Kent's Resorts Draw Big Crowds During Holiday

Betterton, Tolchester Mecca For July 4th Visitors Good Business, Perfect Order

It was like old times in Kent July 4th. The day was perfect for most any kind of summer enjoyment and not a thunder gust marred the evening.

Baseball fans had a big day. Chestertown and West Kent divided a double header on the college campus, while the M. E. team won from the M. P.'s in the morning game. Middletown cleaned up Cecilton.

Tolchester had an excellent crowd and perfect order. Boats were comfortably filled and entertainment provided for young and old.

Betterton's normal holiday visitors were augumented by 525 who arrived on board the steamer "Chippewa" from Baltimore.

Turner's Pier drew a big crowd for the pictures, dancing. etc., while the other concessions were well patronized.

Some of the hotels had an orchestra to furnish dinner music and this seemed to help business.

Fireworks afforded entertainment for the people especially the children and the bathing was never better, every bath house being rented.

Parking space was at a premium and the wise action of the town in setting aside a good place was evident on this day.

MILLING COMPANY ANNOUNCES NEW FOODS

Hundreds of county housewives doubtless will be keenly interested in two new foods that are being introduced by the Carter and Yates Milling Company, with mills and warehouses in Centreville and Church Hill, in Queen Anne's county. Under the brand name of "Never-Fail," they are marketing a prepared biscuit flour and a self-rising corn meal.

The feature of the new food is that it takes but three minutes to make up the dough ready to bake, and there is nothing to be added except water or milk. Both preparations are being introduced in three and 5-pound packages, and they offer exceptional saving opportunities for thrifty bakers. Numerous county stores already are stocking the new food bags.

CHILDREN BURNED IN FIRE ON COAST

Caught by flames as they clung together at their home, at San Mateo, Calif., two grandchildren of William H. Erhart, millionaire New Yorker, are dead while their mother lies critically ill from grief and shock.

The children, Henrietta Ruggles, eight, and John, six, were burned to death as the mother, Mrs. Henrietta Erhart Ruggles, fought frantically against the restraining arms of police and firemen to join them.

Mrs. Theresa Cassidy, cook, and Miss Gertrude Lortway, governness, each of whom thought the other had rescued the children, save their lives by leaping from the second floor.

Shortly after the fire spread thru the two-story, wooden building early Monday, Mrs. Ruggles, divorced wife of John Rathbone Ruggles, of New York, arrived in her automobile from a night club where she had gone to bring back a house guest. She leaped toward the flaming doorway, shrieking: "My babies—they're in there—I hear them!" She collapsed as she was pulled back.

The children, occupying separate rooms on the second floor, apparently stumbled into each other's arms as they groped through the choking smoke.

The fire was believed due to faulty wiring.

OFFICIALS TO CONSIDER A LONGER HUNTING SEASON

A proposed ninety-day wild-fowl hunting season in States along the Atlantic Coast is expected to be discussed at a meeting of the advisory board of the United States Biological Survey, to be held at Washington July 11.

E. Lee LeCompte, State Game Warden and a member of the board, said representatives of every State from Connecticut to North Carolina would be present to advocate the adoption of the new season.

If adopted, the season would be extended from November 1 to January 15, and would permit shooting three days each week. One advantage of this, Mr. LeCompte explained, would be to give sportsmen opportunity to hunt at the time of the year when game is most plentiful.

Water Still Muddy As The Primary Approaches

Local Politicans Hope For Compromise For Good Of Party. To Name Ticket Soon

By NEWS Staff Writer

With only eight weeks before the Primary the situation becomes more unsettled than ever. Among the Democrats there are still four candidates for Governor.

Mayor Jackson became a candidate for Governor saying:

"I think it is essential for the welfare of Maryland that the Ritchie machine, that has dominated the State for fifteen years, be broken up."

George Radcliffe entered the some fight saying:

"I think it is essential for the welfare of Maryland that the Ritchie grip on the State be broken."

Now, it is obvious to both that the Ritchie chances are tremendously improved if all the people who agree with this policy can unite on one candidate. In other words, if both of the candidates are really sincere about that attitude, they won't run against each other and split the vote.

And yet they are deadlocked. each one vowing that he is in the fight to the bitter end. In other words. they are helping Ritchie to retain the one thing they both say should be destroyed.

Candidate Conley is after the same thing.

Each one says he is the stronger candidate. and that the other ought to get out. If they both stay in the fight they will prove that they weren't telling the truth when they said their primary aim is to benefit the people of the State by breaking up the Ritchie oligarchy.

They'll be submerging—probably spoiling—the hope of doing just that. Furthermore, from a practical viewpoint. they'll probably kill each other off, so that neither will get anything. Right here we would quote the scriptures:

"Let nothing be done through strife or vain-glory, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves."

Herbert R. O'Conor, Baltimore's State's Attorney for the last eleven years, on Monday made his long-expected announcement as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Attorney-General, but failed to say with which primary ticket he would align himself, his announcement merely reciting his record and stating that he will stand upon that record in his candidacy.

There is much speculation as to how he will line up, as both the Ritchie and Radcliffe leaders appear to believe him a winner who would add strength to either ticket.

Kent county politicians are still conferring on a compromise ticket. A representative meeting will likely be called at an early day to further the interests of the Democratic party by suggesting men for various local offices. The seven candidates for Sheriff are covering the county in search of votes as it is generally agreed to have a free-for-all for this office.

Among the Republicans it is reported that U. S. Senator Goldsborough is to be brought forward and nominated for Governor.

Senator Goldsborough has an all but unblemished record in successful bids for State Comptroller, Governor and United States Senator in a strongly Democratic State, and stands as the only Republican ever to be elected to three major Statewide offices in Maryland

In our neighboring county of Queen Anne's Wm. R. Wilson, of Ingleside, is announced as a candidate for State Senator. He is a man of high character and has a large following. Senator Roe has not been heard from yet as he is spoken of as a candidate for Comptroller on the Radcliffe ticket.

Harvest Crops By Unusual Method

Due to the great shortage of horses and mules. farmers have had to devise other means than team power to harvest their crops.

The epidemic that killed so many horses and mules near Milford.Del., last year has left the farmers without sufficient teams to carry on their farm work. In fact. some farmers now have no team at all and on account of the stringent times have not been able to buy for the farm. In many instances farmers have banded together and pooled their stock resources to plant and work the crops. In many instances,where finances permitted, tractors have been hired but this has proved expensive.

A farmer, living near Milford. having no team and in an effort to bridge the difficulty, took an old automobile that had been abandoned for passenger service, tore down the top. and hooked a plow to the rear. With this he plowed the ground and planted his crops. Last week he harvested his wheat with the same device, and made such rapid time. that a neighbor who had horses, borrowed the device to cut his wheat. saying that it beat horse power.

The automobile was run in low gear and worked well even in soft soil.
