Short Items Arranged For Busy People With Little Leisure

The people of the lower section of Kent county have petitioned the Pennsylvania Railroad to extend its line from Chestertown to Rock Hall.

After an absence of 50 years, Rev J .Earle Maloy, of Cecil county, paid avisit to Chestertown, which was one of his first charges upon entering the ministry,

Petitions have been sent from Rehoboth, Lewes, Georgetown and Milford and other nearby towns asking the Pennsylvania Railroad to continue its summer schedule during the winter.

Daniel W. Brereton, agedd 77 for years a well-known resident of Lewes, Del.,where he was engaged in the canning business, died on Saturday at his home in Philadelphia, and the funeral took place in Lewes on Monday.He was a prominent members of the Odd Fellow.

By the opening of a 4,000-foot siding between Harrington and Farmington, the railroad between these two towns is practically double tracked. The Pennsylvania Railroad is following the policy of building these long sidings in order to facilitate the handling of its big freights.

Miss Bessie Hardesty of Laurel, lost her luxurient dark brown hair in a sensational manner last week. A bat entered her bedroom and when she pursued it with a broom it took refuge in her hair. She alarmed the household. The bat was finally killed, but it was necessary to clip off the priceless growth if hair before it could be removed.

Two hundred peelers of the Centreville Tomato Cannery run by Langrell Brothers , of Baltimore, went out on a strike last week. The strikers hadd asked for five cents a tray for peeling tomatoes and upon the refusal of the company to grant the increase they walked out. However they returned to work the next day at the old rate of four cents per tray.

Captain James B. Harris, of Cambridge, is said by his friends to be one of the luckiest men in that section, his luck not all being in one direction, but apparently extending in all directions. Saturday morning Captain "Buck" purchased three nice fish, two trout and a fine tailor, and upon cleaning the tailor he found in it asilver quarter, which, judging from its appearance had been swallowed quite a while ago .

Salary andd commission. Previous experience desirable but not essential. Whole time or spare time. Address With refferences, H. C. Campbell. Cosmopolitan Magazine 1789 Broadway, New York City.

After somewhat prolonged negotiations between the General Manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad and a delegation representing the Order of Railroad Telegraphers the Pennsylvania Company has consented to grant another raise in salary to its telegraphers, agents and signal men,the increase to take effect September 1,and is additional to the 6 per cent increase alloweddo n April 1st, this year, which was sharedd by all employees of the system.

Alexander Pusey, a farmer, had his pockets picked and a wallet containing $89 stolen at the Pocomoke fair grounds. A man giving the name of Rheuben Mogoman, supposed to be a confederate of the pickpocket was arrested and lodged in jail. His companions returned the money to Mr. Pusey and Mogoman was released. Pusey went to the aid of Mogoman, who pretended to be suffering from epilepsy and fell upon the ground. A crowd soon gathered and in the commotion Pusey was jostled and his money stolen. Mogoman recovered from his faint and was immediately suspected of being an accomplice of the pickpockets. He denied his guilt.

FRIGHTENED BY SNAKES.

Frightened into spasms early on Friday morning by an encounter with two racer blacksnakes, Miss Mabel Brewington, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Harper Brewington, a farmer of Bivalve, died Saturday morning.

At about five o'clock Miss Brewington went over to a neighbors to persuade a school friend to accompany her on an excursion to the seashore. On her return when crossing a branch that divides the two farms, Miss Brewington encountered the reptiles, which instead of running when the girl attacked them with a stick, showed fight.

Miss Brxwington succeeded in killing one snake, but the other encircled her waist and wounded her on the wrist and cheek. The frightened girl's screams brought help, and the second snake was killed but not before the girl had lost consciousness.

Cuts Down Telegraph Poles.

William P. Reed, of New Jersey, whose wife owns a farm near Harrington, along which several poles belonging to the Postal Telegraph Company have been cut down by him within the last three weeks on Sunday last was served with an injunction. Not heeding the injunction, he went to Harrington the following Monday night and between the time he reached the farm and the time he took a train back to Jersey City, he had cut down seven of the companies poles declaring that he would continue to do so.

An investigation into the affair some weeks ago, by the company resulted in ascertaining that Reed for his wife, with other owners of property along the road of the company's lines, had agreed to let the company place poles on the land in question, it being generally understood that the poles were in the public highway. Reed however, contendsthat they are on his wife's land, and he says he will not allow them to remain there.

What action the telegraph company will now take is not known, but the outcome is awaited with interest by all concerned.

A Reliable Medicine-NOT A NARCOTIC.

Mrs. F .Marti, St Joe, Mich., says Foley's Honey and Tar saved her little boy's life. She writes: "Our little boy contractrd a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave hom Foley's Honey and Tar in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choaking gagging spells and he was well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar has many times saved as much trouble and we are never without it in the house. Sold by C .H. Redden, Denton Md.

Murdered in Their Beds.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Casey, an aged couple living at Claymont, Del., were murdered in their beds on Friday night Aug.19, It is supposed there were two of the murderers, for whom the police are searching diligently. Governor Pennewill has issued a proclamation offering $500 reward for the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties., and on Wednesday of last week, Deputy Attorney General Wolcott offered a reward of $1,600 additional for the arrest of the murderers. The funeral was attended by at least 500 people.

