LASTING!

The desire of all those who erect monuments to the departed is for a lasting tribute which will stand thruout the years.

Granite and marble are our rock-of-ages for such markers. Artists have perfected designs into which craftsmen have hewn souls of majesty. Dignity is expressed through simplicity of design and withal—that is what one most wishes to express.

Eastern Shore Happenings

Salisbury, Md., May30—Leaving home without a cent, but later earnng enough money to buy himself a new cap, tie and pair of shoes, beside enjoying a trip through five States, all within a period of six days, is the record of Leslie Smith, aged 14, of Delmar, champion wanderluster of the Shore, who, unannounced, walked into his father's home after authorities in many towns of the Eastern Shore had conducted a fruitless search

To his father the Smith lad told of a present-day personification of the adventures and escapades of Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn, as portrayed by Mark Twain when he and Sherman Phippen, a 13-year-old companion, decided to "skip" examinations and begin a quest for adventure.

After being released from school last week the two obtained a ride on a motor truck to the Eastern Shore of Virginia. Here they picked strawberries for a short time, later obtaining passage on a boat from Onancock to Norfolk.

At Norfolk the lads accompanied a party seeking strawberry pickers, traveling by automobile through Virginia, West Virginia and into Ohio.

On the return trip the Smith youth decided that his pending examinations were not so bad, and timed his arrival so as to take the first of the series. Phippen, however, steadfastly refused to return.

In the meantime Leslie's father, who is a yard foreman with the railroad company at Delmar, sought aid in searching for his missing son in all parts of the Shore, and his supposition that the lad left school for the berry fields was proven well founded.

The Hammann-Levin Music Store is planning to give Salisbury its firset broadcasting station. Tuesday evening a program, including musical numbers and a talk by C. L. Derrickson, operator of Baltimore, was rendered, giving Salisbury radio fans a delightful surprise.

The test was considered a success and all local radio fans are looking forward to the successful development of this new project.

Prof. W. H. Gibbons, manager of the store, pans to arrange daily programs that will include musical and vocal numbers, mostly by local talent, and the daily score of the Eastern Shore League base ball. The Stlisbury program will be broadcast at such times as will not interfere with feature numbers of the country's stations.
