PRESIDENT'S GLASS.

During a visit a few evenings ago, to the manufactory of Messrs. Bakewell's & Page, we were much gratified by a sight of the splendid equipage of glass, intended for Mr. Monroe's sideboard. It consists of a full sett of decanters, wine glasses and tumblers, of various sizes, and different models, exhibiting a brilliant specimen of double flint, engraved and cut by Jardelle.—This able artist has displayed his best manner, and the arms of United States on each piece have a fine effect. The glass itself must either have been selected with great care, or the spirited propietors must have made considerable progress lately in their art, for we seldom have seen any samples so perfectly pellucid and free from tinct. Upon the whole we think the present service, equal, if not superior to the elegant decanters presented to the president when he passed through Pittsburg last year.

It affords us a most sensible gratification that the patriotic liberality of Mr. Monroe will give us the opportunity of being known to the world, as proficients in some of the most delicate branches of manufactures; as regards cloth, iron ware, and the common productions in glass, we consider our reputation as long established; we may now calculate upon increasing this reputation by the addition of the branch of chrystal glass, since such a man as James Monroe looks to Pittsburg for this article. We cannot forbear congratulating Messrs. Bakewell & Page on the occasion; their meritorious struggles are at length crowned with partial success; may the policy to be adopted by our government be such as, at no very distant day, to ensure them that reward, which their urbanity, enterprize and industry merit, and may the "glass that sparkles" on the president's board, operate as a talisman on our representatives, to stimulate them to unremitting exertions in favour of manufacturers. *Pitts. PRESIDENT JEFFERSON.

[Every scrap from the pens of our political Fathers cannot but excite the liveliest interest in their countrymen. The following was in answer to Mr. Pinkney, of Charleston, S. C. the writer of an able pamphlet in favor of Mr. Monroe's election to the Presidency, a copy of which he enclosed to Mr. Jefferson]

MONTICELLO, Sept. 14.

To Charles Pinkney, Esq.

DEAR SIR—Yours of August have been duly received, with the pamphlet it covered in defence of Colonel Monroe's nomination to the Presidency, written by yourself. Col. Monroe happened to be at his seat adjoining me, and to dine with me the day that I received it. I thought I could not make a better use of it than by putting it into his hands, and letting him know his friends. You say nothing in your letter of your own health, which cannot but be interesting to a friend. I hope it continues firm; as for myself, I weaken very sensibly; yet with such a continuance of good health as makes me fear I shall wear out very tediously, which is not what one could wish. I see no comfort in outliving our friends, and remaining a mere monument of the times which are past. I withdraw myself much as possible from all politics, and gladly shelter myself under the wings of the generation which we have labored faithfully to provide shelter for. Yours truly, and with continued friendship.

TH: JEFFERSON.

[The name of Mr. Mercer, of the Committee of Public Lands, was accidently omitted in the list of that committee, yesterday given.]

Mr. McClean, Representative from the new State of Illinois, being in attendance—

The Speaker stated to the House a difficulty which he felt in deciding upon the propriety of administrating the oath to him in consequence of Congress not having concluded the act of admission of the State into the Union. Under this difficulty, he submitted the question to the decision of the House.

The question having been put, it was decided apparently by a large majority, that the speaker should not at this time administer the oath of office.

On request of Mr. Bassett, he was excused from serving on the committee relative to the public buildings.

On motion of Mr. Irving, of New York, a resolve was passed instructing the committee on Naval Affairs to inquire into the expediency of extending, for a further term of five years, the pensions to the widows and orphans of the officers, sailors and marines killed on board the armed ships of the United States, during the late war.

On motion of Mr. Johnson, of Kentucky, a select committee was ordered to be appointed, to enquire into the expediency of allowing to *M*ichigan territory a Delegate in Congress.

Mr. Johnson of Ky. proposed a resolution, instructtng the military committee to enquire into the expediency of establishing two additional military academies, one in the neighborhood of the City of Washington and one at Newport in Kentucky.

Mr. Williams of N. C. wished to have included in this resolution a third academy, at some point in South Carolina; it being but reasonable if the North, the West, and the Centre were accommodated, that the Southern section should receive the same attention.

After some conversation, to accomdate the wishes of Mr. Williams, the resolution was so modified by the mover as to propose an enquiry into the expediency of establishing one or more additional academies: and in this shape was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Johnson, of Ky. the committee on the Post Office was instructed to enquire into the expediency of increasing the salaries of the Assistant Postmasters General; whose salaries, at 1700 dollars per annum, Mr. J. said, were incommensurate with their important and laborious duties.

On motion of Mr. Anderson of Kentucky, the Constitution of the State of Illinois was referred to a select committee, to consider and report thereon.

On motion of Mr. Jones, of Tennessee, the committee on military affairs was instructed to enquire into the expediency of providing by law for the payment for property, lost or destroyed by the enemy, and for horses lost for want of forage, during the late war between the United States and the Seminole nation of Indians.

And the House adjourned.

Friday, November 20.

The following committees, in addition to those already announced, have been appointed:

Committee of Accounts—Messrs. Little, Bennett and Darlington.

On the Constitution of the State of Illinois—Messrs. Anderson of Ky, Poindexter and Hendricks.

The following committees, having been appointed at the last session, are yet in existence, by a special rule:

Of Expenditures in the Department of State—Messrs. Forsyth, Hasbrouck, and Sudder

Of Expenpitures in the Treasury Department—Messrs. Lowndes, Allen of Vt. and Marchand.

Of Expenditures in the War Department—Messrs. Johnson of Ky. Tucker of S. C. and Herkimer.

Of Expenditures in the Navy Department—Messrs. Pleasants, Storrs, and Sampson.

Of Expenditures on the Public Buildings—*Mes*srs. Tucker Va. Drake and Orr.

[Of the committee on the Post Office, Mr. Settle is a member, and not Little, as formerly stated.]

STATE OF ILLINOIS.

Mr. Anderson, of Kentucky, from the select committee to whom was referred the Constitution of the State of Illinois, reported a resolution declaring the admission of the State of Illinois into the union, on an equal footing with the original states—The resolution was read a first and second time—Mr. Anderson proposed that it should be engrossed for a third reading.

The resolve was ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

On motion of Mr. Poindexter of *Mis*sissippi, the committee of Public Lands were directed to enquire into the expediency of prohibiting the emigration and settlement of the Choctaw tribe of Indians on the lands of the United States, west of the *Mis*sissippi, until they shall have acquired that right by treaty with the United States, founded on a cession of land by said Indians, east of the *M*ississippi.

On motion of Mr. Williams of North Carolina, the committee of ways and means were instructed to enquire into the expediency of repealing the duty on Salt imported into the United States.

These several motions, being propositions of enquiry only, passed without debate or opposition—

And the House adjourned to *M*onday.
