OLD MEMORIES. GAN GRINDER-PLAY THAT TUNE AGAIN

[From the Detroit Free Press.] Yesterday a hand organist sat down before a house on Congress street and began to turn out sweet melodies, but the first tune was not finished when an odd-looking man about 50 years old, having a game 132 LIGHT STREET WHARF leg and a general forlorn look, came along and halted in front of the Italian.

"Now, that is sweet!" he said after a moment, "carries me right back to the days when me and Hanner sat on the hind stoop and squoze hands and told our love." 'Op-era muzeek," replied the Italian, smiling at the enthusiasm of his audience. "Wall, now, but it touches me right here," continued the man with the game | YARDS | 132 S. Charles Street. leg, laying his hand on his heart. "1 haven't felt so much like cryin' for fourteen years before. Seems zif I heard angels buzzing around in the air." He rested his game leg on a horse block, folded his arms, and his look and attitude were that of a man whose heart was filled with sad thoughts and painful memories. Just as the tears were starting to his eyes the organist moved the stop, increased the speed, and "Captain Jinks" was merrily BUTTLDING elsewhere. "Some odder kind of mu-zeek," he exclaimed, and the handle hadn't made four revolutions when the man with the game leg began to smile. Then he pushed his hat over on one side of his head. Then he hitched up his trousers, smiled some more, and exclaimed: "By gum! if that 'ere tune don't make me hop all over" "Good mu-zeek," replied the Italian. "Good! Why the darned tune is heavenly! I believe if I was dyin' it would stand me on end! I'd give a billion dollart if Hanner was alive and could hear musician touched the stop again, and the tune changed off on to "Birdie, I Am Tired Now." "Ah! that soothes me, that does!" said the old man as he sat down on the horse block. "That's sunthin' more to touch Sanders & Stayman, the heart and make me think of my poor "Vary sweet mu-zeek," remarked the Italian.

"Sweet! Great skies! but it's melting! I've known that tune for a long time, but I never could sing it without weeping. If ESTEY ORGAN, I had a million of dollars I'd buy a hand organ and play that tune straight along for six months without stopping the He put his hands over his face and appeared agitated, and the Italian didn't seem to care whether he collected a cent or not. He ground the tune out, touched the stop, and remarked: "Vary gran-de mu-zeek dis time-ha! And "Yankee Doodle" rolled from the little square box like sheet-lightning sliding down the side of a haystack. "Great Concord!" yelled the man with a game leg as the tune reached "Doodle Dandy;" "hold on a minute till I get this leg under me! Thar-let her come now-"

"Whoodle, poodle, doodle-doo! Hi, sky, doodle dandy !" And he leaped around, slapped the Ital. ian on the back, threw his hat on the walk, CONTRACTOR, BUILDER, AND and continued: "Snaix and reptiles! but don't that tune | Lumber, Sash, Doors, Shutters, &c.

make glory stand right out like mud on a white house? 'Rah for us!" and he broke the tune short off and sailed away on the "Suwanee River." The first strains of the dear old melody box, wiped the sweat from his brow and | tion guaranteed in every particular. "There's something more to remind me of my lost Hanner! Isn't that perversion for the hungry soul, though! What strains! What tears! What a bulging of the heart!" "Vary soft mu-zeek," remarked the Italian. My heavens! Man, if you'll pay my board I'll travel the whole country over and carry that organ, just to hear you play that tune !"

He reached out his arms, made motions as if drawing the tune to his breast, and whispered, "G-lory! When I die let me die listening to them strains of "Suwanee
