SUMMER IS GONE.

Over the breast of the twilight burning, Fastens its mantle fold on fold; The sea like a maiden's face is glowing, The sweet south wind is merrily blowingtill I am sad, for summer is going-

Never a blade of grass is sere, aver and brighter the flowers are shaded Fairer and fairer grows the year; mly-who knows what my fancy is showing. Only the roses no longer are growingly I feel the summer is going-

Summer is going—summer is gone! Brighter and brighter the stars are shining eeper and deeper the fresh air thrills. Larger and fuller the vines are twining Nothing is lost that is worth the knowing Only I feel that the summer is going-Summer is going-summer is gone!

What do I mourn ?- Who knows? for surely Never was a world more fit than now, From the harvest moon, as it rides so purely What do I mourn? Alas, no knowing . lothing is lost that is worth the showing nly I feel that summer is goingmmer is going-summer is gone!

How Not to Bore.

None of the books of etiquette that we have yet read give prescriptions which will cure the tendency which most of us have to bore other people. The reason little tones and acts which endear one, it is difficult to explain precisely how, is after long years of training. Yet he who relieve pain, cleanse, purify, and cure such diis not master of these things will run the seases, restoring the patient to perfect health, afrisk some time or another of being con- suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, sidered a nuisance.
