BUDGET DAY PROVED TO TO BE A GREAT SUCCESS

STATE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS COOK DELIVERED TWO ADDRESSES LAST TUESDAY TO TEACHERS AND TO PATRONS AND TAXPAYERS.

BUDGET WAS APPROVED

State Superintendent of Schools Cook spoke to an audience of over three hundred patrons and teachers of Caroline County Schools in a public meeting at the Court House last Tuesday afternoon, being the principal speaker at the Budget Day gathering.

In the morning Dr. Cook spoke to the teachers of the county using as his subject the preparation by the teachers for the work they are to perform, and the help which supervisors can give by proper cooperation with the teachers in their regular work. Practically every teacher of the county schools was present, and it is hoped that much good will be derived from the spendid address which Dr. Cook presented to them.

In the afternoon, at the open meeting of patrons, taxpayers, teachers and the general public, Dr. Cook spoke on the subject of better schools and how to obtain them. His talk is summarized under the following six items on which he enlarged, explaining the new system designed by the State Board of Education for the betterment of the schools of the state, and explaining how the state is aiding the different districts to secure better teachers, better facilities and better schools.

1. There must be an intelligent public interest in the schools of the county and a county Board of Education that represents that interest.

2. There must be competent leadership on the part of the superintendent of schools, supervisors, helping teachers, and principals; in such a system of schools the teachers themselves become leaders. Supervision is a teacher-training proposition and is especially needed in the state school system because such a large proportion of the teachers have had comparatively little professional training. It is also the best means for keeping well prepared teachers growing in professional interest and in class room accomplishment.

3. There must be public recognition of the growth and work of such a corps of teachers in adequate salaries, considerably above the "mere subsistance'" point, and in public appreciation of the value of such a corps of teachers and of such a school system to the county, state and nation.

4. A good system tests its work scientifically. It knows what is taught and why it is taught; it diagnoses its own weakenesses and supplies the remedy.

5. A good school system, by reason of its competency, comes to be housed in well lighted, well heated school buildings that are as well adapted to the purposes of the school as a good house is to the purposes of the home.

6. Since a good school system costs money, what is the county doing for its schools financially as compared with other counties of the State?

In the course of his talk he disclosed the facts that Maryland ranks thirty-fourth in position wtih the other states of the union in school matters. This is due largely to the fact that at least one-third of the teachers of the state have had no professional training whatsoever, another third are teaching with only provisional certificates, leaving but one-third of all the teachers of the state who have fulfilled all the requirements of the school code as first class teachers and who possess the qualifications to secure and hold certificates.

He explained the efficiency of the present Maryland school law when it is fully put into effect and stated how other states, who have adopted similar schedules, have improved their school systems.

He urged that the local authorities would be able to evade the fallacy of permitting its capable teachers to leave, going elsewhere because they can secure more money than the local authorities are willing or able to pay. The state in its program has adopted a system by which it assists the smaller and poorer counties by raising an equal amount with the county for the payment of its teachers. For every dollar the county raises the state gives a dollar to the county. In this way it is hoped that the poorer counties will be able to compete for the best teachers with the richer and larger sections of the country, who are always looking for trained teachers for whom they are willing to pay living wages in return for the knowledge and training which the teachers will impart to the pupils who are under their care and guidance.

During the course his talk, Dr. Cook quoted the following from Prof. James F. Hosic of Columbia University formerly of training school of the Chicago University:

"The great opportunity of supervision is to exemplify in leadership of teachers the very conditions with which they in their turn are expected to surround their pupils.

"The improvement of American schools is today dependent upon progress in the attainment of enlightened, skilful, and sufficient supervisision more than upon any other one factor. Without waiting for further light from the research laboratories we could double our teaching efficiency in a year if, through adequate leadership and guidance, teachers in all schools were enabled to serve as well as the upper 15 per cent. are now doing. Nor it is wholly impossible to determine with sufficient accuracy who constitute the upper 15 per cent. You can determine whether a person is moving in the right direction and with a commendable show of energy and enthusiasm even if you cannot say how far he has gone.

He spoke in part as follows:

"In view then, both of the small percentage of trained teachers in our schools at present and of the meagre supply available for the near future, what is the most important problem our schools are facing?

"The answer is, training teachers who are already in the service—in other words, competent supervision, which is the best method known for improving the quality of teaching, both before and after a teacher enters the service.

"City and town schools are, in some respects, admittedly superior to open country schools. In city school systems, where all the teachers are normal school or training school graduates, a supervisor or supervising principal is supplied, on the average, for every 32 teachers, besides the supervisors of special subjects. In the counties of Maryland, however, where the proportion of normal school graduates is less than one in three, the number of teachers to a supervisor averages more than a hundred.

"Maryland is losing altogether too many of her best qualified teachers of all grades, nor is she attracting others so good, on the whole, to fill these vacancies. There are two reasons for this condition, each of which operates in every vocation, and not in schools alone:

"The present minimum salary schedule is not sufficiently attractive to secure and hold teachers with adequate training. It is not drawing enough trained teachers into the service at the present time to fill vacancies as they occur. If the schools are to secure and hold teachers satisfactorily trained, the present minimum salaries must be raised.

"Young women with the training required for a teacher's certificate can still secure larger returns in other pursuits. A goodly number of teachers will always prefer teaching at the same salary to any other calling, but the salaries now paid are not sufficiently attractive to draw a large enough number of desirable applicants to fill vacancies as they occur."

After the talk by Dr. Cook, Chairman Wright of the Local Board of Education presented the budget for the coming year. Copies of the budget as prepared by the county Board of Education were distributed among the audience for their perusal.

