that a 250 pound hog, worth $18.10, will furnish $36.55 worth of meat, which is a saving of over 47 per cent. in taking the hog home, cutting it up there and disposing of the various parts in any manner that one likes best. Cutting up a hog and saving out the backbone, the spare ribs, the pigs' feet, and making head cheese and good old country sausage from favorite parts, is a delight that these degenerate days never know.

But there is not only a lost joy, but a lost art, the art of making a truly great ham. Ah, the ham of long ago! Did we have it now, as we did it then, lobster and canvasback duck would be utterly neglected. Then they took time to cure ham. They put it where the curling smoke of the hickory fire flung its incense over the rotund sweetness and changed its white tenderness into a nutty brown that shone like richness itself. There was no hurried, commercial haste about the ham of those days. Its flavor was a mixture of the meat of a beech nut and the fragrance of a honeysuckle.

Nevermore will this food-luxury grace a feast. We are too fast for it—too fast for the white spirit of the Hickory to nestle amid the silver fibers and turns the meat into a far-away reverie, like one's dream of his first love.

LENT LATE THIS YEAR.

A glance into the calendar for the new-born year shows that Easter Sunday comes almost a month later than last year. Easter falls on April 16, Good Friday on April 14 and Lent begins with Ash Wednesday on the first day of March.

St. Valentine's Day falls on Tuesday, St. Patrick's Day on Friday, the Fourth of July on Tuesday, Hallowe'en on Tuesday and Christmas and the next New Years on Monday.

During the year there will be two eclipses, and both will be of the sun.

The moon doesn't get in on the shadow business at all. The first eclipse, a total one, is scheduled for April 28.

It will be visible over most of the United States. The annual eclipse of the sun, scheduled for October 22, will not be visible in the United States.

Tuesday, March 21, is the day for the death of winter, and the birth of spring; to be succeeded by summer on Thurday day, June 22, and autumn becomes a successor on Saturday, September 23, to give way to roaring King Winter on Friday, December 22.

110 Bushels of Corn to the Acre.

Mr. J. W. Hall, of Marion Station, writes as follows in regard to his success in growing Maryland Twin Corn:

"Maryland Twin Corn was planted for the first time by me in May, 1910, and not expecting to make a prize crop no fertilizer or manure of any kind was used on the land. After the corn began to grow and make ears it surpassed anything that I have ever seen. A great many persons came to see the corn, and it was pronounced by all that saw it to surpass any piece of corn seen by odds. After the fodder was saved I got the county surveyor to come and lay me off an acre of land where the twin corn grew. Then I gave a pressing invitation to all to come and see the corn and make a guess as to what the acre would yield, and I would give the man that came nearest to guessing the number of bushels the acre would yield one bushel of the corn. Quite a number of persons made guesses, but the Rev. R. K. Lewis, the Methodist Protestant pastor at Marion Station, came the nearest to the amount the acre would yield, guessing 100 bushels to the acre.

"The corn was gathered very late, when fully dry, and carefully measured in the presence of witnesses. The yield was 110 bushels of shelled corn per acre, and weighed 58½ pounds to the measured bushel. The extra pounds were not counted, which would have made nearly 5 bushels more. It grows well in light or heavy soil. It grows 10 to 12 feet high, 12 to 16 rows around a small white cob. The quality of the corn is unsurpassed and it shelled out better than other corn. It does not only make a large yield of corn but makes the most fodder of any corn I have seen and of the finest quality.

Pastor Burglar's Victim.—While Rev. L. E. Poole, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, Georgetown, Del., and his wife, were entertaining friends Monday evening a burglar gained an entrance to the second-story of the house and stole some money from a drawer in the study. The burglary took place while Rev. and Mrs. Poole and their friends were talking in the room beneath the nervy burglar. The loss was discovered when someone noticed a cold draught in the room and asked if any of the windows had been left open. On investigation the study window was found open and the money gone. Rev. Mr. Poole was formerly located in Kent.
