Seaford, Del., April 30 — County Agent Malloy C. Vaughan is arranging a farm management tour in Sussex county for the agricultural class of the University of Delaware. The class, numbering 14, accompanied by their instructor, Prof. George L. Shuster, will arrive in Seaford May 4, starting on the tour early next morning.

Among the places visited are the A. J. Dolby farm, Seaford; farm of former State Senator, Oliver A. Newton, Bridgeville, and the milk-cooling station at Nassau. On Monday night a meeting will be held at Hotel Sussex, Seaford, and the farm survey records taken of Sussex county will be discussed.

Unless immediate steps are taken by the citizens of Centreville to cooperate with Company "K" in the rehabilitation of the local infantry outfit, General Milton A. Reckord will cancel all plans for the construction of the $50,000 armory here.

Submission of the last inspection report of Company "K" to General Reckord disclosed such unsatisfactory inefficiency, that he has determined not to build the proposed armory in Centreville unless action is taken within the next 30 days to correct the deficiencies noted.

Immediately following the Observer's editorial recommendation that the business sections of Centreville be illuminated by a modern electrical "White Way," Water street business houses have taken prompt action, with the result that contractor Adolph Doehler now has orders from half a dozen merchants on this enterprising thoroughfare, to construct brilliant lights which will transform this shopping section into a blaze of light at night.

One light has already been installed in front of the new store which has just been renovated and will be occupied by Everett G. Bullock as a radio establishment. Lights will also be placed in front of the following stores:

Centreville 5c to $1 Store, Samuel Epstein, Walls & Yates, Frank W. Draper, Barton Brothers, W. Levi Clough.

The Town Council of Dover has authorized and contracts have been signed for the purchase of a new Seagraves engine of 350 gallon capacity and also a ladder service truck equipped with one 45-foot extension, two 35-foot extension, one 22 and one 20-foot wall, and several other ladders from 12 to 18 feet. The parts on these machines are interchangeable with the exception of the drive shaft on the ladder truck, due to longer chasse. This is an exceptional feature. They are manufactured by Seagraves Corporation of Columbus, O., and will be delivered and installed in the headquarters of the Robbins Hose Company, on or about July 5.

Easton, Md., May 1—Federal Prohibition Agents Jesse H. Bratten and W. L. Stevens got as far as Talbot county today in their raiding trip to the Eastern Shore. Last night they visited that part of Caroline county known as "Mexico" and found several hundred gallons of grain mash, distilled spirits, several stills and mash vats.

A man, said to be James Strahan, living in that portion of Caroline county known as "Hell"s Half Acre," near Harmony, was surprised by Bratten, who, it is said, found 200 gallons of grain mash, spirits running from a still, whiskey in the man's residence, one 25-gallon still in operation, two 15-gallon stills not yet set up, four 50-gallon mash vats and eight 10- gallon empty kegs. Stills were found at three other points. Four men were arrested.

Yesterday marked the event when the Central Bank went out of existence and in its present banking quarters were installed the Eastern Shore Trust Company—Salisbury Bank a merger of the Peoples Bank of the Eastern Shore Trust and the Central Bank.

Senator Charles R. Disharoon will be the head of the new institution with Carl M. Paynter as cashier. The directorate will comprise the present boards of directors of the two combined banks. Charles M. Freeman becomes assistant to the president of the Eastern Shore Trust Company, George W. Woolford, of Cambridge.

The stock of the Central Bank has been exchanged for an equal number of shares in the Eastern Shore Trust Company. This institution will occupy the present quarters of the Central Bank and the Salisbury Building and Loan Association. The latter organization will move into the offices now occupied by Samuel P. Woodcock after these have been remodeled and a vault installed. The affairs of the Building and Loan Association will be handled by Miss Sarah L. Wailes and Miss Carrie Hill.

The merger of the two Salisbury banks gives Salisbury one of the strongest financial institutions on the Eastern Shore. It was the Peoples Bank of the Eastern Shore Trust Company that brought 4 percent on savings accounts to Salisbury. The Central Bank passes out of existence after successful operations covering a period of little over three years.

Salisbury, Md., April 30—Fanned by a 25-mile wind, a blaze originating in the pianing plant of the C. R. Disharoon Company, box makers, late this afternoon threatened to destroy the entire mill property and two blocks of frame dwellings in East Salisbury before it was under control.

Every faclity of the Salisbury Fire Department was brought into use to confine the fire to the mill proper, which with the offices of the company, represents a total loss estimated by a member of the firm from $75,000 to $100,000. The loss was three-fourths covered by insurance, it was said.

For the first time in many years requests for aid were sent to fire departments of nearby towns. Engines from Delmar, Princess Anne, Laurel and Parsonsburg responded, but the fire had then been brought under control and the local department was using all available water connections.

The origin of the fire, which was first discovered in the engine room of the planing mill, is unknown. Fifteen minutes after the discovery was made that structure was enveloped in flames. Ten carloads of box shooks and baskets in the building were destroyed, as well as all of the machinery. A total of 140 laborers will be thrown out of employment until that portion of the plant is rebuilt.

The company had planned to suspend operation on Saturday for a fortnight, to permit the installation of new machinery.

Former State Senator Charles R. Disharoon and his son, Walter R. Disharoon, are owners of the plant, the total value of which is placed at more than $200,0000.

The loss is most severe at this season of the year, Senator Disharoon explained, because the products manufactured by the company for the marketing of farm products, fruits and strawberries are in great demand at this time.

A fire at the plant a few months ago brought a loss of $26,000 and that section has just been rebuilt.

Construction of the burned mill will start soon.

