"WHAT YOU AS A MOTORIST SHOULD KNOW"

Out in California they have discovered something that is of vital interest to you that about half of all the motor mishaps are due, not to defective brakes or defective tires or defective lights—but to defective vision. Wouldn't it make you, as a motorist, and your family feel easier to know that your eyes are right instead of guessing?

Eastern Shore Happenings

Dover, Del., Sept. 23.—Two Indians in full regalia, with all the war paint, feathers and fixings which go to make up a full-fledged Indian, appeared at the window of the ticket office at the railroad station here yesterday noon, asking for tickets for Norfolk, Va. The elder Indian spoke good English while the younger one, a son, spoke broken English. The two boarded the train for Norfolk without anyone apparently inquiring as to who they were or where they came from. Inquiry after their departure revealed them to be W. R. Clark, of near Oak Orchard, Sussex County, and his son, Robert Clark, of Philadelphia, both representatives to an Indian gathering at Norfolk, Va. The Clarks are of the tribe of Nanticoke Indians living in Sussex county.

Mystery surrounds the disappearance of James L. Hastings, 16-year-old student of the Delmar High School He lived in East State street.

His absence was reported last Friday night by his brother, M. F. Hastings, a farmer, living near Delmar.

Young Hastings has not been seen by his relatives or friends since last Friday afternoon. The efforts of the state police to whom an appeal was made to locate the missing boy, have been unavailing.

The mother of young Hastings is grief-stricken and a nervous wreck because of the disappearance of her son.

The only reason given for the sudden vanishing of young Hastings in his statement last week that he wanted to leave school. "I don't want to go to High School," he is reported to have said to his friends.

The missing boy is described as 16 years old, 5 feet, 7 inches in height, weighs 140 pounds, has light hair, blue eyes and a ruddy complexion.

Judge Thomas J. Keating, of Centreville, this week was named by Governor Albert C. Ritchie as the Eastern Shore member of the Maryland Judicial Council, provided for by the Act of the 1924 Legislature, Chapter 549. The selection of Judge Keating to this important and responsible judicial position is an unusual honor, in view of the comparatively brief period he has occupied the bench in the Second Judicial Circuit. It is a further compliment to his recognized ability that he was the unanimous selection of all the various circuits of the Eastern Shore.

Kent Island's winter supply of ham and bacon, not to mention fresh sausage and pork chops, is being seriously menaced by a threatened epidemic of hog cholera, according to official advices issued yesterday by W. H. Wright, veterinary inspector of the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Wright characterizes the outbreak as "already having assumed serious proportions," and is fearful that unless prompt steps are taken to check the contagion, hundreds of fine Kent Island porkers may become victims of the malady, with the attendant economic and financial loss to many swine raisers.

Following the receipt of formal notice from H. D. Massey, owner of the Church Hill electric light plant, stating that he would not supply current for the town after December 31, 1924, the Board of Town Commissioners of Church Hill this week began making preparations for obtaining electricity from the municipal plant at Centreville.

A meeting of the taxpayers of Church Hill will be held in Guest's Opera House next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, when the program of the Commissioners will be laid before them. If the plans are approved, steps will be taken immediately to begin the construction of a $5,000 pole line between Centreville and Church Hill.

The Mayor and Council on Monday night, after hearing the report of its Street Lighting Committee, instructed that body to proceed and make arrangements with the Eastern Shore Gas & Electric Company for the ornamental lighting of South Division street from Water street to the bridge below the First Regiment Armory.

Salisbury's Widest thoroughfare, upon completion, will be a veritable "Great White Way." Six 240 candle-power lights now in use are to be supplanted with twenty-two 400 candle-power lights. These are to be mounted on ornamental iron standards, the style and design to be selected immediately. One light will be placed at each corner at the intersection of Main and Division, center of the city's commercial section.

A get-together meeting of great interest to Legion members will be held in Milford early in October, where a general good time is planned followed by a dinner. Earl Sylvester, Vice-Commander The American Legion, Department of Delaware, who is a member of the Harrington Post and is very desirous of seeing several more active posts in Sussex county, proposed the whole affair and he has been ably supported by the Department Commander J. A. Crothers, of Wilmington, who states a large delegation from Wilmington will be present and show their interest. Other posts from Smyrna and Harrington will also be present. Members of the Walter L. Fox Post should keep a watchful eye for the date of this event and plan to help the Walter L. Fox Post make as good a showing in attendance and enthusiasm as any. Ex-service men from all of Sussex County have been invited and it is the hope of Department Commander J. A. Corters that the time is now ripe to weld them all into a strong post, able to take their place in the Community and exert an influence for its good that must be heard.

Several prominent speakers have been invited and Madden's Orchestra will supply the music.

Charles D. Abbott, Jr., Left Milford Friday morning for New York City where he will sail on the giant steamship "Leviathan" for England, to enter Oxford University. He was accompanied to New York by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Abbott. Young Mr. Abbott has had an enviable record in his scholastic endeavors, and has made well in every line of work in which he has engaged. He graduated from Haverford College with honors, and shortly thereafter was chosen to write the "Life of Howard Pyle." He has been working on this steadily during the summer months at his home here. In competition with a number of students from Delaware, Mr. Abbott took the Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford University. He was selected as Delaware's choice after the examinations. The scholarship carries with it a four year course at this well-known university. In all his school work Mr. Abbott has ranked high. In the local schools his work stood out above the others in his class, and on through his college career it did likewise. He left Milford with the well-wishes of the entire community.

A terrific gale that swept the Delaware Bay early Wednesday morning, carried overboard and ruined a cargo of tomatoes shipped by Lee O. Truitt of Milford, which was being carried by the gasoline freighter Mockingbird of Virginia, from Milford to Salem, N. J. The cargo consisted of 4,965 baskets of tomatoes and was valued at $3,074.55 Just who will sustain the loss has not yet been determined but Mr. Truitt, the broker, stated that the growers would be paid in full. The tomatoes were bought by Mr. Truitt for the Heintz Packing Co., and sripped by the steamer from the wharf at Milford to their plant at Salem, N. J. The steamer was loaded Tuesday night and left Wednesday morning.
