SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 6, 1913

TO THE POLLS, DEMOCRATS!

The closing hours of a spirited primary campaign are at hand and the Democratic voters are soon to name the nominees who are to enter the lists for the November contests. Next Monday, primary election day, is to be a time of much moment, when every one who feels a real and sentimental interest in his party—the party of Jefferson, Jackson, Cleveland, Wilson, Bryan and other great champions of the people's cause—will have an opportunity to perform a helpful service to the Democracy. The giving of a short time to the matter of the primary election may mean much. A deep interest in the choosing day means a wider concern for the success of the ticket in November. Let us, therefore, all take the trouble to go to the polls next Monday. There is wisdom in the multitude, we are told on very high authority, and the decisions of the many will without doubt be ratified and confirmed on election day by a great vote.

We owe a great debt to the Democracy of the land, and each and every Democrat should gladly pay the debt. Many a time and oft has the Democratic party been commissioned to go to the rescue of the rights of the people, wrested from them and denied them. It is, in fact, the party of the people, obedient to their will. If the whole Democratic party could be induced to go to the election and vote next Monday, and each voter participate in the choosing of candidates there would be an unprecedented Democratic majority next November, and all Democrats would be astonished at the magnitude of their victory. Be sure to go the polls Monday.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A senatorial candidate in Cecil has a platform containing some strong planks, namely the promise of aid in every way possible to our national administration in its great fight to rid the government of many evils; the extension of local option; the extermination of the race track evils; opposition to any emasculation of the public service law, the direct primary law, and the other progressive measures passed by a Democratic legislature and signed by a Democratic Governor; the carrying forward of the good roads movement, giving especial attention to the needs of the farmer therein rather than the transient automobilist. These are indeed important matters and no doubt they will be before the next legislature.

Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan addressed several thousand people at Chestertown Chautauqua on Monday evening. His subject was "The Signs of the Times." Despite the exertion to which Mr. Bryan has recently been subjected, his voice had its old-time carrying power and he held his vast audience spellbound as he told of the signs that pointed to a moral and political awakening. On Wednesday evening Mr. Bryan spoke at the Easton Chautauqua, using the same subject very effectually. Among the thousands who heard him at Easton were many from Caroline.

President Wilson last week sounded a new, high note of international altruism and forbearance toward a weaker and less enlightened people in his message to Congress telling of his as then unsuccessful steps to bring order out of the Mexican chaos. The weight of this beneficent influence upon our less fortunate Republic will surely be helpful. Well may the Mexicans be more hopeful of peace and tranquillity in their affairs with such a nation as this faithfully acting the part of the big brother, not of the big bruiser, as in times now happily past.

Farm products are bringing good prices, business in cities and country towns is prosperous, the efforts of the big monopolists to organize and depress things in order to discredit the national administration have failed miserably, and all is well.

In Lorraine cemetery, in Baltimore, the Heptasophs have erected a fine statue of Samuel H. Tattersall, for fifteen years supreme secretary of the order.

The Baltimore papers have it that Senator A. P. Gorman will again be a candidate for Governor two years from now.

Mr. Paine Writes From Porto Rico.

Mr. H. A. Paine, formerly for a number of years road engineer of Caroline county, writes an interesting letter from Porto Rico to Rev. J. Gibson Gantt. Mr. Paine says: "My work is very interesting. I have the mountains dotted with white flags, which I use in my topographical work. I am getting along nicely with the work, and have a large territory surveyed and mapped, together with railroad construction completed. The country is a picture, the landscape most beautiful, the green everlasting. At this particular season of the year all the tropical vegetation is putting forth new sprouts, of a lighter green, the contrast showing so plainly that it is very pleasing. I have watched the vegetation and fruits, of which there is an abundance. Some days when I am perched on some high point I look over the broad area, with the Carribean sea in the foreground, the green pastures, the waving cane-fields, bamboos, palm trees, and the like, and it is hard to do else but gaze at such a panorama. The people of the island are not so interesting to me as at first. They were strange to me then; but now I can only see the careless, poorly fed and clothed beings, living a life in the habios or huts that makes you look upon them in pity more than anything else. Still they seem to be as happy as a clam in high tide. Their wants are very few. How happy an American should be, with so many comforts, as many of them have! But the island is changing very fast, and the people are beginning in certain places to realize what civilization means. I often wonder whether they will be so contented after they have tasted the luxuries of the new world."

Liming the Soil.

Nothing in agricultural science or practice may be mentioned with more assurance than the beneficial effect of lime on easily puddled stiff clay soils. This is so nearly a matter of common knowledge, the wonder is that anyone will worry along with such soils year after year, and even from one generation to another, while the possible increase in yield in a single year will often pay for the necessary lime.