An examination of Mr. Casey's books by the detectives showed that the money credited there was in the safe. Besides, in the room where the Casey'sslept there were three gold watches, two silver ones and a breastpin studded with diamonds, besides $13 in gold. It has been decibed that no rodery was committed, and that some other motive prompted the murder. It is believed now that the murderer was secreted in the house, and that after he had committed the horrible deedne broke open the safe to find some papers that he wanted.

Mr .and Mrs. Casey according to their wills which have been filed were worth together $38,000. This is much more than at first supposed. Casey in his will left everything he had to his wife. At her death he had provided that all his property was to go to the relatives of Mrs. Casey. Mrs . Casey left all her property to her husband. There was no provision in the instrument disposing of the property after his death.

Common Sense in Public Schools

The public, especially the fathers and mothers, will hail with satisfaction the first symptoms of a return to common sense methords in the public school system of a large city. Chicago is the place, and Mrs. Ella Flagg Young Superintendent of Schools, is thedaring educator who posseses sufficient nerve to take a bold stand for the sane education of children. One of her first orders was that the previous, time-honored system of requiring all pupils to write a uniform hand,be abolished. With refreshing practicality, she says: "The business man of today does not care whether the new clerk writes the vertical or slant method what is wanted is a good plain penmanship which can be read." Mrs. Young is absolutely correct, and is evidently not unacquainted with the frequent result of forcing a child to adopt ta style of penmanship entirely foreign to its nature, for one's hand writing is far more individual than the shape of the nose, ears or hands. She has also declared that in her judgment,the ability of every boy and girl to swim is of quite as great importance as a knowledge of grammar. Hence provision will be made at once for swimming tanks in chargeof competent instructors, first in all high schools, to which the grammar school pupils will also come, until facilities are provided in every schoolhouse in the city.—H .H. Winsor in Popular Mechanics.

Lincoln on Persuasion.

When the conduct of men is designed to be influenced, persuasion kind, unassuming persuasion should ever be adopted. It is an old and true maxim that "a drop of honey catches more flies than a gallon of gall." So with men. If you would win a man to your cause, first convince him that you are his sincere friend. Therein is a drop of honey that catches his heart, which, say what you will, when once gained you will find but little trouble in convincing his judgment of the justice of your cause, if indeed that cause really be a just one. On the contrary,assume to dictate to his judgment, or to command his action, or to mark him as one tobe shunned and dispised, and he will retreat within himself, close all the avenues to his head andhis heart; and though your cause be naked truth itself, and thoughyou throw it with more than herculean force and precision you will be no more able t opierce him than to penetrate the hard shell of the tortoise with a rye straw. Such is man, and so must he be understood by those who would dlead him, even to his own best interests.

Died on Wife's Grave.

"I will be with you soon;"said William H. Burford,of Laurel, a little over a week ago, as he was looking on the casket containing the remains of his wife as it was being lowered into the grave.

A few nights afterward he left the supper table and told his sister that he would take a walk. When he failed to return after an absence of more than an hour the sister became alarmed and told two man to hunt for him. The men went to the grave yard where they found Berford lying dead across the grave of his wife. Buford and his wife were nearly 60 years old and were boon companions and lovers as long as they could remember. They went to school together, lived on adjoining farms, attended the same church and were married at eighteen.

Delaware's Peach Crop.

The Delaware peach crop will run over 2,000,000 baskets. It has been almost twenty years since the good old crops of three to five million baskets were harvested, but here is a uear, in the midst of absolute failures of peach crops, and with prophecies that Delaware peaches were done, and yet with a crop of nearly two million baskets, or thereabouts, being delivered to the markets. At midnight of August the 12, the Pennsylvania railroad officials had compiled a complete statement of the baskets of peaches they had handled up to that hour. It included peaches from the Delaware division and all the branch roads of the Eastern Shore, over which they have control. The report summarized was: Total for the day, August 21, 46,007 baskets. Previous shipments during 1910, 272,992 baskets; total to date 318,999 baskets. Compared with 1909 shipments to August 12 1909, 4,700 baskets. Thus the 1910 peach crop is sixty-four times as large as that of 1909.

July Crop Reports.

Crop growth throughout the United States was unfavorable during July, says the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture in a statement recently issued. The deterioration was about 2.4 per cent., as compared with an average decline of 2.3 per cent Aggregate crop conditions in the United States in August were 6.5 per cent lower than in August a year ago, and about5.33 per cent lower than the average condition on August 1 of the last 10 years. However the area under cultivation is about 3.2 per cent. more than last year. Conditions average highest in New Hampshire, 25 per cent.above the average, due largely to good hay prospects and average lowest in North Dakota, 59 per cent. below the average, due to severe drouth affecting all crops.

A Profitable Farm.