Item after item was taken up and finally, by a motion presented by ex-Senator Harvey L. Cooper, the assemblage unanimously adopted the budget as prepared, thus expressing to the Board their confidence and faith in the work they are doing and expressing to the commissioners that they, as representatives of the county taxpayers and patrons authorized the commissioners to give the school board the amounts asked for for the budget for the coming year.

The budget as prepared by the County Board of Education, calls for an increase of only $7,950 over the appropriation for 1920. The largest item of increase is for the payment of teachers salaries, which includes $4,000 for elementary teachers and $2,000 for High School teachers.

Of the additional amounts asked for on these two items, at least $1,000 is to take care of one or two additional teachers who seem necessary for the proper carrying on of the work for the coming year. About $2,000 more is included to take care of legal increments in salary provided for the in the present State school laws after teachers have served a required number of years. In other words; some teachers who now hold third class certificates and get $600 a

DUDLEYS SURPRISED BY CHURCH MEMBERS

Gathered at Parsonage Monday Evening to Welcome His Return

FINE PROGRAM GIVEN

Last Monday evening the members of the Methodist Protestant Church gave a surprise donation party to the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dudley. The parsonage was filled with members of the church who brought stores of good things, consisting of groceries, canned goods and even chickens.

Miss Mattie Moore acted as toastmistress. A piano solo by Mrs. Emery Kimmey opened the program, followed by a vocal solo "I Hear You Calling Me," sung by Mrs. Dukes Roe. Dr. M. B. Stephens made a short address, expressing the peoples' appreciation of Mr. Dudley's services in this field during the past year and their love and admiration for both Mr. and Mrs. Dudley. Mr. Dudley replied to Dr. Stephen's speech, and the program continued with short speeches by Mrs. J. A. Dudley, Mrs. T. P. Fisher, Miss Emma Clark, Clarence Roe, Mrs. Virgil Moore, who represented the various circles of the church work, which was followed by two readings by Miss Blanche Hobbs, a solo by Mrs. Dudley and a duet by the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Dudley. Later candy and apples were served. It was a most enjoyable "get-to-gether" affair, as well as a sincere tribute to the pastor and his family.

The event came as a complete surprise, as the host and hostess were expecting the church choir for a special rehearsal that evening.

Some Game

The married men's "ball tossers," piloted by Sheriff Dulin of Denton journed to Preston last Saturday afternoon and crossed bats, with the Preston married men. The game was a thriller from start to finish, both sides making things even up in the run column all the way through the game. After some terrible clouting at the close of eight innings, both sides took invoice of the runs scored and found it was 15 to 16 in favor of Preston. The Dentonians went to their last bat with one run behind. After the "mud" was shuffled good in the ninth the score was reversed and Denton won the handicap by a score of 17 to 16.

"Nick" had to do most of the running for his "inmates" although handicapped in size he could outrun everything on the grounds and his famous outcry "playball" after he scored was most thoroughly enjoyed. The game was featured by all who played and the last reports that we hear, is that the fans are about as sore as the "hasbeens" from laughter.

The Denton married men challenge any married team in the county. See Sheriff Dulin and he will arrange the particulars.

We'll let you know when Preston returns the game. HASBEENS.

Piney vs. Preston

The all-star teams of Piney and Preston met Tuesday on our local diamond.. Piney was entirely outclassed by Preston's superior fielding. Every one that attended the game thoroughly enjoyed seeing the old men who played stumble around in any old fashion. Piney's second baseman and pitcher were the backbone of the team. Due to the lack of backing, Preston made several runs on Baker, the Piney pitcher. Charley Lord and Raymond Payne starred for Preston, while Schlegal and Baker upheld the honors for Piney.

The game resulted in a score of 14-7 in favor of the Preston nine.

MOTHER GOOSE PROGRAM PLEASED

Members of the Methodist Protestant Church spent a hilarious evening with "Mother Goose" last Friday, April 29. The programme arranged by Miss Adeline Fisher, began with piano solos by Margaret Allaband and Esther Statum, followed by a duet by Earl and Marie Nowell.

Then the real stunts of the evening began, consisting of the familiar Mother Goose rhymes recited by the "grown-up" church members dressed to represent the parts, drills by the "girls" and a succession of clever acrobatical stunts by the "boys." The list of the prominent characters follows:

Mother Goose, Mrs. Harry Clark, the Clown, George Skirven, the Town Crier, Samuel Young; Bo-Peep, Mrs. Harvey Porter; Mary, Miss Emma Clark; Mary's Lamb, Robert Pitts; Old Mother Hubbard, Miss Lizzie Clark; Contrary Mary, Mrs. Gladys Roe; Humpty Dumpty, Dukes Roe; Little Boy Bule, Lee Walston; Jack Horner, Clarence Roe; Jack, Cecil Blake; Jill, Miss Blanche Hobbs; Simple Simon, R. Boone Beauchamp.

The stunts done by the men inculded a merry-go-round, camel walk, crab race, flopper, jumping the bridge, back flop, two kinds of ocean waves, cock fight, horse, flip-flop, skin the snake, stir the beans, sun flower, pyramid. The ladies of the church sold candy.

The entire affair was well carried out and the audience showed their pleasure by thunderous applause and shouts of laughter. The program was arranged by Miss Adeline Fisher, a Junior Chautauqua instructor, and was assisted by Miss Caroline Redden who is also a chautauqua worker.

Thieves Busy at Easton

Thieves entered the store of A. Weinrot of Easton, either early Sunday or Monday morning and stole $11.50 from the money drawer, and also took five pairs of shoes. It appears that Mr. Harry Weinrot was the last one in the store Saturday night and he and Fred Wallace, clerk, claim that the door leading into the back yard was locked and bolted. When the store was opened Monday morning he found the back door unbolted and unlocked. Commencing an investigation he found that the money and some shoes were missing.

A few nights previous to that, the store of C. C. Cannon was entered and the money drawer rifled.
