The bill to authorize the President of the United States to cause to be made a military road, from Fort St. Philip, in the river Mississippi, to Johnson's Plantation, as an auxiliary to the defence of New-Orleans, the resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Senate to purchase one copy of Lucas' Universal Atlas, for the use of the Senate; and the bill extending the term of pensions granted to persons disabled, and to the widows and orphans of those who have been slain, or who have died in consequence of wounds, or casualties, received while in the time of their duty, on board the private armed vessels of the United States during the late war; were severally read the third time, and passed,

The Senate then proceeded, as in committee of the whole, Mr. Ruggles in the chair, to the further consideration of the bill to abolish imprisonment for debt.

Mr. Johnson, of Kentucky, supported the passage of the bill in a speech of about two hours, in which he portrayed the evils and distresses experienced under the present system of holding the person liable to arrest for debt, and the propriety of superseding that system by adopting provisions such as those contained in the bill now presented to the Senate.

Mr. Hemphill, from the Committee on Roads and Ganals, reported a bill authorizing the subscription of stock in the Delaware and Chesapeake Canal Company; which was twice read and committed.

REVISION OF THE TARIFF.

On motion of Mr. Tod, the House again went into a committee of the whole, Mr. Condict in the chair, on the bill to amend the several acts for imposing duties on imports.

The immediate question, depending from yesterday, was on the motion of Mr. Tracy, to strike out fifteen per centum (the addition proposed upon the rate of duties now existing on the importation of distilled spirits,) and inserting in lieu thereof, fifty per centum.

The debate on this motion was resumed.

Mr. Tomlinson, of Con. delivered his sentiments at length in opposition to it.

The question was then taken on Mr. Tracy's motion, and decided in the negative, by a large majority.

A bill from the Senate extending the term of pensions granted to persons disabled, and to the widows and orphans of those who have been slain, or who have died in consequence of wounds or casualties, received while in the line of their duty, on board the private armed ships of the United States, during the late war, was twice read, and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

And then the House adjourned to Monday.

After the presentation of numerous petitions—Mr. Tucker, from the Committee to whom was referred the petition of the heirs of Beaumarchais, made a report thereupon, concluding with the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the claim of the petitioner Eugenie Emelie Beaumarchais De la Rue, be referred to the Executive of the United States, to be adjusted in the pending negociations between the United States and France, on such terms as they may think just and equitable."

The report was ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Storrs, of New York, presented the following, which lies one day of course:

On motion of Mr. Hemphill, it was

Resolved, That the Committee of Ways and Means be directed to inquire into the expediency of allowing the benefit of drawback on all goods, wares, and merchandise, imported into either of the ports of New York, Philadelphia, or Baltimore, and transmitted from any one of the said ports to either of the others, partly by land conveyance and partly by water; in the like manner as if the same were transported coastwise.

Mr. Whittlesey, of Ohio, presented the following which lies one day.

The resolution yesterday offered by Mr. Storrs calling for information, relative to the affairs of the Bank of the United States, was taken up and agreed to.

The resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Whittlesey, respecting the expenditure of appropriations for procuring timber for the Navy, was taken up.

In support of this resolution, Mr. Whittlesey called the attention of the House to the several acts providing for the permanent increase of the Navy. No late report has been made to the House of the amount of expenditures under these acts, and what he wished to ascertain was, what portion of those appropriations remain unexpended, in order to be able to decide whether a portion of those unexpended appropriations, if any, could not be diverted to defray the cost of building the sloops of war, for providing which a bill has come to this House from the Senate.

The resolution was then agreed to.