Robert Maris, of Wilmington, who recently bought a farm of 143 acres near Dover, has written to a friend about the fine crops in zthat section. Mr. Marris has sold 350 carriers of peaches at 92 cents each. There were 1,096 baskets of apples at 55 cents a basket, 1,000 bushels of potatoes at 48 cents a bushel, 152 baskets of Bartlett pears at $1.25 per basket. 27 bushels of scarlet clover seed at $6 a bushel and 197 bushels of wheat yet to be sold. A great quantily fo peaches at 25 cents per basket by the carload or wagonload

Mr. Maris has 18 men and women helping him with his crops , and the work is not half done. He farms on the intensive plan, making every foot of land produce something worth marketing.

Big Oyster Season.

One of the best evidences that Summer is fast drawing to a close is the fact that the oyster season is almost at hand. The big packing houses down along the rivers it is reported, are already being put in condition to handle the big crop that is expected. The season opens September 1, and some of the dealers are expecting small quantities on the first day.

Whether or not oysters will be plentiful is a question the most experienced oysterman cannot tell. Some of the planters andd tongers have brought reports that the indications are that the beds are well supplied, and it looks as if the coming season will be a good one.

Following the announcement that the Delaware Railroad Company is to erect a new station at Dover, the announcement is made that a station is to be built at Laurel. The new station at the latter town will cost about $7,500 and the contract has been awarded to W. S. and A. M. Culp, of Chestertown. Other improvements being made by the railroad include sidings near Laurel, Armstrong's and Green Spring to cost more than $200,000.

About 1.30 o'clock on Sunday mornong, the 21st, a colored farm hand living in a tenement house on the farm of John T. Perkins near Kenton, biscovered the canning factory of Mr .Perkins, located on the same farm, was on fire. Before any assistance could be summoned the entire building was destroyed,together with an adjoining warehouse in which was stored about 800 cases of canned tomatoes and 400 cases of tomato pulp carried over from last season, which were fully insured.

An old farmer was always complaining of the ways of Providence The weather was always too wet or to odry, too hot or too cold, and the crops were never quite right. One year the seasons had been ideal and this farmer had a bountiful yield of the products of the farm. Afriend visiting him said: "Uncle John, you certainly have cause to be thankful this year,you have an abundance of every thing that grows." But the old man with a doleful sigh answered: "Yes,but crops like this are mighty hard and exhausting on the soil." There are a whole lot of people like the old farmer, who never see anything dut the dark side of life.

Some premature fruit, especially the large handsome, highly colored kind, is going to market, but returns made to the shippers show that cars containing such peaches are instantly noted by commission merchantsand buyers and a discount is put upon it. A hundred baskets of premature peaches in a car will reduce the price of that car at least fifteen per cent. In New York City prematures are called"graybacks" and are looked upon as a disgrace to the man handeling them. It is good business policy to throw this fruit to the hogs and destroy all trees that have peach yellows.

The large barn of Chrisopher Miller, near Avilton, was destroye by fire, with all its contents Tuesday of last week. Mr. Millerhad just finished housing his harvest. He had twenty tons of hay,260 sheaves of wheat, and 225 sheaves of oats all of which were lost. The heat was so intense that fruit on trees 100 yards away was cooked. His orchard which was four years old and thriving, was destroyed. Mr. zMiller's loss is $3,500, with $700 insurance on the buildings. He is 81 years of age and had worked the farm up from a poor one to a paying one, and the heavy loss overwhelms him. Fortunately he had turned his horses out to pasture the evening before the fire. Residents of Lonaconing saw the reflection of the fire in the sky.

Woodburn Martin, a Georgetown lawyer and referee inbankruptcy for the United States Courts in that district, fell into a bucket of boiling hot pitch one day last week and was seriousiy burned on the right hand and arm an don the face. Martin was supervising the erection of a new home and was standing close to the men who were using the pitch in the construction of parts of the cellar. In reaching for something he lost his balance and fell, his right hand and arm plunged into the pitch which splashed over him, leaving a seared place wherever it touched It was impossible to scrape it off and the pain had to be endured until a physician arrived. Everything possible has been done for the injured man, and it is believed he will soon recover and the hand can be saved.

How To Cure Rheumatism.

The cause of Rheumatism and kindred diseases is an excess of uric acid in the blood. To cure this terrible disease this acid must be expelled and the system so regulated that no more acid will be formed in excessive quantities. Rheumatism is an internal disease and requires an internal remedy. Rubbing with Oils and Liniments will not cure, affords only temporary relief at best, causes you to delay the proper treatment, and allows the malady to get a firmer hold on you. Liniments may ease the pain, but they will no more cure Rheumatism than paint will change the fibre of rotten wood.
Science has at last discovered a perfect and complete cure, which is called "Rheumacide." Tested in hundreds of cases, it has effected the most marvelous cures; we believe it will cure you. Rheumacide "gets at the joints from the inside" sweeps the poisons out of the system, tones up the stomach, regulates the liver and kidneys, and makes you well all over. Rheumacide "strikes the roots of the disease and removes its cause." This splendid remedy is sold by druggists and dealers generally at 50c and $1.00 a bottle. In tablet form at 25c and 50c a package. Trial bottle of tablets sent by mail on receipt of price 25c. Booklet free. Write to Bobbitt Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.
