If a man starts to pay his debts it puts a row of men a half mile long in motion, each one starting to pay his. It may be that you are the man in the row that has stopped the motion. If you owe anyone pay him.

The old Salisbury homestead, more than 100 years old and a landmark of Sussex county, near Bennum's, was burned down Tuesday afternoon of last week. The old homestead, once the residence of the celebrated Salisbury family, where judges, governors and other public men of Delaware were reared, was untenanted, and it is believed used by tramps and was set on fire by them.

The President struck a stiff and sledge-hammer blow at the Wall Street gamblers last week when he told them, "If the enforcement of the law is not consistent with the present methods of doing business, then it does not speak well for the present methods of conducting business." There are thousands and thousands of people in the United States who do not believe that any legitimate business is conducted in Wall Street.

The painters and paperhangers of Georgetown have formed a union and elected William T. Hobbs president. Last week they all went on a strike, refusing to work for less than $2.25 per day. Heretofore their wages has been $2. Many of the persons with whom they had formed an agreement to do work refused to give the wages asked, and it is believed that painters from some of the other towns of the county will be induced to do the work.

The laying of the corner-stone for the new M. P. Church at Georgetown, Del., with appropriate exercises, will take place March 6. The dedication sermon will be preached in the evening at the Presbyterian Church by Rev. Dr. Tagg, editor of the Methodist Protestant, of Baltimore. As the pastor of the church, Rev. E. P. Perry is a member of the Masonic Order, the Grand Lodge of Masons of Delaware has been invited to participate in the exercises, and it is stated that members from Maryland will also be in attendance.

WOULD HAVE COST HIM HIS LIFE.

Oscar Bowman, Lebanon, Ky., writes: I have used Foley's Kidney Remedy and take great pleasure in stating it cured me permanently of kidney disease which certainly would have cost me my life." Sold by C. H. Redden, Denton, Md.

Food Determines Your Disposition.

The wise men at the Agricultural Department at Washington have come to the conclusion that a man is what his food makes him. They assert that this is true of a woman, too. If a man chews gunpowder, he is converted into a very Tartarian of Tarascon. If a woman devotes herself to spring peas she becomes sentimental.

The truly Washington scientists have evolved what they call "leguminotherapy." Few but themselves know what this means. It may be defined, more or less exactly, as the physiology of vegetarianism, or, perhaps, it may be called the sublimation of dietetics.

Anyhow the learned agriculturists of Professor Wilson's faculty lay down certain rules, videlicit:

Casein in carrots affects character.

Spuds spells sluggishness.

Beans build brains.

Proteid in peas promotes the tender passion.

Albuminoid aids ambition.

Nourishing nitrogen nests in walnuts.

Spinach spurs supremacy.

Cauliflower and cabbage are nourishing, but they cause vulgarity of character and check quick perception.

Lettuce leads to laziness.

So the savants strongly advise that vegetables be taken into one's midst in quantities and variety, to suit the person that eats them. Well-boiled carrots are prescribed for bad temper; green peas should be denied to girls who flirt; potatoes are apt to produce apathy and laziness; spinach induces energy and develops constancy; French string beans are said to constitute an ideal for poets and artists; white haricot beans should be eaten by intellectual workers because they restore the nervous system and should, the science holds, be preferred as a strengthening food to any sort of meat, and especially beef. Disraeli, Carlyle, Daudet and Ibsen fed on haricot, also known as kidney beans.

Big Delaware Enterprise.

The big Wyoming Ice and Cold Storage Company, organized and incorporated by fruitgrowers of the famous Delaware fruit belt, to provide their own cold storage for winter apples and market gardening and to provide ice for their refrigerator cars, has organized by electing the following board of directors:

John Hunn, president; Issac R. Jackson, vice-president; W. T. Carter, Jr., secretary; George M. Fisher, treasurer; Francis M. Soper, Frank C. Brancroft, Henry Huesman, Pennel Emerson and Charles L Terry.

These directors were elected to serve until the last Tuesday in March, when the annual stockholders' meeting will be called. The meeting authorized the issuance of $40,000 of stock. Mr. Emerson served as chairman of the stockholders' meeting and Mr. Carter was secretary.

After the adjournment of the organization meeting, the subscription list was passed around and $15,000 was then and there subscribed.

The new company will at once construct and maintain an extensive plant at Wyoming. Building operations will be commenced May 1, so that the plant cannot, however, be operated in time to supply the iced cars this summer.

The company has the backing and hearty interest of men of means, and it is believed will cause a great saving of freights and rentals and ice prices to the fruit growers.

Scarcity of Cattle.

The Department of Agriculture has issued figures for Jan. 1 last, indicating decreases last year of more than two million cattle other than milch cows, and more than six million swine. These figures receive a certain amount of corroboration from the slaughtering and packing statistics collected by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor. The live stock receipts at seven leading Western markets in 1909 were the lowest since 1904. The receipts of hogs were approximately 18 per cent. less than in the previous year. The receipts of cattle were larger than in 1908, but less than in 1907, 1906 and 1905. The receipts of sheep were less than in 1905 and 1906.