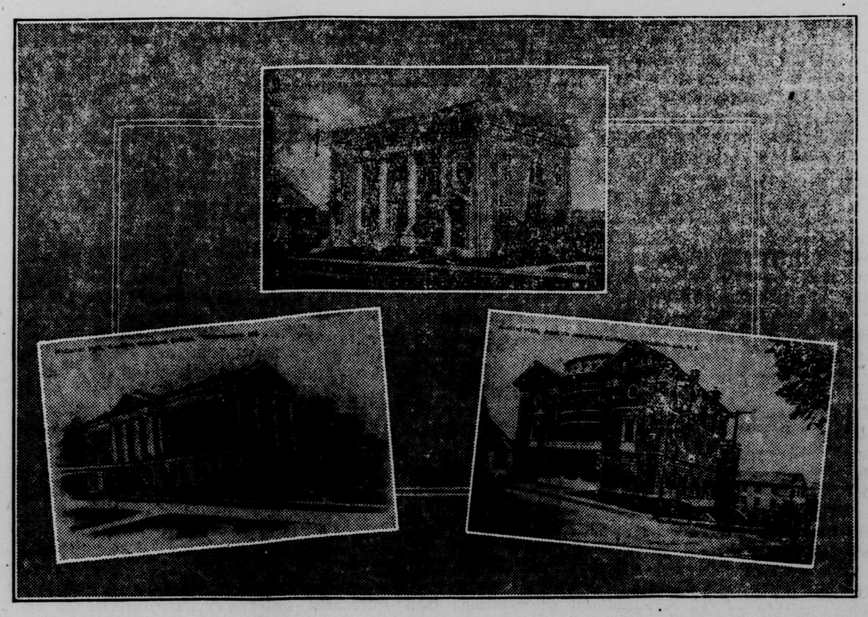
Crisfield, Md., May 1—Vernon Bevans, brother of Andrew and Luther Bevans, of Pocomoke, convicted of assaulting two officers and accused of arson in Worcester county, awaiting trial at Cambridge, Monday, was probably fatally injured this evening.

Bevans, with two companions, was swimming at one of the local docks of this city. In making a headfirst dive he struck a pile and sank to the bottom. A number of spectators called to his companions to bring him in, but they seemed to lack the nerve and Annie Holden, a negress, pulling off her shoes, dived and brought him ashore. Bevans is at the McCready Memorial Hospital, his neck is broken.

FINE GROUP OF WESTERN MARYLAND COLLEGE BUILDINGS



Here you see three of the handsome, modern buildings which form a part of the up-to-date plant of Western Maryland College. Situated on College Hill, 1000 feet above sea level, the college has an ideal site. The scenery is surpassed nowhere in the East. From the windows of the buildings may be seen the Blue Ridge Mountains, while farther away, the Alleganies loom up. Pure air, pure water, a beautiful view all combine to make the location of the college all that can be desired. The buildings shown are Alumni Hall with its rounded central dome; McDaniel Hall, with its chaste, beautiful lines and the Administration Building and Library.

STANDS HIGH IN COLLEGE RANKS

Western Maryland College Graduates Accepted Without Examination In All Universities.

Sixty-five years ago there was started in Westminster, Md., a private academy. Six years later the work of enlarging it into a college was begun. Today, graduates from the Western Maryland College are admitted to universities all over the world and the college itself is classed as an A1 accredited college, than which there is no higher classification.

Men and women, who as boys and girls, hailed Western Maryland College as their alma mater, today hold high office in the state and nation. Some of them have become internationally known.

It led the way in that form of coeducation in which the young men and young women enrolled are accepted as students on equal terms, are taught the same courses of study by the same faculty but are taught separately so far as practicable. Both men and women receive the same degree.

Western Maryland College was the first in the state to build a gymnasium, employ a physical director and give the same great care to the development of the physical as to the mental.

In 1866 the college consisted of one main building. Today it consists of a collection of 26 buildings with an athletic field of five acres equipped for all branches of sport, and Western Maryland College teams have brought renown to the college and its student body.

The first session of the college opened with 73 students. In the years since then 1,306 men and women have been graduated—fitted for lives of usefulness and for positions of prominence in the profession, in the ministry and in business. About as many students have attended who did not remain for graduation.

In 1868 the General Assembly of Maryland granted a charter to the college, giving the trustees the power to hold property, elect a faculty and confer degrees "in any of the arts, sciences and liberal professions to which persons are usually admitted in any other colleges or universities in America."

In 1924 there were 405 students enrolled in the college departments, 321 of whom were Marylanders. Fifteen other eastern and southern states were represented by students and one foreign country, Japan. Of these students, the men and women were nearly equally divided.

In this fashion has Western Maryland College kept pace with the marvelous strides made in recent years by American colleges and universities. Dr. A. N. Ward, president of the college, says:

"It is the aim of Western Maryland College to do the very best grade of college work. Its purpose is to do work equal to that done by any college in America, where the courses of a college of liberal arts are pursued. Our graduates are now being accepted without examination by the leading universities of America and Europe."

Surrounded as we are by a great cloud of witnesses to the power of man to subdue the forces of the earth, sea and air, one is often tempted to give ready ear to the man on the corner who tells how folks will travel ten, twenty and fifty years hence. And yet we are constantly reminded that the problems of yesterday are still the problems of today. Johnny was doing his arithmetic.

"Say, dad, teacher said somthing about finding the least common multiple."

"Great Scott," exclaimed dad, "haven't they found that thing yet, they were looking for that thing when I was a boy."

Mary drove her little flivver,
In a way to make one shiver;
When upon the gas she stepped,
One saw that she was no adept,
Mary in the churchyard lies,
'Neath green trees and sunny skies,
Flivver wouldn't climb a pole
That's why she is in such a hole.