Lime may improve loose sandy soils by making them more compact and more retentive of moisture. For this purpose some form of carbonate of lime is usually recommended, and in much smaller quantities than for clay soils. Clay soils will stand more lime and, for almost every purpose, require more lime than sandy soils. The improvement of sadny soils will often be much greater if the lime is applied to a green crop turned under. Lime hastens the conversion of the vegetable matter into humus, and this with the lime helps to fill the open spaces between the sand grains. It is claimed by those who have given much attention to light sandy soils that there are no other types of soil that will respond quite so readily to liming, provided the necessary vegetable matter is supplied.—B. H. Hite.

"Democrats, Ponder Well These Things."

An article with this heading, signed by Mr. Thomas A. Smith, Treasurer, appeared in the Caroline Sun, which was widely circulated last week. It was purported to be signed by a number of Democrats throughout the county. Since the issue of that paper we are in receipt of a number of letters, which appear below. Besides those signing the letters Mr. C. Leslie Walls and Mr. John T. Porter, of Denton, also declare that their names were used without any authority whatsoever.

Federalsburg, Md., September 3rd, 1913.

Hon. Henry R. Lewis,
Denton, Caroline County, Md.
Dear Sir:

A political advertisement in the Caroline Sun last Saturday, in which my name was used without my authority, may, I fear, be construed by some as placing me in a position antagonistic to the interests of Hon. Blair Lee and the progressive democracy. The bitterly aggressive and successful fight for progressive legislation which we conducted, in the Senate, during the sessions of 1910 and 1912 and for which I am now paying the penalty by an illness directly super-induced by this and other legislative work, should protect me from such statements with my home people, whom I have always endeavoured to faithfully serve. Should my health permit I shall certainly vote for and support for members of the State Central Committee and Delegates to the State Convention men who are in perfect harmony with progressive ideas and whom I believe will endeavour to so organize the State Convention as to rid the party of the Baltimore City bunch headed by Mahon, Kelly, Padgett et-al, name a pronounced and trusted Chairman of the Maryland State Central Committee and place the party in the control of trusted progressives, who have the interests of the masses of the people at heart. The crux or gist of this entire fight, is centered on this object and thoughtful men will, if need be, subvert personalities to reach this result and will not be misled by confusing and cross-fire argument. The un-erring accuracy with which the average voter, in this county, gets at the merits of these contests always causes me to take on renewed admiration for our direct-voting election law which is only one of the many salutary laws we placed on the Statute books only after a knock-down and drag-out fight in the Legislature to which I have referred above and after the reactionaries had exhausted every known device to lick us.

Yours truly
E. E. GOSLIN

Dear Sir:

I note in an article published in the Caroline Sun issued Aug. 30, headed "Democrats, Ponder well these things," that my name was signed to it. I wish to state that I did not sign or authorize my name to be signed to any such article, and also state that in my judgment our district is strongly progressive at the present time.

Yours very respectfully,
T. H. EVERNGAM.

Preston, Md., Sept. 1, 1913.
Hon. W. W. Goldsborough, Chairman
Progressive Democratic Committee.
Dear Sir:

In the issue of the Caroline Sun of Aug. 30th, I note that my name appears in an article headed, "Democrats, Ponder Well These Things."

I desire to state that I did not sign same or give any one else authority to annex my name thereto.

I wish to state that I did not sign or authorize my name to be signed to any such article, and also state that in my judgment our district is strongly progressive at the present time.

Yours very respectfully,
C. H. CLARK.

Denton, Md., Sept. 1, 1913.
Hon. W. W. Goldsborough, Chairman
Progressive Democratic Committee.
Dear Sir:

I note in a recent issue of the Caroline Sun of August 30th, 1913, an article headed, "Democrats, Ponder Well These Things." I desire to state to you that I did not sign same or authorize my name to be used in connection therewith.

Yours respectfully,
M. P. ALLEN.

This is only another evidence of ring methods resorted to by the old Machine in Caroline county as represented by Mr. Thomas A. Smith, "Treasurer." Within our knowledge they have never during this whole campaign given voice to an open, frank expression. Apparently their only hope of success lies in being able to deceive the Democratic electorate. During this campaign they have circulated false rumor after false rumor. One to the effect that the Progressive Democratic Movement was tainted with Republicanism. Another that the Progressive Democratic forces would connive with the Republicans to defeat the Democratic ticket in the event of their not being successful at the coming primaries. Another that Mr. G. Edgar Williamson, an Organization candidate for State Central Committeeman, was acceptable to Senator Blair Lee.- Another to the effect that the Progressive Organization of the Second District had named Mr. William P. Manlove as a candidate for Delegate to the State Convention in order to have him appointed Postmaster at Greensboro in the place of Mr. J. Harvey Coursey, whose appointment the Progressives have advocated for Postmaster for weeks. Each and every one of these rumors were deliberate falsifications of fact in an attempt to mislead and confuse the voter, hoping that they would do the Progressive cause irrefragable harm before they could be refuted.

IS IT NOT TIME THAT MEN CAPABLE OF RESORTING TO SUCH QUESTIONABLE METHODS BE RETIRED AND THE DIRECTION OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY BE PLACED IN THE HANDS OF MEN OF CLEANER, HIGHER IDEALS?

The Progressive Democratic Campaign Committee of Caroline County.