SAVED ASOLDIER'S LIFE.

Facing death from shot and shell in the civil war was more agreeable to J. A. Stone, of Kemp, Tex., than facing it from what doctors said was consumption. "I contracted a stubborn cold" he writes, "that developed a cough that stuck to me in spite of all remedies for years. My weight ran down to 130 pounds. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery, which completely cured me. I now weigh 178 pounds." Wanted To Stop Wedding

The Baltimore American of Monday publishes the following:

Hurlock, in Dorchester county, Md., about 15 miles from Easton, has the past week been the scene of much excitement. First it was the arrest of a schoolteacher for whipping a scholar, and on Friday it was threatened by fire. But the latest excitement was at the marriage of Miss Maggie Ford, a young lady of Hurlock, and Tony Saunders, a divorced man, which took place in Unity Methodist Protestant Church, of that town, last Tuesday.

The church was crowded to its capacity when the bridal party entered and took their stand before the alter rail to be united in marriage by Rev. George R. Hooker, pastor of the church. The pastor commenced the ceremony, and had gotten as far as "If anyone can show just and lawful cause why these two people should not be joined together, let him now speak or forever hereafter hold his peace," when a man of the Holiness profession, named John Harper, who had come in just behind the bridal party, rushed up the aisle with Bible in hand, reading it and at the same time crying out: "Stop it! stop it! He is a divorced man! It's against the laws of God! You have no right to marry him! You are violating God's laws! You will all go to hell!"

This he kept up all during the time the minister was praying. He was told to stop. Mr. George Trice went to him and tried to keep him still, but could not. Then the preacher ordered him put out. Frank Parvan and A. N. Russell went to Mr. Trice's assistance, and the man was taken down the aisle, shouting, kicking and catching hold of the columns to keep from being carried out. Finally he was gotten out and the marriage ceremony proceeded. He took the same train as Mr. and Mrs. Saunders and went with them as far as Preston, preaching to them all the way, telling them that they would surely go to hell, and so forth, as they had violated God's law.

Dr E. W Cooper, Dead

Dr. Ezekiel W. Cooper, one of the most prominent physicians of Delaware, died Monday morning, February 21. About two years ago, Dr. Cooper sustained a stroke of paralysis and had two other similar, though lighter, attacks subsequently. Ezekiel W. Cooper was born in Dover, November 6, 1837, and was a son of Rev. Ignatius T. Cooper, D. D., one of the most famous Methodist Episcopal ministers of Delaware. He was educated at and graduated from Pennington Seminary, New Jersey, and entered upon the study of the medical profession at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Cooper's medical course was interrupted by the Civil War, when he entered the Union service as a surgeon and served with Gen. David Hunter in most of the latter's famous campaigns, including the one in the Shenandoah Valley. After the war he returned to the University of Pennsylvania, completed his course and was graduated with honor. He immediately entered upon the practice of his profession at Camden, where he remained throughout the rest of his life.

Fire destroyed the Ocean City Cold Storage and Ice plant Sunday morning at 2 o'clock. A building used for storage house by the Ocean City Fishing Company, in which their nets and fishing equipment was stored, was also burned. The storage plant cost about $15,000 eight years ago, was owned by Thomas J. Cropper, and was partially covered by insurance. The fish storage house and contents, valued at about $3,000, was insured for $2.000. The ice plant had not been in operation since November. The origin of the fire is unknown. The Ocean City Fire Company did good work in saving several frame buildings such as storage houses only a few feet away.

Pennsy's Passenger Equipment.

What is probably the largest steel passenger car equipment owned by any railroad in the world is that of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which, with the cars just completed and those in course of construction, has 630 all-steel passenger cars. With this large number of steel cars, the Pennsylvania Railroad is now to start the operation of all-steel passenger trains on some of its lines of densest traffic.

On August 12, 1906, the Pennsylvania Railroad announced that all future passenger equipment would be built of steel; not only steel frame but steel and non-collapsible in every particular. In planning the cars and establishing the standards, which are now copied in all Pennsylvania passenger cars, no expense has been spared by the Company to build a coach which should provide the greatest possible strength, a steel framing which could not be affected by fire, an inside lining which should be absolutely unburnable, and at the same time one that would not conduct heat or sound.

The Pennsylvania Railroad in November, 1906, ordered 100 all-steel passenger cars. Since that time additional orders have been placed and there are now in service on the Company's lines 245 coaches, 10 dining cars, 21 combination passenger and baggage cars, 20 baggage cars, 18 postal cars and one Company car; a total of 324 cars. In course of construction there are 140 coaches, 34 dining cars, 48 combination passenger and baggage cars, 4 baggage cars, 42 postal cars, 27 mail storage cars, and 11 baggage and mail cars.

The Pullman Company at the instance of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has for the past four years been at work designing all-steel parlor and sleeping cars. Some 500 such cars are shortly to be completed and placed in service on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

With the all-steel passenger equipment now in service or on order, and some 250 steel cars to be ordered on the 1910 passenger equipment program, the Pennsylvania Railroad will, in a short time, have in service about 900 of its own steel passenger cars, and 500 steel Pullman cars.

One Cigar A Day.

"How can you afford all these books?" Asked a young man, calling upon a friend: "I can't seem to find spare change for even the leading magazines."

"Oh, that library is only my one cigar a day," was the reply.

"What do you mean?" inquired the visitor.

"Mean? Just this: when you advised me to indulge in an occasional cigar several years ago, I had been reading about a young fellow who bought books with money that others would have burned in cigars and I thought I would try to do the same. You may remember that I said I should allow myself one cigar a day?"

"Yes, I recall the conversation, but don't quite see the connection"

"Well, I never smoked, but I put by the price of a five-cent cigar every day; and as the money accumulated, I bought books—the very books you see."

"You don't mean to say that your books cost no more than that! Why there are dollars' worth of them!"

"Yes, I know there are. I had six years more of my apprenticeship to serve when you advised me 'to be a man.' I put by the money, which, at five cents a day amounted to $18.52 a year, or $109.50 in six years. I keep those books by themselves as the result of my apprenticeship cigar money; and if you had done as I did, you would by this time have saved many, many more dollars than I have, and would have been better off in health and self-respect besides.—Success.

CAPT. BOGARDUS AGAIN HITS THE BULL'S EYE.

This world famous rifle shot who holds the championship record of 100 pigeons in 100 consecutive shots is living at Lincoln, Ill. Recently interviewed he says: "I have suffered a long time with kidney and bladder trouble and have used several well known kidney medicines all of which gave me no relief until I started taking Foley's Kidney Pills. Before I used Foley's Kidney Pills I was subjected to severe backache and pains in my kidneys with suppression and often-times a cloudy voiding. While upon arising in the morning I would get dull headaches. Now I have taken three bottles of Foley's Kidney Pills and feel 100 per cent. better. I am never bothered with my kidneys or bladder and once more feel like my own self. All this I owe to Foley's Kidney Pills and always recommend them to my fellow sufferers."

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of Kidney or Bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more. For sale by C. H. Redden, Denton, Md.

The Liquor Business and Labor.

Mr. Editor:

The brewers and distillers make a great ado about giving employment to a large number of wage earners. They claim that if the brewery and distillery business was all wiped out it would ruin the country on account of so many men being out of employment. That kind of an arguement won't bear inspection. The liquor business causes more people to be out of employment than anything under the sun. The liquor business causes millions of people to be poor that might be rich.

The more poor people there are the more laborers there will be and the less employers there will be. Bear that in mind and don't forget it. It causes a great many to be employes that might be employers; it causes a great many to be dependent that might be independent. Instead of the liquor business being a help to the laboring men, it is a curse to laboring men or anybody else.

The brewers and distillers give employment to a less number of wage earners than any other business on earth according to the amount of money they have invested. They only give employment on an average of one wage earner to $9,700 invested, according to the census of 1900. I find that the distillers only employ 5,355 wage earners, and brewers only 48,159, and the malt liquor makers only 2,054. That makes a total of only 55,548 wage earners employed in making all kinds of strong drink in the U. S., and I find that the number of wage earners employed in all the manufactures and industries of the United States amounts to 6,152,443, which makes 110 times as many wage earners as all the liquor manufacturers have employed. If the whole liquor business was wiped out at once there would be only one person in 110 out of a job on account of the liquor business being wiped out.

The liquor makers cause millions of people to belaborers that might be able to live without labor. The liquor makers are engaged in a business that is the nearest all profit of anything else on earth. The distiller can take eleven cents worth of corn and with nine cents worth of labor he can make one gallon of whiskey that will cost the liquor drinker about $5 after it has been adulterated and retailed out by the drink. When a man spends $100 for liquor, labor only gets on an average of $3, or 3 per cent. out of the $100.

When he spends $100 for boots or shoes for himself and family, labor gets $22.50 or 22 1-2 per cent. out of the $100. When he spends $100 for clothing for himself and family, labor gets $22 or 22 per cent out of the $100 When he spends $100 for corn, labor gets fully $33 or 33 per cent. out of the $100.

A man cannot buy liquor and the necessaries of life with the same money. When he spends $100 for liquor he only supports labor to the amount of three per cent. by robbing some honorable business of fully an average of 22 per cent. If the liquor business was abolished and the money that is now spent for liquor were spent for the necessaries of life it would give employment to 1,347,000 more men than are already employed I want you to bear in mind that a man cannot buy liquor, and food clothing and other necessaries of life with the same money. When he buys liquor he only supports labor to the amount of an average of 3 per cent. When he buys food, clothing and other necessaries of life he supports labor to the amount of an average of more than 22 per cent.

When a man spends money for liquor he is not only a helper to turn himself out, but he is a helper to turn other men out of employment. When a man drinks liquor it makes him less able to get employment, because nearly all business corporations employ total abstainers in preference to liquor drinkers.
